SEVERAL INJURED IN CAR WRECK

Several servicemen were injured in an automobile wreck just north of Thorsby last week when a Pontiac oc-cupied by Pvt. Gene Platt, Pfc. James Mullnis, Pfc. Robert E. Greenwell, all of Camp Rucker, collided with a Chevrolet driven by Sgt. James E. La-May of Ft. Dix, N. J.

The injured were treated at Cen-tral Alabama Hospital and transferred to Maxwell Air Field base hospital. Martin's ambulance answered the call.

SINGING AT MAPLE SPRINGS FRIDAY NIGHT

There will be a singing at Maple Springs Baptist Church Friday night Jan. 4, beginning at 700 o'clock.

A supply of new song books will be on hand and all singers have a special invitation to be present and learn the new songs. We urge all singers to come and get acquainted with the new 1952 songs at this singing.

We would also like to tell the singers and listeners that the fine cooperation is truly appreciated in making the singing convention of the air a great success. We ask that you continue to cooperate and help us to make it even better in the coming months.

Meet us at Maple Springs Friday night for a great singing. Mr. O. L Devaughn will preside. Marvin Lowery.

Miller was about 54 years old and had been in and around Clanton for the past dozen years but his relatives were not known and at press time, according to the J. Mell Martin Funeral Home they had not been located. Investigation showed that he had shot himself.

NEW YEAR WISH FROM JUDGE PARRISH

GREETINGS FRIENDS, in this the beginning of the new year of 1952. In the face and fact of all our adversities, disappointments and misunderstandings, we have had a very good and prosperous year in 1951. And for that we should all be very happy and thankful to our maker, the good Lord and be more determined in this new year to follow the Golden Rule—"Do unto your friend and fellow man just as you would have him do unto you."

Another thing in this new year I wish to call to your attention is that this is an Election Year. A year in which you wish to be able to vote for your National Sate and County Officials. To be able to vote you must be up to date in the payment of your Poll Tax. A goodly number of you just like a year, or maybe two or three, of having your poll tax paid up to date. Will you please come in and atten dto that? Do not wait for some Politician to pay your Poll Tax for you, he may disappoint you. You only have until FEBRUARY 1st, not long to pay your Poll Tax. Do not get caught and not be a qualified elector in the coming elections. Attend to this while it is TODAY.

W. L. PARRISH, Judge of Probate.

MR. CHARLIE N. GLENN

Mr. Charlie N. Glenn, age 74, of Mt. Creek, Ala., Rt. 1, died Wednesday, December 26 at 8:35 a.m. Funeral services were held Friday Dec. 28, at 10 a.m. from White City Baptist Church conducted by the Rev. Ed Wilkins, pastor of West End Baptist Church, Clanton, Ala., and Rev. Amos Hughes of Clanton, Ala. Interment was in Pleasant Grove cemetery on Billingsley highway.

He is survived by 1 brother, Sim Glenn of Mt. Creek, Ala. Rt. 1; two adopted children, a daughter, Mrs. Isabelle Keener of Mt. Creek, Ala., and a son Lawrence Glenn of Cleveland, Ohio, 6 grand children.

Pallbearers were John Stonge, Clyde Lenore, Martin Garner, Eugene Smitherman, O. D. Dennis, and Dewey Glenn. Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

PROTECT OTHERS AGAINST YOUR COLD

Montgomery, Ala.—If you get a cold think of the other person.

Thatadmonition came today from the State Department of Health as Alabamians found themselves well beyond the beginning of the "cold season."

"The fact that you have a cold means that somebody else who had one before you failed to do anything, or at least enough, to protect you and others against his infection," Dr. D. G Gill, State Health Officer said. "Every victim of a cold is a veritable cold-virus factory. The virus that is produced inside his body is discharged out into the atmosphere whenever he coughs or sneezes, unless he does something to prevent it. There it may be breathed by someone else who happens to be nearby. The thoughtful thing to do, as well as the courtes thing to do, is to cover your nose and mouth whenever you cough or sneeze in the presence of others. That would seem to be a small thing. But it can keep many people from having colds."

POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

We had a good crowd at Sunday School Sunday, also at Training Union Sunday night.

We are still hoping all the sick in our community will soon be able to be out at church again. Very glad to report Mrs. Nora Cook is much improved. Hope she will soon be able to return home from the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. "Buck" Thornton and Mrs. W. C. Moore visited Mrs. George Moore, who is in a hospital in Birmingham Sunday, having undergone an operation last Friday. We hope and pray she will soon recover.

Mrs. Esther Childers and children and Lee Dykes visited relatives in South Alabama last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Warmock and children of Pepperelle visited Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bowden and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hill and family this week end.

Politics Could Be Warming Up For Spring Elections

First Candidate
N. L. (BUCK) ROBERTS

Indications are that politics are warming up in Chilton County. Dead as a door nail for the past two years, feelers are going out from would-be candidates and their friends.

First of the avowed 1952 candidates is N. L. (Buck) Roberts, who comes forward with the declaration that he will be a candidate for the office of probate judge in the primary this year, and makes this statement:

"With a continuing desire to further serve the people of Chilton County, coupled with the fact that I can do more for my friends in office than I can out of office, I will, at the proper time make formal announcement for the office of Probate Judge."

That's about as plain as one can make it, so now we have three avowed candidates in the race for the probate office with prospects of several more. It has been realiably reported that Judge W. L. Parrish will be a candidate for re-election and Fred Smith, Jemison Mayor has already made a definite statement as to his availability.

Chances are the Spring Primary may turn into a real interesting election.

DAIRY COW FEED CHARTS

Since feed charts are based on milk production and butterfat tests, dairymen can feed each cow according to her needs, resulting in a saving of feed and money. See the local county agent for complete information.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jones returned to Auburn Saturday after spending the holidays here with their parents, Mrs. Verna Bean and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jones.

Dr. Minor Announces New Location

I wish to announce that I am no longer connected with the Parrish-Hayes Veterinarian Hospital. At an early date I will open my office near the Central Alabama Stock Yard Watch the paper for the date of opening.

I appreciate the patronage of my clients and friends and wish to continue serving you at my new location.

For the present time I can be reached at my residence, telephone 782, and will appreciate the chance to be of service and help to all of you.

Thank you,
DR. ED MINOR, Veterinarian.

Local Boy Killed In France When Transport Crashes

The body of Pfc. Joseph Harold Calfee, who was killed in France on Nov. 13 when a transport plane crashed killing 36 persons, will arrive here Saturday morning at 9:12 a.m.

Pfc. Calfee was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Calfee of Bessemer.

Funeral services will be held from Mulberry Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, Jan. 6, at 2 o'clock. Spigener Funeral Home will be in charge.

USED CAR CEILING PRICES REDUCED AS OF JAN. 1ST

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 2.—Ceiling prices for used autos were reduced 2 per cent on New Year's Day, according to Charles G. Dobbins, district director of the South Alabama Office of Price Stabilization. Further 2 per cent reductions will be placed in effect quarterly hereafter.

The OPS director also said that the new regulation (CPR 94) requires dealers to label each car offered for sale with the make, model, line or series, and any extra or optional equipment. The ceiling price must also be shown.

Dealers are also required to allow a reasonable price for trade-ins, but may not require a trade-in as part of the sale. Dealers should also furnish the customer with an invoice within seven days after the sale, listing certain legal charges as required by the regulation.

Buyers and dealers may get further information about the new law at the OPS headquarters at 14 Commerce Street, Montgomery.

COMMUTED TO LIFE

Montgomery, Ala.— Gov. Gordon Persons has commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of John J. Townsell, 64 year-old Dothan farmer, who had been convicted of the 1950 slaying of his wife.

Townsell, in November 1950, had been convicted of the shotgun slaying of his wife. His clemency hearing came a few hours before he was to have died in the Kilby Prison electric chair. He contended that his wife was accidentally shot as they struggled over a gun. The struggle allegedly followed an argument because the dead woman had refused to fix her husband's breakfast.

ONE BREAKFAST MENU CHANGE THAT PLEASES

Auburn, Ala.—Have you tried fried chicken for breakfast lately? If not, Mr. Buck Appleton, president of the North Alabama Hatcherymen's Association, says there i sa areat in store for you.

ciation, says there is a treat in store

He also points out that fried chicken is cheaper than most any of the meats served for breakfast and that is is a delicious change from the everyday routine.

Appleton adds that most people think of fried chicken as a noon-day or supper meal. However, it serves breakfast purposes just as well. In other words, for a real breakfast that will "stick to the ribs" of the working man, try some grits, butter, and hot biscuits along with fried chicken. Don't wait until Sunday morning either. Try it now, especially since fried chicken is probably cheaper than the breakfast you had this morning.

DO'S AND DONT'S FOR SAFE DRIVERS

If the following safety suggestions given by Stella Mitchell, A. P. I. Extension Service home management specialist, are put into action by each driver in the family, many trips to the hospital will be avoided.

Don't race to a stop sign, traffic light, or highway intersection, then slam on the brakes. Don't start with a rush and roar, or try to beat the other cars in a quick get-away when traffic signals change. Do adjust speed to conditions. On slippery surfaces and when visibility is poor, conservative speed is imperative.

Mr. J. C. Barrett of Orlando, Fla. and Mrs. J. C. Glenn of Elmore, Ala. were here over the week end on account of the death of their brother, Mr R. C. Barrett.

Mr. E. R. Kilgore of Bessemer spent several days this week with Miss Elsie Barrett.

Resolution Is Adopted For More P. O. Boxes

A resolution was adopted by the Clanton Kiwanis Club at a recent meeting authorizing the Secretary of the Culb to write the Postmaster General in the interest of securing additional room at the local post office for more post office boxes. It is understood there are hundreds of applications on file at present for boxes but no likelihood of fulfillment until more boxes are added.

STOP LOSSES FROM BOVINE MASTITIS

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers can prevent many cases of mastitis if they follow a few proven rules.

J. R. Parrish, A. P. I. Extension Service dairyman, explains that mastitis is often brought on by use of faulty milking equipment and through barnyard and pasture udder injuries which might have been avoided.

To help prevent mastitis, Parrish suggests that cow owners guard against udder injuries by removing sticks and other sharp objects from barnyards; sterilize milking equipment and use only machines which are properly adjusted; avoid rough handling while hand stripping; milk infected cases last; buy only clean, healthy replacements which are known to be free of mastitis, and work out a practical control program with a veterinarian, using both medical treatment for affected cows and preventive methods with those that are free of the disease.

FINALLY THERE IS NO MONEY

An interesting comparison of the tax situation in the United States and England is in the editorial reprinted here from the Dec. 5, issue of the Decatur Daily.

Unfair taxation is tearing at the industrial and commercial foundation of the United States.

Tax laws that are unfair to sound progress are robbing the American people of incentive to develop, to expand and encouraging an attitude of "What's the use, the government is going to take all the profit anyway." Such an attitude is totally unwholesome, but completely understandable. The industrial and commercial greatness of the United States has been built upon incentive, skill, brains. Make such qualities useless and the power of this great nation to produce is negative for finally there is no money with which to build a business to make a profit, to employ people to feed and educate families.

Recently The New Orleans States published an editorial comparison of corporate taxation in the United States and Great Britain, saying:

"Common belief in this country is that the taxpayer in Britain is swatted harder than he is in America. On personal income that may be true. But when the taxpayer is a corporation it is not true.

"A comparison of corporation taxes in the two countries is made by US News and World Report in its Nov. 9 issue. An American concern earning $1,000,000 pays, as a regular tax, 30 per cent on the first $25,000 and 52 per cent on the remaining $975,000, a grand total of $514,500. Any excess profits tax would be additional. This could be as high as $180,000, in which case the U S corporation would pay $694,500 to Uncle Sam, and have left for dividends or reinvestment only $305,500.

"The British company earning the equivalent of $1,000,000 would pay 10 per cent on the total, or $100,000; if distributing 40 per cent of the remainder as dividends it would pay on this an extra profits tax of $102,857; on the $540,000 of retained profit the company would pay 47.5 per cent or $256,500. The grand total of its taxes would be $459,357, leaving the company $540,643 for dividends or reinvestment.

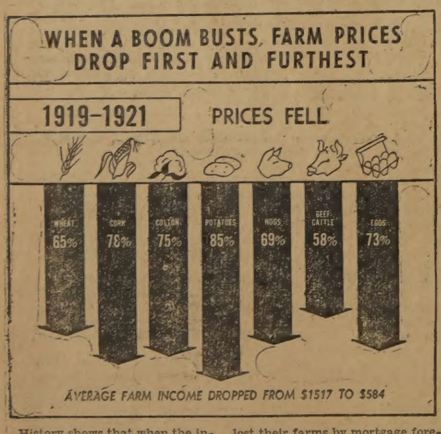
"The difference in favor of the British corporation is $235,143.

"The maximum tax on the English corporation is 52.75 per cent of its profit. On the American company the regular rate is 52 per cent, to which is added any excess profits taxes. The grand total may run as high as 70 per cent of all 1952 profit.

"There is a difference in corporation tax philosophy. In England the payment of dividends is discouraged and it is penalized, the objective being to induce the company to plow profits back into expanding business. In America the payment of dividends is encouraged, and the neglect to do so is penalized. The concern desiring to expand is handicapped.

"Double taxation is avoided in Britain. The stockholder gets his dividend tax-free because the company has paid it. America the stockholder must pay regular income taxes on his dividends.

The Farmer's Stake in Stabilization



History shows that when the inflation bubble breaks — and it always does—the prices of farm products drop first. They drop faster and further than the prices of most other products.

This trend is clearly shown by prices in the 1919-21 "bust" that followed the uncontrolled inflation of World War I. As the chart shows, price declines for farm products were drastic, ranging from 58 percent for beef cattle to 85 percent for potatoes. Because of this drop in the prices of things farmers sell, average farm income in the same period went down from $1,517 to $548.

In the next 5 years, between 1922 and 1926, 453,000 farmers lost their farms by mortgage foreclosures.

One reason for the decline in farm prices during depression is that the farmer cannot cut production to balance with demand in the same way a manufacturer does. For example, between 1929 and 1932, automobile production dropped 75 percent, but automobile prices went down only 16 percent; iron and steel production dropped 83 percent, but iron and steel prices dropped only 20 percent. Farm production, meanwhile, was cut only 3 percent but agricultural prices fell 60 percent.

Price stabilization prevents runaway inflation and the economic disaster that follows it.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Jimmie Bell made a mighty good Chairman for the Chilton County Christmas Chest this year, or should we say last year? More money was raised, more families and more children were taken care of at Christmas than any year since the founding of the Chest. The Christmas Chest is growing and there are some who would like to see it converted into a Chilton County Community Chest so that needy cases that cannot be taken care of by the State Welfare Department, could be aided by the local group. We, for one, are highly in favor of this. We contend that much good can be done here for the needy on anyone of the 365 days in the year—not just on Christmas.

It would be hard to say who had the prettiest Christmas decorations this year. There were so many pretty homes that were decorated for old "Saint Nick" that it'd be practically impossible. Clanton Drive-In had one of the best. The Harold Smith's, the Claud Craigs, the Dr. Lawrences, and Dr. Joe Moore's homes were beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fowers had a highty pretty effect from their picture window and the living room. We could go on, and on, but we know you got around and saw what was going on just the same as we did. All should be congratulated.

Understand they had a Democratic Committee meeting last Saturday afternoon at the courthouse. Now from this meeting some important news may be forthcoming. If it doesn't break in this issue of the Chilton County News, then watch for it in the issues to come. What we mean is that it is about time for something to break in the way of news about the coming campaigns and when it does, you'll see it in the News. Up until now things on the political front have been less than quiet.

Had you noticed our new masthead on the front page? It's there because while we were running the Christmas issue the old masthead flew to pieces and ruined two whole galleys of type on page one and a couple of advertisements on the back page. Old age had taken it's toll and like the boss at the News it started falling to pieces.

A local group of merchants have signed a petition to have parking allowed on both sides of the highway along Seventh Street through town or either stop parking on both sides of the street. They contend that parking on only the west side of the highway is showing dicrmiination against merchants on the east side.

If anyone told you "it was a hot time in the old town" New Year's E night, they weren't just kidding. According to weatherman it was the hottest day in December in many a year

A hillbilly was watching the circus band. He was especially interested in the fellow that played the trombone which he watched very closely. Finally he turned to the friend beside him and said: "There's some trick to it. He don't really swallow that thing."

Happy New Year all you peepul.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Having been born into a family that prefers the steady glow of an electric light to the flickering flame of a candle, the two-year-old's principal acquaintances with candles has been with those on birthday cakes, his own and those of his friends.

According to his reasoning, candles are meant not to provide illumination but to be blown out. Quite a blower he is, too. The honoree at a birthday party has to blow a quick and mighty blow if he expects to extinguish the candles on his cake before the two-year-old does the honors for him. On the occasions when his blowing efforts have been thwarted, he has been known to set up such a howl that the candles had to be relighted for his benefit.

Well, the other night we took the young man along with us to a musical program at the church, his first such experience. Not being sure what his behavior would be, we sat next to the aisle near the rear of the church convenient to an exit.

The church was darkened for the processional by the choir, and from the back of the church the musicians came marching in, each one carrying a lighted candle. The church was quiet as only a church can be quiet—except for the, "Pooh! Pooh!" from the two-year-old as he tried (unsuccessfully) to puff out each candle that passed within in range.

While we're on the subject of candles, have you ever suffered while you watched nervous candle-lighters at a wedding try to get stubborn candles to burn?

One of the neighbors who knows about such things says that candles will light instantly on such occasions if they are lighted about an hour before the ceremony and allowed to burn for a few minutes. Then, says the expert, pour three or four drops of lighter fluid on each wick. She claims this treatment will make the candles burn like magic.

Odds and ends: Your bread board won't dance around on the table wihle you're rolling out dough if you tack a rubber jar ring to each corner on the underside . . . Sewing through a blotter after oiling the sewing machine will prevent oil stains on fabrics . . . Several strands of elastic thread run through the wrist bands of sweaters will keep the cuffs from stretching out of shape.

We took some pictures of the two-year-old and the five-year-old and their kittens recentyl, pictures we'd like to share with our friends. If you've been wondering how the two youngsters look, just drop me a note to 516 Dallas Avenue, Selma, and I'll send you one of the snapshots.

Eggs, costly though they be, are one of our most versatile foods and a great favorite around our house. We especially like poached eggs in cheese sauce, and here's the recipe:

Stir 1-4 cup of flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper into 1-4 cup melted margarine. Add two cups of milk and cook until thick(stirring constantly. When thick, add 3-4 cup grated cheese.

Pour the sauce into a greased, shallow pan and allow to cool a little. Break the eggs into the sauce being careful to keep the yellows intact. Cover and bake in a moderate oven about 25 minutes or until the eggs are as firm as you like them. Season to taste and serve immediately.

CENSUS BUREAU ANNOUNCES NEW SCEDULE OF FEES FOR RECORD SEARCHES

Establishment of a minimum $3.00 charge to individuals requesting a search of Census records to obtain a transcript of information of file about themselves has been announced by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. Formal notice of a new schedule of charges, effective January 1, 1952, has been received from Census Director Roy V. Peel, at Washington, by Supervisor, Mary L. Griffin of the Census District Office at Clanton, Alabama. This fee will apply to all applications postmarked on or after January 1.

Transcripts of their personal Census records are required by many individuals, in lieu of birth certificates, as evidence bearing on age or citizenship, or to establish family relationships. It has been estimated that between 40 and 50 million Americans do not have birth certificates. During the last decade, the Census Bureau has handled nearly 2 million requests for copies of Census records from individuals.

The $3.00 charge provides for searches of two censuses for one individual, each application being handled in regular turn with an average elapsed time of several weeks to complete service. For those who require faster action for some special reason the Census Bureau has made provision for an expedited handling. This type of service requires a fee of $4.00 instead of the normal $3.00 charge. An additional fee of $3.00 or $4.00, according to type of service requested, is required for searching the records of each unit of two additional censuses if the record of the applicant is not found in a search of the first two censuses designated in the application. A fee of $1.00 is charged for duplicate or extra copies of the original transcript.

Records of the 1880 Census are widely used for genealogical or historical research. Fees for these searches are estimated by the Census Bureau upon rquest. The personal information recorded at the Census of 1900 and later censuses is confidential and may be furnished only upon written request of the individual to whom it relates or his legal representatives, such as guardian, or administrator of an estate.

New application forms for census searches, effective with the new schedule of fees, now are being distributed by the Census Bureau to all field offices of the Department of Commerce Bureau of the Census, and Social Security and welfare offices.

Happy New Year

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

Just as we wished every one a "Merry Christmas," now we are wishing for one and all "Happy New Year." But how are happy new years made? They are made with thought, meditation courage, a good will toward others, honest and hard work, truthfulness and loyalty. All of these things must go into the making a happy year. Then there must be faith in God, and worship to Him with Whom we have to do. If we will seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness we might expect happiness.

Come to think about it, the Beautitudes will make happiness for every one. In Matthew 5th chapter you will find the Beautitudes as taught by Jesus. They are for happiness. The word "Blessed" in the King James Version, may be changed to the word "Happy."

"Happy are the poor in spirit, for their's is the kingdom of God. Happy are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted. Happy are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth.

Happy are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled.

Happy are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

Happy are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

Happy are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God.

Happy are they that are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

Happy are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my name sake. Repoice, and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven; for so persecuted they are prophets which were before you."

Then there are a few other Scriptures that carry the same thought of happiness. Rev. 1:3. "Happy is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein."

Friend, put these truths into practice, and they will help you to make for yourself a happy new year. When you have reached the end twelve months from now, you will not be sorry you did. "Happy New Year."

Your Health

APPENDICITIS

The appendix is a small, apparently useless organ. Juttng out from the beginning of the large intestine, it varies in length, ranging from two to three inches long, though rare specimens up to nine inches have been found. It is normally located in the lower right forward part of the abdomen.

Ignorance is responsible for many deaths from appendicitis. Because the pain and distress associated with the disease closely resembles the symptoms brought on by constipation, patients sometimes resort to laxatives. Laxatives increase peristalsis, the movement by which the contents of the intestine are moved along. This increased pressure may extend the swelling and cause rupture of the appendix, spreading the infection to the peritoneum, the lining of the abdominal cavity.

Because modern surgery has yielded improved technics, the operation to remove the appendix is now done with greater safety than formerly. While there is no way to prevent appendicitis, serious complications can be averted if the physician is called immediately on the appearance of mild symptoms of gastrointestinal discomfort, soreness of the abdomen or pain, whether it be sharp or dull. It is not wise to ignore recurrent attacks, because the irritation produced by each leaves the appendix more susceptible to the final blow up, which may result in death.

Some persons may live through life without an attack of appendicitis. Others may develop the condition in childhood.

The first thing to do is call your physician when severe pain appears in the lower right quadrant of the abdomen. Let him decide what the trouble is and what to do about it. Do not take laxatives, cathartics or "physics." Do not apply ice packs or heat to the painful area. Do not rub or massage the abdomen. Do not swallow anything except water until you have consulted a physician.

FARMERS FACED WITH FEED WORRYS IN 1952

Auburn, Ala.—One problem Alabama farmers will face in 1952 is that of making the best use of corn and other feed supplesi .

A. W. Jones, A. P. I. Extension Service marketing specialist, points out that livestock and poultry have increased in numbers. Also, there is a need for more milk, meat, poultry, ang eggs to fill increasing market demands. If this work is accomplished, farmers will have to take short feed supplies into consideration.

On top of all this, feed prices are increasing. On Nov. 15 this year Alabama farmers were receiving an average of $1.62 a bushel for corn. This price was 34 cents per bushel higher than at the same time last year.

Jones further states that the total supply of feed concentrates for next year is four per cent less than in the four previous years. More of these feeds will be fed next year than in any year since World War II, leaving feed reserves considerably lower than the pre-war average.

"To conserve the feed supply and make the most profitable gains," says Jones, "most farmers will need to make careful plans. They should use all feed grains in combination with protein meals, minerals, and other feeds to provide the best balance and most effective ration. Farmers should supplement all grains and feed concentrates with as much grazing, forage, and other home-grown feed supplies that can be economically produced. Of course, they should grow as much grain on the farm in 1952 as possible.

CORN-KUDZU ROTATION INCREASES CORN YIELD

The time is approaching to set kudzu crowns, and to stimulate interest, here are some results of kudzu-corn rotations on eroded land.

S. R. Doughty, A. P. I. Extension Service soil conservationist, says that in all cases reported, the kudzu was allowed to become well established and make a good growth for four or more years before it was turned and followed by corn.

The records show that on one badly eroded field, kudzu was grown for a few years and then every fourth terrace was planted to corn. The yield from these strips equaled the crop produced by the entire field before it was planted to kudzu.

4% Farm Loans

Farmers!

Use Your Own Credit System

FARMERS HAVE REASON TO BE PROUD OF THEIR LAND BANK SYSTEM

Farmers of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana are proud of the Federal Land Bank and the 79 National Farm Loan Associations in the three states. The banks and the associations have a net worth of over 26 million dollars. They are owned entirely by the farmers who use them.

The bank and the associations are operated for the sole benefit of farmers. The long-term loans and small annual payments make it easy for members to repay their loans. If the member has a crop failure or some other disaster, the National Farm Loan Association—with a local board of directors—neighbors in many cases—will lend an attentive ear to the member's problems.

Local servicing of a member's loan affords many advantages. Consider now consolidating your debts into a land bank loan, or borrowing for any necessary agricultural purpose. Visit, Telephone or Write the Secretary-Treasurer of your

Miss Owen Weds Sergeant Williams At Candlelight Ceremony

One of the loveliest of the yuletide weddings was that of Miss Betty Sue Owen, of Clanton and Washington, D. C., and Sergeant Ottis D. Williams, also of Clanton and Washington, D. C. The ceremony was solemnized at the West End Baptist church Clanton, with the Rev. R. E. Wilkins officiating at the double ring ceremony, Dec. the twenty-sixth at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Owen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Owen, of Clanton. Sergeant Williams' parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams, Sr., of Clanton.

The church was beautifully decorated with white floral arrangements of Southern smilax. A circle arrangement of forty-four white Cathedral tapers with Southern smilax formed a back ground for the beautiful arch of gracefully arranged bamboo leaves interspersed with white chrysanthemums and seven branched candelabra holding tall white tapers. Large standards filled with wedding white gladiolas were placed at each end of the arch.

The nuptial music was presented by Miss Dorothy Mims, pianist and Miss Mary Clyde Mims soloist. She sang "I Love You Truly" and "Through the Years."

Candles were lighted by the bride's sister, Patricia Gale Owen. She wore a dress of green taffeta, and Betty Sue Williams, niece of the bride groom. Her dress was of orchid taffeta.

Mrs. Thomas D. Martin served her sister as matron of honor, wearing a suit of wine colored wool.

Bridesmaids were Miss Martha Bell who wore a gold colored suit, and Miss Sue Davis was attired in a suit of plumb color. All attendants wore identical shoulder corsages of white carnations.

Miss Owen was given in marriage by her father. She was lovely in a suit of beige wool with brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was an orchid.

Corporal Howard Williams served his brother as best man. Ushers were Ernest Owen, Jr., and Melvis Williams.

The bride's mother was attractively attired in a two piece dress of dark grey crepe with a corsage of pink carnations.

The mother of the group wore a suit of navy blue wool. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Sergeant and Mrs. Williams are at home at 1202. Dalafield Place, North West, Washington, D. C.

NEW YEAR PARTY

Giving the New Year's social life a rousing welcome and bidding the Old Year a regal farewell, the Senior High Glee Clubs held a Watch Party from nine to twelve, December 31. The party was held in the high school gymnasium which was beautifully decorated with posters representing the 12 months of the year around the walls and a large clock with hands pointing to twelve at one end.

Hanging from the ceiling were large clusters of balloons, paper hats, and stars. The refreshment table was centered with a group of bright balloons and paper hats. Ruling the night the traditional New Year's symbol, a diapered baby with the figures 1952 on a cross banner was perched high over one basketball goal.

Early in the evening, Nanette Nivens directed the group in some well-planned games. In the first contest groups divided according to birthdays in which each group presented an original skit depicting their month. The group representing March won with a scene about "That Old March Wind."

Following this, the clubs were divided for relays which soon had every- son, Ala. Also the Turner Giddens and one ready for refreshments. These were At eleven o'clock the lights were turned low, the music turned on, and the dancing started.

The party broke up at twelve with the basketball horn tooting, cars blowing, and people shouting,

"Happy New Year."

Alabama Annual Crop Survey, December 1951

Total value of principal crops produced in Alabama in 1951 amounted to 336.3 million dollars. This represents an increase of 12 per cent over the value of crop production in 1950 but is about 15 percent under the all time record established in 1948. The cotton crop (lint and seed) grossed 193 million in 1050, the result of a 60 per cent increase in production. Average price received for line was about 3 cents yer pound under the record high 1950 average. Total value of the peanut crop in 1951 was about 19 million dollars, down 40 per cent from 1950. A short crop and slightly lower prices accounted for the decline. For most other crops prices generally were higher but values were below 1950 because of smaller crops. Exceptions were hay, soybeans, potatoes, fruit crops and pecans, all which had higher values in 1951 compared with 1950.

The 1951 growing season was unfavorably dry and crop yields were generally below normal. However there were some notable exceptions. Cotton yields set new high records in the evtreme south , did well in central areas, but were rather poor in the north. Corn yields were disappointing in most areas but excellent along the Gulf Coast. Peanuts were cut short by drought an dunfavorable harvesting weather. It was a poor season for hay and pasture crops. Small grains did well and pecans set a new high record in total production.

CORN: The 1950 corn crop is estimated at 46,303 thousand bushels, 19 per cent under production for 1950. Acreage harvested was reduced 8 per cent and yields per acre was down from 21.5 bushels in 1950 to 19.0 to 19.0 bushels in 1951. The 1951 yield was 2.1 bushels above the 10-year (1940-1949) average despite the unfavorable growing season.

COTTON: The 1951 crop amounted to 920,000 bales, up 60 per cent from the short 1950 production. Acreage harvested was increased 12 percent and yield per acre averaged 303 pounds compared with 212 pounds in 1950. The 10-year average yield is 275 pounds.

PEANUTS: The 1951 peanut crop was the shortest since 1939. Acreage dug for picking and threshing was cut 16 per cent from 1950 and yield per acre averaged 250 pounds less than the record high 1950 yield. Extremely dry weather during the growing season and excessive rain at harvest time were chiefly responsible for the lower pe racre yield.

SOYBEANS:A record crop of soybeans, estimated at 1,584,000 bushels was produced in Alabama during 1951. Acreage harvested totaled 88,000 acres compared with 73,000 in 1950.

POTATOES: Production of all Irish Potatoes (commercial and farm) increased 14 percent in 1951. The commercial crop was 31 per cent higher than 1950 but the farm crop was down 37 per cent.

SWEETPOTATOES: The sweetpotato crop was reduced sharply in 1951. Acreage was 40 percent smaller than in 1950 and yield pe racre was cut short by dry weather. Estimated at 1,365,000 bushels, the 1951 crop is the lowest in 84 years of record.

PECANS: The 1951 pecan crop is placed at 25 million pounds, 89 percent greater than production in 1950 and a new all time record for Alabama.

New Year's Resolutions

I am going to laught and smile today,
For blessings that have come my way
The past year.
And I'm going to try and see,
That other folks are glad and gay
And full of cheer.
I'm going to try and bring a smile.
To someone sorrowing the while
I laugh.
I'll try and make their poor hearts feel,
That sighs and longings are not real
Are only chaff.
I may forget my own dark hours,
And then—
May gain a strength from unseen powers,
And hope again.

RINSE DARK WASHABLES IN THE RIGHT MANNER

Auburn, Ala.—Dark-colored clothes of washable fabric are often favored for winter wear because they show soil less than light colors, yet can be tubbed at home rather than dry-cleaned.

"If they are to keep their clear dark color after washing and show no whitish or greyish streaks or spots, special care in laudering is necessary," says Levice Ellis, A. P. I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

She advises homemakers to use soft water for washing dark-colored fabrics if possible, but avoid strong water softeners which may fade colors. Make a good thick suds of lukewarm water Avoid soaking. Put garments into water and wash as rapidly as possible. If the water is hard, make a second lighter suds for the first rinse, or rinse in lukewarm water containing a little vinegar. Then rinse at least twice in clear water. Traces of soap leave greyish streaks on dark fabrics, so thorough rinsing is important.

CARD OF THANKS

We the children of P. C. (Uncle Pete) Weldon wish to express our heartfelt thanks to each and everyone who helped in any way, in our fathers sickness and helpless condition. The names and deeds are too many to mention. He would thank God for his friends and the respect shown him May God's richest blessings be on each one of you is our prayer.—The Weldon Family.

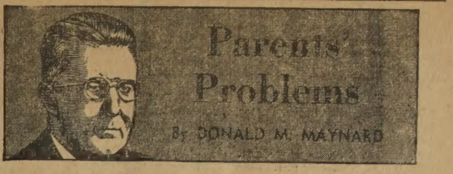
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Payne Shaw and daughter, Jerry, of Birmingham spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Sadie Shaw.

Mrs. Catherine Collum spent Christmas in Birmingham and was accompanied home by her children, Mrs. J. W. Wilson, Mrs. Bean and grand daughter, Mrs. Louise Byrum. These had Sunday dinner with the A. C. Brattons.

Mrs. Margaret Adair, who has been spending the winter in Florida, is visiting Mrs. Bill Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Durbin of Montgomery visited her people, the J. M. and A. C. Brattons on Sunday.



Parents' Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

My mother makes her home with us and she tends to be very outspoken about the behavior of my two daughters aged ten and twelve. She is particularly shocked by the way I allow them to dress. When they are at home or playing with friends, I let them wear blue jeans in the winter and shorts in the summer. Mother insists that the shorts, especially, are "indecent" and that wearing them will make the girls "talked about." My daughters, who think her attitude is "silly," seem to take pleasure in shocking her. The tension created by the whole situation is very hard on me and I do not know how to restore a pleasant relationship.

You must run the home and guide your daughters as you see fit, and let your mother know that she must not criticize the girls openly.

Do not yield on this point. It is not pleasant, of course, to have her silent disapproval so apparent, but secure in the realization that you are doing what is right, perhaps you can learn to bear with increasing equanimity her petulant behavior. In the meantime, make every effort to treat her with affection and to discover areas in which her insights and suggestions can be accepted without jeopardizing the happiness of the family.

Two additional suggestions are in order. Try to help your daughters "understand" their grandmother and to realize that it sometimes is difficult for one as old as she is to change her ideas. Do not scold them if occasionally they try to shock her—to do so would build increasing resentment toward her—but do attempt to help them see that she should be treated with courtesy and respect. Arrange for situations in which the grandmother can be of help to the girls and in which the girls can do something for her that is especially thoughtful.

Help your child to make adjustments early, Dr. Maynard advises in a new booklet. It's free to readers of this newspaper. Mail a postcard to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, and ask for your copy.

It will be helpful, too, if your mother can have friends of her own age whom she sees rather frequently. Older people have a great time talking together and the conversation usually includes comments about their families! They brag about their children in one breath and in the next criticize them for the way they are bringing up their children. As they express to each other this disapproval of the younger generation, it gives a "lift" to their own egos and they are likely to be much easier to live with in their own homes.

Our two small boys, ages three years and eighteen months, seem to have completely "taken over" at our house. Our three-year-old insists upon being a part of every activity around the home—from helping make cookies and running the vacuum (which are fairly acceptable) to carrying out ashes and "fixing" the radio (which we consider out of bounds), When his participation in any activity is barred, a tantrum results; then sulkiness and thumb-sucking until his next sleep period. How much freedom should a child be allowed in the home and how do you enforce the limits?

It probably is inevitable that in a certain sense children of the age of yours should "take over" a household. A three-year-old is full of life and vitality; his span of attention is short and he moves rapidly from one activity to another; he likes excitement and gets satisfaction out of opposing the wishes of his parents. He likes to imitate adults; he wants what he wants when he wants it, which usually is "right now." If his energies are not wisely directed and if every whim is catered to by indulgent parents, he soon becomes a little tyrant.

You certainly have not been at fault in allowing your children a certain amount of freedom in helping with the activities of the household. Children learn best as they have an opportunity to make choices and if we give them these opportunities we must expect some decisions and some behavior that produce rather unfortunate results. That this has happened with your own three-year-old should produce no great concern on your part and certainly does not call for punishment.

Nevertheless, it should be realized that children should not be granted freedom in areas in which mistakes may produce serious property damage or injury either to others or to themselves. Unrestricted freedom is as undesirable as is no freedom at all. It would seem, therefore, that you should make it quite clear to your three-year-old that there are certain activities with which he cannot as yet help. In so far as possible let him know why he cannot help with them. Having placed certain restrictions, be sure that they are consistently followed.

CEILING PRICES ISSUED ON AUTOMOBILES

Montgomery, Ala. —Special orders setting forth the factory prices that South Alabama auto dealers should use in figuring their ceiling prices have now been issued for most makes of new passenger cars, according to Miss Addie Lee Farish, deputy district director of the Office of Price Stabilization in Montgomery.

The makes of new autos covered by the new orders include Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Crosley, DeSoto, Dodge, Ford, Frazer, Henry J Hudson, Kaiser, Lincoln, Mercury Oldsmobile, Packard, Plymouth, Pontiac, Studebaker and Willys-Overland

The OPS deputy director said that the dealers affected by the new orders should now display their ceiling prices on all makes and models.

Dealers are also required to list all charges they add to the factory prices in figuring their retail ceiling prices. These charges include state and federal taxes, transportation and handling costs, plus other charges allowed by Ceiling Price Regulation 83.

Also, dealers should furnish duplicate copies of invoices to all buyers within seven days after any sale. Each invoice should itemize the various charges that make up the total price of the car.

The national office has arranged with the automobile manufacturers for distribution of the special orders to the dealers. Each dealer should look to his manufacturer for a copy of the orders.

A jar of cinnamon drops has many delightful uses. When making apple jelly add a few to the juice after it has begun to boil; it gives a new spicy flavor and a beautiful color. A few added to the juice in which apples are baked gives the apples a beautiful color and a delightful flavor.

BAPTIST NOTES

Thorsby Baptist church, Pastor, Rev. B. B. Burks.

Church at study 9:45 a.m.

Church at worship 11:00 a.m.

Training Union 6:00 p.m.

Evening worship 7:00 p.m.

We wish to take this opportunity to express our gladness to have the Litz family back with us from Detroit.

We had Dr. Higdon and wife from Hannibal, Mo., visit with us last Wednesday evening. He gave us a splendid review of the material covered in the book of Revelations.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bates wish to thank each and every one who had part in helping to make Christmas for them.

Mrs. Ben Franklin left Friday for Hannibal, Mo., to visit her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Higdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Laurell spent the holidays in Chattanooga, Tenn. visiting relatives.

The Thorsby PTA will meet the first Monday night in each month. We urge each and every parent and person who is interested in school to be present. We are very happy over the nice school rooms painted through out. That is an example of what the PTA is doing, so help us to keep on.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hill of Birmingham was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Littleton Sunday.

Miss Mary Duke of Sylacauga visited Mr. and Mrs. Felix Eiland Saturday. She was enroute to Clanton where she visited Mrs. J. D. Collins, Sr.

Mrs. Delbert Collins who has been very sick with measles is much improved. We trust she will soon be out again.

Funeral services for Mr. Bob Carter were held at the Thorsby Baptist Church Christmas Eve. He was living in Birmingham but was brought back here for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Gattis DeLoach of Tallahassee, Fla., spent the holidays here with parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Littleton and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Littleton spent the week end in Birmingham with Mrs. Littleton's parents.

Sgt. Ferrill Williamson and wife, and son, Terry, spent the holidays here with relatives.

It's a Boy

Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Cleckler announce the arrival of a 13 1-2 lb. son on Wednesday, December 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis of Oklahoma City, Okla., are among the many visiting here through the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pate enjoyed a visit from their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pate of Childersburg Ala., last week.

Susan Nix Bentley arrived Tuesday Dec. 19. She weighed 7 lbs. and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bentley.

Miss Alma Lefstead spent Christmas holidays in Mobile with her brother, Rev. Lefstead.

Mrs. Bert Bradley of Tallahassee, Fla., visited her grandmother last week, Mrs. N. Laurell, also Mrs. W. F. Love, and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell.

The PTA will serve the Lions Club with a dinner the second Thursday night in this month instead of the fourth which will be Jemison's night.

Among the visitors here for the Christmas holidays were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Rogers of Atlanta, who visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and son, Bob, of Fairfield, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mason and son Ralph Jr., of Selma, Ala. visitors of Mrs. Marie Reagan and other relatives, also Mr. Luther Fulmer of Augusta, Ga. and Columbia, S. C. who was a guest in the home of Mrs. Reagan during a visit of several days.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. John Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turnquist, Mrs. Marie Reagan Miss Naemi Turnquist and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bosworth were all guests of Mr. and Mrs. Erle Ellis in Clanton for Christmas Eve supper. Also enjoying this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and Bob Foss of Fairfield and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mason and Ralph Jr., of Selma. The same family group had Christmas dinner with Mrs. Marie Reagan.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Rogers, Mrs. Marie Reagan and Miss Naemi Turnquist attended the wedding of Miss Leah Claire Hodges and Rev. William R. Morgan on Saturday evening Dec. 22nd at Christ Lutheran church in Birmingham. This fine young couple will make their home in Thorsby and Rev. Morgan will be the new Pastor of the Lutheran church here.

One of the outstanding events of the Christmas season was the annual Christmas party of the Lutheran Ladies Aid given at the home of Marie Reagan on December 19th. The house was gaily decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. Refreshments furnished by the members of the Aid Society, were served from the dining table covered with a green rayon table cover and centered with an arrangement of poinsettas in a crystal bowl and flanked with tall red tapers. Devotionals were conducted by Rev. Wm Morgan, and special musical numbers were furnished by Mrs. Raymond Mims and Mrs. Erle Ellis of Clanton assisted by Mrs. Irene Peterson. Group singing of Christmas Carols were also enjoyed. After the program the group enjoyed exchanging of gifts. The Aid Society was glad to welcome Mrs. Bertie Fair as a new member. About 40 ladies were present and out of town guests were: Mrs. Raymond Mims, Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer Mrs. Erle Ellis of Clanton, Mrs. Claudine Long and Mrs. Louie Self of Birmingham and Mrs. Martin Peterson and Mrs. R. C. Peterson and daughter Sandra of Jemison.

Employees of the Bank of Thorsby enjoyed a party before leaving the Bank on Christmas Eve. After their work was finished, they gathered around their Christmas tree and exchanged gifts and also enjoyed delicious refreshments, which consisted of delicious home-made candies and toasted pecans and cold drinks. The candy and nuts were presented to them by Mrs. Roy Kendrick of the City Grocery & Market. They deeply appreciate the thoughtfulness of this kind friend.

Miss Alma Lefstead returned Saturday afternoon from Mobile, where she spent the Christmas holidays with her brother and family, the Rev. Waldemar Lefstead.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth entertained at a turkey dinner on last Sunday the following: Mr. and Mrs Gust Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turnquist, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bosworth and Johnny, Mrs. Marie Reagan, Miss Naemi Turnquist and Mr. and Mrs John Brothers, Mrs. Erle Ellis and Michael joined the group in the afternoon and enjoyed supper with them.

Mr. Luther Fulmer returned to his home in Augusta, Ga., after spending several days here with friends. Mr. Fulmer came here to conduct Christmas Eve services at the Lutheran church. After a brief vivsit with his parents in Augusta, he will return to the Southern Lutheran Seminary at Columbia, S. C.

Lutheran Church News

The following invitation is extended friends of the Concordia Lutheran church of Thorsby:

"The People of the Concordia Lutheran church of Thorsby, cordially invite you to hear their new pastor, the Rev. William Randolph Morgan on Sunday January 6th at 11 a.m."

We trust that Rev. Morgan and his young wife will receive a warm welcome at this church on next Sunday morning.

The mid-night service which was held on Christmas Eve was enjoyed by a large crowd. Friends of the church turned out to enjoy the service and filled the church to almost capacity. We are indeed grateful to them for helping to make this this a blessed occasion. We are also grateful to Mrs. Erle Ellis, Henry Grady Heflin and other boys from Clanton, who helped with the music. It was enjoyed by all. We also wish to take this means of thanking our good friends of the Baptist church for the use of their hymnals. The church was decorated for the festive occasion and Luther Fulmer preached a very inspiring sermon on "Joy to The World, The Lord Has Come." It was indeed a service that will not soon be forgotten.

STANTON NEWS

MISS RUTH HICKS

Some very badly repairs have been done at the Stanton Jr. High School. Broken window panes have been replaced—a number of window sashes, the well dug deeper, and a number of the classrooms have been painted. Credit for this work is due the local PTA and the County Board of Education. Additional work will be done and it is hoped that the outside of this building will be painted before the work is stopped.

PTA meets next Monday night, January 7th—Come.

The Plantersville Easter Star Chapter had its annual Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Levins' on December 18th. A Christmas tree with gifts for all present and a Jolly Ole Santa to greet each guest and make them welcome. A very special remembrance from members of the Chapter to their Worthy Matron, Miss Ruth Hicks. This gift was a beautiful Milk Glass Fruit Bowl. A few of the members invited guests and 5 children enjoyed this party with the grown-ups. A delicious plate with Russian Tea was served by the hosts. The house was decorated throughout with a large decorated tree on the front porch at the entrance of the house.

Enjoying his party were: Mr. and Mrs. Prude Perry, Mrs. Ruby Harville, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Bobby and Judy, Mrs. Gladys Gay and Martha Lynn. Mrs. Beulah Warren, Mrs. Earl Pickering, Mrs. Thomas Martin, Jr., Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hathcock, Mrs. Audrie Guthrie, Mrs. Olivia Apperson, Mr. Welch Roebuck, Mrs. Bessie Barnes, Mrs. Jack Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Parmer Levins, Charles and Julia, Miss Ruth Hicks and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Levins.

Saturday night, Dec. 22 Mrs. Joseph Dennis entertained some of her friends at a Christmas party. The living and dining rooms were beautifully decorated with traditional colors and flowers.

The party began with everyone singing Christmas Carols.

Each guest brought a gift and after arrival each drew a name. Santa Claus made his appearance and distributed the gifts. Bingo and other games were enjoyed during the evening. Refreshments of Punch, cake, candy and nuts were served to the guests by Mrs. Joseph Dennis, Mrs. Dennis Burnett, Jr., and Mrs. Joe Edd Bearden.

The Christmas program and Christmas tree at the Baptist church was enjoyed by a large number of people.

A large attendance at the Wesleyan Methodist church for their Christmas program which was very enjoyable.

Each member of this class were to invite one guest. Each member bringing a gift for more underprivileged family. Some of the invited guests also brought gifts. After the guests arrived they prepared a fruit basket, gaily decorating it and getting much joy out of doing something for some one else.

Mrs. O'Neal doing this at this time to bring out the thought "That It is More Blessed to Give than to Receive."

Then after preparing the fruit basket and getting together, all of the gifts that they brought it was decided to deliver this sunshine remembrance right then and not to wait until a later date. Mrs. O'Neal loaded the children in her car and made that delivery. Upon their arrival at the house the children had retired and it was decided just to leave the package. As they turned around in the driveway they noted the lights went on and as the members of this Sunday School class drove by the front of the house they could see the children opening their gifts. This was a happy time for all present. They knew in their hearts that they had made some one else happy at Christmas time and had shared with them these joys. Mrs. O'Neal's home was beautifully decorated for this party. Refreshments were served to 9 guests.

Modern Health

PNEUMONIA

This is the time of the year when many people have attacks of pneumonia. The disease is a very serious one with inflammation of the lung tissue and air passages. The cause of this disease for a long time was siad to be a germ called the phenmococcus which enters the body and causes the disease.

Investigation, however, has shown that many people hvae these germs in their bodies and yet do not develop the disease. It is now agreed that the germs are harmless unless they find a condition in the body in which they can not only live but multiply. This is only possible when the body tissues are in a weakened condition and the therefore unable to resist the germs Lowered resistance of the body tissues makes us liable to pneumonia and many other diseases. It is important to see that our bodies are kept in good health with strong resistance.

Many of us find we catch colds easily. This also is due to lowered resistance. A cold may not cause us great inconvenience, but if it is allowed to continue it becomes dangerous, because when germs enter there may develop more serious diseases than colds and other minor complaints. Lowered resistance is due to improper supply of nerve force to the various parts of the body, the part affected depending on which nerve is not functioning properly.

Chripractic adjustments correct spinal abnormalities, thus permitting a full flow of nerve force and so bringing about normal resistance of all parts of the body and freedom from germ infection. If resistance is low and pneumonia has developed, then by spinal adjustments and restoration of proper nerve supply, Chiropractic will restore health. The fever can usually be reduced rapidly, and the lung tissue restored to its normal state.

Under most forms of treatment this disease proves fatal in about fifty per cent of cases, whereas under Chiropractic only a small per cent fail to recover.

Dr. Ware will be glad to answer your health questions.

It is now time to say, "Everything was done, when Chiropractic was included."

COUNT DIMI

BY RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

IN OCTOBER Maybelle Drake of Fairmouth, N.Y., went to Europe. She returned home shortly after Thanksgiving bearing tales of personal exploits with a count. The count's name was Dimitri Ganeff. He lived in Zagodzik.

"Where in the world is Zagodzik?" Sally Hilmouth, Maybelle's best friend, asked.

"Europe," said Maybelle.

Sally didn't press the question. She was almost as thrilled at thoughts of her chum exploiting with a real count as Maybelle herself. So was all the rest of Fairmouth. They listened open-mouthed to Maybelle's discourses, willing and wanting to believe.

Johnny Parker was different. Before Maybelle had gone to Europe Johnny believed himself engaged to Maybelle. To thus find himself relegated to a secondary position in Maybelle's thoughts was annoying.

"Zagodzik, Europe!" he scoffed. "Nuts! There's no such place. And I'll bet that this Count What's-his-name is imaginary too."

Maybelle was furious.

"Johnny Parker, if you ever so much as hint at such a thing when others are around to hear I—I'll never speak to you again!"

Which more than ever convinced Johnny that in his surmises he was correct. Even so, he might have held his tongue if Maybelle had held hers. But Maybelle was getting quite a bang out of talking about her count. People's reaction thrilled her. Hence, she kept talking and the more she talked the more Johnny became a ridiculous figure. In self-defense Johnny uttered words of deprecation and skepticism.

"Look it up on the map if you don't believe me. Ha! Zagodzik! And if there's no such country there's no such count. Folks, don't be gullible."

Small town folks dislike being thought of as gullible and naive. They scrutinized all available maps and began shaking their heads wisely and looking at Maybelle with curious expressions whenever she mentioned Count Ganeff. Maybelle could have choked Johnny Parker.

Things were in this uncertain state when one day Count Dimitri Ganeff himself arrived. No one was more shocked and overjoyed than Maybelle. His appearance was a surprise. She ensconced him in the home of her mother and father and then sent out invitations for a big reception. Johnny Parker was not invited.

But Johnny wouldn't have come anyhow. He felt like a plug nickel. From now on, henceforth and ever after he'd be the laughing stock of Fairmouth. So he went home to sulk and plan.

The party that Maybelle planned was a whooping success. Every one to a man who received invitations was present and those who didn't gathered outside the house and chanted: "We want Dimi." At 10 o'clock Dimi, who was about as big as a demi tasse, came out on the porch and made a speech in broken English which no one could understand. Loud cheering followed, and then the crowd dispersed.

During the days that followed Dimi was invited here, there and everywhere and cut quite a swath in social circles. A week passed and Maybelle began wondering if Dimi planned to spend the winter with them. She wondered also where Johnny Parker was.

Christmas week Dimi announced he was leaving. Maybelle didn't give him a chance to change his mind. She planned a big party and told every one it was going to be a farewell to the count. This rather sewed up Dimi's departure. She didn't think he'd have the face to stay longer.

The party was held on Christmas Eve. This time Johnny Parker was sent an invitation and Maybelle kept her eye on the door, expecting his arrival momentarily. But 11 o'clock came and went and Johnny wasn't among those present.

At 11:15 Count Dimi danced her into an alcove and sat her down on a bench there. He acted as though he had something important to say, and in his broken-English way he said it. It took Maybelle a full minute to understand that Dimi had met a girl in a neighboring town who had a lot of money and wanted to swap it for a title, and he, Dimi, was going to snap her up, on account of he, Dimi, scarcely had his passage money home. This was a blow to Maybelle's pride.

"But you it is I love!" Dimi said ardently. "You it will be always, only you, my passion flower!" And before Maybelle knew what was happening he grabbed and kissed her fiercely.

Maybelle was struggling furiously and angrily to extricate herself when a heavy hand dropped on Dimi's shoulder and jerked him to his feet. Dimi looked up into the dark face of Johnny Parker. Then something caught him under the chin and Count Dimi took the count for a long sleep.

"Johnny!" cried Maybelle, and leaped at him. Johnny held her tight.

"I wondered how long you could stand his philandering," he said. "Well, thank heavens, you've come to your senses."

"Philandering?" said Maybelle. "Count Dimi?"

"Why, sure. He's been seeing the Crockett girl for weeks. Every one knew it but you. Every one knew, including the Crockett girl, he was after her money. He was making you the laughing stock of the town. I couldn't stand that. I'd been the laughing stock and I knew how it felt. That's why I came back to—to rescue you."

"My hero!" declared Maybelle fervently.

And Johnny admitted that maybe he was a hero at that.

Before grinding sticky fruits, such as figs, raisins or dates, through the food chopper, put a few drops of lemon juice in the chopper, and the fruit will not stick to the chopper.

To prevent lemons becoming withered and hard put in a fruit jar, fill with cold water, screw top on lightly, and they will keep for weeks.

For polishing steel knives and forks, a large cork, dipped in souring powder cleans quickly and effectively.

For cleaning decanters or bottles with small necks, peel and cut a raw potato into small pieces, put them into the decanter with warm water, shake it vigorously up and down and the bottle will soon be clear. Rinse.

Bread put in a paper bag and hung up will not mold; ready for crumbs.

Facts And Figures

Looking Ahead--The Production Job For 1952

EDITOR'S NOTE: Farmers looking into the year ahead are faced with a variety of problems—some old ones and many new ones. In an effort to bring these complex questions into sharp focus, we've asked Foy Helms, A.P.I. Extension economist, to outline the farming situation and some of the factors affecting 1952 productions.

By FOY HELMS

THE big points in the 1952 farming outlook are that some farm production items will be scarcer, practically all will be higher, and prices to farmers will be about the same as in 1951.

Fertilizer supplies will be the major production item that falls shortest of meeting needs. Other bad spots ahead include a shorter labor supply than farmers had in 1951 and scarcities of some insecticides.

The general outlook runs like this—

FARM MACHINERY: The supply is expected to fall some short of demand, with prices continuing to rise. Production of machinery and equipment is slowing down, and will go even lower during the first three months of this year.

FERTILIZERS: A bigger demand for fertilizers will outstrip the increased amount to be manufactured. Farmers want to use more fertilizers for bigger crop yields to offset the rising cost of many production items. Superphosphate will be more scarce than any other fertilizer, but the pinch is to be felt in some shortages of nitrogen and potash.

SPRAYS AND DUSTS: Supplies of most insecticides and fungicides will be tight, if not short, this year. Shortages of copper, sulfur, chlorine, and benzine are to reduce the output considerably. Some higher prices are ahead. Farmers will do well to make their purchases early and store their supplies in a dry place.

FARM LABOR: The farm labor situation vill get worse before it gets better. The high evel of industrial employment and the armed orces are to siphon off considerable farm labor. Farm wages, although the highest ever, robably will increase some.

LAND VALUES: The price of farm land n Alabama may rise some, although at a lower rate than in recent years. Strong competition between farm and non-farm buyers s forecast. For the next few years farm income should remain high enough to justify urchase of good land, if the land is operated efficiently.

COTTON: If the Nov. 1, 1951, government stimate of a current U. S. cotton crop materializes, the cotton supply situation will be ighter in 1952 than it was last year. Estimates are for domestic consumption to be 0½ million bales and export 6½ million. uch demand will cause the cotton supply to be extremely low by the end of the next cotton year.

MEAT ANIMALS: Cattle slaughter will increase for the first time in five years, and production will continue to climb. Both production and slaughter of hogs will drop some from the past five-year expansion. Prices of cattle and hogs are not expected to change very much. Numbers of sheep on farms have gone up for the past two years while slaughter of sheep and lambs has been at a low ebb. Both slaughter and inventory numbers may continue to increase in the next few years.

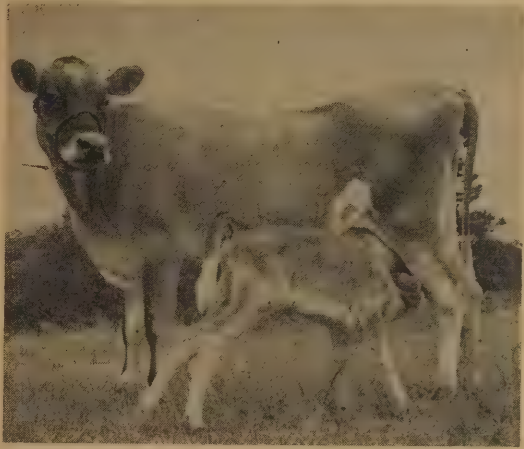
Good breeding is an important factor with Alabama dairymen. Artificial breeding is answering the needs of many dairymen and the program is gaining rapidly in its popularity and effectiveness. Artificial breeding makes the services of good bulls available to farmers in many Alabama counties at a reasonable cost.

The cow pictured at right is an offspring from artificial breeding. This cow was bred artificially to a bull at the Auburn stud and her artificially bred heifer calf is shown by her side. These two generations of artificial breeding show that good animals can be had through good breeding. This method also eliminates the hazards of keeping a dangerous bull on the farm.



LEARNING YOUNG—Four-year-old Linda Smith watches as her aunt, Mrs. E. J. Williams, does a bit of fancy sewing. Mrs. Williams is a clothing leader in the Texasville Home Demonstration Club in Barbour County and has made dozens of articles this year. Articles she has made at home range all the way from vanity sets to kitchen curtains and ladies' suits and dresses. Mrs. Williams makes almost all of her own clothes and many dresses for her neighbors. She has made children's dresses, shirts, quilt tops, and dresses for grownups for her neighbors this year.

Artificial Breeding Dividends More Milk And Better Cattle

ARTIFICIAL breeding of dairy cattle has made great strides during the four years since this program was started in the state. This method of breeding for high-producing animals without the expense of maintaining high-priced bulls on the farm has become a regular part of the dairy program on many farms.

Records on the four years' operations show that 21,669 cows have been bred by this method. And over 16,000 artificially sired calves have been born in the state—many of them are now mature and in production.

Based on the production records of bulls in the stud at Auburn, the cows born as a result of artificial breeding should produce around 6,090 pounds of milk per year, or an increase of a little over 2,500 pounds per cow. The average Alabama cow produces 3,700 pounds per year. The increase in milk income amounts to about $824,960 yearly due to higher per-cow production from artificially bred dairy cows.

To date the artificial breeding program has brought a total of over $2,424,960 additional income to Alabama farmers. Higher milk production and increased value of the animals account for the added income. Officials of the state association predict that this winter a larger number of dairy cows will be bred artificially than ever before.

Faulty spark timing, improper valve tappet setting, leaky valves, or a partially plugged radiator can cause high fuel consumption by farm tractors.

Cowikee Home Demonstration Club members take turns at keeping the library they founded. Mrs. Neil McKinnon, above, replaces books in the shelves at closing time. The library is open every day in winter, three days per week in summer.

Center—Barbour County Home Agent Mrs. Frances C. Watson, left, drops by the Cowikee Public Library to chat with the library chairman, Mrs. Neil McKinnon.

Right—Home improvements are high on the list of Cowikee Club members. Club President Mrs. John Dismukes, of Comer, shows off some of the work of her new dishwasher. The dishwasher saves at least two hours a day, she says.

There's A Mark Of Progress About Cowikee

THROUGHOUT the small community of Cowikee in Barbour County one thing is outstanding.

It is the mark of progress.

In the homes, along the highway, and on the farms, can be seen the signs of a progressive people. The reason? A couple of dozen farm ladies, Cowikee Home Demonstration Club members, are going all out to make Cowikee a better place in which to live.

Their cooperative spirit is illustrated by their library project. Good books were scarce in Cowikee, so the club members decided to start a community library. They scoured the neighborhood for old books, raised funds to buy new books, and earmarked some of the club funds for this project. They didn't have much to begin with, but they soon opened the Cowikee Public Library.

"It wasn't much of a library," recalls Mrs. Neil McKinnon, club library chairman, "but at least we had a start." They only had a handful of books; a vacant shelf in a local store held their entire collection. The reading room was located near the pot-bellied stove in the back of the store.

However, the club members kept adding more books, a few at the time, until the little library outgrew its modest quarters. But they were all set for just such a happening. They acquired a small building, and scrubbed, patched, and painted it to make a home for the growing library.

The Cowikee Public Library now boasts several hundred books and stays open every afternoon during the winter. In summer it opens three days a week. It is operated entirely by the club and each club member gladly takes her turn as librarian.

All through the community this same spirit of cooperation is evident. When a mailbox improvement program was started recently, Mr. and Mrs. John Dismukes treated mailbox posts for all of their 22 neighbors.

The ladies of the community also donated canned food to make sure that the school lunchroom was well supplied.

And in their individual homes, these homemakers show the same energetic interest. Almost every one of them can boast of some type of home improvement, and they eagerly tell of plans for even greater projects.

"These achievements aren't hard to understand though," explained a resident of Cowikee. "You know, there just aren't many things my neighbods can't do when they put their mind to it. And they'll tackle almost anything."

Farmers who have quantities of insecticides left from the past season's operations can save money by properly storing these materials during the winter and using them the next season.

RECIPE FOR JANUARY

PECANS are plentiful this year. Everywhere there seems to be a bumper crop. There are many uses for pecans but one of the most popular is making pecan pies.

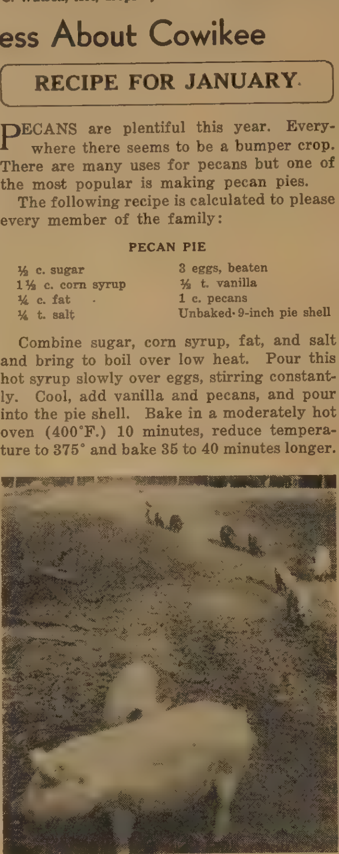
The following recipe is calculated to please every member of the family:

PECAN PIE

½ c. sugar
1⅓ c. corn syrup
¼ c. fat
¼ t. salt

3 eggs, beaten
½ t. vanilla
1 c. pecans
Unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Combine sugar, corn syrup, fat, and salt and bring to boil over low heat. Pour this hot syrup slowly over eggs, stirring constantly. Cool, add vanilla and pecans, and pour into the pie shell. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400°F.) 10 minutes, reduce temperature to 375° and bake 35 to 40 minutes longer.



SIGNS OF THE TIMES—A new twist to the hog-calling art is fast becoming known to hog farmers everywhere. Instead of straining their lungs to call the pigs, they're doing their calling with protein supplement. The success they are having is shown by this group of shoats on the J. S. Turbeville farm, near Whatley. All Mr. Turbeville has to do is announce that it's protein supplement feeding time. The hogs come running. "And besides bringing in the hogs," says Turbeville, "protein supplement really boosts pork profits."

Good Methods Boost Profits

RECENT studies of cotton production practices in all major cotton-producing areas of Alabama indicate that most cotton producers can increase their production efficiency, crop yields, and farm incomes by adhering more closely to Experiment Station recommendations with respect to approved methods of producing the crop.

High labor and power requirements for cotton production are major factors limiting the most efficient and profitable production of cotton over the entire state.

In many cases, these requirements may be reduced by increased and more efficient utilization of the equipment already available on farms. And when conditions permit a shift to more mechanical power, additional savings in labor and power requirements can be achieved.

These A.P.I. Experiment Station studies were made by the department of agricultural economics, with assistance from staff members of the departments of agronomy and soils, zoology-entomology, and agricultural engineering, and in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A major objective of the studies was to compare current cotton production practices with Experiment Station recommendations, and to emphasize points where improvements in production methods are needed.

Detailed results of these studies are reported in a series of circulars that were published recently by the Experiment Station. Each major cotton-producing area is covered in a separate report.

Within each report is given a brief history of cotton production trends, present and recommended practices, and a statement on the outlook for the future of cotton in the area concerned. Production practices are discussed by groups of operations including land preparation, seed, seeding rate, planting, spacing, fertilization, cultivation and weed control, insect control, and method and time of harvesting.

Cotton producers who are interested in studying their present methods of producing cotton and in making the adjustments needed to comply with the latest approved recommendations of the Experiment Station for the area in which they are located will be interested in reviewing these reports.

Copies of these circulars are available in county agents' offices, or they may be obtained by writing to the Director of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station at Auburn. Circular numbers by areas are:

Make Every Acre Pay

Land Use Planning

By D. R. HARBOR
A. P. I. Extension Agronomist

NOW that farmers have completed harvesting of the 1951 crop it is a good time to do some real down-to-earth planning for the new year. All good farmers want to do a better job each succeeding year.

Some of the best planning a farmer can do is on the use to be made of all of his land. On most Alabama farms there are acres which are either idle or are not paying off—perhaps this is because they are not in the crops best suited to the land. A good example is some of the land in so-called permanent pasture. Poor, droughty hillsides just do not make good permanent pastures. Usually they are just an exercising lot for livestock. They actually furnish little grazing.

During 1952 farmers should plan to put as much of this land as possible in crops which will furnish lots of grazing. Some crops which may be used on such land are lespedeza sericea, coastal Bermuda grass, kudzu, and some of the annual legumes and grasses, such as annual lespedeza, Sudan grass, and others.

There are other areas on farms which also need to be examined with reference to land use and profitable returns.

It is a good plan to walk over the farm and study the soil in each field from the standpoint of texture—heavy, intermediate, light, very light; color—black, brown, red, yellow, light grey; organic matter content—good, medium, low; tilth—good, medium, poor; drainage—good, fair, poor; hardpan—present and depth from surface, or not present; stoniness—very rocky, few rocks, none; topography—level, bench or bottom, rolling, gently sloping, strongly rolling, or very steep; erosion—by water or wind; lime requirements, and fertility needs. All of these factors will influence the use of the land. Other factors which should be kept in mind about each field are ease of fencing and nearness to water.

In planning the entire cropping system for the farm there are many other factors to consider, such as labor supply, amount and kind of farm machinery available or needed, kind of livestock to be produced, capital required, and many others.

In general, the more level fields should be used for row crops and the steeper areas for close-growing crops. But the kind of soil should also be considered in planning the crops to go on each field.

The important thing is to take some time to study your land use problems and to plan to use all acres to best advantage in order to increase income from the farm.

A recent publication released by the A. P. I. Extension Service—Circular 427, "Grassland Farming in Alabama"—will be helpful in planning full use of land. This circular is available without charge from your local county agent.

All cattle should be sprayed now for cattle grubs and lice. Cattle that have been sprayed previously should not have many lice, but the December spraying will destroy any that are still living. Cattle grubs cannot be killed until they start cutting holes in the backs of cattle. Watch cattle, and as soon as holes appear start the spraying program.

Hog producers can get $6 back for every $1 invested by using protein supplement in fattening pigs.

NEW RECORD—Members of the Beatrice Home Demonstration Club in Monroe County have set a new record. Every member is a charter member and has been active since the club was organized 21 years ago. And during all of this time they have worked continually on better homes and a better community. At left above, Mrs. John Sanders, Farm Bureau chairman, welcomes four members to a regular meeting at her home. They are, left to right, Mrs. T. N. Stallworth, Sr., club president; Mrs. Earl Harper, community activities leader; Mrs. Olive Ivey, community activities chairman; Mrs. Paul Harper, and Mrs. Sanders. At right club members get sewing tips from Mrs. Ralphine Tate, Monroe home agent. Members shown are, left to right, Mrs. J. M. Harrington, Mrs. L. E. Foxworth, citizenship chairman; Mrs. C. A. Stallworth, parliamentarian, and Mrs. John Black, club vice-president and county community activities chairman.

More Zinc Is The Answer

Zinc Deficiency Shows Up In High Yielding Corn Fields

By JOHN I. WEAR, Associate Soil Chemist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

WITH the increase of Alabama's corn yield from about 12 bushels to approximately 20 bushels per acre during the last 10 years, has come a pronounced need for zinc in certain localities of the state.

Generally, the soil contains enough zinc, which is a minor plant food element, for low corn yields. But with a substantial increase in corn production brought about by use of higher rates of fertilizer, better varieties, closer spacing, and many other improved practices, the need for zinc has become more prevalent especially in the lighter soils of the state.

Zinc deficiency symptoms appear in the young corn plant as white or yellow discoloration of the bud or top of the young plant; quite often yellow or white streaks appear in the leaves. The plant usually recovers after lay-by time and the symptoms may disappear altogether; however, the yield may be reduced five to 20 bushels per acre.

If these deficiency symptoms have occurred in the past in your corn and you are planning to use a high-yielding variety, close spacing, and high fertility practices (400 to 500 pounds of mixed fertilizer before planting and 48 pounds or more of nitrogen as a side-dressing), it is good insurance for high yields to get mixed fertilizer with about 50 pounds of zinc sulfate added per ton.

A New Plan For Home Demonstration Clubs

A subscription to the "National 4-H News" for each of Alabama's 4,500 local adult 4-H leaders—that's the plan drawn up by the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs at its recent annual meeting. The women urged that each local home demonstration club give the 4-H leaders in its community annual subscriptions to the magazine. The publication, with its excellent leadership material, will further strengthen state 4-H activities, believe HD Council members.

To get the program under way, Mrs. Pearl Mauldin (right), of Geraldine, state HD Council chairman of rural youth work, gives Mrs. W. L. Hopper, local 4-H leader of the Morton Chapel club, Etowah County, a copy of the "National 4-H News." Looking on are Mrs. Lillie M. Alexander, Auburn, A. P. I. Extension state home agent, and Bobby Bridgman, Eclectic, president of the Alabama Council of 4-H Clubs.

There's still a lot to do, but Mrs. C. T. McGuire has accomplished much in building her own home. She is shown at left, above, looking over the six-room house that she built by herself. In the picture at upper right Mrs. McGuire works on cabinets and storage shelves for her kitchen and pantry. Although she had never built anything before, she tackled the job of building an entire house from the ground up. She poured the foundation, put up framework, laid roofing, set up walls, made window and door frames, finished the floors, and painted the house inside and outside. At lower left the Helena, Rt. 1, homemaker, right, opens a bundle of her bargain-rate flooring while Shelby County Home Agent Marian Cotney looks on. Mrs. McGuire is also well known as an outstanding home demonstration club leader in Shelby County where she helped to organize the Little Cahaba Club. She served as president of the club for several years.

A Job Well Done

Shelby Homemaker Builds Six-Room Home For Family

THE American farm woman of colonial days who made all of her family's clothes and even helped to build the log cabin home didn't have a thing on Mrs. C. T. McGuire of Shelby County.

Like most women, Mrs. McGuire wanted a home that she and her family could call their own. But the high cost of building materials and labor was just too much for the McGuire's modest budget.

But this didn't stop Mrs. McGuire. She reasoned that if she did all of the work herself and bought building materials carefully she could still build the house she wanted. So that's exactly what she did.

Mrs. McGuire didn't even consider the fact that she had never built a thing in her life. And she probably didn't foresee all of the hard work for a woman—heavy, back-breaking labor—that goes into a simple frame house. So two years ago Mrs. McGuire started in to build the house she wanted.

She dug footings, poured foundations, and put up foundation timbers. "At first my husband had to help put up the heavy timbers," she says, "but I soon learned how to put them up alone." And besides, the job was going too slowly when she waited for Mr. McGuire to help. He works in a nearby mine and had little spare time in which to help with the building.

During the day Mrs. McGuire would build a section of the framework, and at night Mr. McGuire would help put the section in place. But Mrs. McGuire did all of the lighter tasks —such as building and putting in window casings, putting on the roof, and laying flooring.

She even put up the Celotex for the walls and ceilings, built in cabinets in the kitchen, and installed plumbing for the bathroom.

The McGuire family moved in about one year ago—when the house was merely a shell—and Mrs. McGuire kept working. The six-room bungalow is almost finished now; there are only a few minor jobs, such as pouring the front porch floor, weatherboarding the eaves, and finishing some of the floors.

And by this time Mrs. McGuire has become quite handy with the hammer, saw, and square. In a very short time now, the house will be entirely completed, and at a very reasonable expense. Mrs. McGuire made many bargain-hunting trips for building materials and most of the time she got what she wanted.

For example, she bought bundles of culled oak flooring at a small fraction of the regular price. A careful sanding and finishing job turned out almost unbelievably good looking floors.

Mrs. McGuire didn't develop her talents for getting a job done overnight though. She has been an outstanding leader in Shelby County home demonstration work for 20 years. When the organization of the Little Cahaba Club lagged, Mrs. McGuire pitched in and soon got the club firmly established.

"She is still a very active member of the Little Cahaba Club," says Home Agent Marian Cotney, "and up until recently she served as the club president." Under her leadership the club marked up many notable achievements and with her help it is continuing as one of the outstanding clubs of the state.

For when Mrs. C. T. McGuire, of Helena, Rt. 1, puts all of her energy behind a job it's bound to be completed.

Production Job

DAIRYING: Some increase in milk and milk products is predicted. Supplies will not increase, but demand should be heavier.

POULTRY: As has been true for the past several years, the outlook is for larger production. Demand should remain strong, while prices will hold close to those of last year. With feed and labor costs rising, the egg-feed price ratio will be lower. Commercial broiler production will probably continue its long-time increase, but the rate of gain is likely to be smaller than in 1951.

FRUITS AND NUTS: Consumer demands for fruit and fruit products are expected to increase some. Demands for fruit for processing will not be quite as strong because of large stocks of canned fruits at the start of the canning season.

VEGETABLES: Growers will find most crops profitable in 1952 because of high consumer demands. Small carry-overs of canned vegetables are expected at the beginning of the 1952 canning season.

FATS, OILS, AND OIL SEEDS: The general price level of fats and oils is expected to stay at about current levels for the next six months. Total production may be about five per cent larger in 1951-52 than a year earlier. Prospective supplies are large enough to allow a high level of consumption and exports with some increase in stock. The 1951 crop of cottonseed is expected to be almost 70 per cent larger than the preceding crop. This will result in a cottonseed oil production large enough to offset declines in soybean and peanut oil so that the production of total edible vegetable oils for 1951-52 may be about 10 per cent larger than in the preceding year.

FEED SUPPLIES: The total hay supply is the largest on record. Feed grains supplies are smaller than they have been for the past two years. Supplies of by-product feeds will be about equal to the record supply available in 1950-51. A record supply of oil seed cake and meal is in prospect. Due to strong demands and a smaller overall supply, prices of feed grains and most by-product feeds are expected to average a little higher.

Care Of African Violets

By DR. TOK FURUTA, Associate Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

THE African violet requires little light for best growth and does very well in the dry atmosphere of the average home. A native of tropical Africa, the plants will continue to flower satisfactorily for a long period of time if they are not over-watered.

New plants may be produced by using the leaves with the leaf stems (petioles). Only firm, mature leaves should be used.

Excellent results are obtained by rooting the leaves in a glass of water. The end of the stem is immersed in water while the leaf is left out. If the leaf is in water, rotting will occur. A method to insure this is to tie some wax paper over the glass. Punch holes in the paper so that the stem may extend through into the water. The glass should be placed in a north window out of direct sunlight until the leaf has formed new plants.

Quite a variation in time occurs before the leaf produces new plants. As long as the leaf is green and healthy and does not soften and decay, the leaf will eventually form new plants.

African violets grow best in a soil high in organic matter. An excellent mixture to use consists of equal parts of a good field soil, sand, manure, and leaf mold. Peat or muck may be substituted for manure.

When large enough, the new plants may be planted in a two and one-half-inch flower

This Month on the Farm

by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

COWS bred in January will drop a calf next October or November. Now is a good time to breed those animals that did not get with calf earlier. The artificial breeding program is designed to help farmers get their cows bred to good bulls at a reasonable cost. The cow in the herd two years from now depends on the bull used in breeding this year.

BECAUSE of the short crop of sweet potatoes last fall it is very probable that good seed will be scarce this spring. Growers with good certified seed should find a ready market for them or for plants grown from these seed. Only certified seed or plants may be sold in Alabama. Farmers who will need seed or plants should locate a supply and make arrangements to purchase their needs early. It will be difficult to find them at planting time.

Several new varieties are showing up well in test plots. Growers may want to make small trial plantings of Gold Rush (L-241), Heart of Gold (white skin), Georgia Bunch, and All Gold.

TAKE a look at the scrub hardwood stands this month. If there are any pines in the vicinity, you may be surprised at the areas where you have a good stand of pine seedlings under the hardwood. With the leaves off the hardwood bushes, these areas can be selected, and plans can be made to poison the hardwoods to release these pines. If not released, the pines will eventually be shaded out by the hardwood bushes, and will die. This is one of the easiest and most productive places in the woods to see quick results from timber stand improvement work.

BULLS should be turned back in with the cow herd early this month if this was not done in December, in order to get a big crop of high-priced fall calves. If the bulls are not in good flesh, it is advisable to feed them a daily ration of oats in which two pounds of cottonseed meal have been mixed. If winter grazing is plentiful, turn the cows on it one or two days each week when the ground is not boggy. A little green grazing at intervals during the winter will help keep cows healthy and prevent trouble at calving time.

LOCATE sites for bird food plantings now and break the land as soon as possible. Breaking the land in early winter will reduce weed competition with bird food crops and will make spring planting easier. Recommended crops for planting are common lespedeza, bicolor lespedeza, and large partridge peas. Plan to have a one-eighth to one-fourth-acre patch for every 15 acres of range. Food patches must be planted where livestock cannot graze in them. Purchase good quality seed and fertilizer well before planting time. Your county agent can supply necessary recommendations for a good seed crop and can furnish sources of seed for planting.

A good New Year's resolution for every farm would be to use wisely every acre of the farm and to treat and manage each area according to its needs.

Shown are, left to right, John Bagby, Extension horticulturist, Auburn; J. N. White, Houston County assistant farm agent; Mr. Benefield, Dothan groceryman; Kent Harrison; Al Stephensen, and Austin Ezzell, A.P.I. Extension distributor marketing specialist, Auburn. The two-day produce school in Dothan was conducted by Houston County Extension agents, Mr. Bagby, and Mr. Ezzell.

New Schools Teach Better Produce Handling Methods

IN the future the Alabama housewife should be able to get better quality, more attractive produce at her local grocers. Grocers are going back to school to learn better methods of processing and displaying farm produce.

Through a program recently started by the Extension Service, A.P.I., produce handling schools are being conducted in many cities of the state. The schools are conducted by local county and home agents with the assistance of Austin Ezzell, distributing marketing specialist of Auburn.

In the produce schools store managers, produce department managers, and produce clerks are learning all the latest tricks in handling farm produce. The school covers techniques in buying, handling, displaying, and selling fresh fruits and vegetables to best preserve the natural quality and high nutritive value of these foods.

Demonstrations, charts, movies, and other methods are used in the schools to teach up-to-date ideas on selling produce.

It is the opinion of county agents and grocery store operators that farmers will sell more products if both the farmer and the merchant take more pains in putting better products on the market.

Retail merchants provide the final market for most of the things the farmer grows. Therefore, anything farmers and farm leaders can do to help retailers do a better job of selling foods means better markets for farm products.

Grocers interested in getting a produce school in their town should contact the local county agent for details.

Now Is The Time To Start Fall Layers

By JOHN P. WEEKS
A.P.I. Extension Poultryman

THE poultryman has a very important job to do now, if he is to make good money from selling eggs next fall and winter.

Good poultrymen have found that to make top profits with the laying flock they must start enough good pullets each year to replace the entire flock. These pullets must be started in January and February if they are to be in top production when eggs are at their best price from July to January. Late hatched pullets that come into production in September and October are at a great disadvantage. By the time their eggs are large size the price of eggs has passed its peak and they are in their top production during the period of declining prices.

Early pullets that come into production in July or early August pay for their growing cost during the period of high egg prices and continue to make their owner a profit during the rest of the year. The late hatched pullets will lay only 11 to 12 months before they molt, while it is often possible to get 14 to 16 months' production from the early pullets before they molt.

The supply of high quality chicks for commercial egg production is likely to be very short this year. It is important that orders for chicks be placed with hatcherymen immediately if chicks are to be obtained on time. Be sure to get a strain of chicks that has been bred for high egg production. Many of the hatcheries throughout the broiler areas are using most of their capacity for hatching broiler strain chicks. These birds are fine for broilers and satisfactory for the home flock, but they are not satisfactory for the commercial egg flock. The hens are large in size—thus they consume more feed and their egg production is below that of strains that have been bred for egg production.

pot or a four or five-inch flower pot. If the plants are first placed in the small pots, they should be moved into larger pots as soon as they are well established.

Watering is the key to success in growing African violets. Each time the plant is watered, the soil should be thoroughly soaked and the excess allowed to drain away. Watering should be repeated after the soil feels slightly dry. Daily watering may not be needed, but the soil should be checked daily.

If a few precautions are observed, water on the leaves will not cause damage. First, never use water which has a temperature less than that of the room in which the plants are growing. Second, the sun should not shine on the plants while the foliage is wet.

Never crowd the plants while they are growing. The spacing should be such that the leaves of adjoining plants do not touch each other. Rotted leaves should be removed periodically. Occasionally removing a few small leaves from the center of the plant helps to encourage flower development.

It is better to underfeed the plants than to overfeed them. If a rich soil is used at the beginning, the plants will not require feeding for six months. If the soil is not rich, it is wise to feed not more than once a month. A 4-10-4 fertilizer may be used at the rate of one-fourth teaspoonful per four-inch pot.

African violets do best at a light intensity where one is barely able to see the shadow of the hand on the plant—a north or east window is best. Keep a curtain between the plant and window; allow plenty of ventilation, but keep plants out of drafts.

It Takes Just A Little Work

Cunningham Community Club Is One Big Family

THE twenty families in the Cunningham community which borders Highway No. 5 south of Marion are a proud and happy group. In fact, you could almost call them just one big happy family. And they have a spirit of cooperation and understanding that's seldom seen in these modern times.

Perhaps there are other communities that are as closely knit but there are few community clubs anywhere that have accomplished as much in so short a time as has this Perry County farm group.

The Cunningham Community Club got its start in the spring of 1949 when a group of neighboring farm families met one night at a regular get-together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dickey. All of the families realized the need for a club because of the many children in the community who had no place to go for recreation. No single home could hold all of the people in the community so the group decided to organize a club and eventually build a club house.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore were heartily in favor of the club idea and expressed their pleasure by donating nearly two acres of land to the club for use as a building site for a community club house. This gift spurred the group on and they were soon working on a program to build the club house.

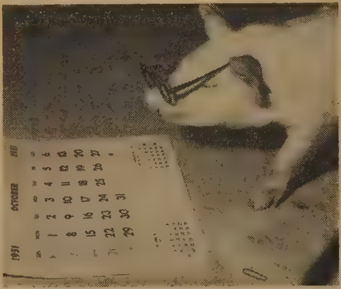
All of the people worked together on the building project. Square dances, auctions, barbecue dinners, donations, and a dozen other methods were used to raise funds for the new building. L. H. White designed the building and every resident in the area—young and old alike—had a hand in the building project.

Every family in the community is a member of the Farm Bureau. Most of the Cunningham families are active in Farm Bureau work and they put forth a special effort on the project. Three of the club members are directors of the Perry County Farm Bureau, and the county organization was heartily in favor of the work carried out by this progressive community.

The new club house was completed in June of 1950—barely a year after the club first organized. The building is 28 by 53 feet and contains a kitchen and plenty of tables, chairs, and other recreational facilities. The chair problem was solved when each family agreed to furnish a chair for each member of the family.

There's no recreational problem for Cunningham children now. The club house is open almost every Friday and Saturday night. And Sunday School groups and other organizations frequently use the building. The whole community turns out for the club meeting which is held the first Friday night in each month.

The Cunningham Club members are proud of the work they have done but they don't figure they are through working yet. Their building is completely paid for and they have already installed inlaid linoleum flooring. "The next item," says Club President E. S. Dunkin, "is to completely equip the kitchen." And with the help of such club stalwarts as Paul Moore, Mrs. Frank Wehr, H. E. Wilson, Mrs. Fred England, and many more, the job will soon be done.



IT'S NO JOKE—PIGS ARE CALENDAR WATCHERS—And the near-sighted porker above has set out to prove it. He's the advance ticket man for a new bulletin called "Pigs Are Calendar Watchers" written by G. B. Phillips, A. P. I. Extension hog specialist. The publication gives a year-around calendar of management tips designed to make the hog business more profitable. The new bulletin will be given out at county hog schools.

Along the Way

with P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

THE Bible teaches us that we don't live by bread alone; and that man is a combination of body, mind, and spirit.

In these few words we get a glimpse of why we believe in Christianity. The world around us sustains that belief. Things material, and that which is spiritual, combine in favor of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.

Immediately behind us was another Yuletide. It sprang, of course, from the birth of the Great Master Teacher, although many practices at the Yuletide have always been pagan in nature.

The records show that Christ was born in an obscure village, that as a young man He worked as a carpenter, and for three years He was an itinerant preacher.

He never wrote a book, never owned a home, never owned any property other than a few clothes. He never traveled more than 200 miles from where He was born.

His teachings are based upon the fact that man is body, mind, and spirit. He taught people how to live better and more abundantly, both materially and spiritually.

And what were the results? The answer is that 19 centuries have passed since He lived as a man on the earth, and He is still the centerpiece of the human race. In fact, he is the real essence of material and spiritual progress. Wherever His teachings are not accepted and applied there is human chaos, misery, poverty, and decay.

One who has studied Him and His life in relation to what has happened since His death on the cross said:

"I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever were built and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, all put together, have not affected the life of man upon this earth as that One Solitary Nazarene who promulgated the Golden Rule."

The essence of that Golden Rule is that we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us. Since this is good for individuals it is good also for nations.

It's good because it is an essential part of Christianity; and Christianity is the foundation of our democracy.

Thus we see that what has been said is true. More evidence to support it is the fact that real human progress since the birth of Christ has been based upon His teachings as revealed to us by the Bible as well as by nature.

I'm using one specific example. It is that of freedom based upon the dignity and independence of the individual.

The individual is the acme of importance in Christianity. Each individual is viewed by Christ as on the same level, and each is held responsible to the same degree.

Thus we see why everything depends upon the individual.

I add the fact that our strength as a nation is determined by our production from our farms and in our factories. And our production springs from our freedom.

No nation of slaves can accomplish half so much as we have accomplished in the United States. And no nation of slaves can have half so much for which to live—materially and spiritually.

As we enter the new year, 1952, we should re-examine ourselves in relation to what our freedom has done for us and move forward with a view to preserving it without blemish and use it to the fullest degree for ourselves and for our country.

What's Ahead For Homemakers

By STELLA MITCHELL
A.P.I. Extension Economist in Home Management

A look into the future for the farm woman reveals that she will probably be working more off the farm, she will be able to spend more money for food for the family, but she will have to keep a tighter watch on the family purse in 1952.

With an expanded defense program more farm women will probably be called on to do more work off the farm. And also the defense program is expected to prevent any increase in the supply of consumer durable goods. In fact, the supply of non-essential items may be decreased. So, we're likely to have more money available for savings accounts or to spend for food.

The general home outlook for 1952 looks like this—

INCOME: In general, farm income will be about the same as in 1951; however, inflation may lower the dollar value.

FOODS: Food prices are likely to be higher this year. Meats are already under price control and prices are not expected to rise. Larger supplies of beef and veal, eggs, poultry, and turkey will be available. Shortening and cooking oil supply will be about the same, fresh vegetables may be short next fall, but no shortage of cereals is foreseen. Plentiful supplies of sugar will be available.

CLOTHING: Household textiles are adequate; rayon is plentiful; wool supply is sufficient. All clothing, except wool, will probably be higher.

HOUSEHOLD EQUIPMENT: Demand will continue high, but stocks of television, refrigerators, home freezers, vacuum cleaners, and ranges are adequate for present demand.

HOME FURNISHINGS: Prices are expected to remain about the same. Some low priced merchandise is expected as there is pressure from dealers for furniture in lower price ranges.

HOUSING: Many building materials will be short. Steel, copper, and aluminum will be very short. Aluminum roofing will be available only for repairs and maintenance. Plumbing and heating equipment, and general hardware supplies will be of low grades due to substitution of less critical materials. Paints will be plentiful, but quality may be lower. Composition products such as wall board are expected to be in good supply.

AUTOMOBILES: Demand is strong and 1952 production will be 20 per cent less than 1951.

FAITHFUL SERVANTS—Mrs. T. R. Parrish, left, and Mrs. Pocahontas Scroggins have a long record of service as 4-H Club leaders in Barbour County. Mrs. Parrish has been leader for the Clayton Elementary Club for 15 years. Mrs. Scroggins has more than 20 years to her credit as local leader of the Clayton Junior Club. Both of these outstanding youth workers will probably retire soon. But they insist that they won't drop their duties as 4-H leaders.

Cows, Cotton, and Hogs—with a balanced system of year-round grazing and plenty of grain are all parts of the farming system used by Morgan Lee, of Addison, Rt. 1. And the young GI trainee farmer is convinced that he has the right system.

Morgan has been farming only four years, but in that time he has managed to build up a farm program that is diversified from beginning to end. He is shown at left, above, with Assistant County Agent James Fields, left, looking over a field of winter grazing that was put in on time and came up to a good stand. The field contains 10 acres of crimson clover and ryegrass. The Winston County farmer also has eight acres of Ladino clover and fescue and eight acres of oats planted in grain sorghum middles.

One of the main sources of income on the Lee farm comes from the sale of milk. Lee is shown with Agent Fields at right, above, in front of the farmer's new grade A dairy barn. Lee has built his milking herd up to 10 cows and has a few heifers coming on for use as herd replacements.

Another source of income on Morgan Lee's farm comes from hogs. Morgan grows about 40 acres of hybrid corn on some rented land, and he sells the grain through hogs and milk. He is shown above with his registered Hampshire boar and a group of crossbred pigs.

Cotton is the third major crop on the Lee farm and last year 10 bales were produced on 10 acres.

Experiments Show Value Of Stable Manure Under Vegetables

By L. M. WARE, Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

IT is of importance to know the value of stable manure when applied to different crops. The answer for vegetable crops comes from a long-time experiment at Auburn extending over an eight-year period when applications were made and over a three-year period when the residual or "carry-over" effects were measured.

During the first period, manure was applied at rates of six, 12, and 18 tons per acre, annually. The figures represent the value of the average increases in yield of seven spring and six fall vegetables during the first period, and four spring and four fall vegetables during the second period. The increases in yield were those obtained from manure above the increases obtained from commercial fertilizer. The fertilizer rates were 1,000 pounds per acre used with six tons of manure, 1,500 pounds used with 12 tons of manure, and 2,000 pounds used with 18 tons of manure. Vegetables were valued at an average of two and one-half cents per pound.

During the first period, the annual value per acre of increased yield of spring and fall crops from six tons of manure was $307; from 12 tons, $442; and from 18 tons, $568. Values per ton for the manure applied were $51 at the six-ton rate, $37 at the 12-ton rate, and $31 at the 18-ton rate.

Total "carry-over" values of the manure for the three years of the second period were $332 per acre for the six-ton rate, $619 for the 12-ton rate, and $723 for the 18-ton rate. Based on the total amount of manure added during the eight years of the first period, the value per ton for the manure over the two periods was $57 for the six-ton rate, $43 for the 12-ton rate, and $36 for the 18-ton rate.

LONG-DISTANCE CORRESPONDENCE — Mrs. Exum Newby, of Athens, Rt. 3, is citizenship chairman for the Bethel Home Demonstration Club and she believes in extending her citizenship work to all parts of the world. For several years she has been corresponding with a farm woman in Bavaria and through this contact has been able to reach a number of people in that Iron Curtain border country. She has kept her foreign friend informed on the work of the Bethel Club and on one occasion the club members sent a number of packages of clothing and other items to the Bavarian lady. In return, Mrs. Newby received from her friend the colorful wool jacket she is wearing in the picture above.

Complete arrangements for this year's fertilizer needs now. With the upset conditions brought about by the war situation farmers may run into difficulties with fertilizer supplies by planting time. January is also a good time to get a supply of nitrate for top-dressing small grain next month.

Fourteen-year-old David Sims, of Geiger in Sumter County, lives in town, but he's really a farmer at heart. He persuaded his dad to buy him a tractor this year, rented land from his uncle, and went to farming. He grew enough corn to feed his two hogs, one beef calf, flock of chickens, and his few pheasants. And in addition he made six bales of cotton on seven and one-half acres. David, left, is shown with his county club adviser, Assistant County Agent Dewitt O. Estes, on a truck load of cotton from his field. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Sims.

Although Mr. Sims is a mechanic, David has definitely made up his mind to be a farmer when he grows up.

City Boy Makes Good Farmer

DAVID SIMS didn't follow the old pattern of the country boy going to the city to make good. He went from the city to the farm to find success.

Fourteen-year-old David lives in the small town of Geiger where his dad is a mechanic. But David didn't want to live in town all of his life—he wanted to be a farmer. So last year he borrowed money from his dad to buy a tractor, rented land from his uncle, and started farming on his own.

He began in a small way, but by working hard all day—and even at night sometimes—he made his idea pay off.

In his first year as a farmer David grew six bales of cotton on seven and one-half acres. And he grew enough corn to feed his livestock—one beef calf, two hogs, a flock of chickens, and some pheasants.

The young farmer has already started repaying his dad for the tractor. And he expects to be completely out of debt soon. Then he says that he will start banking his farm profits for future expansion and a college education.

David is only in the ninth grade now, but he knows what he wants to do in the future. After four more years in high school and three years in college, he is going to start farming right, he says.

"David has done a good job of farming," says Assistant County Agent Dewitt O. Estes. "He has been an outstanding leader in his 4-H Club, and he will make an outstanding farmer and community leader."

Growing Industry

YEAR by year the poultry industry grows in Alabama. Our broiler production in 1939 totaled 1.3 million against 13.1 million in 1950. So, 1950 was 10 times that of 1939. We're increasing also in egg production for food and for hatching.

A friend, A. A. Middleton of Dothan, in the poultry industry, told me that if he were starting in poultry production he would start with eggs for hatching. He said that most of Alabama's hatching eggs come from other states.

There are many big factors in favor of poultry. In the first place, chicken, turkeys, and eggs are excellent food for people; in the second place, more of them are needed; and in the third place, we need to produce more farm products in order to expand our cash income.

Poultry will do all these things. I marvel at what chickens do. One hen, for example, produces eggs for 150 broilers in one year. If these broilers are grown up to three pounds each, one hen would start production of 450 pounds of excellent meat for food in one year.

Certainly, there are big and profitable opportunities for poultry in Alabama.

Hybrid seed corn is obtained by crossing two parent lines of corn. The full value of hybrid seed exists only in the first crop grown. If seed are saved from a field of hybrid corn and planted, the yield will be about 10 to 15 per cent less than a crop grown from the original hybrid seed.

Research Results

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

THREE NEW FUNGICIDES show promise as seed treatments for the control of seed and soil-borne diseases. Preliminary results indicate significant increases in stands of cotton, peanuts, soybeans, and sweet corn from seed treatments with Aagrano; Agrox increased the stands of peanuts, soybeans, and sweet corn; while only peanut and soybean stands were increased with Carbide 5400.

IMPORTED FIRE ANTS can be controlled in the early spring with chlordane. A broadcast application of four pounds of technical chlordane (40 pounds of 10 per cent dust) per acre disked lightly into the soil has given excellent control over large areas throughout the year. Two ounces of 10 per cent chlordane dust mixed with the soil in the mound has been effective in treating individual hills. A two and one-half per cent chlordane spray applied at the rate of one-half pint per hill has also been effective. Permanent elimination of ants from an area has not resulted from any treatment.

FARM MANAGEMENT STUDIES show that crop yields per acre may vary 50 per cent within a small area, due to differences in management practices followed by farm operators. Decisions as to crops grown and rotations followed, therefore, are highly important to sustained earning power.

TESTS CONDUCTED FOR ONE YEAR to determine the best size cage for Leghorns kept in single-deck laying cages show no differences in production, mortality, or rate of culling in hens using 8 by 18, 10 by 18, or 12 by 18-inch cages. It is doubtful if heavy breed hens could use the eight-inch cage because of the difficulty of turning around in such a narrow space.

LONGLEAF PINE SEEDLINGS should be spaced closer than other pines because of low survival. Based on results of experimental longleaf plantations and observations of plantations in the state, longleaf pines spaced five feet apart in the lighter soils and four by four feet in the heavier soils result in adequate stocking. For other pines, six by six-foot spacing has been adequate. Well-stocked forest land is essential to high yield returns.

LESPEDEZA SERICEA which has been fertilized with approximately 300 pounds of superphosphate and 100 pounds of muriate of potash annually for the past four years at seven locations in the state, has produced from two and one-half to over three and one-half tons of hay per acre. Where higher fertilizer rates were used, the yields were not increased enough to justify their use.

TESTS SHOW THAT GRAIN AND SEED STORED in structures not weather-tight will gain or lose moisture depending upon prevailing weather conditions. After seasons of prolonged high humidity, stored seed and grain should be sampled at several points in a bin for increases in moisture. Increases are likely to occur near openings, such as windows or doors. Another danger area, especially in large bins, is at the top-center where moisture often accumulates. Several spot samples are better than an average sample as they will locate small, high-moisture areas that are likely to cause trouble.

Christmas Chest To Be Reorganized To Care For Needy Throughout Year

Members present at the Chilton County Christmas Chest luncheon Tuesday at the Dixie Cafe voted to re-organize the chest to care for the needy of the county throughout the year. This, of course, does not mean that the organization will attempt to care for a destitute individual for an unlimited time, but to aid those in distress until proper assistance and care can be obtained for them.

Let us hasten to say that plans for the new organization have not been worked out as yet, and it will be several weeks before the organization can possibly begin to function.

The 1951 officers of the Chest, which were Jimmy Bell, Chairman; Louie Smith, Treasury and Mrs. R. M. Tucker, secretary, will continue in office until complete plans of reorganization can be worked out and another meeting called for final decision as to the procedure to follow to obtain for the county the best, and simplest charity organization possible.

Members present at the Tuesday luncheon were, Mrs. J. D. Bell, Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Mrs. B. N. Studdard, Rev. A. T. Hickman who acted as chairman in the absence of Chairman Bell, I. S. Levine, R. B. Taber, R. M. Tucker, Louise Foshee, Fay Wooley, Helen Parrish, Leo Thompson, Howard Boockholdt, W. A. Gulledge, B. N. Studdard, Joe Jackson, R. C. Williams, and Mrs. E. N. Esco.

Guests at the luncheon were three girls from the Junior Citizens club of Mrs. L. C. Warr's room at Clanton Elementary School. They were Marietta Propst, past president of the Junior Citizens Club; and Elaine and Zane Hogue, president and vice-president of the club.

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL PTA

This Wednesday marks the beginning of an optemetric visual survey of the children of the Clanton Elementary school. Realizing the need of visual tests more comprehensive than those which had been conducted in the schools, the PTA of the Clanton Elementary school has undertaken to inaugurate a special visual screening survey with the assistance of Dr. Wm. B. Eiland, a registered optometrist.

The primary purpose of the survey is to screen out and recommend for professional attention those pupils whose vision is not considered adequate for school work.

A study was made of many surveys conducted in other cities by the Health committee and Dr. Eiland. This study resulted in the formulation of an optometric screening routine designed to give maximum information as to whether the child's vision is adequate for school work.

A special report form will be sent to the parents.

ALABAMA WEEKLY PRESS MEETING AT MONTGOMERY, JANUARY 18TH

BIRMINGHAM—With Ben F. Ray Claude Vardaman and Tom Abernathy crossing political swords, the Alabama 1952 political situation will be spotlighted in Montgomery, January 18.

The prominent leaders of political thought in Alabama will match wits in suggesting a "Political Course for Alabama" at the banquet of the 81st annual Alabama Press Association convention, APA President Clarence B. Hanson, Jr., publisher of The Birmingham News, revealed this week.

The three-day debate, feature of the annual two-day meeting, pits Ray, State Democratic executive committee chairman, Vardaman, state Republican committee chairman, and Abernathy, fighting States Rigst Democratic editor of The Talladega Daily Home, in a battle of theories.

The audience, newspapermen from over Alabama, will participate, following the presentation of the three men's statements, through questions from the floor in what may be classed as a mass press conference, President Hanson explained. Douglas Hunt Birmingham News editorial writer, will be moderator for the debate.

The debate takes on added significance, he pointed out, coming just one week before the meeting of the state Democratic committee with its expected party firworks.

Lending international and professional flavor to the meeting will be two nationally prominent speakers scheduled for the convention's two luncheon meetings, Hanson said.

Seymour Topping, Associated Press foreign correspondent, will bring the Alabama editors a report on the Pacific area situation at the Jan. 19 luncheon.

Edgar S. Bayol, press counsel for The Coca-Cola Company, New York, and native of Greensboro, Ala., will present a discussion on the role of advertising in maintaining democracy in America.

Presenting the role of newspaper associations in the nation, their value to their newspaper members and a report on the outlook for newsprint in 1952 will be Walter C. Johnson, secretary-manager of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association and former Chattanooga publisher.

Alabama newspaper community service activities will be highlighted in a panel discussion featuring: J. J. Benford, publisher of The Albertville Herald; Vincent Townsend, executive news editor of The Birmingham News; Miss Roberta Morgan, Jefferson County Coordinating Council, and J W. Oakley, editor-publisher of The Centreville Press. Neil O. Davis, publisser of the Lee County Bulletin, Auburn, is panel leader.

To acquaint the editors and publishers of Alabama with the work and accomplishments of 4-H, Hanchey E. Logue, state club leader, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, will present an illustrated account of 4-H activities.

Regular association business meet- and the election of 1952 officers will round out the convention program. Immediately following the convention, the mechanical department employees of Alabama newspapers will meet to organize a state-wide mechanical conference.

NOTICE

Clanton Chapter O. E. S. will have work to do Thursday night, Jan. 10. Time 7:30 o'clock.

All members are urged to be present.

To All Chilton County Democrats

In the recent meeting of our Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee I was elected a member of the Publicity Committee.

This Publicity Committee is responsible for the promotion of unity within our Democratic party and to insure the proper organization of the Democratic party's publicity campaign for the coming general elections next November.

Let us all as good Democrats enter the Primary campaigns in a spirit of Good will. There are several nominations to be made in the Democratic Primaries, and many of these races will be hotly contested.

Whether candidate or voter, let us speak the truth and use temperate language. No matter how interested we may become in putting over our favorite candidate in the Democratic Primaries, let us not lose sight of the fact that our ultimate goal is to insure a Democratic victory in the General Election.

We all know that the best interests of the people of Chilton County will be served if Democratic officials are elected next November. We live in the Democratic State of Alabama and we do not want to elect the members of a party who cannot work well within the framework of our Democratic state government.

We do not want to elect any Republican officials next Fall whose influence would end at the county line.

If you have not yet done so, please pay your poll taxes before February 1st. Please be sure to do that.

Please keep these facts in mind during the next few months to the end that unity within our Democratic party may be preserved, and that all Democrats exert their utmost influence for the promotion of common sense and good government in Chilton County.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN M. HIGGINS

J. MARCUS JONES TO ANNOUNCE FOR MEMBER REVENUE BOARD

J. Marcus Jones, who was a candidate for the same office four years ago, will announce at the proper time for the office of Member of the Board of Revenue and Control. He is from the Third District.

This statement was given the News Monday of this week by Mr. Jones when questioned about his intentions. No other prospective candidates have made their plans known at this writing.

OFFICE CLOSED FOR CONVENTION

My office will be closed Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 21 and 22 when I will attend the State Optometric Convention at Birmingham.—W. B. Eiland.

DICK ARNOLD NEW PRESIDENT KIWANIS

The new president of the Clanton Kiwanis club presided at the meeting last Thursday night at the High school cafeteria. A good attendance was present to hear President Dick Arnold charge the new committee chairmen and members with their duties for the new year.

Much enthusiasm was shown and a profitable year is anticipated by this civic organization.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONERS CHILTON COUNTY. JAN. 1, 1952

Mrs. Lillie P. Teel, 14, 3rd Ave., S., Clanton, Alabama.

Mr. J. E. Rasberry entered the Veteran's hospital in Montgomery, Sunday. He will undergo an operation in the near future.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Our good friend Jim Rasberry who has bee nemployed at the L. & N for the past 30 odd years, was taken to the Veterans Hospital at Montgomery last week in serious condition. He has been in poor health since last summer and his condition grew steadily worse. An ambulance from the hospital came up after him. We wish for Jim a speedy recovery.

Don't know whether or not you watch the Sunday night program of Herb Shriner on TV but last Sunday night he said that when he was a boy there weren't many stores handy so they ordered nearly everything they bought from Sears-Roebuck. He said that he would look through the catalogue to see what he wanted to buy and then when he went to the house he would order it.

Jimmy Bell is sick at his home and couldn't attend the meeting of the Christmas Chest Committee Tuesday at the Dixie. He was sorely missed by those present and much praise was heaped upon him for his work in the Chest this year. All well deserved, let us say. He made an excellent Chairman as we have said before and we would like very much to see him continue in the office through 1952.

Marcus Jones comes in this week with the announcement that he will qualify at the proper time and be a candidate for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control. He will make the race for the place now held by Welch Roebuck. We have not learned whether or not Welch will be a candidate. He was appointed by Gov. James E. Folsom.

Speaking of Big Jim Folsom, he was a visitor to Clanton last week. He stopped a minute to say hello. He had his wife and five children with him and they were en route to Elba, for a visit. He's looking fine and feeling fine.

A pretty straight story comes that Jim Dunlap's place on the Board will be sought by Semi Earl Williams of Verbena. He hasn't made a statement to us personally but we received the statement second-hand. Whether or not Jim Dunlap will be a candidate for reelection he hasn't made known to us.

Rough And Tumble Race For Probate Judge Seen

Things are going to warm up pretty soon in the race for a Probate Judge for Chilton County. To date there are only two avowed candidates with three "would-be" candidates sitting on the fence, but our prediction is that at least five men will be in the race for the county's highest office.

The men who are sitting on the fence and likely to fall either way according to developments are: Probate Judge W. L. Parrish, G. C. Walker and John Higgins. However, let me say that Higgins seems each day to come nearer being a "sure-shot" candidate.

Mr. Nat Bentley of Thorsby has been mentioned over and over again as a candidate as has former Probate Judge J. Lee Smith. Whether or not these rumors are true we can not say as we were unable to contact either party

Fred Smith of Jemison, of course, is definitely a candidate.

A meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee was held last Saturday afternoon at the Courthouse and a goodly crowd was there according to observers. Much enthusiasm was shown it was stated.

Suffice it to say it will be a hot political scrap and so far as the Editor is concerned,' 'may the best man win."

CLANTON MAN INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

A Clanton man, Aubrey Burnett, 42, was reported in good condition in a local hospital today, and recovering satisfactorily from injuries received in an accident near Montgomery Saturday night.

Burnett was struck by a car as he walked along Highway 45 south of Milbrook, according to the State Highway Patrol. He suffered cuts and a compound fracture of the right leg.

Highway Patrolmen Mooney and Cowlin, who investigated the accident, said the car struck Burnett as he walked in the roadway. No charges were brought against the driver of the car, Jimmy C. Hughes, Sardis.

HOWARD COLLEGE EXTENSION BANQUET

A Howard College Extension Banquet will be held at the High School Cafeteria Tuesday Night, January 15, 1952 at 7:00 p.m. The principal speaker for the evening will be Major Davis, President of Howard College. The tickets are seventy-five cents each. Please get your tickets not later than Monday, January 14, 1952. All students are eligible to attend, also all prospective students, those that would like to enter the second semester opening Jan. 15, 1952. Each person enrolled may invite someone else provided the tickets are purchased by Monday, January 14.

The following courses will be offered:

Sunday School Preview—Mrs. J Gilbert Hutchinson.

Preparation of Sermons and Historical background of The New Testament—Dr. Parks Redwine, professor of religion at Howard College.

Missions in The Bible—Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson.

The enrollment for this semester was excepitonally good, being ninety-three in number. A fine Christian spirit has prevailed throughout this semester. We are hoping to exceed the 100 mark this spring semester. Those already enrolled will not have to purchase any new books for the spring semester.

May we urge all pastors to make this announcement in their pulpits Sunday and to encourage their people to support this school in their attendance and prayers. All pastors, Sunday School teachers, and other Christian workers are urged to attend.

Respectfully Submitted,
Rev. R. E. Wilkins, Director; Vera M. Griffin, Registrar.

CHARLIE COX LOST HIS WIFE'S SUITCASE

On their return trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., this week Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cox lost Mrs. Cox's suitcase from the luggage compartment of their car. The loss was not discovered until they reached Montgomery. A reward will be paid anyone returning the suitcase or notifying Mrs. Crit Jones or calling 338-J.

RECEIVES APPOINTMENT AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y.—Cadet Benjamin (Buddy) Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Roberts, has been appointed acting Battalion Adjutant in the U. S. Corps of Cadets at West Point during the Christmas holidays. Cadet Roberts received this appointment because of his high class standing in military efficiency and aptitude for the service.

Practical leadership is one of the many phases of cadet training. During the academic year, cadets of the First and Senior class are appointed to leadership positions within the Corps of Cadets. Under the supervision of regular Army officers the cadets lead and direct the Corps. When the First class is away from West Point, the underclasses assume command. In this way, each cadet obtains valuable experience before receiving his commission as a lietuenant in the regular Army or Air Force.

Cadet Roberts received his appointment to the Military Academy from the Honorable Edward deGraffenreid. Prior to his entrance, he graduated from Chilton County High School and attended Marion Military Institute.

Mr. Frank J. Payne is now with the Chilton County News. He will be in the office evenings for the convenience of the public.

LOCAL S. S. REPRESENTATIVE TO VISIT

Mr. Jack Adamson, field representative of the Social Security Administration, will be a the Employment Office in Clanton the first and third Thursdays in each month at 1:00 p.m. Tihs announcement was made today by Martin C. Folmar, manager of the Birmingham office of the Social Security Administration.

Mr. Folmar added that Mr. Adamson will be available to assist retired workers, their wives and survivors of deceased workers to file claim for Social Security benefits.

In the past, weekly service has been furnished at Clanton, but Mr. Folmar said that the Social Security Administration is attempting to economize without impairing service to residents of this section. Social Security claims may be filed any time within six months after retirement or death without loss of benefits; however, Mr. Folmar urged that those persons who are elegible should not delay filing their cliams.

NOTICE

The Collins Chapel PTA will meet Friday night at 7:00 p.m. Every one urged to be present.

FRIED CHICKEN FOR BREAKFAST

Fried chicken is cheaper than most any of the meats served for breakfast, and it is a delicious change from the everyday routine.

SOMETHING NEEDED

Something should be done about the mail service we receive. Where the fault lies we are not qualified to say but we do know that the service we are getting could be improved.

Too, we know that the clerks at the local postoffice work hard, and long, trying to give the patrons the best service possible. That leaves only one guess as to the trouble—the local postoffice is understaffed.

Now whoever is responsible to the people of Clanton should take steps to rectify this poor mail service. With the present cost of government we are entitled to better.

NOT PESSIMISTIC

Have people in Clanton a pessimistic attitude? Recently a lady came into the office and made that complaint against the people of Clanton and we took issue with her. We do not think the accusation should be taken lying down.

We do not believe that our neighbors are a pessimistic lot. Of course now, we have our bad days and we have our good days. But on the whole we're pretty optimistic.

If that were not true more than a million dollars worth of contracts would not have been let during the past year on new construction. New businesses and new industries are going up. A new hospital is being planned. Litteraly hundreds of new homes ranging from 5 to 10 thousands have been, and are being constructed.

No we're not pessimistic. That lady had just been talking to the wrong people.

WASTED RESOURCES 'OVER 65'

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin declares in the American Federationist magazine that compulsory retirement of workers at the age of 65 is a "bad policy," even "inexcusable" in a period of labor shortage.

Many employers will be glad to see this position taken by a member of the federal govevrnment even though Mr. Tobin seems to imply that the remedy rests with employers. A great deal does depend on employer attitudes and on wider recognition of the abilities of older workers; but probably the most specific steps that could be taken to encourage continued employment after 65 lie in the realm of revivsion of the Social Security Act.

That act does not require workers to retire at 65 but its old-age insurance benefits become available at that age and they do not increase if the worker chooses to work longer. In fact, if an individual earns more than $50 during any month while he is between 65 and 75 he loses his benefit for that month.

Thus there is a double discouragement under the act against a worker continuing to make himself useful. First, he earns no increase of his benefits by working after 65 (or after a year and a half of "coverage" at any age except as this may raise his life-time wage average.) Second, he loses the benefit he has earned if in that crucial decade he cntributes too much to his own support.

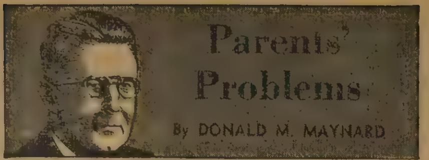
This is self-defeating toward any effort to use intelligently and efficiently the nation's resources in its mateurer workers, who are often its steadiest and most skilled workers. The remedies are twofold.

First, there should be some grading up of benefits in recognition of length of servivce, particularly after the optional retirement age. This is one way the British social insurance system encourages workers to stay on after 65.

Second, instead of canceling the insurance check of a recipient who has earned more than $50 outside, the government should encourage that semiretired worker by enabling him to keep a substantial part of his addded income.

For example, the Social Security Act might be amended to provivde that the benefit check would be reduced by one-third or one-half the amount of any personal earnings above the $50 limit. This would leave an incentive. In some cases it might permit an employer to retain a person on less arduous work at a lessened rate. It would encourage productivity instead of pushing people out of the labor market.

It is understood that there are very serious clerical difficulties to be solved in setting up a method to handle adjustments of this sort in individual benefit checks, but we do not believe that problem is insuperable. We believe the additional work in the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance would produce large returns in industrial production and individual satisfaction.—Christian Science Monitor.



Parents' Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

We have two children, six and nine years old. I have an opportunity to work at my former position. Since my husband's salary as a bookkeeper is modest, we need the extra income. Should I accept the position? If so, how can we best provide for the welfare of our children?

This is a decision that rests with you and your husband alone. It would seem to me, however, that in making your decision, you should face the following questions:

1. Is the extra income absolutely essential for the welfare of all the members of the family? There are not many families, I assume, that do not feel the need for additional funds, especially during this period of inflation. Nevertheless, by practicing economies, they can get along without too much difficulty.

Your children are at the age when they especially need their mother's companionship, guidance, and help. If you can get along without working, therefore, let me urge you to do so.

On the other hand, there are families, and yours may be one of them, that are having such a hard time getting along that the entire atmosphere of the home is affected. Mother and Dad are concerned about "finances" to such an extent that they think of little else. A general feeling of tenseness and insecurity pervades the home. Conversation is directed primarily at what the family does not have, rather than what it has.

Because of this feeling of insecurity, the parents are somewhat on edge emotionally, and frequently speak more sharply to each other and to the children than they would under ordinary circumstances. When this situation exists, the children are almost certain to develop within themselves the feeling of insecurity that characterizes their parents. They tend to become confused and fearful. Such an atmosphere is not wholesome and if the mother, by working, can change it, it may be desirable for her to do so.

2. If your former position does not permit you to get home until five or five-thirty, can you make provision for someone to be at home when the children arrive from school? Perhaps you have a relative you can call upon to do this. Or, you may be able to secure a trustworthy maid to look after the children until you return.

3. Will it be necessary for you to do the housework and cooking in addition to your work away from home? This takes you back to the possibility of securing a good maid. It is too much to expect of the mother that she do both jobs.

Ordinarily, what are some of the things that would cause overstimulation and overexcitement in a child three years of age?

It should be remembered, first of all, that children differ considerably in sensitivity to stimuli. Situations that for some children most decidedly would be too exciting may be perfectly all right for other children.

Everything else being equal, it is likely that a child is being overstimulated in his daily activities if he manifests one or more of the following symptoms: increased fearfulness that expresses itself by his clinging to parents or an insistence upon a light in his bedroom; difficulty in sleeping or sleeping fitfully; loss of appetite; mutual irritableness; more crying than usual.

Normally the following situations tend to overstimulate the three-year-old child:

1. Being in crowds, especially crowds of adults.
2. Too many trips or excursions. Museums, unusually large zoos, circuses, and carnivals are likely to be confusing and thus overstimulating.
3. Movies—practically all of them. Even cartoons can be too exciting.
4. Fairy stories that include accounts of cruel men and women. On the other hand, children of this age delight in personalized animal stories.
5. Exciting radio programs.
6. Too many toys. Children often get so many toys at Christmas, for example, that they are confused by them. Better a few toys at a time.
7. Toys that are too difficult for them, such as those that require the exercise of the small rather than the large muscles. Mechanical toys that require winding and that get broken easily are undesirable for children of this age.
8. Teasing by adults. Adults need to be warned especially against laughing at children because of remarks made in all seriousness.
9. Quarreling parents. If a three-year-old senses that his sense of security is lessened he is likely to become fearful and irritable.
10. Hearing about serious illness or death. A three-year-old can develop fears of sickness and death, even though their meaning may not be too clear to him.

Can "cops-and-robbers" games go too far? Dr. Maynard discusses this in his new booklet which is free to readers of this newspaper. Send a postcard to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, and ask for a copy.

THIS WEEK'S TALK

Chickens Come Home To Roost

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

It makes no difference how far a chicken strays from the farm yard; he will find his roosting plcae by evening time. He will roost right where he did the night before. It makes no difference what we do in secret, the sin will come to light before the night fall. If men could but realize the Bible is truth, and it says, "Be sure your sins will find you out." And there is nothing secret but what shall come to light. The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good . . .And God will bring every secret thing into judgment, whether it be good or evil. And again, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

If the high ranking official in our neighboring city could but know, or could have realized, this truth; he might would have ordered his action different . . . But what about thousands of others who are still straying from the old farm yard? Some day they will find their roosting place. Man ought to be careful how he treats the little fellow while he is on his way up; for he is bound to meet them on his way down.

But we have a story of a group of men who brought a sinful woman to Jesus; asking that she be stoned for her sins. The Master told them if they were without sin themselves, to cast the stones. "He that is without sin among you, let him cast the first stone." Jesus asked the question saying "Why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considereth not the beam that is in thine own eye? Or how will thou say to thy brother; Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and behold, a beam is, in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of his own eye and then, shalt thou see claerly to cast out the mote out of thy broher's eye?" Surely, we are our brother's keeper.

We have a responsibility toward our fellowman. This responsibility should be carried out regardless to any one's walk of life, or profession. Not only is the Gospel Minister's life a public utility, but the law official, or any man or woman who is in public life. We owe it to others to let our wholesome light so shine before men, that they may see our good works, that the Heavenly Father may be glorified. Be careful of what you say, and what you do; for there is an all-seeing eye watching, and an all-hearing ear listening.

Your Health

Whooping cough is a dangerous disease. It is contagious. It strikes persons of all ages. Children under five years of age are the most susceptible, but it is more serious in the first year of life and in the very old.

Whooping cough develops between seven and fifteen days after exposure. It usually begins like an ordinary cold and this similarity is responsible for the frequent failure to recognize the disease in its earlier stages. The patient may have a slight fever, running nose and a cold that develops into a tight dry cough.

The cough deepens until the whoop occurs. This is a sobbing intake of breath following an extended cough. The coughing spasms are severe. In them the face becomes deep red or purple, the veins of the face and scalp swell, and the eyes water. The body is racked by the prolonged violent, frequent spasms of coughing. The child may be weakened by the repeated coughing and vomiting and complications, such as pneumonia, may devevlop. It may be several months before strength is fully regained.

There are drugs that can reduce the severity of the coughing spells, which are likely to last a minute or more; but these drugs must be given only under the careful supervision of a doctor.

Sometimes the child with the disease never whoops, even though the whooping cough germs are present in his nose and throat. Thus the disease may go unrecognized and be spread to other children through nose and throat discharges spread by a cough or sneeze or on dishes used by the patient.

Whooping cough is one of the diseases that can be controlled by immunization, which is one of the important procedures of preventive medicine. The procedure keeps the child reasonably safe, uusually preventing the disease from being contracted, or minimizing the condition if it does develop.

60 HOUSE PLANS 60

THE BRIGHT LIGHTS

By Sallydale Wimbrow

"OH BOY!" said Mr. Timothy Hodges. "Oh Boy! I'm gonna get some chickens and maybe even a cow."

"A cow" said his wife "would scare me to death the first time it lowed in the middle of the night."

"And there's a perfect spot for a garden out back," he was deep in his own thoughts. "Do you suppose we could raise watermelons? I love watermelon."

"The idea" his wife informed him "was to get away from city living, not to delve suddenly into farming."

"Yeah" he grinned, abashed. "I can't believe it's finally happened. A place in the country. No more traffic streaming through my dream. No more bright lights haunting the bedroom every night. No more noise. Just peace and quiet."

"Don't you think we'd better build a house, before we move in?" his wife asked.

Driving back to town, they discussed the house, a good substantial main building that would grow, as they could afford additions.

"And great big windows. Lots of them. We won't have to worry about what the neighbors see," he laughed. "We won't have any. Let's not even buy any curtains."

"The next thing I know, you'll decide to just pitch a tent," Louise Hodges said. "Remember, we are still civilized people."

"Say—it means being civilized to me, for the first time, really civilized. To live a private life. Do you know, Lou, these past couple of months I've had to control a strong urge to take a sling shot to every light in the city? That darned sign flashing on top of the restaurant—right in our window! I used to wake up thinking I was back in the war zone, with incendiary bombs bursting all around me."

"Yes, Darling," she replied softly. "I know, and it is wonderful. We've worked long and hard for this. I'm glad you're so enthused. I don't feel so silly about being all excited myself."

He put one arm around her shoulder and hugged her as he drove along.

"Well," he said, "it won't be long now."

Every evening they went to watch the house grow. Lou mentally planted flower beds around it, and Tim grew the best watermelons in the country. Now and then they lingered until it grew completely dark, to watch the stars appear and wink at them.

"See how bright they are with no competition?" Tim asked.

"As though they share a secret joke with us," Lou replied. "They're saying, "See, we were right here all the time."

When the house was completed, they could hardly contain themselves. The 10 acres shrunk a little, with the building taking its space, but there was still more land around the house than they had ever hoped to own. The highway stretched conveniently near the front of the property, and traffic was light. Behind the house was an inviting pond, strewn with water lillies.

"We'll have a picnic table there," Lou pointed out "and invite our harassed city friends out on Sunday. They'll never believe the solitude."

"They'll no doubt decide to move in," Tim said.

Excitement ran rampant the day before they were to move in. They measured rooms and planned arrangement of furniture. Finally, Tim left Lou to her imaginary decorating and went to survey once again the spacious front lawn.

He walked across the yard toward the highway. As he reached the highway, he saw the figure of a man on the land directly opposite his. The man was driving stakes into the ground.

"Helloooo there" Tim called, in a neighborly fashion.

The man stopped his work and waved back. Then he walked across the highway to where Tim stood.

"That your place?" the man questioned, pointing to Tim's house.

"Yeah" Tim replied. "We start moving in tomorrow. It's really a dream come true. Wonderful out here, isn't it?"

"I'll say," said the man, "I've worked all my life for this."

"Know exactly what you mean," Tim grinned. "Can't remember when I didn't dream of a home in the country."

"Same with me. Only mine was a tourist court. I've always wanted a fine tourist court. Whole family can work at it, yet be at home, too And I've got it. Guess I shouldn't brag, but it's going to be a dilly. You should see the plans. Only court in this section, too. Should do good business. They won't MISS us, at any rate. Wait 'til you see our neons. We'll be lit up like a Xmas tree. Be a big expense, but worth it. Nobody ever stops if you hide yourself in the dark. You know," he raised his voice in delight, "we figured it out—and we'll be seen for a whole mile. No sir, they won't miss us. Just think of it, Buddy! You'll be able to see the lights for a whole mile, in ALL directions!"

MOVE TO CHECK RISING PRICES

In a move to check sharply rising prices that consumers are paying for white potatoes, the Office of Price Stabilization has placed dollar-and-cents ceiling on this important food item.

"The action will result in some price decreases at the retail level," Charles G. Dobbins, OPS district director for South Alabama, said today. Dobbins announced that this is the first in a series of regulations to be issued covering fresh fruits and vegetables that have recently jumped in price.

Potato prices have more than doubled during the past year, the OPS director said.

The latest available figures show that potatoes are above parity prices. OPS is prohibited by law from putting ceiling prices on potatoes at less than 100 per cent of parity.

The regulation will become effective January 19 in order to permit disposition of current stocks now in the hands of distributors.

"White potatoes amount to about a third of the nation's total consumption of all fresh vegetables," the OPS director said.

"The brake this regulation will apply to the fast rise in potato prices will save South Alabama consumers many thousands of dollars."

FARM INCOME TAX POINTERS LISTED

Auburn, Ala.—The time to file income tax returns has arrived, and some important requirements in the income tax law that will affect farmers are included in pointers given today by Foy Helms, API Exetnsion Service

"Any farmer whose gross income was $600 or more in 1951 lis required to file a federal income tax return, even though he may owe no taxes," explains Helms.

The farmer has two choices as to the filing of returns. He can either file a return and pay the tax on or before January 31, 1952, or he can file a declaration of estimated tax due and pay this amount by Jan. 15, 1952, then file a complete return and pay any balance due on or before March 15, 1952. If a farmer's business year does not start January 1, he may file a return and pay the tax on or before the last day of the first month of the succeeding taxable year; or he may file an estimate within 15 days and a return within two and one-half months after the end of his business year.

Farmers will need the following forms for use in filing returns:

Form 1040 F. To summarize the farm income and expenses and to compute the farm profits.

Schedule D (File with Form 1040). To show gains and losses from sales of property used in the busines .

Form 1040 and instruction pamphlet. To list the farm profit from Form 1040 F; to list other items of income and personal deductions; and t[illegible]ure the tax due.

Form 1040 ES. To declare a[illegible]mate of the tax. This form [illegible] needed if a farmer files his return [illegible] pays the tax on or before the las[illegible] of the first month of the succe[illegible] taxable year.

Forms 1099 and 1096. To be [illegible]ed in reporting the payment of $60[illegible] more in wages to individual worke[illegible]

West End Baptist News

The WMS ladies of the West End Baptist church met Monday afternoon, Jan. 7, at the church for their monthly business meeting and Royal Service program combined.

The first part of the program was devoted to the business, after which the Grace Ezell circle took charge and presented a program entitled "Good News for All Who Seek." Mrs. E. H. Davis began the program by giving the devotional.

We were led in prayer by Mrs. R. E. Wilkins, in which she especially prayed that those who are lost will seek where they will surely find.

The ladies taking part on the program were Mrs. W. E. Owen, Mrs. Jesse Jones, Mrs. R. E. Wilkins, Mrs. Kelly Gillespie. These ladies gave some interesting and very inspiring talks on the subject for the afternoon.

When the program was finished the meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Wilkins.

CLANTON STUDY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. M. C. HAYES

On Friday afternoon January 4th the Clanton Study Club met at the home of Mrs. M. C. Hayes in its regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Grady Heflin presided during the regular business session at which time a club forum was held. The secretary, Mrs. Erle Ellis read the club constitution and by-laws. After reports from the standing committees the President declared the business session adjourned.

Mrs. Norman Roberts presented those in charge of the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Frank Scott then introduced Mr. Marvin Prude the guest speaker.

Mr. Prude had been given the subject "Communism in America" and he brought to the club some very timely thoughts on Communism as it pertains to us today. The facts presented by Mr. Prude, show us how Communism is a threat to us as individual and as a nation.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Hayes served a delicious salad plate to the members and guests.

Christmas in Korea for one infantryman may be celebrated a little late but the chances are it will be a good one for Sgt. Loon Williams, who's home town is Clanton, Alabama.

Early Christmas morning Santa left a seven pound, fourteen ounce baby girl with Rose Ann, the sergeant's wife, at Craig's base hospital, the only baby born at Craig on Christmas day.

Craig's Public Information Office is rushing a picture of his first born, already christened Patricia Ann, to Sgt. Williams who has been in Korea four months, along with information that both mother and baby are doing fine and soon will be going home from the hospital.

ONE LINK IS BROKEN

With the death of Col. P. R. (Riggs) Crump in Lincoln, Alabama has lost its last direct personal link with the battlefields of the Civil War. There are still a few Alabamians whose memories go back to those critical years of 1861-65, but not as combatants. The thin gray line in Alabama has played out.

Almost 91 years have passed since the war between Americans began; almost 87 years since it ended. For all but a few persons the conflict is history. But the effects of the war are not yet ended and they will linger for a long time.

The economic setback the South received in its deefat has been a drag upon its efforts only now being overcome. The emotions stirred up in the heat of that internecine war still make themselves felt in the nation's politics. The schisms of that period, in religion, in attitudes, are not yet wholly closed. The whole nation is still paying the price of war.

Young Riggs Crump could not see all that when he marched away to be with Lee in 1863. Nor could anyone else, save perhaps a few whose voices were not heard abovev the tumult. He could not see war's fearful cost. He could not see that most of the matters about which the nation divided then could either have been adjusted in peace, or were not worth a price that would have to be paid for many generations to come.

But he did what, at the time, he thought right. There were many who thought as he did. We owe a salute to them for their bravery, for their sacrifices, for their devotion. We are the worse in Alabama now that the last of them has died.—Birmingham News.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfroe Veasey visited Mrs. Veasey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coydon in Austella, Ga., during the holidays.

Mrs. Sadie Shaw of Jemison spent several days during the holidays as guest of Mrs. Maggie Summers.

Mrs. Hattie Lenoir visited her brother, Mr. Minor Littlejohn, who was seriously ill at his home last week.

Mr. A. A. Ratliff of Charleston, W. Va., spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ratliff.

Gleora Bavors of Tallahassee, Fla., spent several days during the holidays with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ratliff.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

By MARSHAL L. WARE

CROUP

This disease usually affects children and occurs in spasmodic attacks at night. The child awakens suddenly with a sense of suffocation and a croupy cough Breathing is intensely difficult, and the child's face becomes bluish in color. The condition is caused by contraction of the muscles of the larynx. The attacks usually last about an hour but several attacks may occur in succession, and usually recur for three or more nights. Sometimes convulsions accompany the attacks.

The treatment of croup in children by Chiropractic adjustments has always been most gratifying. There are few complaints that yield so readily to adjustments as does croup. A single adjustment is usually all that is necessary to bring the attack to an abrupt end, and the attacks seldom recur. This is the experience of Chiropractors all over the country.

Attacks of croup are caused by contractions of muscles which close the larynx and prevent the passage of air. These contractions are caused by improper nerve supply to the muscles involved and this in turn is caused by pressure on the nerves at the point where they leave the spinal column.

As soon as the adjustment is given and the pressure on the nerve is released, the nerve force passes to the muscles of the larynx, the contraction ceases and breathing again becomes normal. There is no other form of treatment which gives such immediate relief in croup as Chiropractic. We have not done our duty to our children until they have had the best and quickest relief when they fall ill.

Dr. Ware will be glad to answer your health question.

It is not true to say "Everything was done, unless Chiropractic was included."

SHOULTS NEWS

Everything and everyone in this community is functioning normally again after a very happy Christmas and New Year celebrations. There were church Christmas pageants, singing carols at the Pleasant Grove church, with exchange of gifts with Santa Claus presenting the gifts. Then there were the visits to the shut-ins and less fortunate, giving them gifts to cheer them through the holiday season. However, this great and Godly deed will last on and on in the hearts of both doner and received, for it will last through eternity, so why do we not pass this cheer and happiness on through the entire coming New Year

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Latham had all their children home with them during the holidays, except Mrs. Mossie Hess. Those visiting them were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lane, of N. C., with their three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Latham and daughter of Orrville, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Kay Latham and daughter of Uniontown, Ala., Miss Ruby Lee Latham who has been here some time with her parents, Mrs. Hazel Hamric and three children of Clanton also visited the Lathams.

M-Sgt. and Mrs. Lumon Hicks and one son and one daughter of Scott Air Force Base, Ill., spent the Christmas holidays here with their mother Mrs. Willie Hicks Hathcock, and with their sister, Mrs. Blanche Hicks Mitchell of Maplesville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shoults visited their son and family in Bessemer last week, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shoults

Two more tractor farmers were added to this community last week, they were Mr. Walter Lawley and Mr. W. Latham. Those who have had tractors some time are Mr. M. C. Moore, Mr. George Shoults, Mr. Robert McAfee, Mr. Cleve Latham, Mr. Grady Harrison, Mr. Messer Smith and Mr Clemon Smith.

Our community is progressing with leaps and bounds, most everyone has all the electrical appliances needed to make rural life more progressive and comfortable. Some in our community have installed television into their homes, Mr. George Shoults expects to have television within a few days. Mrs. Willie Hathcock had a TV set installed in her home recently. It isn't bad to live in rural areas now as some seem to think.

Mr. Robert Latham's children were home for the holidays with the exception of one son in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McGee of Centreville, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGee and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Abercrombie, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Seymore of Selma, visited here with Mrs. Willie Hathcock during the holidays to see their nephew and cousin, M-Sgt. Lumon Hicks, of Illinois.

Mr. R. V. Seymore will leave for over seas this week. Mrs. Seymore will be remembered as Miss Ruth Abercrombie.

We were saddened last week by the news of the death of Mr. Manly Latham of Tuscaloosa, Ala., a former resident of Lawley, Ala., a community joining Shoults. Mr. Latham was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Latham of Lawley.

Also another death which saddened the people of this community was that of Mrs. Eugene Thompson, formerly Miss Pearl Jefferson of Lawley, who was at the time of her death residing in Quincy, Fla. Both Mrs. Thompson and Mr. Latham had many friends in this community who wish to extend deepest sympathy to the families. Mr. Eugene Thompson operated a saw mill in this community for many years and we do deeply regret to learn of his great loss.

Mr. Roland Shoults of Selma spent last week end here with his mother, Mrs. John Foshee (Ollie Shoults).

The Shoults Home Demonstration Club held their Dec. meeting in the home of Mrs. Willie Hathcock. Mrs. Bessie Garner, president, gave an inspiring devotional. Miss Wright of Clanton, gave a demonstration on making corsages from worn nylon hose which was very interesting, aftef which games and contests were enjoyed. Mrs. Thelma Hathcock won the prize in the contest, which was a hand made rug made and given by the hostess. Gifts were exchanged by the 13 members present. Next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Gladys Latham this month.

Rev. Joe Davis, pastor of Pleasant Grove church, will fill his regular appointment at the church next Sunday. He is doing a wonderful work here and every one remember to go to church next Sunday.

IN MEMORY OF PA SEWELL

Dear Pa since your travels here have ceased
And your earthly face we view no more,
One consolation we feel about your departure is
You are resting on Heaven's peaceful shore.
Although your chair is vacant, and no one can take your place
We know you set a good example
And run a worthwhile race.
We can almost hear Jesus tell you,
"Well done my Child, Well done,
The task on earth you have completed,
Welcome home my Son."
Pa Sewell you will never be forgotten
Your name will linger on,
And someday soon we'll join you
In Heaven's happy home.
Your Christian deeds will be remembered
By all who knew you here,
The love of God was in your heart
The hope you carried in many homes
The hearts you filled with cheer.
Yes our hearts are saddened
By your sudden going away
We can bear it because it was God's will
To take you on that day
We will carry on and do our best
And someday our task here will be through
We are coming home to meet our Jesus
And be once more with you.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation and humble thanks on the part of my family and myself during the recent death of my husband, Mr. H. S. Sewell.

The appreciation due our many friends and neighbors cannot be expressed in words but we would like to thank the neighboring churches for their aid, the Mulberry Quartet and pianist, Rev. M. W. Mims, Rev. M Lockhart and Rev. Paul Oden for the very fine consoling messages they delivered. Our many compliments and thanks to the Masons for the fine graveside service they performed. Last but not least our many thanks to Mr White of the Spigener Funeral Home for what we term as perfect advice on funeral matters and the neat precision manner in which the service was handled on his part.

We appreciated the beautiful flowers and the very nice ways in which they were arranged. As space does not permit us to thank each one individually we assure you our hearts do feel thankful in this sad hour of our dear deaprted love-one. May God bless each of you is our prayer.

Mrs. H. S. Sewell and family.

POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

Our Sunday School got off with a good start for the first Sunday in this New Year. Still miss several who are sick. Lets put forth every effort to attend church every service during 1952.

We hope to see more out at Training Union next Sunday night. We want to make it the best year of Training Union work ever.

Little Elaine Wilson is up, after having her tonsils removed last Tuesday.

Remember and pray for all our sick especially Ray McDowell, and our pastor's mother. Also all the boys in service from our church and else where.

Next Wednesday night our W. M. U. meets at th echurch and prayer services the other Wednesday nights in the months.

Come to our services every time its possible. Sunday is preaching day.

CARD OF THANKS

We the family of Pearl Keel Bishop wish to express our deepest appreciation to each and ever yindividual who rendered their services in any way during the death of our loved one. Through kindness of friends expressed in their deeds and prayers we were more able to carry on. May God's richest blessings be on each one of you is our prayer. W. W. Bishop, Doris Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Spivey and Linda.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of Maplesville for kindness shown during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Sallie Williams; Brother Carroll and Brother Jones for their comforting words; and Spigener Funeral Home for the courtesy and kindness shown. The Children.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Place a drainboard mat, the ridged rubber kind, in the bottom of each storage drawer of your range. Keeps utensils from shifting position and rattling when drawers are opened and closed. You can take mats out and wash them, too.

ALL METAL BLINDS

Here are the blinds you need. They have a completely new all metal head box and bottom rail. Don't worry about the installation; it's just as simple and easy as putting up regular window shades. Nothing could be easier to clean than these long lasting blinds. They're egg shell color with duck cable ladder tapes and come in sizes 26 to 36 inches wide and 64 inches long.

STANTON NEWS

MISS RUTH HICKS

In last weeks issue of the paper it was erroneously stated that Mrs. Mildred S. Burnett was Chairman of the March of Dimes for this section.

Mrs. Mildred Dennis was contacted by your County Chairman last week and accepted chairman of this drive in this community. Please send your contribution to this worthy cause to Mrs. Mildred D. Burnett as soon as possible. Work began on this drive Monday morning and it is hoped that our community will respond. Every family, if at all possible, should gladly contribute and help in any way possible in this drive. Your support is needed and needed badly. If your chairman or some of her workers fail to contact you, you contact her. Don't delay—Contribute to the March of Dimes. Let's make our community 100 per cent.

Mrs. Minnie Gay is president of the Plantersville Home Demonstration Club this year. It is hoped that she will have a most successful year. Mrs. Gay is a hard worker and will lead this group this year in a very efficient manner.

Rev. J. R. Robinson, Jr., pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church asked his congregation some weeks ago to set aside the first week in January, and for that week tithe and bring their tithe to the church on Sunday January 6th. That day Rev. Robinson named "Honest Day" at his church. This name came from the request by the pastor that everyone be honest with themselves and tithe for that week bringing their offering on that day to the church. 52 came Sunday and the offering was $100.00. 'Twas said by one of the members that everyone seemed so happy during Sunday's service and that the Feillowship at that service was sweet. Attend the church of your choice—bringing your tithe and give of your time and talent during 1952.

Churchgoers at the Baptist church welcomed back Mrs. Sallie Joe Bearden Sunday. She had been away for quite some time due to illness. The Jessie Smith family were able to attend church also Sunday as their daughter, Joan, has recovered from pneumonia. Joan was confined to the Baptist hospital during the holidays and it is nice to know that she is able to be out at this time.

Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Robinson, Jr., and family, Mrs. Sallie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregg Davis and son were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davis Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith and Mrs. Walter Lawley of the Pleasant Grove community visited the Rev. Joe Davis' Monday afternoon.

Mr. Tip Burnett of Howard College, Birmingham, Ala., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnett and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Atchison have returned to their home in San Bernandino, Calif., after spending several weeks with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Ben Atchinson and other relativevs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Huff Jr., of Oak Ridge, Tenn., spent the week end with their parents Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnett and Mrs. John Huff, Sr. Their daughters, Joan and Janice who have been enjoying a stay with her grandparents returned home with their parents Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pickering and Mrs. Earl Pickering visited Mr. Earl Pickering in the Veterans hospital in Montgomery, Ala., Sunday "Earl" wasn't feeling as wel las usual.

Mrs. Hinton Duncan and son Joe spent last Saturday in Selma. They went to be with Samuel Hoyt Rogers, 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Rogers of Marion Junction who is confined to the Vaughn Memorial Hospital with a throat infection. We wish for this youngster a speedy recovery.

We regret to report that Mr. Jim Hogg of Plantersville, Ala., was readmitted to the Selma Baptist hospital last week.

Mr. Milam Warren returned to his home from a Selma hospital last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gay and Mrs. Jim W. Gay had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kay Jr., and daughter of Clanton, Ala.

The Plantersville Eastern Stars had a get-to-gether at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prude Perry last Tuesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Perry served punch, fruit cake and home made candies to the group. Enjoying the evening together were: Mrs. Earl N'Neal, Welch Roebuck, Mrs. Barney Levivns, Mrs. Rube Guthrie, Mrs. Ruby Hawville, Mrs. Olivia Apperson, Mrs. Beulah Warren, Mrs. Bessie Barnes, Mrs. G. P. Ford, Mrs. Gladys Gay, Mrs. Eva Moore, Miss Ruth Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Purde Perry.

Mrs. Phil Hicks and daughter Ruby Juanita will leave Washington, D. C. on January 21st, for New York. They will sail from there on January 23rd, for Japan. Lt. Hand is the grandson of Mrs. Mary Hicks and has often visited this section having attended school in Stanton and Plantersville. Lt. Hand spent last winter in Korea.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lane and son Henry spent last Sunday with their father, Mr. Frank Reynolds, and brother Millard Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Nichols are at home in the house owned by the John Huff's Jr. This dwelling is next door to the J. L. Burnett residence. Mr. Nichols is a contractor by trade and commute sdaily to Selma where he is employed at Craig Field.

It is nice to know that Mrs. Mary Smitherman has returned to her home near Maplesville, Ala., after being confined to a Selma hospital for several weeks.

Mrs. Olivia Apperson and Miss Ruth Hicks vivsited Mrs. Bessie Motley one afternoon last week. They reported such a nice visit. Mrs. Motley has several rabbits; white ones, brown ones, gray ones and black ones; also a number of little rabbits. These are a joy to see. They like their keeper, but are not very fond of strangers.

Lou Tissia Jones Stoudenmire Heard colored, of Route 1, Stanton, Ala. died at the residence of her son, Jim Stoudenmire on the W. Frank Reynolds farm, Sunday Dec. 30. 1951.

"Aunt Tissia" had the respect of both white and colored races. She lived a good life, respectful, humble and obedient. She was a slave in Mississippi before coming to Alabama. Many white people liked to visit Aunt Tissia and talk with her regarding her slavery experience. Teachers sought her knowledge and she did remember well up until a very short time ago.

Aunt Tissia liked to tell of the folks under whom she was a slave. She often repeated these words when talking of her being a slave. "The man who owned me was a good man, good folks. He bought us as good clothes as he did his own children, always telling us he wanted his friends to know we wore as good clothes, had good homes and good food to eat.

Aunt Tissia was 100 years old Feb. 17, 1951. She was confined to her room for several months, however, not bed ridden, before death.

She was buried Sunday, Jan. 6, 1952, at Cross Roads church, Dallas county, Ala.

Dora Bradford, age 70, colored of Rt. 1, Stanton, Ala., died Sunday Dec. 30, 1951, at her residence. She was buried Saturday, Jan. 5, 1952 at Plantersville Grove Church.

Surviving her is one son, Jeffery Johnson of Birmingham, Ala.; one sister, Sarah Bradford, who lived with her.

FURNITURE NEEDS REGULAR CLEANING

Auburn, Ala.—"Proper care of upholstered furniture begins with its selection," says Alice Peavy, API Extension Service home management specialist.

Fabrics should be suitable to family use, and when small children are in the family group, the homemaker might well select some of the new plastic upholstery which can be wiped clean. Slip covers, preferably washable, help protect upholstered furniture and insure longer wear.

Clean upholstery carefully each week with the proper vacuum attachment. Go over crevices and tuftings and both sides of loose cushions.

Always remove spots as soon as they appear, provided the entire covering is not soiled enough to make the cleaned spots conspicuous. Regular dress cleaning fluid may be used satisfactorily.

At least once a year, before the upholstery becomes too soiled, shampoo your upholstered furniture, using any of the foam shampoos available.

BROILER HATCHING EGG TIMETABLE SUGGESTED

Those who are producing hatching eggs for broiler chicks would do well to start a flock of pullets in January, according to John Weeks, API Extension Service poultry specialist.

He points out that the birds will be in production by July and early August. They will continue in production throughout the fall months when hatching eggs are in very short supply.

Weeks adds that many growers who start birds at this time will start another flock in March so that a constant supply of eggs will be produced hroughout the year.

Pullets for the commercial flock should also be started in January or February so that they will be in production during the last six months of the year when egg prices are highest.

SWEET POTATO TEMPERATURE

The temperature of sweet potato curing houses should be kept between 50 and 60 degrees.

ESTELLE HAYES

Thorsby Institute News

Thorsby began its works again on Wednesday January 2nd. It is looking forward to the annual debate by the clubs on Friday afternoon, January 11, also the semester music recital on Saturday night January 19, at 7:30 p.m. Semester examinations will be on January 24th and 25th. The second semester is scheduled to begin Monday, January 28.

A. Christmas greeting was received from Mary Christ Butler of Huntsville, Alabama on which was pictured two children, Mary Evelyn Butler and George Stuart Butler Jr. The daughter was born August 12, 1951 and the son, May 28, 1949. Mary was graduated from T. I. in 1938. After that she attended the University of Alabama from which she was graduated.

Lutheran Church News

The official beginning of Rev. Morgan's ministry as pastor of the Concordia Lutheran church in Thorsby took place on last Sunday morning and a large crowd of members and friends were in attendance. Rev. Morgan used for the topic of his first sermon "Looking Ahead." A group of girls from Jemison, Ala., known as the Harmonettes, under the direction of Mrs. C. L. Walton, sang a special anthem before the sermon, and Miss Sut Bratton sang a solo for the offertory. The entire service was enjoyed by all who attended.

Regular services will be held again on next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Morgan is a very fine speaker and you will enjoy hearing him. You are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Borgstrom of St. Paul, Minn., were guests of Miss Naemi Turnquist and Mrs. Reagan this past week end. Mrs. Borgstrom is the former Hulda Carlson who lived in Thorsby with her family, the Adolph Carlsons, some 46 years ago. They were big workers in the Lutheran church here and Mrs. Borgstrom was quite thrilled to find that there was to be activity in her old church again and was so pleased to be able to attend services there during her visit here. They left Monday morning for a tour of Florida.

Also visiting here for the week-end, to join with this old time friend and to attend the services at the Lutheran church were, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss of Birmingham.

It is with regret that we learn of the removal of Dr. and Mrs. Thos. Hayes and their two fine boys. They are moving to Clanton, where Dr. Hayes has his animal clinic. We hope that this is only temporary and that one day they will be coming back to Thorsby to live. The home of Dr. Hayes will be occupied by the Rev. William Morgan and his bride wife. Though we are losing one fine couple, we are also gaining another. We trust that each will be happy in their new homes.

CARING FOR PORK AT HOME

Now that 'hog kilin' time is here, here are some suggestions.

If you are interested in freezing and storing a good quality of sausage, mix two thirds lean meat with one-third fat and season to taste. The next step is to package in air-tight containers or wrap in a good quality of paper. Too much fat in sausage will cause rancidity.

The easiest method of freezing bulk sausage is to shape it into a three-inch roll, wrap with cellophane paper, and fold the ends of the cellophane paper to make an air-tight package. A second wrapping is necessary to prevent the cellophane from tearing.

Mixing home-rendered lard with vegetable shortening will make the lard remain fresh and sweet for a long time. Add two pounds of vegetable shortening to each 50 pounds of lard. Add the shortening to the renrered lard in the kettle, just before settling and separating the cracklings.

To prevent cured meat from becoming infested with skippers, wrap it in heavvy paper, then cover with muslin, and sew up to fit the piece of meat. Make a thick whitewash mixture of lime and water and enough red clay to give a brownish color. Dip the wrapped piece in the whitewash and hang it up to dry. After drying, the meat is practically insect-proof.

FREEZE PECANS WHILE CHEAP AND PLENTIFUL

Pecans will keep as fresh as the day they are frozen for a year or more, according to Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist.

Select dry pecans, shell, and place meats in air tight cartons or cellophane bags. Seal and freeze at 0 degrees F.

HENS ARE "ON THE WAGON"

Hens will not produce eggs unless they have an abundant supply of water. Therefore, don't lose valuable eggs as a result of not supplying adequate amounts of cheap water.

GM&O
Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Announces
CHANGE IN SERVICE
Here's why a change is necessary and what change we're making

● This Railroad has always endeavored to discuss matters of mutual interest with the communities it is privileged to serve . . .

In 1945 we inaugurated first class train service with Pullman and Buffet facilities for the territory between Montgomery, Alabama and Artesia, Mississippi.

THREE PASSENGERS A TRIP IN PULLMAN
Today an average of about three passengers a trip use the sleeping car, and meal purchases average less than $5.00. Total losses for these trains this year will go considerably higher than $100,000.

We have no quarrel with the traveling public, but we are concerned, as we feel all interested parties will be, with the futility of running a wasteful operation.

CHAIR CAR, MAIL AND EXPRESS SERVICE
By substituting chair car service, without the Pullman and Buffet, losses can be reduced more than half. There will be a slight change in schedules, but the present connection at Artesia will remain unchanged . . . and mail and express service will be substantially the same. This change is effective January 13, 1952.

We hope that under the circumstances the change will be understandable and acceptable to all concerned.

BUDGET SAVING FOODS LISTED FOR JANUARY

Auburn, Ala.—The January horn of plenty will pour forth an abundant variety of menu-building foods that can make every meal a budget-saver.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of foods expected to be in plentiful supply in January is topped by pork and pork products, turkeys, and broilers, southern-grown pecans, winter green, cabbage, and sweet potatoes.

Other January plentifuls include oranges, grapefruit, citrus juices, apples, prunes, raisins, peanut buttter, honey, both fresh and frozen fish, cheese, and other manufacturer dairy products.

A. W. Jones, API Extension Service marketing specialist, adds that more beef will probably be available because of increased seasonal cattle sales.

REESE SPEAKS AGAINST MONEY REFUND FROM SERVICE MEN FAMILIES

Montgomery, Ala. — Commander Warren S. Reese, Jr., of the Department of Alabama, VFW, spoke out today against the government requiring refund of money paid to families of servicemen officially declared dead but now reported alive in Red Chinese prison camps.

Commander Reese argued that all sums thus far paid to veterans' beneficiaries, as death compensation or insurance money, should be regarded as "partial mitigation of their suffering." He added that the claims were filed and money paid out in good faith on both sides.

"When a relative files a cdaim for death compensation on account of a serviceman's presumed death," Commander Reese continued, "the claim is based on an official message from the Department of Defense that the serviceman has been killed or is missing in action. The Defense Department exercises great care to learn the facts before sending such death messages to relatives. However, war conditions are such that occasionally a serviceman will be reported wounded when he really is dead, or reported dead when he has been captured by the enmy."

"No blame can attach to the government for such erroneous reports," Commander Reese asserted, "but neither can blame be attached to the relative who is told officially his kin is dead and requests the insurance prescribed by law."

Commander Reese pointed out that it would be "impractical, difficult, and a hardship, and in many cases impossible" for the government to get refunds on such payments.

DAIRY COWS BRED ARTIFICIALLY

Artificial breeding of dairy cows has been carried out successfully on many Alabama farms durings the past few years. In fact, more dairy cows were bred artificially in 1951 than in any other year since the work was started.

BE CAREFUL OF COMMON COLD

With influenza, as with the common cold, it's the early case that is most dangerous from the point of view of the other person.

Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer, pointed out today that office workers and others doing indoor work needed to be especially on the watchout for fellow-workers who are just beginning to sniffle, sneeze and cough.

"Whether a person is taking influenza or just a bad cold," he said, "he is a particularly great danger to others. There is added danger in the virus contained at such a time in the tiny droplets discharged from the mouth, throat and nose. It is when the disease is just beginning that the average person does little to protect himself from others' germs. And it is usually then that the influenza or cold victim does practically nothing to protect others against his germs. So watch out for early stage colds and influenza.

ALABAMA MANUFACTURING VALUES INCREASE

Washington—Value added by manufacturing in Alabama in 1950 was $1,034,231,000, an increase of $197,315,000 over the 1949 figure, according to preliminary estimates from the 1950 annual survey of manufacturers by the Census Bureau.

Value added as reported in the complete Census for 1947 was $876,933,000 and for the pre-war year of 1939 was $245,577,000.

Average number of production workers in Alabama manufacturing establishments in 1950 was 183,011, an increase of 13,568 over 1949, but 2,634 fewer than were reported in the 1947 Census. In 1939 there were 115,698 production workers.

In terms of value added by manufacture in 1950, Alabama ranked second among the East South Central States and 21st in the Nation.

Primary metal industries group was first in the State in value added, with $269,945,000, and textile mill products second with $224, 951,000.

CALF PEN SYSTSM

The individual calf pen system is designed to control parasites and disease of dairy herd replacements. It was in operation on 322 dairy farms in Alabama that were using 1,283 pens. The local county agent has complete details about this popular calf pen system.

IF TAXES ARE CUT THAT'S NEWS, BROTHER

Probate Judge W. L. Parrish announced this week that he would present before the Board of Revenue and Control this week a motion to cut the ad valorem taxes in Chilton county.

If, according to Judge Parrish the Board passes favorably on the motion Buck Roberts, Tax Assessor, will be notified and these taxes lowered.

The judge stated this week that monies above the need created by the tax had accumulated year after year and his opinion is that the money should be passed back to the people of the county who had paid the taxes.

CLANTON SHRINE CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The Clanton Shrine Club, which is under the jurisdiction of Alcazar Shrine Temple at Montgomery, met Monday night at the high school cafeteria. The Nobles and their wives enjoyed an evening of fellowship and frolic. This banquet is an annual affair with this club and the officers for the ensuing year are installed.

Noble T. Monte Brown, Potentate of Alcazar Temple, Noble Seaborn M. Reynolds, Chief Rabban and Noble Lawrence Rutter, Recorder, were present to officiate at this impressive ceremony. The local officers installed at the meeting were Noble James C. Martin, president; Noble Ed Bogle, vice president; and Noble Oscar Floyd, secretaryltreasurer.

The major tunction of the Shrine is helping crippled children and they maintain and operate eighteen hospitals for the care and treatment of these unfortunate children. More than a million and a half children have been cured or materially helped by these hospitals since they were organized in 1922. Any afflicted child, regardless of race, color or creed, who shall not have reached the fourteen-year age limit and whose parents are unable to afford medical services is admissible to a Shriners hospital if his or her case is determined to be orthopaedic.

The Clanton Shrine club is appealing to the people of the community to help them locate some child or children who is in need of this great service. If anyone knows of a child that may be helped they are urged to contact any Shriner or any of the officers of the Club.

JOHNNIE JOHNSON TO ANNOUNCE FOR MEMBER BOARD

Another resident of the Fourth District has announced his intention of making the race for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control. He is Johnnie Johnson who made the race four years ago and was defeated by Jim Dunlap.

Mr. Johnson has been an employee of the county for more than a score of years and is well known throughout the county.

Lt. and Mrs. James Hosey (Myradine Scott) of Columbia, South Carolina announces the birth of a daughter ,Carroll Sue,, on January 15, 1952.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Friends of Children:

I may, or may not be acquainted with you since I have been in this county only about nineteen months. I do feel, however, that we have a common interest that binds us together as friends whether we know each other or not. That common interest is the well being of the childhood and youth of our county.

You have, I presume, noticed from the County newspapers and the Radio that I have been named by State Headquarters of the "March of Dimes" to direct the "March of Dimes" campaign in Chilton County for the year 1952.

Being a man with a full-time job, I shall not be able to contact many of you personally. So I am doing that which I feel is the next best thing, and that is to solicit your aid in this most worthy cause by writing you.

Our County and State have always received more from the national Foundation for Infantile Paralysis than we have put into the "March of Dimes" campaign for its support.

Our County Quota this year 1952, is, in round numbers ($8,000.00) eight thousand dollars. At first glance this seems to be a large quota, but when broken down on the basis of population of the County, it is but a penny a day for the month of January for each person in the county. Our State Sales Tax on an expenditure of ($10.00) ten dollars per person would amount to a sum equal to our Quota. But of course we have no such method of collection at our command.

Therefore the "March of Dimes" must depend upon VOLUNTARY contributions of the friends of Children and youth. Let me, therefore, in the interest of the fight against Polio, urge you to make your contribution as liberal as possible. Remember, you may use your gift to this cause in calculating your income tax deductions.

Please make your check or P. O. Money Order payable to the "March of Dimes," G. O. Willingham, treas. You may give your contribution to your local worker, or send direct to Mr. Willingham, care Willingham Hotel, Clanton, Alabama. Trusting that we may hear from you soon, I am

Yours fo ra successful "March of Dimes," and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Several Announce For Public Office This Week

Several more hats were tossed into the political ring this week even tho it is several months before the Democratic Primary and much earlier than activity usually starts in our elections.

Former probate Judge J. Lee Smith announced his intentions of again seeking public office with the statement: "I will be a candidate for Probate Judge in the May Primary and the so-called "missing funds" will be an issue in the campaign.

With that statement the former probate judge who was convicted in the trials that followed the investigation and is now awaiting an appeal, made the statement that he would like to present his side of the picture to the voters and let them know the facts in the case.

John M Higgins is another candidate for probate judge who stated definitely his intentions this week. His complete statement will be found elsewhere on this page.

Mr. J. C. Pattillo, Clerk of the Circuit Court for many years stated this week that he would be a candidate for the same office. He is considered a "fixture" at the courthouse and it is doubtful whether or not he will have opposition.

Earl Reeves who is just completing his first term as county treasurer will be a candidate for reelection. Earl has served the county well and it will take a good man to beat him. We have heard of no opposition in his race.

Semmie Earl Williams and Johnnie Johnson are out after Jim Dunlap's job. Mr. Dunlap has not made a public statement as to his intentions as yet.

To date that's the political picture. More next week.

FORMER COURT CLERK LOSES APPEAL CASE

Mrs. Delene B. Wyatt, who was convicted two years ago of missing county funds and appealed her case to the State Supreme Court lost an appeal to that body. The conviction was upheld and to date her case is the only one of four conviction to come before the Supreme Court.

JOHN M. HIGGINS ANNOUNCES AS CANDIDATE FOR PROBATE JUDGE

JOHN M. HIGGINS

Mr. John M. Higgins of Thorsby, Alabama, announces today his intention to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of Probate of Chilton County.

Mr. Higgins is a well known lumber manufacturer and wholesaler and has been in business in Chilton County since 1937.

A graduate of Chilton County High School, he attended Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and he completed the war-time Naval Officers' School at Harvard University.

Mr. Higgins served on active duty for 40 months during World War II and participated in three major combat operations in the Aleutians, the Philippines, and Okinawa.

He is a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve and a member of the Thorsby Post, American Legion and the Clanton Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He has been active in trade associations representing small business men, and was elected to the Board of Directors of Associated Industries of Alabama three years ago.

During 1951 he was one of three small business men chosen as advisors to the School of Commerce and Business Administration at the University of Alabama. He has been assigned a statewide speaking tour to promote interest among teachers and high school seniors in the AIA scholarship awards to Birmingham Southern College. In this connection, he will address the teachers of Chilton County on February 26th at Cooper School house.

Mr. and Mrs. Higgins are members of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, Alabama.

In announcing his intention to run for Probate Judge, Mr. Higgins released the following statement:

"I sincerely appreciate the encouragement and pledges of support which have been received from many good citizens throughout the County and I earnestly solicit support from everyone in organizing our campaign in the interests of good government for our county. As taxpayers and citizens we want good management in our County government and we want progressive leadership. We expect permanent improvements in the form of roads and schools in return for ou rtax dollar and we believe our revenues should be increased through further development of our resources, rather than through higher and higher taxation.

Grand Jury Commends Sheriff In Report

STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY.

Circuit Court of Said County and State January Term, 1952.

To Honorable Oakley W. Melton, as Judge of Said Court:

We, the Grand Jury, empannelled for the January Term of the Circuit Court, after receiving your Honor's most able charge, entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors, and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 40 cases, and have examined 78 witnesses, and are returning herewith 36 true bills.

We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail, and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners, and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

We have examined the Fee Book of the Probate Judge, and find it neatly kept and corret insofar as we were able to ascertain. We have examin- the bonds of the various County officials, and find that they are ample for the protection of the public, and in our examination of the Sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners, we find that it is being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the Office of the County Superintendent of Education, we find that his books, records, and papers are neatly kept and insofar as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

The Grand Jury wishes especially to commend the efficiency in the performance of their duties of our Sheriff his deputies, and the bailiff of the Grand Jury, Mr. A. B. Burks, all of whom have rendered to us valuable assistance during our investigations We also wish to commend the Sheriff for the able and efficient manner in which he has carried out the duties of the Sheriff for the year that he has been in office. Sheriff Kendrick and his deputies have been diligent in the enforcement of the law, and we ask the public to give every possible cooperation to this splendid official in trying to make our County a better County in which to live.

We, having complied to the best of our ability with your Honor's charge respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convene.

This the 10th day of January, 1952

A WORTHY PROJECT

Members of the Clanton Garden Club have started a most worthy project in their attempt to encourage home owners of Clanton to plant dogwood trees. Their aim is a "dogwood" trail and deserves the backing of all Clanton residents. The club members have gone to much trouble in locating the seedlings at a very low cost. In fact, the cost will be so small that each home owner can set out several times at comparatively little expense.

LET'S KEEP IT CLEAN

With the entry into the coming campaign of new candidates each week it is natural to expect greater interest in the coming elections.

Let's try our best to keep our campaign on a high plain and leave personalities and petty jealousies out of the race.

We are not only referring to the race for Probate Judge but for other offices as well. Remember when the race is over we all have to live together and after all what each and everyone is striving for is a bigger and better Chilton County.

A TESTING PERIOD

In the coming week sighs and groans may emanate from the high school as students enter the mid-year examination period.

To a few of the students, the testing period is a challenging one, calling for their best reviewing of lessons studied and an opportunity to demonstrate the effectiveness of their previous study.

To a larger number examinations are an added burden. the source of much misery because studying hours are increased and more effort must of necessity be expended.

To this latter group, let it be said that examinations are not as useless as they may think. Indeed, all of life is a testing time. Hardly a day passes without the meeting of a test. The young person who applies for a job is being tested mentally by the potential employer. Matching one's wits with another's tests one's ability. A tennis game, a hand of bridge, a golf match—each is a test.

Still in meeting tests is a definite asset to anyone, a skill which is greater if acquired earlier in life. So young folks, enter every examination period with a feeling of gratitude that here is another opportunity to strengthen your knowledge, your self-confidence, and your ability to meet the constant tests of life—Shades Valley Sun.

THE VALUE OF A HOME EC COURSE

The following excerpt is from a mid term examination paper of Nanette Nivens and gives an insight to the students viewpoint.

"Some people say it is not important to take Home Economics. To me it is the most important subject offered in our high schools. Where else can a girl learn manners, how to get along with other people, table service, cooking, sewing and numerous other things?

Cooking and sewing are what some people think Home Economics are. We do learn that, but at the same time learn tolerance. When I finish this course, I will not only know how to cook and sew, but I will be a better person inside as well as out. The girls who have taken Home Economics will make the best wives. As knowing how to cook, they can manage their family.

I am glad I took advantage of my opportunity to take Home Economics two years. My only regret is it is not offered at least three years."

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

"Little Sara Nell" Wyatt around at the Sheriff's office is up and gettng married. And worst of it is she's going to leave us too. She told us the past week she was going to Birmingham to live after the ceremony and we know, they will miss her around there. She has been most cooperative since going to work there. We wish for her all the happiness in the world

Was talking to Fay Wooley the other day about Carolyn Montgomery who shipped out a year and a half ago for Japan. We know her ears were burning. Faye tells us that Carolyn will be back sometimes in April and suggested she probably would return to Chilton County. She reported it wasn't too bad over there she had really got to see the country during her days off

Speaking of Carolyn Montgomery reminds us of another story. Several times the W. C. Goldens have received postcards (evidently from neighbors), about their little dog "Honey" barking all night. Of course the postcards were not complimentary. Carolyn Montgomery wrote a Christmas card to the Goldens from Japan saying she'd be tickled to death to listen to "Honey" bark all night long just to be back in Clanton again. Just shows to go you how sweet the barking of a dog can be at times.

One story leads to another and this one is about the absent minded editor (instead of professor). The other day when we were at Dr. W. C. Golden's for a check-up in our haste to get somewhere else other than a Doctor's office we walked out without our coat The Dr. called us back and told us we had forgot our coat. Well, we got the coat and took-off to the car It was raining outside and before we got very far it dawned on us that we had left our hat. We rushed back for the hat and called as we entered "just came back to get our hat. We forgot it." Doc called back: "One thing sure. There's nothing the matter with your mind." Wonder if he was kidding?

May Anice Polk Cowart interrupted the sermon at the Clanton Methodist Church last Sunday. And she did this mind you, while she was thousands of miles away at her home in Ecuador. That's in South America somewhere—we think. How it happened she called her family on short wave raido through a local "Ham Station" owned and operated by the Carter Brothers. She called while the sermon was being broadcast from the Methodist Church and the folks listening got both Mae Anice's conversation and the sermon. Since it was Mae Anice calling homefolks we are sure no one minded the interrruption. Mae Anice wrote the most popular column ever printed by the Chilton County News. It was called "By Gad," and I am sure some of you remember it. We will not say how long ago it was as we might be giving away a ladies' age, but it was mighty popular while she was running it. She told her "folks" she would be home in April for three months and we are sure her old friends will be tickled to see and talk with her.

The local Garden Club is sponsoring a dogwood trail for Clanton and are asking all residents to plant at least one dogwood tree. They are mighty cheap and make beautiful lawn decorations. If all the home owners will help out in the undertaking by planting a tree think what a wonderful undertaking you will be a part in.

INTESTINAL TROUBLE

Intestinal obstruction is not a disease but a group of symptoms caused by some disease or abnormal condition Three outstanding symptoms of intestinal obstruction are constipation, nausea or vomiting, and distention or bloating. Very often a person will ignore these symptoms and complications develop which may end in death

The bowel is divided into two sections, large and small. Normally food makes its way through the intestine by leaving the stomach, passing thru the eighteen or twenty feet of small bowel and then through the six or eight feet of large bowel. If something blocks the onward passage of the intestinal contents, then the condition of intestinal obstruction occurs.

When his happens, there is a severe pain in the addominal region; the pain is spasmodic in character. It is not localized as in appendicitis, but seems to be all over the area so that the sufferer cannot tell the physician where it hurts the most.

The contents of the bowel, being unable to pass the obstruction, cause severe vomiting. The stagnant contents contain undigested food and stomach juices. Fermentation sets in and a poisonous substance is formed which is absorbed by the body, causing another complication.

As a rule, constipation is most noticeable. The abdomen becomes distended with gas, and peritonitis is apt to develop. With the protracted vomiting, the patient is apt to become dehydrated; and it is necessary to feed him intravenously.

While constipation is a symptom of intestinal obstruction, the condition itself is not truly obstruction. When the bowel is obstructed, little or nothing passes through; and this situation may be permanent until relieved medically or surgically. Every-day constipation does not fall into this class, because usually the other symptoms of vomiting and bloating are not present. Constipation by itself, however, should not be neglected. When it exists with the other symptoms, intestinal obstruction may be present.

WORTH OF KUDZU

Records show that on one badly eroded field, kudzu was grown for a few years and then every fourth terrace was planted to corn. The yield from these strips equaled the crop produced by the entire field before it was planted to kudzu.

THIS WEEK'S TALK

A Citizen Of Zion Holy Hill
Psalm 15

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

In the 15th Psalm we have David and the Holy spirit giving us a description of a citizen of Zion Holy Hill; or God's hill of holiness. The question is asked, "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle, and who shall dwell in thy holy hill? . . . The answer is then given. "He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart." . . . It will take an upright walk, or walking according to the Word of the Lord for any one to be a citizen of God's holy hill. It also takes working righteousness. Works that are right in the sight of the Lord God. Not so much as right in the sight of man, but right in the sight of God. There is a way that seemeth right unto man, but the say one thing with their lips, and at that are right in the sight of God will be credited as righteousness. Every man's work shall be made manifest for the day of judgment shall declare it. It shall be tested by fire; for the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is. It takes speaking the truth in our hearts. Too many people say one thing with their lips, and at the same time mean another thing within the heart. Say one thing, and the heart mean something else. But such liars will have their part in the lake of fire which burneth with fire and brimstone.

The answer goes on by saying, "He that backbiteth not with his tongue nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor." It is one thing to be bitten by one's teeth, and quite another thing to be bitten in the back with one's tongue. It is believed that more hurt can be done by biting with the tongue than with the teeth. The tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. The tongue is a fire, and a world of iniquity. It defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature, and is set on fire of hell The tongue is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison. Once the tongue sariketh a man it leaves its deadly poison If a person cannot bridle his tongue his religion is empty, unreal, vain. A citizen of the Holy Hills does no evil to his neighbor, and will not receive a reproach against his neighbor. But he will frown upon and condemn a vile person. . . This is a good measuring. Rod. Don't go too far without a check up.

Pope Payne And His Big Store Big Asset

(Payne Publicity)

Pope Payne is conducting one of the most outstanding stores in Chilton county. In fact it is one of the largest stores within the county, carrying a complete and comprehensive line of hardware, dishes, ready-to-wear, piece goods and novelties. Mr. Payne has made it a practice to carry in stock the things that are needed in the daily routine of life.

Aside from a complete line of hardware, he offers the buying public a vast assortment of ready-to-wear and sells same at prices you can afford to pay It has always been the policy of Mr Payne to add but a fair margin of profit to each and every item. He is one of those merchants who believes in quick sales and small profits; quick turn-overs permit him to replenish his stocks especially in wearing apparel thus permitting him to keep his stock new and up-to-date. Mr. Payne does not believe in offering you the same thing this year that was on his counters and shelves last year. Always keep in mind the name of the BIG store PAYNE'S in Thorsby. Westi ouse refrigerators, the best on the ket are sold by Pope Payne in Th

A Brief Review of 1951

And A Look Ahead

THE economy of the territory served by Alabama Power Company continues to improve. Existing industries have added to their productive capacity. The diversity of products made in Alabama is increasing. In the year just past, many new and valuable industries came to our State. We were privileged to participate in this program of development.

All demands for our service have been met adequately and on time. During 1951, despite shortages of critical materials, and generally higher costs of the items entering into our service, the company continued to provide to its customers dependable electrical service at reasonable rates. It is building new generating plants, with associated transmission and distribution facilities, at an unprecedented rate, to supply the rapidly growing power demands of our area. The job has been a big one, but we have been encouraged as we have worked at it, by the good will of the people in our service area, by the support of investors, and by the knowhow and devotion to duty of the men and women of Alabama Power Company.

We shall continue to do our utmost to meet the heavy electricity demands of our area. During 1951, we brought into service 140,000 kilowatts of new generating capacity. We are now building new power units with a capacity of 405,000 kilowatts. Of this huge program, 155,000 kilowatts will be completed in 1952, 125,000 kilowatts in 1953, and 125,000 kilowatts in 1954. Additional capacity is planned for later years. These new plants will be completed on schedule if we are able to secure the necessary materials and equipment on time.

Hundreds of miles of transmission and distribution lines were built during 1951, to augment our service to existing customers and to serve 20,000 new customers. Additional hundreds of miles of line will be built in 1952 to serve new thousands of customers.

Our progress is inseparably bound up in the progress of Alabama. Realizing the need for balancing agriculture with industry, we have worked and will continue to work wholeheartedly for the development of Alabama, supporting every movement to build and expand industry in the State.

We believe that the greatest good can come to the citizens of Alabama only when the benefits of good electric service at fair rates are spread as broadly as possible, and we will work earnestly toward this end.

We recognize that it is a duty and a privilege to participate as good citizens in the development of every community within our service area, and to this end we pledge the services of the men and women of our organization.

Our Pledge for 1952

During 1952 we will do our utmost, as in years past, to supply adequate and dependable electric service and do our part as citizens in the development of a great State.

Hon. J. C. Pattillo Seeks Re-Election

(Payne Publicity)

When a man of the type of Hon. J. C. Pattillo stands as a candidate for office, politics is the greater enhanced by his presence. It shows that the standards of the political arena have risen to a finer height. It is a distinct compliment that Mr. Pattillo is a candidate to succeed himself as Clerk of the Circuit Court, for he is a man who has long since proved his ability in public office. He has filled this office with fidelity to his constituency notwithstanding the fact there are many arduous duties connected thereto. His record stands as a model for emulation. Mr. Pattillo has earned his enviable reputation as clerk of the Circuit Courts. He has always been referred to as a citizen of high character and one who gives of his time and energy to help promote the best interests of the people throughout Chilton county. It has been said that Mr. Pattillo will have no opposition in the forthcoming primary election because to find a better man would be a grave question in the minds of the voters.

MATERIAL NEEDED FOR STURDY SCREEN DOORS

So that screen doors will be well constructed to stand wear and tear they receive, William Cox, A. P. I Extension Service specialist in farm buildings, makes the following suggestions.

First, select one and three-eighths-inch material if available. Mitered corner construction is not satisfactory unless reinforced with steel on both sides.

"Of course," adds Cox, "mortice and tenon or half and half joints are better A protecting grille should be installed in the lower portion of screen doors. A hardware cloth over the entire rear screen door will add to its life.

SELECT THE SOAP MADE FOR THE JOB

Auburn, Ala.—To most of us soap is divided into two kinds—laundry soap and toilet or bath soap. Today, however, homemakers need to know more than this about the laundry soap they use. Manufacturers are making different kinds for different needs. As a guide in buying soap, Stella Mitchell, API. Extension Service home management specialist, suggests that the label on the package be studied carefully. See if the soap is recommded for fine washing or general laundering.

"The mild soap used on fine fabrics may not get work clothes as clean as 'general purpose' laundry soap," warns the specialist. "On the other hand the product that keeps shirts and sheets white may fade colored clothes and shrink or harden wool and silks Soap that washes well in soft water may do a poor job in hard water. A detergent that leaves wool socks and sweaters soft and clean may be a disappointment when you use it on cottons."

HIGGINS-LITTLEJOHN

On Wednesday night of the 9th of January, Mr. James William Littlejohn and Miss Gladys Higgins were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. E. C. Hand, in the home of said minister.

The many friends and relatives of this fine young Christian couple will be wishing them the very best things that life has to offer along the marital voyage of life.

Mr. Littlejohn and Miss Higgins are well known throughout this community and surrounding communities, the christian homes that they both were reared in will no doubt have a tremendous bearing as they go out to make their home for themselves, and we are sure that every one will be praying God's richest blessings upon them, we also see no reason why they should not succeed in life, because the splendid training that each have received in the homes of their parents should prove ever helpful to them so long as they shall live, and if they will put God first in their lives and their domestic affairs, we feel sure that they will win in all of life's battles and have a happy home.

WAYS DAIRYMEN CAN INCREASE MILK FLOW

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama dairymer can increase production per cow by following good milking practices, believes J. R. Parrish, API Extension Service dairyman.

He reminds owners that cows are creatures of habit; therefore, the same routine should be followed at each milking. Cows require gentle and quiet handling. Noise and roughness retards "letdown" of milk. When milking by machine, cows should be prepared and then milkers attached about one minute after preparation is completed.

Successful milkers say to strip cow by machine if possible by pulling down on the clan and massaging each quarter with a downward motion. Also remove the milker as soon as milk stops flowing. Keep milking machine in good working condition and vacuum lines clean. And, last but not least follow manufacturer's recommendations concerning vacuum and pulsation rate.

NEW GURNSEY BULL AT STATE BREEDING UNIT

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama dairymen are informed that an outstanding, proved Gurnsey bull has been added to the Artificial Breeding Unit in Auburn.

The young bull, Chedco White Lick has an American transmitting index of 13,077 pounds of milk and 532 pounds of butterfat, based on a 365-day production test. He hails from the White Lick Farm of Mooresville, Indiana.

Pete Turnham, A. P. I. Extension Service dairy specialist, says that the purchase of this bull means that Alabama farmers who are members of artificial breeding associations now have five production-bred bulls of this breed for use in improving their herds

He adds that additional bulls of leading breeds will be added to those already in the unit as soon as farmers on the state bull selection committee have time to study pedigrees and make their approval.

To remove canned corn-on-the-cob from a jar, insert a corkscrew in the end of the center cob and pull up gently. Other ears will come out easily.

Well Established Drug Store In Chilton County

(Payne Publicity)

One of the well established and most progressive drug stores in Chilton county, is the Wyatt Drug store in Thorsby. It is centrally located and holds the confidence and respect of the people throughout its confines, in fact in every section regardless of where they live. They always carry in stock a complete and comprehensive line of pure drugs, cosmetics, tolieries and a fine line of novelties.

Dr. Wyatt is one of Chilton county's highest rated professional men. Not only is he well rated in the business and profession field but he is now and always has been a booster for the best interests of the county and its people The Wyatt Drug store has been serving the people for many years and upon our investigation he has been rated as a citizen that any community would be pleased to have. In other words, Dr. Wyatt would be welcomed to any community, and as said before would be registered as among the best citizenry. His line comprise everything a good drug store should have.

and the cost is up far less than prices in general!

"LADIES" already! My, how they have grown! And you can say the same for Alabama's telephone service.

IN JUST FIVE years in Alabama, the number of telephones you can call has more than doubled.

BEST OF ALL, the price of this bigger, better "package" of service has gone up on the average far less than prices in general . . . and less than our cost of providing the service.

ALWAYS a bargain, telephone service is today an even better buy than it was ten years ago, and a smaller part of the family budget.

A Competent Druggist Is Big Asset To City

(Payne Publicity)

When a drug store has a competent, registered pharmacist, the matter of life and death depends upon his skill and ability to fill the doctor's prescription with accuracy, plus promptness.

When we say this we have in mind the Wright-Alred Drug store here in Clanton, the drug store that specializes in prescriptions and employs one of the most trust-worthy pharmacists' in this section of Central Alabama.

And aside from filling prescriptions precisely they carry a complete line of patent medicines, toilet articles, novelties that make well received presents for any and all occasions along with the most popular fountain in the city. And, permit us to state that both Mr. and Mrs. Wright, by and through their courtesy, are popular with the masses in every section of Chilton county. Their entire stock is worth while looking over, regardless of what you want from the prescription counter to a candy bar, you can get it at the Wright-Alred Drug store in Clanton. BASEBALL LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

Montgomery, Ala.—The Central Alabama Baseball league will hold its annual meeting at The Williams School, Montgomery, Ala., Saturday, January 19, T. H. (Tubby) Williams, chairman of the league's Board of Directors, announced today.

The purpose of this meeting as announced by Williams is to elect officers, to draft schedule, to vote on schools applying for entrance into the League, and to adopt an official ball for the 1952 season.

The league was controlled last year by a three-man Board consisting of Coach George Goggans of Montgomery County High School, Coach Jim Gurley of Shorter High School, and Tubby Williams, Headmaster of the Williams School. Charles Harbin, assistant sports editor of the Alabama Journal as league statistician.

The League was made up of a Northern and a Southern Division. Hicks Memorial high school of Autaugaville, Autauga County high school of Prattville, Billingsley high school, and Marbury high school made up the Northern division. The Williams school of Montgomery, Shorter high school Montgomery Cunty high school of Ramer, and Union Springs high school made up the Southern division.

Coach George Goggans' Montgomery County high school Golden Eagles of Ramer won the Southern division and the first League Championship in the play-off between the two divisions.

Coach Cline Williamson's Marbury high school tossers won the Northern division title and was runnerup to Ramer in the League play-off.

Williams announced that any high school in Central Alabama is eligible to enter the League and asked that coaches interested attend this meeting. He also announced that an effort would be made at this meeting to organize a Central Alabama Football League and that any Central Alabama high school who is not interested in baseball but would be interested in a football league be present to discuss this organization.

DOC REDSHAW'S WEIGH

A SHORT STORY

BY JAY BLAINE

DOC REDSHAW was a good enough dentist but he had no faith in his fellow man, particularly tradesmen with whom he dealt. He was skeptical, suspicious and set in his views. That's why he got into trouble with Herb Stoneburn, the Blackpool village coal dealer, only Herb didn't know it.

At his home lunch one day, Doc's wife Polly asked him if he had ordered more coal as they were out of it. The weather was cooler and she wasn't feeling so well. A little warmth would do her good, she said.

"Yes, I tried, but Blue Moon coal is hard to get," answered Doc." Briggs hasn't any and Jones Bros. say they can't get it. I won't have anything but Blue Moon. Nothing else is fit to burn in my furnace."

"Why not try Herb Stoneburn?" asked Polly.

"That shyster!" shouted Doc in a nasty tone. "I don't trust him, that's why."

"Oh, well, I suppose I can shiver a few days, if I don't die meantime," sniffed Polly.

That touched Doc, for he loved his wife. It broke his resolution as to Herb but not as to Blue Moon. He'd take a chance on Herb.

He telephoned the coal office. Herb himself answered.

"Got any Blue Moon?" demanded Doc.

"We got a little on hand. How much do you need?"

"I want two tons—no more, no less. Understand? I mean exactly that. Can you get it to me this afternoon?"

"I guess we can," answered Herb.

"Won't be anybody home," went on Doc," but I'll leave the coal chute window open. Be sure, now, that the coal gets here."

The way Doc talked wasn't very nice—just a kind of growling.

But he kissed Polly goodbye and left, talking bitterly to himself.

When Doc came home that evening he went below to inspect his purchase. In less than a minute he was back upstairs with his face as black as the coal itself.

"What's the matter? asked Polly.

"Matter?" he shouted." "I've been cheated. I ordered two tons and there ain't more than a ton there. That's what. He's a swindler, that Herb Stoneburn! Not a single lump must be burned until it's weighed up. Right after supper I'll see about it. That oily hypocrite can't get away with anything like that."

All through the meal Doc stormed and sputtered. He couldn't enjoy his victuals at all and Polly couldn't hers.

After supper Doc went below again. The only scales he could find was a set of old-fashioned steelyards—a long steel bar balance contrivance—relic of another day. He'd shovel up a pailful of coal, then lift the load on the steelyards and observe the weight. Then he'd set down the figures with a pencil on a paper on the wall.

It was slow work. Black clouds of dust enveloped him and set him coughing and sneezing. He sputtered and sweated. He took off his vest and necktie and hung them on a nail.

Meantime, neighbors had discovered what Doc was doing and gathered slyly to watch him through the basement window. Their remarks were not all complimentary to Doc.

It was long after midnight when Doc shoveled up the last bucketful and set down its weight. He was tired and grimy and all the bones of his body ached as he footed up the figures. But sure enough, there was a shortage—only thirty-five hundred pounds when there should have been four thousand. He'd been short-weighted a good quarter ton.

Doc's anger now changed to exultation. With this proof he could now have Herb jailed.

He was so tired and sore that he couldn't get to sleep for a long time. Next day he would not only have Herb arrested, but he would tell him about it in advance.

In the morning Doc dragged his still aching form to the telephone. Herb himself answered.

"Herb," demanded Doc with voice trembling with suppressed anger. "Do you know that load of coal yesterday was five hundred pounds short? You—"

"That's right," answered Herb, pleasantly. "Didn't have quite enough on hand after all. Nobody at home to explain to, but sent what we had. Another car load came in during the night, and driver's on the way down with the rest of it right now. Just pay him when he gets there."

Doc deflated like a punctured tire.

"Polly," he called, "help me get back to bed."

Doc's back has been paining him ever since.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

By MARSHAL L. WARE

Good Minds; Gone Or Going?

Many people have brains that do not function fully.

The people are growing in numbers every year. In nearly every state in the Union the psychopathic wards and the mental hospitals are overflowing with patients.

The one chief cause is pressure on What are the causes? What are the remedies?
the base of the brain.

The one chief remedy is the removal of this pressure.

There is just one kind of doctor specially trained to remove pressure from the base of the brain. His success in treating mental cases of all degrees of severity is surpassingly great. He clears most of them up.

He is your Chiropractor.

Where a mind is just starting to go wrong, a few adjustments in time will save many adjustments later.

Fits of temper, spells of blues, sleeplessness and lapses of memory—these are among the first symptoms of a mind starting to slip.

Dr Ware will be glad to answer your health questions.

It is not true to say "Everything was done, unles Chiropractic was included."

Serve To Serve Again W. E. Owen And Pan-Am

(Payne Publicity)

It is, indeed, a pleasure for us to write on one whom we have known so long and so well. Our subject in this instance, W. E. Owen, distributor for Pam-Am products, has been living in Clanton for many years. However, it was our pleasure and privilege to know him prior to his coming here.

Mr. Owen was a highly respected citizen of Oneonta prior to coming to Clanton, and we were fortunate in knowing him there. He was engaged in the oil business while residing in that city and moved from there to Clanton where he was made distributor for Pan-Am, and it is quite evident that he has seen to it that he was well trained in the appreciative values of honorable dealing and in the science of oils and their by-products. Hardly more could be said in recommendation of a worth-while business man. knowing him so long and so well as we do, we wish to compliment Mr Owen on his success he has made and for the efficiency he has brought to all motorists who use his par-excellent brands of Pan-Am products Hence we do not hesitate to commend Mr. Owen to not only the motorists but to all good citizens, for our intimate knowledge of him and his life make us say he is a citizen who would be welcome in any city of community

HISTORY 80-YEAR PRESS ASSOCIATION IS RELEASED

Release of a complete history of the Alabama Press Association, beginning with its origin in Montgomery 80 years ago, is announced by Clarence Hanson, Jr., president, Birmingham.

The history was written by L. O Brackeen, director of publicity of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in cooperation with the Press Association Copies will be distributed at the annual press meeting in Montgomery this week.

In the multilithed copy of 113-page history, the writer traces the activities of the association from tis very beginning when eight editors and publishers met in Montgomery in 1871 and then 30 attended the first convention in the same city on June 18, 1872.

Throughout its history, the Association has actively supported better schools and roads, freedom of the press, public health, and other programs for the advancement of Ala.

Early in the history of the Association, editors realized Alabama's industrial potential and began to advertise the state's natural resources. In 1936 it promoted the organiaztion of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce

Ever since its organization in 1872 the Association has favored the establishment of a paper mill in Alabama The history states that "The $30,000,000 Coosa River Paper Mill has had the full cooperation of the Alabama Press Association and Alabama editors."

The history gives a complete list of the places and dates of the 80 annual a list of officers by the years they served, facts and trips and outings taken by the editors during the past 80 years a record of all press institutes held winning newspapers in contests held by the Association, loving cups awarded various Alabama newspapers for outstanding accomplishments, honorary life members and officers, and highlights of social, business and legislative activities.

The Association has held 2 lannual meetings in Montgomery, 20 in Birmingham, four in Mobile, three in Tuscaloosa, three in Huntsville, three in Gadsden, two in Selma, two in Auburn two in Florence, two in Anniston, two in Bessemer, and one in each of these Blount Springs, Eufaula, Marion Bridgeport, Coden, Dothan, Andalusia Decatur, and Foley.

POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

We had ninety four at church Sunday. Had a real good discussion on our Sunday School lesson, in each of the classes, also Bro. Cook brought very, very good messages at both the eleven o'clock and the night services, too.

New interest was shown in our Training Union Sunday night. We just believe we are going to do great things for our master this year, in our Training Union work.

Our pastor and each one was happy to see several at church that we have been missing for some time. We also were glad to have our visitors. We welcome visitors at all our services

Be sure to be present at our prayer services on Wednesday night. Great blessings are ours to enjoy if we are just humble and submissive to his will.

Good news has come from Mrs. Charlie Mae Smith. She and family are well and happy in Okinawa, but they miss loved ones and friends and desire the prayers of Christian people.

We are sorry some of our children still have measles. Maybe all will soon be over them and back at church.

We are sorry to hear Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gilliland and Faye moved away. They moved to Enterprise community.

Some of our members went with Brother Cook to his service at Pates Chapel Sunday afternoon. Also visited his mother a few minutes. Sure glad she is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus McDowell and little daughter of Simmers Port, La., are visiting his dad, Mr. Buddy McDowell this week.

Let's remember our boys in service and those on our sick list in our prayers.

BOWLES

Little Ellen and Jerry Bowles are ill with measles. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Lula Moore and Mr. [illegible] Clyde Moore of Prattville spent [illegible] day with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Mims of Clanton spent Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chandler.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gibson of Big Springs community spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Williams.

WAKE UP-or die!

Nearly 20,000 people died in the dark—in the night-time traffic accidents in 1950. Over 750,000 were injured in the hours from dusk to dawn. Last year these casualties went still higher.

Night accidents are one of the greatest factors in the increasing highway death toll. Fatigue, poor illumination, headlight glare, faulty vision, and the greater number of dangerous drinking drivers at night are the major causes of this tragic nocturnal record.

Another big factor—in both night and day-time fatalities—is "highway hypnosis." On long drives over smooth, unending roads the steady hypnotic monotony of humming wheels lulls drivers into a dangerous mental blank. Alertness gone, reactions at a low ebb, the worst can happen—and does.

What do you do when you become drowsy while driving?

Safe drivers, recognizing the danger signal, pull off the road and relax. Perhaps they stop for a cup of coffee and stretch their legs, or let someone else take the wheel. They know, as every good driver knows, that safety demands alert driving, particularly at night when the killing rate per vehicle is as much as four times greater in proportion to traffic volume than it is in the daytime.

When you are driving in a fog of fatigue—pull over! Wake up, or die!

Contralto Opera Artist Presented Here By Community Concerters

MARY VAN KIRK

This is indeed a great factor in the artistic growth of Chilton County. On Friday evening at 8 o'clock January 25, in the auditorium of the Baptist church, the Chilton County Community Concert Association will present Mary Van Kirk, young American contralto of opera, concert and radio fame, she is one of the most popular artists now appearing before the public. Her beautiful voice and fine musicianship win her a full concert schedule each season; her vital personality and her genuine love for singing immediately win her audiences as true friends wherever she sings. Many are the cities that call Mary Van Kirk back to sing again for them, season after season.

Born and reared in Akron, Ohio Miss Van Kirk absorbed the mid-West's finest musical training, then went East to win the Metropolitan auditions of the Air and embark upon a career which, as one reviewer expressed it, "makes the life of a music critic a happy one." This happiness the artist brings to her listeners by the naturalness and warmth of her personality in addition to her beautiful voice and art.

Today Mary Van Kirk sings her way along the concert route and is welcomed wherever fine music is valued. Noted from coast to coast for her solo recitals, she has also made her mark singing with orchestra. Among the symphonic organiaztions with which she has appeared are the orchestras of Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati Worcester, Ann Arbor, and Chautauqua. With the Metropolitan and other opera companies she has gained operatic honors in New York, Boston Cleveland, Philadelphia, and San Antonio. The Choral Societies of Syracuse, Washington, Ottawa, and Colgate University have engaged and re-engaged her. Her performances with the New York Oratorio Society have brought her high praise.

During the way Mary Van Kirk gave much of her time to singing for service men in camps and hospitals In the summer of 1945 this rich-voiced warm-hearted artist organized her own entertainment unit and carried the music our boys wanted to war-weary GI's in the Southwest Pacific while the islands were still under fire.

Blessed with "a voice of splendid proportions and rich, warm, true colors" (a comment of the Indianapolis Star) and "beautifully matured in the art" (according to a Washington critic.) Mary Van Kirk is everywhere recognized as one of the finest young American concert artists.

HATCHING EGG PRODUCTION

Those who are producing eggs for broiler chicks would do well to start a flock of pullets in January.

FARMERS FACE FEED SUPPLY PROBLEM

The total supply of feed concentrates for 1952 is four per cent less than in the four previous years. And more of these feeds will be fed this year than in any year since World War II leaving feed reserves considerably lower than the prewar average.

Use a rubber spatula to put frosting on a cake. Does a smooth, fast job, and scrapes the bowl clean.

Steam candied fruit that has become dry, in a double boiler for 10 or 15 minutes before adding to fruit cake. Restores moisture to fruit.

When decorating cakes, use a child's sectioned feeding dish to separate the various colored icings.

Experienced Hand Wanted

Cappy Miller's back from visiting relatives and tells about a big snow storm that knocked out the electric power for miles around.

Naturally, the local power company was doing everything possible to restore service but folks kept calling in and one woman gave them a new twist.

"I don't mind not having lights," she grumbled, "but I've got 20 cows in my barn and they all have to be milked by machine. Nobody around here knows how to milk a cow by hand any more."

From where I sit, it's only too easy to forget how to do something—even as simple as milking a cow—if we don't keep at it. And that goes for practicing tolerance, too. Like forgetting our neighbor has a right to decide for himself whether or not to enjoy a temperate glass of beer. If we don't keep the other fellow's point of view in mind we're all liable to get "snowed under" by intolerance.

Daily Resolutions

Many made New Year's resolutions, determined to keep them. Why not make resolutions for the beginning of each day? Here are some which if we read and practice daily will build up our mental resistance to thoughts of fear and worry, and help along the way. Today I am going to be bright, cheerful and happy. I am going to start the day with a cheerful "good morning" and have something pleasant to say to every one. Today I am going to look for the good in others. I am going to praise instead of blame. Today I am going to shut the doors of fear and worry. Today I am going to meet my problems and tasks with faith and courage. Today I am going to do a good deed for some one.

What we do day by day determines what we are and what we become. Hour by hour we build our lives for better or for worse. A daily inventory will help us keep on right track toward higher ideals.

MISS RUTH HICKS

The March of Dimes Is On

Contribute to this worthy cause Make your contribution to the Chairman of your community. Each community should go over the top. This dreaded disease strikes many homes—it could be yours. Contribute and contribute today. Your community Chairman is Mrs. Mildred Dennis Burnett She has made her plans to see all of you just after the 15th of the month Be ready when she calls with your contribution, or better still see her and give.

It is regret that we learn that Mr and Mrs. Cecil Walker and "Kelly" have moved to Havre Montana. It is true that this family were residents of Birmingham, Ala., but they spend many of their week ends in this section with their parents, Mr. and Mrs Alonza D. Eaves and Mr. and Mrs George Walker and other relatives We wish them much happiness in their new home, but they will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Floyd Swindal, daughter of Mrs. Cora Fuller, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. has been here with her mother for several days, however, plans to return home Tuesday of this week.

It was with deep regret that this community learned of the death of Mrs. Eugene Thompson (Pearl Jefferson). Mrs. Thompson was reared in the Lawley, Ala., community and was loved by all who knew her. She was the daughter of the late Tom and Dessie Jefferson. Mr. Jefferson having been the postmaster at Lawley fo ra number of years. Our sympathy to the loved ones.

Mrs. Parmer Levins is confined to Vaughn Memorial hospital in Selma Ala. She is improving, however, after her return home on Jan. 14, she will be confined to her bed fo ra number of days. Mrs. Levins is kindergarten teacher in Plantersville. She has the good wishes of all who know her.

Mrs. H. R. Schurter and Mrs. E. B Huff visited Mrs. R. E. Fitts in Safford, Ala., Sunday. Mrs. Fitts has been on the sick list. We are glad to report that she is doing nicely at this writing.

Mrs. John Parnell was made President of the Stanton Jr. High School PTA last Monday night. She fills the vacancy created when Mrs. Jimmie Green moved from this community to the Lawley community. Mrs. Gent Harrison was made vice president With your help and presence these two ladies will make wonderful leaders Join your PTA—Support it and attend

Miss Jo Ann Elam, daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. A. Elam and Jimmie Arthur Pardue were married in Meridian Miss., December 22nd. They were accompanied to Mississippi by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fulford, sister and brtoher-in-law of the groom. Mrs Pardue is a senior at Parrish High Selma and the groom attended Dallas County High School in Plantersville after which he served in the U. S Army. The couple reside at the home of the groom's parents Mr. and Mrs Clyde Pardue of Section Valley.

Sympathy is extended the loved ones of Mrs. Sallie Shanks, of Selma, Ala Mrs. Shanks, nearing her 96th year died at 11:55 p.m. Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. L. Moorer Funeral services Sunday, Jan. 13th at 1:30 p.m. from the chapel of Breslin Service Funeral home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hillman (Corrie Huff) and son of Selma, Ala., spent Sunday with Mrs. Velma Huff and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hayes (Mable Dennis) and family have moved to Sylacauga, Ala.

Work started this morning (Monday) on the road from Highway 22 in Stanton to the Stanton Jr. High school This strip will be paved. This pavement is badly needed and will certainly add to the little town of Stanton

Contributions to the March of Dimes as reported by your chairman, Mildred D. Burnett to date are as follows Mildred D. Burnett $1.00, Millard Reynolds $5.00, Ruth Hicks $5.00. A .50c donation, however, this name will be withheld as the contributor will give more at a later date. Names of contributors will be published weekly until this drive is over.

Miss Garace Beatrice Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Harris of Stanton, Ala., and Judge Walton E Callen were married at an informal morning ceremony on Tuesday, January 8th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs O. G. Eiland, brother-in-law and sister of the bride at 626 Union St. Selma Ala.

Presiding at the Bride's Book Mrs W. E. Browning, Jr., Altar Candles were lighted by Mrs. Jack H. Ballard (Ouida Faye Harris). The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mr and Mrs. Eiland entertained following the ceremony. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reavis, Sr. of Dresden, Tenn., Miss Callye Harris of Houston, Texas, Miss Agnes Davidson and Miss Virginia Lowery of Birmingham, Ala.

Mrs. V. C. Eiland presided at the coffee service and cake was served by Mrs. Huehey Manderson Jr., and Miss Virginia Lowery.

The bride and groom left by car for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home at 721 Union St., Selma, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Davis have returned from Memphis, Tenn., where they were given an all expense paid trip by the J. R. Watkins Co., for having sold more of the Watkins Products in the eastern-central division during a certain peirod. This trip was January 10 and 11th. They were registered at the King Cotton Hotel and had their meals while in Memphis at the hotel. They had tours of the city of Memphis as well as a trip over the entire factory of the J. R. Watkins Co. They reported such a nice enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Smitherman (Bettye Nichols) have announced the birth of a son at the Selma Baptist hospital.

Robert Howard Smitherman has been with his parents, Mr. and Mrs Willie H. Smitherman on leave from the Merchant Marine.

SHANKS FUNERAL SET SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Sallie Shanks, nearing her ninety-sixth year died at 11:55 p.m. Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D L. Moorer, South Side. Funeral services will take place Sunday at 1:30 p.m from the chapel of Breslin Service Funeral Home, the Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Church of Christ, Montgomery officiating. Interment will be made in Braggs cemetery where Mrs. Shanks husband, Napoleon Shanks, is buried Pallbearers will be Robert Strickland A. J. Turner, Edward H. Lavender Roy Moorer, Wilton Lide and Casey Harrison.

A native of Braggs, Mrs. Shanks was widely venerated, and her knowledge of the section provided her with a fund of anecdotes and information which enhanced all lovers of local history Through her mother, Melvin Anni. Moorer, and her father. Robert James McFarrin, Mrs. Shanks descended from Charleston, South Carolina stock which had produced a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

For some time past Mrs. Shanks had observed her birthday each year as a family celebration, to draw around her members of a devoted family and an ever widening group of friends Lively and alert, her keen mind made her a delightful companion, and her gentle heart dictated many deeds of kindness.

Her immediate survivors include two sons, three daughters, seven grandchildren; ten great grand-children and two great, great grand children.

QUESTIONS ON WORK EXPERIENCE TO BE ASKED IN JAN. BY CENSUS BUREAU

Question on work experience during 1951 will be asked of a number of local residents in the January Current Population Survey, according to District Supervisor, Mary L. Griffin, of Clanton, Alabama. The questions will furnish information on the nation's available labor supply, needed in planning defense program activities, Miss Griffin said.

The principal work experience question will ask the number of weeks worked last year. Supplemental questions will determine whether this was full-time or part time work and the type of work done.

The special questions on work experience are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Current Population Survey. Census Enumerators will call on residents of Chilton County during the week of January 14, Miss Griffin stated.

BOIL, BLEACH OR BLUE ONLY WHEN NECESSARY

Boiling the laundry is only recommended for sterilizing clothing, bedding and handkerchiefs after illness, according to Levice Ellis, API Extension Service clothing specialist.

She agrees that boiling is a good substitute for correct washing and a cheaper way to whiten clothes than using a commercial bleach. Bleaching is only necessary for clothes discolored by long storage or poor washing. Use commercial bleach only on white cottons and linens.

"Remember," says Miss Ellis, "that bluing does not whiten clothes but makes them look white by camouflaging dinginess."

SALT FOR SWINE

A few years ago, when feed prices were lower than they are now, scientific resaerch proved that one pound of salt fed growing pigs saved $5.60 worth of feed.

The daughters and sons are Mrs D. L. Moorer of this community, F A. Shanks, Selma; Emmett Shanks Maplesville; Mrs. J. K. Harrison, Enterprise; Mrs. Joe Hicks, Maplesville Grandchildren are Jesse K. Harrison, Pulaski, Va.; Guy Harrison, Bluefield, Virginia; Mrs. C. M. Sims, Pensacola, Fla.; Mrs. Fred Burgess, Vredenburgh; Mae and Hershel Shanks Maplesville. There are also a number of nieces and nephews, and close family ties related Mrs. Shanks to the McFerrins, Powers and Strickland families of this section.

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

Crawford, Alabama, near Phenix City, was founded in 1814. It was first named Crockettsville in honor of Davy Crockett. Under that name it became the first permanent seat of Russell County and retained this honor until 1868. In 1843 a group of Georgians changed the town's name to Crawford honoring Joel Crawford, a Georgian who had distinguished himself during the Creek War. After Seale succeeded it as County Seat, many of the inhabitants moved away, and Crawford faded slowly to the present hamlet size Spanning the Coosa River until 1937 was an old bridge, given attention in 1931 upon publication of a letter written Oct. 17,1887. Addressed "To the public," the letter had been left with a Wetumpka druggist by the construction engineer with directions that it was to be opened only in the presence of witnesses, when called for by the engineer. As he never called for the letter, it was finally opened in 1931 when a new bridge was built. It contained a statement that the old bridge was in the opinion of the engineer, 'safe for travelers" but that he wished "to have it expressly understood that I have done my duty, which was only to erect the bridge, and not to pass my judgment upon its safety." Thousands of tons of traffic crossed the bridge and it was buffeted by winds and floods, but it was standing solidly apparently as strong as ever at the time of its demolition.

A friend of ours who operates a filling station had an opportunity the other day which he had been awaiting for years. His physician came in with a flat tire. Our friends diagnosed the doctor's trouble as "puncture wounds resulting in prolapsed perimeter." He prescribed "plastic surgery followed by a complete treatment with inflatu windus." Then he charged him accordingly.

Serves Chilton County In Everything In Banking

(Payne Publicity)

At the First National Bank in Clanton, they understand the problems of the people of their community, and they realize that good service means almost as much to the patrons as does satisfactory merchandise, and operate upon this basis. At this institution in Clanton, which was chartered in Nov 1919, they have given constructive banking service except during the Federal moratorium. They afford the most complete banking facilities and they are known for their strength and for the sound judgment of their directors and officials. The courtesy and cordiality of the personnel of the First National Bank of Clanton, Alabama will be appreciated by farmers who seek advice or assistance, or by people in all walks of life, who are confronted with financial problems. Both men and women who reside anywhere within this trade area are invited by the bank to consult with their official staff upon any financial matter whatsoever. The First National Bank of Clanton, is strong, safe and conservative, and the small account is as welcome as the large. They are members of the Federal Reserve and through their membership in the F. D. I. C. depositors have their funds protected by insurance under the government plan of 1933. They are a notable example of progress in this county. The First National Bank is ever at the service of the man or woman who need advice, assistance or joint co-operation with matters concerning the financial affairs.

The pre-school age Sunbeams met with Harold Lawrence, Jr., with sixteen little ones present.

During the story hour the counselors, Mrs. Joe Moore and Mrs. Harold Lawrence told of God's love for children of the world. Pastime for the activity period was spent cutting pictures and working picture puzzles of children of other lands.

Delicious punch and cookies were served for refreshments.

When It's Welding You Want, Let Alvin Do It

(Payne Publicity)

In the capacity of Welding Alvin has been serving the people of Central Alabama for many years, and in this capacity he has served them faithfully and well, so much so that his name has become familiar with about every one, who from time to time needs his service. Alvin Ellison is one of those citizens who believes in doing well, and he wants his neighbors to prosper and do well. There is nothing selfish about Alvin Ellison. He is always pleased to give his neighbors and friends a boost whenever occasion arises, and Alvin spends much time in endeavoring to boost Clanton and Chilton county. Alvin says the best people in the world live right here, and he says he can prove this by any one who knows good citizenship when he sees it. Alvin built his business on honest work and fair dealing with the public. We are always pleased to say a good word for Alvin Ellison, knowing him to be a just man and a good citizen under all circumstances.

Clanton Drive-In To Add New Ramps And Equipment Soon

A statement by Joe Jackson, manager at Clanton Drive-In Theatre, to the effect that much new equipment and improvements would be made at the Drive-In was received this week.

The Clanton Drive-In has already been voted the best equipped, best managed, best taken care of Drive-In Theatre in the Southeastern District which comprises nine Southern states.

New ramps will be added and all labor will be contracted for with local contractors. The management of the Drive-In has set out more than 2,000 shrubs and trees this year. Dogwood, redbud, cedar and pine are the principal varieties.

The new addition will ad about one-third more seating (or parking) space to the theatre, said Mr. Jackson.

Low Bids Received For Enterprise Road

The State Highway Department has received low bids on the seven and one-half miles to be paved between Clanton and Enterprise, known as the Enterprise Road.

Low bid on the paving was the Newell Brothers Construction Co., of Hope Hull, Ala., and the low bid on the bridges was made by L. J. Cousins of Montgomery.

HOWARD COLLEGE EXTENSION SCHOOL OPENS NEW SEMESTER

The Howard College Extension Center opened here Tuesday night, Jan. 15th, for its Spring term, with a good enrollment. A nice banquet was held at the High School Cafeteria. According to the report of Mrs. McRay, manager of the cafeteria, we had 121 in attendance for the banquet. Major Davis, President of Howard College, and his wife were present. President Davis spoke to the group, encouraging us on to even a greater semesters work. We had several students to give their testimonies as to what the school has meant to them. It was a very pleasant evening for all.

Courses to be offered this semester include:: :

7:00 to 7:50 p.m. Sunday School Preview—taught by Mrs. J. G. Hutchinson.

7:00 to 7:50 p.m. Sermon Preparation —Dr. Parks Redwine.

7:50 to 8:40 p.m. New Testament—Dr. Parks Redwine.

8:40 to 9:30 p.m. Missions—Dr. J. G. Hutchinson.

The courses are set up for both ministers and lay church workers. The courses run for 18 weeks. A small tuition fee is charged each student. Both college credits and certificate awards may be earned in our local center.

Our Center is operated by the parent school in Birmingham, the statewide system of 38 branches is under the direction of Dr. Hampton C. Hopkins, and Rev. J. W. Lester. First "graduation" exercise for certificate students was held there last May.

The school meets one night each week, on Thursday night 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Clanton. We invite all interested persons to visit the school and inquire further as to details of enrolling. May we as church leaders encourage our people to make plans now to attend this semester.

Yours in Christian Service,
R. E. Wilkins, Director

ATTENDED CONVENTION IN ATLANTA

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Glenn attended the convention of the General Tire and Rubbr Company which convened in Atlanta, Ga., several days last week.

They were guests of the company at the Ansley Hotel.

While the distributors attended the business sessions, the wives were entertained at the ulmost. They had lunch at the Ansley, after which they enjoyed a sight seeing tour of the city. Taking in places such as Stone Mountain and the Cyclorama and other places of interest. They attended a fashion show in the "Plantation" room at Riches', Atlanta's largest department store.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn report a wonderful time on the entire trip.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends and neighbors for their kindness shown upon notification of the death of our son and brother, Cpl. James Royce Culp, who was killed Jan. 6, 1952, while serving with the 7th Regt., 3rd Infantry in Korea.

May God bless each and every one Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Culp, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Culp and family.

COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

The Chilco Lions journeyed to Ramer, Ala., Jan. 15, to participate in games with Ramer High School. The girls scores were 32-18 and the boys scores were 35-30, also in favor of Ramer. Both teams played well with Oilie Parker making a high score of eight points for the girls and Virgil Keith making a high score of ten points for the boys. We had a very successful trip even though we weren't victorious.

In addition the County Training School's Juniors defeated the Jemison Jr. High School teams. The girls scores were 12-1 and the boys scores were 11-4 both in favor of the County Thaining School. Dorothy Johnson made the most points for the girls which was 7, and Homer Chatman made the most points for the boys which was 8. Our Juniors are making steady progress throughout the basket ball season.

Both men were brought in a Martin Ambulance to Central Alabama Hospital where they were treated and later released.

MY WATER PLANT JINGLE

We want to go to the water plant!
all the children cried,
I don't know about that, said Mrs.
Thomas, then sighed.
We'll try to figure out some way!
And, lo, there came a perfect day!
Down to the water plant we went,
We certainly didn't have to be sent.
We went to learn as much as we could
And to see all the things that we should.
The man at the plant was very nice.
He didn't have to tell us things twice.
We paid attention, and learned a great deal.
Then we went back to school, straight up the hill.

POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

We had good attendance at Sunday School Sunday. Great interest was shown in our Sunday School. We believe you couldn't fail to receive a blessing if you will come to Sunday School and Training Union each time.

It is our duty to go to God's house to worship. It's also a great privilege so lets fill the church for worship service Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Traywick and children visited his father Sunday who is very sick. Remember to pray for him and all the other sick, and our boys in service.

Mr. and Mrs. Sier Ford and children from Phenix City visited relatives in this community over the week end.

Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. N. E. Cook were Mr. L. P. Martin of Birmingham, Mr. Herman Lowery and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Baker of Clanton. Mrs. Cook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pate are also spending some time with them. Other recent visitors of the Cook family were Mrs. O. A. Parker of Sylacauga, Dr. Ralph Parker who is in service in Houston, Texas, Dr. Grover Carl Parker, who is stationed in Selma.

Mrs. W. M. Nobels has returned home from the hospital in Sylacauga where she has been for treatment.

Come to prayer service each Wednesday night.

ABOUT SEVENTH STREET PARKING

The argument pro and con in regards to the parking on Seventh Street is getting nowhere.

First because there is an agreement between the city of Clanton there would be no parking on Seventh Street if the State Highway Department would lend their aid in widening the street which was done two years ago.

True there is no law to keep the City of Clanton, or City Council, from passing an ordinance to allow parking on either, or both sides of the street but there still remains the agreement which must be recognized by any fairminded citizen. We cannot go back on our agreements.

Eventually Clanton is going to be bypassed by U. S. 31 and that we may as well make our minds up to. The highway as it now runs thru Clanton is much too narrow and when a new highway is constructed it will certainly be built where more width can be obtained.

The situation cannot now, it appears, be remedied. Whether we like it or not or whether or not we are satisfied with the agreement we will have to bear with the present set-up until a later date.

WHAT STRANGE BEDFELLOWS POLITICS MAKE

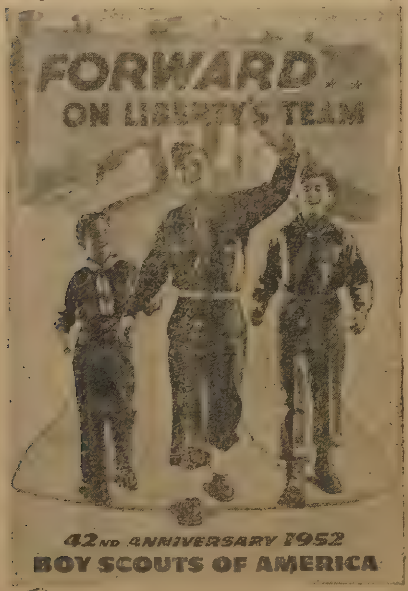
Ahoy, Comrade Wyatt

Yestiddy this page carried Mr. Azbell's piece on Editor T. E. Wyatt of Chilton County.

Ed. took considerable pains surmounting the piece with a fetching headline and adorning it with a good picture. Not until it came out did Ed. suddenly remember that it was Wyatt's Union-Banner that last year called us a c-o-m-m-u-n-i-s-t.

If so, that would mean that Wyatt, by his Advertiser appearance, is a fellow traveler.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Boy Scouts Observe 42nd Birthday



Official Boy Scout Week Poster

President Truman will greet 12 outstanding Boy Scouts in the White House during Boy Scout Week, Feb. 6 to 12, marking the 42nd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Boy Scout Week will be observed throughout the nation by more than 2,900,000 boys and adult leaders. Since 1910, more than 19,000,000 boys and men have been members of the organization. "Forward, on Liberty's Team" is the birthday theme.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

It is not true. We have been to church within the past 19 months and we do know our pastor, the Rev. Joe McKinney, very well. In fact, he is our good friend. Last week through error, the heading on the front page letter from Rev. McKinnev was headed "A Letter To The Editor." The first sentence read, and we quote: "I may, or may not, be acquainted with you since I have been in this county only about nineteen months,..." The article should have been headed "A Letter To The People Of Chilton County." Now we just wanted you to know that any trouble we may be having isn't because we aren't paying the preacher.

Wish we had the names of the fellows who are picking up the waste paper now. We should have gotten their names this morning when we were around at the City Hall paying a fine to Mrs. Wingard, City Clerk. Those fellows who are driving the trash wagon are doing a good job and when a fellow is doing a good job he deserves a pat on the back, whatever his job or profession. Oh yeah, about the fine. You know, those parking meters are supposed to show white when your car is parked in front of one—not red. We learned that the hard way.

You hear about the young fellow who climbed the fence into the pasture to pick his girl some violets. He saw a farmer standing near and also a very large bull. He asked the farmer if the bull was safe. The farmer answered: "Well, I don't know for sure. But I think he's a durn sight safer than you are."

Could be by the time you read this we'd be having snow, but right now old Sol is looking down at about 78 degrees. Buttercups are shining from every flower bed and there is a touch of spring in the air. Our peach growers are probably "down in the dumps" about this weather as a few more days of it and our peach crop will be next to no crop at all. And worse, according to what one grower told us. When the sap rises and then a freeze comes, it kills the tree as well as the season's fruit.

Was talking to Welch Roebuck around at the courthouse the other day and it is possible that Welch will be a candidate for the office he now holds. Welch is a member of the Board of Revenue and Control which recently replaced the Court of County Commissioners. By-the-way, he represents the Third District.

Speaking of politicians, Dave Tingle's name keeps popping up as a possible candidate for the office of Probate Judge. We haven't talked to Dave about this because we haven't run into him about town but when we do we'll let you know how Dave feels about this "gossip."

Saw H. T. Pipes at the courthouse. He said to state that there was a young lady there with matrimonial intentions but cautioned us about saying which office the young lady worked in. He did give us a tiny squint at the lady—and she's attractive, too. She won't have any trouble when she get's ready to lead some guy down the aisle.

The small fry rushed into the room and said: "Daddy, there's a black cat in the dining room." "Don't worry said the father. Black cats are lucky." "This one sure is," stated the small one. "He has just eaten our dinner."

Went down to see Peggy and James Popwell and their new baby the other night. Peggy, looking the beautiful young mother she is, was doing just fine, as was the young son. Pop was alright, too. Those red hands are NOT from washing diapers, no matter what they say.

Andrew Hickman was the photographer who took the picture we used on the front page of the News last week. We failed to give him credit for the good job that was done. Andrew is making quite a name for himself as a news photographer over the state.

THIS WEEK'S TALK

Cast Not Away Thy Confidence

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

We are living in a time when confidence is being shakened, and some are casting away the confidence that has been a guiding star in their lives across the years; but the time has come for a word of warning in the words of the Holy Scriptures, "Cast not away thy confidence, which has great recompence of reward. For we have need of patience, that, after we have done the will of God, we might receive the promise."

Some are asking the question, "Why does God permit these wars and commotions that we are having? The answer is simple. Men have sinned against God; nations have sinned against God. Men have chosen the way of their own eyes, which in the sight of God is not right. It is evident that God is allowing the nations of the world to suffer at the fruit of their own doing. But when men will humble themselves before God, and turn from their wicked ways; God will have mercy, and pardon our sins, and lift the curse of war and trouble. It is not a time to lose faith in God, but a time to restore ourselves to that faith that was once delivered unto the saints; and to the faith of our fathers. The Bible is a Lamb unto our feet, and a light unto our path. It will show us the way out of this darkness and chaos. Instead of casting away our faith in God, and in His word, let us ask God to increase our faith. Let us repent before His throne in order that He might give unto us faith. The faith that will lay hold upon the promises of God. The faith that helps us to please Him in our daily walk. For through a living faith in Him, we obtain a report that we please Him, otherwise without this faith it is impossible to please God...

Faith in God and in His word is the basis of our understanding spiritual things. For through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God. The story of creation becomes simple when we have faith. All eternal mysteries and the miracles of the Bible are easy to understand when we have faith in God. With God all things are possible. And all things will work together for good to them that love God, and are called according to his purpose.

I know that the way may seem dark. The world seems to be walking in the valley of the shadow of death; but let us fear no evil. For standing somewhere in the shadows is He who loved us, and gave Himself for us. He knows. He cares.

Carter Radio And TV Service Tops 'Em All

(Payne Publicity)

When you want the best in TV or Radio service there is one place in Clanton that can be depended upon—the Carter Radio and Television Shop on Sixth street, Clanton.

The Carter Radio Service is reliable, dependable and knows all the intricate parts of both. There is no guess work done at Carters. Their ability is proven by their years of experience and by their satisfactory work. Carter's has been serving the people of Clanton and Chilton County for years, and we are always pleased to refer them to the public as being without a peer in their chosen field of endeavor. These boys are also fine citizens—citizens that can be depended upon either as high class business men or as men who at all times has the best interest of the people of the city and county at heart. They are always willing to do their part in the future upbuilding of Clanton—the peach center of the south.

Sinclair Sold By Joe Smith Is Tops

(Payne Publicity)

We have heard the expression of times—gasoline is gasoline and that's all—it's just gasoline regardless of the name. We will agree to part of that saying, but not all. First, there is a vast difference in gasoline and still a much more difference in the service you get.

At Joe Smith's Sinclair Service station here in Clanton you get that super Sinclair gasoline and super oils. And besides this you get altra-super service. Joe is one of those individuals who believes in serving so he can serve again. Furthermore, Joe is a citizen who has a firm faith in the future of Clanton, and never misses an opportunity to say a good word for his home town. When the occasion arises Joe puts forth his best front to let the people of the world know that Clanton and Chilton county is the Garden spot of the nation, and the truth is that Joe is about right in his oponion of Chilton county and its fine people. Get Sinclair gasoline and Sinclair by-products at Joe Smith's Sinclair station on the highway in Clanton.

NEW HARMONY

We were glad to have the visitors in our services last week end. Rev. Futural from Wetumpka brought three wonderful sermons which were enjoyed by all.

The Better Speech Club Visits The City Water Works Jan. 14

The Better Speech Club of Clanton Elementary School visited the Water Plant on Monday, Jan. 14. The idea of this visit was suggested to us as we studied water from our health text book. We think the visit really appropriate.

Some of the club members who live out of town were surprised to find the ground and the buildings at the plant so attractive. Mr. Blalock took us thru the plant, squad by squad. In the first floor we saw the three twenty-five HP motors which pumps the water to the setling vats. The water comes in from Yellow Leaf Creek, four miles away. All the motors are not used at one time. In this floor we also learned that eight-inch pipes bring the water to Clanton, and six-inch pipes carry it to our various homes.

Up-stairs we saw the settling vats, which are ten and one-half, by thirty, by sixty feet. Clanton water is peculiar in that the mud rises to the top insead of settling to the bottom. Did you ever see sediment rise? Then visit our City Water Works? Our attention was called to the three machines that put chemicals, alum and lime, into the water. Another machine adds chlorine, Colgon, a new chemical, is added to keep the pipes clear. Per minute, 400 gallons of water come into the plant and are sent to the finishing tanks on the hills. Seventy-five per cent of the mud is taken out of the water in the settling vats and filters. The two filters have each one foot of gravel and one and one-half feet of sand. About every twenty-five hours the filters have to be cleaned. An interesting fact we learned was that the present water plant was built in 1939, when Mr. Fenn Jones was Mayor of Clanton.

Coming back we saw squirrels chasing each other and scolding at us for walking under their trees.

We appreciate the information given to us by Mr. Blalock. He was patient and understanding in making explanations to us. It was a most informative visit.

The Better Speech Club.

Hawkins Standard Station Invites You

(Payne Publicity)

The Hawkins Standard Service Station located immediately on the highway at Jemison, respectfully invites you to visit them when driving through or visiting or doing business in and around Jemison.

The Hawkins Service Station handles that celebrated Standard gasoline and oils, recognized as the best the market affords. They also do washing, greasing, lubrication and minor repairs.

This station is one of the attractive service stations along the highway and thus fully merits your support. They have capable and courteous attendants who always see that you receive the best service and, in fact, the dependable service—the service that the motorist is looking for at all times. The Hawkins Service Station will be pleased to serve you at all times regardless of whether it be just water or a full tank of that Standard brand gasoline that is known the world over to be the best. The Standard Station is now under the management of that good and substatial citizen, H. B. Hawkins, who fully deserves your patronage.

THE TERM "LOWLY HOG" IS A RANK INJUSTICE

Auburn, Ala. —It's high time to do away with the term "lowly hog," declares G. B. Phillips, API Extension Service hog production specialist.

He explains that the story of the pig demands a big share in the progress Alabama agriculture has made. In fact, hogs arnk third in importance based on the total Alabama farm income. But those who don't know any better have ridiculed, reviled, and looked down on the hog. The statement "dirty as a pig" has become a measure of complete uncleanliness, even though the pig is, by choice, most clean. This animal is referred to as "hoggish," though he eats only what is good for him and never too much.

"Yet, cursed and not appreciated by many people," points out Phillips, "the hog, dignified and more nearly self sufficient than other domestic animals, has put folding money in the pockets of many farmers."

Growers say hogs utilize feed more efficiently than any other farm animal. Also, pork is as digestible as other meat and contains more calories per serving than any meat commonly eaten. And, whether it's any consolation to the hog or not, more people eat more pork than they do any ther meat.

"For example," says the specialist, "those who use the term 'lowly hog' conveniently forget about the crisp strips of bacon, succulent slices of ham, and golden brown pork chops they have enjoyed in the past."

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM

On the basis of preliminary 1950 census figures, the REA estimates that on June 30, 1951, 84.2 per cent of U. S. farms has central stationel ectricity.

NEW LEAF LETTUCE

Seed of a new home-grown leaf lettuce called Salad Bowl—the only lettuce ever to win the All American Selections gold medal—should be avialable from many retail seed dealers in 1952, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Season Is Here And Sam Collins Has It

(Payne Publicity)

This is the time of year when you want to start your chicken farm. Whether your farm be large or small you can get what you want at the Sam Collins Store is Jemison. The Collins store is well known for its best brands of feeds for poultry, cattle, hogs, dogs, birds, and other animals.

If you can't get it at the Collins Feed and Seed Store in the fair city of Jemison, we would not know where to send you. The Collins Feed and Seed Store is complete in every department. The best seeds and feeds are sold by Sam Collins. And Sam Collins sells the best flour and meal, plus overalls, shirts and other garments. And, lest we forget, the Collins Feed and Seed Store has in stock a fine line of registered chicks and right now is the time to get yours. The Collins store and Sam Collins are faithful merchants—merchants that can be relied upon in any transaction. Patronize this store when in need of anything in feeds or seeds, chicks and many other commodities that are both useful and ornamental.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams, of Thorsby, Alabama, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlene Williams, to Mr. H. L. Lassetter, of Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. Lassatter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lassatter of Sharpsburg, Georgia.

Miss Williams attended Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, and was graduated from Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., where she was a member of the Gamma Chi Literary Society and the Torch Club. She is now employed by the State Highway Department in Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. Lassetter attended Star High School, Sharpsburg, Ga., and Southern Business College, Atlanta. After serving two years in the U. S. Army, he entered Woodrow Wilson College of Law where he graduated and received his Masters degree in law. He is a member of the Sigma Delta Kappa Fraternity of that college. Mr. Lassetter is now employed by the Southern Freight Tariff Bureau, Atlanta, Ga.

The wedding will take place early in April, after which the young couple will make their home in Atlanta.

If you wish to preserve your linens, avoid allowing your sheets to whip on the line in a strong wind. It's also poor policy to jerk sheets forcibly from the line after they have frozen stiff.

New Alabama Master Farm Families

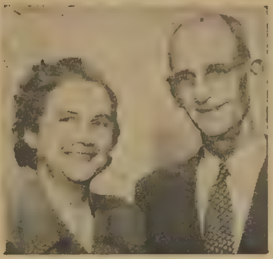
Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Haddock of Lauderdale County

Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis of Talladega County

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snell of Dale County

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Fitch of Mobile County

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Yarbrough of Autauga County



Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Buchanan of Madison County

Here are the six new Alabama Master Farm Families recognized by The Progressive Farmer magazine and the state's agricultural agencies. Master Farm Family awards are based on excellence in farming, homemaking, and community leadership. These six families will receive their awards at a banquet in Birmingham on February 13. These Master Farmers are real "shirtsleeve" farmers and leaders in practical agriculture. Their farming operations reflect the South's switch to "two-armed farming"—balancing row crops with livestock.

We "Went to Town" on Farm Telephones in 1951 . . .

Southern Rural Telephones Pass the Half Million Mark

THE number of rural telephones served by Southern Bell passed the 520,000 mark in 1951. More than 77,000 were added last year alone.

Even bigger things are planned for 1952, provided we can get the necessary materials. Many more Southern farmers are eager to enjoy the convenience and money-saving advantages of telephone service. We are working hard to fill their needs. And we expect to have another 82,000 rural telephones in service by the end of this year.

Meeting the needs of farm families is a big and costly job. But it's a mighty important job to us—because it's so important to the South's prosperity, in town and on the farm.

Last Friday night Mrs. Edmund Crowe surprised her husband, Rev. Edmund Crowe, with a surprise birthday party. Twenty-eight met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Davis just across the highway from the Crowe residence. They walked to this home and knocked. Mrs. Crowe, knowing that guests were expected let Rev. Crowe answer the knock at the door. There stood the twenty-eight. Two young ladies, Mattie Ruth and Mary Charles Rush, holding a huge, three layer cake, decorated in colors of pink and green. Eleanor Hayes holding a large box in her hands and all the group started singing "Happy Birthday." Brother Crowe was indeed surprised, however, not nearly as much so as when the box was presented him and he opened it. In this large box he found money and a card telling him that this gift was given him for a suit of clothes. After a very pleasant evening together refreshments were served by Mrs. Crowe, Mrs. L. D. Harrison and Mrs. Marna Benton baked the cake and decorated it and it was indeed a beautiful one and very delicious.

Brother Crowe was overjoyed with this kind rememberence and Saturday purchased his suit. He had the joy of wearing it to his church on Sunday. Brother Crowe in his remarks to your reporter remarked, "It was such a surprise, and my suit is certainly a nice one."

Just at this time your reporter would like to make a few remarks regarding Brother Crowe. He has worked hard and long for the church he pastors here. Always working to improve the church, the grounds and doing all possible to build the membership as well as improve in his work. Brother Crowe has a nice family and certainly a family that any neighborhood would be proud to call their own.

Clanton Concrete Company A Worthy Concern

(Payne Publicity)

Of real necessity to every community is the product of the concrete man. Their efforts tend to help the growth of every section. In this respect we want to call your attention to the Clanton Concrete Company, Clanton, and their fine, yes, super-fine quality of work, and to J. W. Suite, a high standing citizen who has held the confidence of the people through the years.

He has established himself throughout this section upon the basis of service to the public. Mr. Suite has always taken such an interest and active part in the development and improvment of his blocks and concrete drain pipes, that he has become known far and wide for his able and conscientious work along these lines. Personally he has gained the confidence and respect of his clients in all sections and is a citizen of note throughout central Alabama. What more could be said about a man and his substantial and continuously growing business. Phone 387.

You Get What You Want At Driver's Barbecue

(Payne Publicity)

Any moments that you spend at Driver's Barbecue just North of Clanton proper, is time well spent, regardless of whether that time is spent in eating the extraordinary viands skillfully prepared by the chef or in just relaxing and enjoying the many entertainments they have to offer their patrons and many friends.

Friday evening is much enjoyed by all in as much as it is Madison Square Fight night and many people from Clanton and its surroundings wend their way to this modern cafe to be entertained and at the same time eat and, indeed, relish the many tempting dishes provided at Driver's.

Very many of our people seem to enjoy Driver's barbecue in preference to others. There is something about Driver's barbecue that seems to make it more inviting. Their barbecue, along with other tempting dishes served, are always delicious, thus tempting and most satisfying. Get it at Driver's and thus satisfy your appetite. Arrange for an evening at Driver's.

Eighth Birthday Celebrated—

Martha Green, daughter of Mrs. Sara G. Palmer was eight years old Wednesday, January 16th and she celebrated with a party at her home on Sixth Evenue.

The home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

In the dining room, the party table was centered with a bowl of pink flowers. There was a pink and white cake, bearing the inscription, "Happy Birthday, Martha," and eight burning candles. Streamers of pink crepe paper were artistically used extending from each corner of the room. Inflated baloons in various colors completed the gala decorations.

As the little honoree cut her cake, the girls sang "Happy Birthday, Martha."

Snapshots were made of the happy group during the party hour. After Martha opened her gift packages, each guest was presented with a baloon and a dainty favor suitable for a little lady.

Games and contests were directed by Claire Reese Mullins and Emily Klinner, with prizes going to Danny Jean Hill, Myra Robinson and Lynn Williams.

Ice cream in the party colors was served with the birthday cake to the following guests, Patricia Melton, Carol Arnold, Ann Thompson, Frances Gibson, Becky Mullins, Danny Jean Hill, Lynn Williams, Myrna Robinson, those assisting and Martha's grandmother, Mrs. Joe Green.

ONE FOR THE ROAD!

One more drink—"one for the road!"

It was the Toast to Death for thousands of men and women, and innocent children, too—last year.

The records do not show how many lives were needlessly sacrificed because of alcohol-clouded driving, but they do show that over 6,000 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. Another 2,000 pedestrians met death in traffic, while in an alcoholic haze.

Ask the man who has just had one or two drinks and he'll probably defend his ability to drive. Perhaps he can—but not safely. Alcoholic stimulation breeds carelessness, speeding, recklessness. In another stage it courts drowsiness. Tests have proved that even a moderate number of drinks lowers a driver's reactions to the danger point. Quick response and alert judgment fail in the emergency.

The irresponsible drinking driver is to blame for a particularly heavy share of night-time traffic accidents. Tragically, he endangers not only his own life, but the lives of those riding with him—innocent people in other cars and pedestrians.

So before you take "one for the road," consider the consequences. If you drink, don't drive. You'll never hear better advice.

Actual date of the Honors Scholarships competition will be March 13 through 15 and any high school senior who is in the upper one-fourth of her graduating class will be eligible to compete upon recommendation by her principal.

Competing seniors will be given examinations in ability, achievement, and personality during their three day stay on the campus.

Two full four-year scholarships to cover all fixed charges, including room, board, laundry and all other college fees are offered to seniors in the top competition.

An additional two scholarships will be offered which will cover one-half of all fixed charges, each for a period of four years.

The final four scholarships will each pay for one-third of fixed charges for four years each.

Under the guidance of Dr. Minnie L. Steckel, Student Counselor at the College, Honors Scholarships are a result of donations from friends of the College, Alumnae and faculty members.

Thorsby Cash Store Ideal Place To Buy

(Payne Publicity)

Especially when it comes to groceries, the public says Thorsby Cash Store in Thorsby is the ideal and most logical place to buy. Of course this progressive and alert store, always in the market for modern ideas and modern goods, sells many other items besides groceries.

They are closing out their line of dry goods, piece goods, shoes and notions and it will be money in your pocket to go in and look their stock over. The Thorsby Cash Store buys right and thus sells at prices you can afford to pay. Don't hesitate. Visit the Thorsby Cash Store in Thorsby at your first opportunity. Especially if you have not been in the habit of frequenting this modern store, you will be surprised at the marvelous stock they carry and the modest prices placed on each item in their store. Be a Thorsby Cash Store patron and you will save money.

OPS RETURNS MONEY TO OVERCHARGED BUYER AT JASPER, ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 16—In the first case of its kind in the Southeast, the Montgomery Office of Price Stabilization today collected $75 and returned it to a Jasper, Ala., woman who was overcharged when she bought a used car.

The receiver of the money was Mrs. Lily A. Brock, a Jasper widow.

According to the South Alabama O PS enforcement director, Dink Halstead, a certified check was placed in the mail to her today (Jan. 16.)

"The check was signed by Joseph T. Cox of Clanton who sold Mrs. Brock a 1936 Chevrolet for $300," Halstead said. "The legal ceiling price was $225.

Cox, 64, told OPS enforcement special agents that he had been advised by an attorney that there was no ceiling price on the car.

"The transaction took place March 23, 1951, but was not reported to OPS until October 24," the enforcement directir said.

"Several similar cases of ceiling price violations are also pending in South Alabama, some of them involving triple damages," Halstead said.

"In the Cox case we collected only single damages because it was not a willful violation," he said. "Double and triple damages are sought by OPS whenever an individual or firm willfully violates the law."

Halstead added that, "Cox is not a used car dealer, but sold the car as an individual."

MONTHLY ALL-NIGHT SINGING OF MONTGOMERY YOUTH SINGERS TO BE HELD FEB. 2

The next monthly All-Night Singing of the Montgomery Youth Singers will be held February 2nd in Montgomery's City Auditorium. Directors of the event say they expect the largest crowd ever as the Famous Wally Fowler and his Oak Ridge Quartet, Nashville, Tenn.; the popular Fred C. Maples and his Harmoneers Quartet, Decatur, Ga.; the DeKloud Indian Family of South Dakota, dressed in original costume; and the young group from Birmingham, Ala., plus others will be featured.

An interesting note of the All-Nite Singing is that since the beginning up to this date there has been 154 towns represented in the State of Alabama, and 33 states including Canada. The Montgomery Youth Singers have as their honored guest each month Korean War Veterans from the Maxwell Air Force Hospital.

Devaughn's Is Tops In Groceries And Market

(Payne Publicity)

One of the best stocked grocery stores and markets that we have visited in a long time is the Devaughn store almost opposite the Willingham Hotel here in Clanton. This store, operated by Messrs. J. W. Devaughn and his estimable son, J. O. DeVaughn, is in every way modern and complete, sanitary in every particular and, most inviting, to those who want fresh groceries, best choices of meats, country produce, fruits and vegetables. This firm also conducts another store at White City, which gives them additional buying power on account of buying in larger quantities—thus getting a better discount—and giving patrons the advantage of their savings.

The DeVaughns are natives of Chilton County and are proud of their nativity, and are always boosters in any movement that will help the county and its people on to the better things in life. The DeVaughns are living with the new spirit of the new times and thus their mottoe is: "Standard goods at lowest possible prices." When it comes to groceries, select meats, country produce and novelties it will pay you to wend your way to the DeVaughn stores, see their immense stock. Learn their prices and be convinced that what we tell you is right—one of the best grocery stores and market in Central Alabama.

Herman A. Lecroy And Firestone Make Friends

(Payne Publicity)

To be a constant and persistent booster for the home community very often takes courage and plenty of optimism. It is because of his unfailing faith in the future of Clanton and Chilton county, and his unflaging efforts to promote its development that Herman A. Lecroy, the Firestone dealer, plus accessories and Shell gas, is selected now for this brief tribute.

Mr. Lecroy has always followed the policy of building his business ahead of the community and a visit to his store and filling station will clearly demonstrate this point, and his daily activities brings an ever increasing number of people to make Clanton their business headquarters. He is also a man of keen business judgement, whose ideals have been an inspiration to many who know him. His personality and energy in directing the operation of his business are important factors in its outstanding success. We are glad to pay this deserved tribute to Herman A. Lecroy and to point out to our readers that here is the guiding genius behind the popular service rendered to Clanton and Chilton County people who appreciate reliable merchandise and par-excellent service.

For a delicious luncheon dish spread toast with deviled ham and top with creamed eggs. Serve with a crunchy carrot and green pepper slaw for good texture and color contrast.

Most Seed Corn Sold According To Grade

Auburn, Ala.—Buyers of seed corn find that most of it is labeled according to grade. This method of handling seed corn on the market is relatively new, and farmers are often confused as to why the corn is graded and what grade they should use.

Ralph Jones, API Extension Service seed marketing specialist explains that more and more seed corn is made up of hybrid varieties. This situation necessitates a grading system since hybrid seed have a wider variation in seed size than open pollinated varieties. Of course, in machine planting this variation in size interferes with regularity of dropping to obtain uniform stands.

"Hybrid seed corn is graded into flat and round grains, ranging in sizes from large to small," says Jones. "The size planter to give uniform stands, price a farmer should use is based upon the and other factors being the same. In other words, there is no evidence to indicate that the size or shape of the kernel has any appreciable effect upon grade which he can best use with his yield."

Farmers who buy Alabama certified seed will find that it is tagged to show both the grade and screen dimensions used in sizing. This additional information is given to aid farmers in selectng planter plates.

To The Citizens And Taxpayers Of Chilton County

In the last week issue of the Chilton County News, I made the statement that I would be a candidate for Probate Judge, and the so-called "missing funds" will be an issue in the campaign.

The State Auditors have tried to, and have permitted others to make the citizens and taxpayers of Chilton County believe that there was about $240,000.00 of Chilton County funds missing. Of this amount they charged me with $37,560.29.

I would like to make this statement. If the State Auditor had left off Liquor, Pills and Politics while examining the records of Chilton County, your Officials would have a good report.

I have been reliably informed that Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama, was fully informed as to the condition of the State Auditor examining the Commissioner's Court Records of Chilton County. He was called over long distance telephone by a high official of Chilton County, and told that the State Auditor was carried to the Willingham Hotel in bad shape and to come up here and do something about it. And on another occasion A State law enforcement officer called Mr. Eagerton over long distance telephone and informed him that Mr. Roland L. Sparkman, State Auditor, was in bad shape. He had found him in the room where the County records were, shedding tears and threatening to commit suicide. He immediately called the sheriff of Chilton County in, and other citizens saw Mr. Roland L. Sparkman in this condition. If Mr. Eagerton or Roland L. Sparkman say the above statements are not true, then I will publish the affidavits, and you may decide whether they are true or false.

I well know, that if I get your vote and support, I must prove to you from the records and the Auditors report that I did not get one dollar of Chilton County's money that did not belong to me. And when I do this, I shall ask you for your vote and support.

It is a matter of record that when I checked out of office, there was in the County Treasury, Two Hundred Forty-eight Thousand, Nine Hundred Eighty-nine Dollars and Nineteen cents ($248,989.19).

Your Health
REDUCE SAFELY

An increase of fifteen per cent or more above normal weight means obesity, excessive weight or fatness. Aside from the ungainly and awkward appearance of the fat person, the health outlook is bad. The fat person is more susceptible to diabetes, gall-bladder disease, hardening of the arteries, gout, bronchitis, lung disorders, high blood pressure, and many degenerative diseases. The fat person is also a surgical risk.

In reducing, the diet must be planned so that it contains a sufficient quantity of essential foods, including proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals, and fluids, all of which are necessary to repair the cells and provide new tissue. The diet should be preferably high in protein and low in fats and carbohydrates.

Fat should be taken off gradually and regularly. Any sudden change in fat deposits of the body may affect the heart's capacity to adjust. The interference with the action of the heart is probably the most common and serious effect of excessive weight. Every extra pound of flesh requires an additional two-thirds mile of blood vessels into which the heart must pump the blood. In fat persons, the heart is being forced to do 15 to 50 per cent more work than is intended. Again, the extra flesh is really active tissue. To be kept alive it requires additional oxygen and nourishment. To do this, the liver and other organs that help to prepare food fo rthe tissue must suffer.

There is no need to be really fat. Have a thorough physical examination by a competent physician to determine the cause of the overweight, and then increase your years by decreasing your weight.

BRIGHTEN UP THAT SOILED UMBRELLA

Auburn, Ala.—Umbrellas that become dingy or spotted with soil can usually be cleaned at home with a soapsuds shampoo.

"Before washing," says Levice Ellis, API Extenison Service clothing specialist, "open the umbrella and brush the fabric with a clothes brush to remove loose dust or dry mud. Grease spots should be sponged with cleaning fluid."

She points out that the bathtub is a convenien tplace to wash, rinse, and dry an umbrella. Hold the open umbrella over the tub and go over the outside with a soft brush dipped in thick, lukewarm suds of mild soap. Handle and wash umbrella gently to avoid strain on the stretched fabric.

"An easy way to rinse the umbrella," reveals Miss Ellis, "is to hold it under a spray of lukewarm water from the shower.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

By MARSHAL L. WARE

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

This disease chiefly affects children and consists of an acute inflamation within the Spinal Cord, which produces the different in coordinations of the tem, that lead to this form of paralysis. The onset is sudden, with fever, and within a few days the legs and sometimes the arms are paralyzed. There is some pain in the spinal région and in the extremities affected. The paralysis is flaccid and the foot cannot be flexed. Often paralysis subsides in the extremities least affected, leaving one leg permanently paralyzed. This leg wastes away, becomes deformed, and may develop into club-foot. The use of this leg is never regained completely and the patient has a characteristic gait, (walk).

The permanent effect of the disease depends entirely on changes which take place in the spinal cord as a result of the inflammation. If this is continued over a sufficiently long period, it causes destruction of the nerves which control the muscles and so deprives the patient of the use of the extremity affected. The improvement which takes place when the use of some of the paralyzed parts is restored, indicates that the inflammation is subsiding, but the permanent paralysis of one extremity is ue to the destruction of nerve tissue at the point in the spinal cord which was the chief center of inflammation. At this point the excessive heat prolonged over a long enough time has destroyed nerve tissue, which can never be fully restored.

If the patient is fortunate enough to come into the Chiropractor's hands before the destruction of nerve tissue has taken place, the inflammation will completely subside under adjustments to remove the pressure on the nerves giving rise to the inflammation. The cure is contingent. A reduction of the inflamation in the spinal cord in the very early stages is astonishingly rapid under Chiropractic adjustments. The longer the inflammation is allowed to continue the more extensive are the permanent effects upon the patient. The child should therefore receive the attention of a Chiropractor as soon as the disease develops. Better yet—a spinal examination and general health analysis insure against its occurence.

Baptist News—

Some weeks ago a goal of 100 in attendance was set for Sunday School. That goal was reached Sunday, Jan. 20. There was a splendid group of young people, intermediates and juniors. The rooms in the new building are being used, though they are not entirely finished.

Rev. Carroll taught a study course last week, including those from 15 years on up. There was a good attendance.

Rev. Carroll will continue in the book of John on Wednesday evening.

Maplesville Completes Water System

Mr. V. B. McCain, Mayor of Maplesville, reports efforts of the Town over a long period to obtain a public water system was brought to a successful conclusion on January 22, 1952, by the acceptance of the completed project from the contractors. The system consists of a deep well supply, a treatment plant for the removal of iron, a steel storage reservoir, and a distribution system of water mains of various sizes serving virtually all of the business and residential areas. The system was designed by Donald Mills, Consulting Engineer, and cost $68,000.-00. It was financed by the issuance of a like amount of 4% Waterworks Revenue Bonds of the Town, which were sold to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at par and accrued interest. With the construction of a public waterworks system affording a dependable and safe water supply and a high degree of fire protection, Mr. McCain and the other officials of the Town are confidant that the community will continue to grow in size and importance.

Chilton Democrats To Hold County Executive Meeting

A meeting of the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee will be held next Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the courthouse.

Purpose of this meeting will be to prescribe rules and regulations for the coming primary in May and to fix qualifying fees.

VISUAL SURVEY CONTINUES IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The Optometric Visual Survey in the Clanton Elementary School continues in operation. Approximately 200 students have already been tested under the program and notices have been sent to their parents.

Each notice denotes which of the three final ratings the student receives All three ratings are explained in the notice as follows:

PASSING—Vision not necessarily 100 percent efficient but for the present deemed adequate for school work.

BARELY PASSING—Poor in certain of the screening tests indicating a visual handicap which may need professional attention soon.

FAILURE—Condition of eyes or vision such that immediate professional attention is recommended.

The Health Committee of the P. T. A. urges the parents to give serious study to the notices. A child with a visual problem is greatly handicapped in his education. Visual inadequacies interfere with efficiency and learning powers.

The primary object of the visual survey is to inform those students who are visually handicapped in order that they might seek correction of their deficiences for the sake of their general and scholastic achievement.

Michael Rhodes In Second Of Concert Series

MICHAEL RHODES

The Chilton County Community Concert Association in the second series of concerts presents Michael Rhodes, the American baritone who will appear here on Friday, Feb. 8, at 8:00 o'clock, at the First Baptist Church was auspiciously launched as soloist under Stokowski with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony in 1949 in an all-Wagner program, and was so successful that he was reengaged by the Philharmonic to appear in a concert version of Strauss' "Elektra" under Mitropoulos the following season. He has since toured the country extensively, and appeared with three orchestras of the southwest.

The dark-haired, husky, six-foot-two baritone was born in Brooklyn, August 13, 1924. There was nothing especially musical in his backgrown; his father was comptroller of a chain of movie houses. He went to the neighborhood public school and to Tilden High. After school hours, he was a busy Boy Scout. One summer he was fifteen, he was at a Scout Camp and singing lustily in his bunk when a leader, passing by, heard him. Impressed by his voice, he recruited him for a broadcast which NBC was preparing for national Boy Scout Day. Mike made his radio debut in "Shortnin' Bread".

The war interrupted the young baritone's studies. For three years he was a member of a Special Service Unit in the Army Air Corps, until, temporarily injured in a plane crash, he was discharged.

His debut came when he was called to replace an ill singer in the part of John the Baptist in Strauss' "Salome".

Mrs. Hugh Jones is publicity chairman.

THE J. H. BLANKENSHIPS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Sunday, Jan. the 20th, was a good day for Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blankenship, and also their children, grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends who were present to celebrate with them their 50th wedding anniversary. They have been happily married since Jan. the 16th, 1902, and were married only two miles west of Clanton. She was the daughter of J. H. Willoughby. They now live three miles north of Clanton. They have three children Robert Lee Blankenship of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Earl A. Crowder of Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. C. F. McCain of Birmingham. Seven grand children: Carolyn and Mary Ann McCain, Martha Ruth Crowder, Elmer Earl, Jimmie, Ungrid and John Robert Blankenship.

The son being unable to be present, called to wish them many more happy anniversaries.

Brothers and sisters present were, J. H., Rube A., and Walter L. Willoughby, all of Birmingham; Mrs. W. G. Culver, Mrs. C. W. Stanley and Mrs. Fred Gray all of Clanton; and Mrs. Alice Candler of Birmingham; and Uke Blankenship of Talladega.

The decorations were flowers of chrysanthemums, snap-dragons, and jonguills. The cake was white with bells of white and gold decorations. Refreshments were cake, nuts and punch.

The reception was a surprise given by the children.

The many gifts received and the presence of each one was dearly appreciated by the sweet, elderly couple.

CHILTON COUNTY IS LAND OF PROMISE

Payne Publicity has been coming to Clanton for the past 21 years, at intervals, and during that period he has traversed many states and cities, and to say the least we find that Chilton County is the land of promise.

Our travels have taken us into industrial States such as Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Illinois and many lesser States, and we are definitely convinced that Chilton County has promise of a bright and still more fructifying future.

Its soil is well adapted to many things and various diversified products. Already we are coming to be known as the peach center of the South. Added to this the berry business is a paying venture in this central section of Alabama.

More industries are locating in this section and a promise of more is in the offing, and just now Chilton County has several most inviting sites laid off that should and we believe will be interesting to the firm or individual seeking a suitable building site.

Labor here, both male and female, is available, and the industrialist will do well to point his arrow in the direction of Chilton County.

Clanton and Chilton County have the best people in the world. We here are proud of our citizenship and we know the man or men, women included, will be truly glad if they conclude to reside here. Peace and harmony reigns at all times. Our citizens understand one another. No petty quibling, no disagreement, no chislers, no habitual naggers—just a God loving citizenry who want to live in peace and harmony with their neighbors.

Clanton and Chilton County challenge the world, and if we did not think so, we would have told you.

THE SECOND MILLION

The ink is hardly dry on the widely-published announcement that "Victim X" is dead. Hardly dry, either, are the tears of his or her saddened family, for "Victim X" was the unknown man, woman or child who recently became a shocking national symbol of hideous recklessness on our country's streets and highways.

Bad enough is the realization that in the 176 years of our nation's life a million sons had to die gallantly in battle to preserve the freedoms and privileges we so rightly cherish. Far worse and strictly dishonorable is the appalling announcement that in only a third of that time we have permitted another million citizens to be battered and crushed to death in traffic accidents, needlessly and many times criminally. But frightful to the point of reeling unbelief is the cold knowledge that at the present rate we are speeding to a second million such victims within a mere 25 years.

It must not happen!

It will not happen if every citizen, as a matter of sheer necessity for self-preservation, does his or her part promptly, consistently and courageously. Let us demand that our law-makers give us laws with teeth that will stop speeding, drunken, reckless drivers. Let us demand that our police departments enforce the law sternly and impartially—and give them enough men to do the job. Let us tell our judges that we will no longer tolerate "slap-on-the-wrist" sentences when prison or at least permanent revocation of all motoring privileges, including ownership of a car, should be the penalty Finally, let us look squarely at our own selves and grimly say:

"Yes, you too!"

Sure, this is tough language! But it is mild compared to getting splattered to death or maimed for life by some fool at the wheel. Of this you may be sure—unless we write tough, talk tough, get and stay tough an awful lot of us are due for a mighty brief and not at all sweet life. We will either stop horror on the highway now or it will stop us any minute.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

You've heard of bats in the belfry. Well, a crowd of ladies were at sister Mary's house the other day and they tell us that a squirrel ate right through the wall paper and started to come and join the game. Seems the little fellow had got into the attic and was hunting a way out. The last time we saw Buck he had his flintlock rifle and looked a lot like Daniel Boone tracking down the culprit that had just ruined a new wallpaper job. Haven't heard how he or the squirrel came out.

Heard a candidate for public office down the street the other day muttering to himself. We asked him if politics had him talking to himself. "Yep." He answered. "And getting some of the silliest answers."

We understand the citizens of the East Side of Seventh Street still aren't satisfied with the parking situation on their side of the street. It's very easy to see their point. Rumor has it that parking may be tried there and when the parkee is arrested he will fight the case in court and see what's what.

Got us a camera now and we're having more fun than a barrel of monkeys taking pictures for the press. Hope before too many moons to be fixed where we can produce our own engravings and then you'll really see some pictures of Chilton County and Chilton County people.

The Chilton County News will wear a different appearance after next week. We are going to a seven column paper instead of the old six column paper as in the past. Understand there are only about a dozen six column papers left in the State and sooner or later all will be running the seventh column. Hope you like it.

A neighbor sitting at his window one evening recently casually called to his wife: "There goes that woman that Charley Jones is so terribly in love with." His wife, in the kitchen, dropped a plate, knocked over a table, kicked over a garbage pail, busted through the door, knocked over a lamp, and craned her neck out the window. "Where, where;" she panted. "That woman in the gaberdine suit on the corner." "You idiot," she replied, "that's his wife." "Yes, of course. I know," he replied.

You know about the girl who told the fellow she never went out with perfect strangers. "That's OK," he replied. "I'm not perfect."

We had seven women, count 'em. Seven, women, hop all over us about one thing or the other the past week. That's not counting the wife. It was just one of those weeks when no matter what you said, it was wrong. In one case we heard about a lady who was getting ready to jump all over us for what we didn't do. But she heard about the other seven and felt sorry for us. Course one more wouldn't have made much difference one way or the other—we were licked after we finished the first round with number one.

PSYCHOMAX

I've developed a strange phobia ever since the MacArthur celebrations took place several weeks ago. No matter where I go or what I do, "Old soldiers never die—they just fade away" seems to haunt me and I just can't get away from it or solve the meaning of it, no matter how hard I try.

I often say to myself, "Max, you're not an American any more because you can't feel and understand such a patriotic statement from a great soldier." Then again, when I'm in my favorite bar I know how hard I try to stand up and salute when the television plays the Star Spangled Banner before the fights — so I say to myself, "Max, you must be an American — look how hard you try..." Then "Old Soldiers never die — they just fade away" grips me again and I keep mumbling it over and over again, and wondering if there ain't too many old soldiers around who never die...and that is why apartments and rooms are so difficult to find... until my girl friend gets fed up and snaps back, "Old soldiers never die — they just fade away from the battle scene and let the young soldiers die... That's why we young girls have to go out with old frogs like you." Then I look at her and she looks quite mad and she says, "Old frogs never die — they just croak away."

So to avoid arguments I says... "Honey, I think I'll go over and play a little poker with the boys..." And she snaps back, "Poker eh? Old Poker players never die'— they just pass away....and never mind about old soldiers fading away. My old dress is fadaing away, it's about time you bought me a new one."

So I says..."Some chiseler! Trying to capitalize on a great patriotic statement that some great general made." And she says..."Now don't chisel away from the dress..and. please — don't faint away."

So, in order to beat her to the punch, I says..."Faint? Old prizefighters never die — they just feint away." And as I sparred off to show her how to feint, she says..."Don't raise your hands to me, you brute." And she picked up a bottle and that's all I remember. But I'll never forget "Old soldiers never die — they just fade away..."

THIS WEEK'S TALK

Words Of Great Men

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

Below we list words of two great men, men who lived long time ago, but their words are immortal. The passing of the years, and the changing of the times, have not blotted out the memory, nor erased their words from mortal man. First, we shall notice the words of Abraham Lincoln—"We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which has preserved us in peace, and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to God that made us."...Though these words were spoken many years ago: They are so timely today. For we are still the recipients of the choicest bounties, and we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation under heaven. But isn't it true, we have forgotten God, and forgotten to give Him praise for the blessings we have received from heaven. We are enclined to believe that it is through our own wisdom and might that we have succeeded as we have. Family altars in the American home are the thing of the past. Today, the home is used only for a sleeping place; not much time to even eat. No time for worship around the fire side. Christ and His Word is pushed outside, and the devil with television and rotten pictures have moved in.

Now let us note the words of Benjamin Franklin—"Some indeed among us are not so much grieved for the present state of our affairs, as apprehensive for the future...They observe, that no revenue is sufficient without economy, and that the most plentiful income of a whole people from the natural productions of their country may be dissipated in vain and needless expenses, and poverty be introduced in the place of affluence."...Let us not forget that God helps them that help themselves; and there are no gains without pain. And a dollar saved is a dollar made...Friend, somewhere in the setup of the affairs of our beloved Country is a need for a change. Let us believe that a brighter horizon illumes for 1953...1952 is to tell the story... Watch and pray.

TRUCK CROPS

In 1951 one truck crop grower sold $1,300 worth of tomatoes from 1 and one-fourth acres. Pole beans brought $600 to $800 per acre in many cases. Strawberries and trailing-type blackberries are also high income producing crops.

To The Citizens And Tax Payers Of Chilton County And The State Of Alabama

I was convicted for drawing Ex-Officio fees for road duties. The Probate Judge of Chilton County is not paid a salary. The only money he gets for his services are fees.

When I assumed the duties of the Probate Office, I did not know what fees I was entitled to. Mr. Omar L. Reynolds set up the fees for me. Mr. Omar L. Reynolds and his brother, Grady Reynolds, were employed by me to advise me during the entire twelve years I was in office, and I paid them for their services every three months. They were also appointed by the Court of County Commissioners to advise them as to the legality of all claims or any other matters that might come before the Court.

I cannot criticize Reynolds & Reynolds if they did make a mistake in advising me as to the fees that I was entitled to, for their father, Judge L. H. Reynolds, whom I succeeded in office, was paid the same fees that I was convicted for receiving and it is a matter of record. I know that if they had any idea that their father was violating any criminal law they would not have permitted him to draw it. I may have made a mistake. However, I was advised by good counsel.

I made a statement in the Chilton County County News and the Union-Banner relative to the condition of the State Auditor, Roland L. Sparkman, while auditing the records of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County. I have also made the statement that the so-called "missing funds" of Chilton County would be an issue in the campaign.

It appears to me that Mr. T. E. Wyatt, owner and editor of the Union-Banner, a Republican newspaper, wished to challenge the issue. I have many affidavits in my possession, or I should say in a safety deposit box in the bank. Mr. T. E. Wyatt is a Republican, Mr. Roland L. Sparkman was a State Auditor and I am a Democrat.

I am publishing one affidavit which reads as follows:

"STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY

Before me, the undersigned autroity for said County and in said State, personally appeared C. B. Cox, who, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, on oath, that he is personally acquainted with R. L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman and was acquainted with him during all of the year of 1949 and for sometime thereto, and that during the year 11949 the said Sparkman was engaged at intervals in the auditing or assisting in the auditing of the Commissioners Court of County, Alabama and that on one afternoon during the early part of 1949, the said Sparkman was in the room of the courthouse known as the Treasurer's office, on the second floor of the courthouse of Chilton County, and in the room where the auditors had the records, papers and documents belonging to Chilton County and pertaining to the Commissioners Court, including warrants, claims and evidence in support of claims filed with the Commissioners Court by different vendors and claimants and affiant says that about 9 o'clock P.M., he saw said Sparkman in said room of said courthouse and that said Sparkman was in a highly nervous state and was crying and shedding tears and affient stayed there with Sparkman, J. L. Kendrick, State Highway Patrol, and J. A. Nivens, Sheriff of Chilton County, for some few minutes and that Sheriff Nivens said he was going home, that he wasn't going to fool with him any longer and I then left said Sparkman and J. L. Kendrick, State Highway Patrol, together in said room.

"Affiant further says that in his best judgement and opinion, the said R. L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman, at the time affiant saw him, as stated above, was wholly incapable of having possession of public records and that there was no other auditor or State employee with the said Sparkman except said Kendrick, or in charge of the records above mentioned.

C. B. Cox

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this the 2th day of May, 1950.

Anent The Office Of Court Clerk

(Payne Publicity)

There have been rumors afloat that Mr. Patillo, our most congenial Circuit Clerk, would have opposition in the forth-coming primary election.

Two or three individuals have been mentioned, but in our opinion they will not get far. Mr. Patillo has been a most conscientious public servant and a new man in that office would be more or less of a novice. Then, again, Mr. Patillo needs that office more now than ever before. Like ourselves he is aging and there is little else he could do to sustain a livlihood. The writer has made quite a canvass of the county and it is to our opinion that Mr. Patillo is the choice of the people by long odds. The fact that he has been serving in that capacity is not a question in the issue, for it could be truthfully said of Mr. Pattillo as from the bible: "Well done my good and faithful servant." enter again into the realms of the Circuit Clerk's office, and may the best days of your past life be the worst days of your future life. Mr. Pattillo will continue to serve in this capacity, as the people of Chilton County will have it thus.

Where And How They Are

Serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Badoeng Strait with United Nations forces in the Far East is Alonzo W. Hayes, Jr., radioman, second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Hayes of Route 1, Stnaton, Ala., and husband of the former Miss Doreen K. Murphy of Vancouver, Canada.

The Badoeng Strait is engaged in close air support of UN troops of the Korean peninsula, and anti-submarine patrols of costal waters. The veteran flat-top is on its second tour of duty in the Far Eastern area.

Marvin Davis, of Rt. 2, Clanton, Ala., was recently promoted to the rank of sergeant while serving with the 3rd Infantry Division in Korea.

The 3rd Division has participated in the Korean fighting for over a year, and has seen action in five campaigns up and down the Korean peninsula.

Seargeant Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis of Rt. 1, Verbena, is a member of Company C of the 7th Infantry Regiment. He arrived in Korea in August 1950 and has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge.

Private First Class Cecil T. Killingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evell A. Killingsworth of Rt. 1, Montevalla, Ala., has arrived at Craig Air Force Base and has been assigned to the 3615th Maintenance Squadron.

Private Killingsworth re-enlisted in the Air Force in January of 1952. Prior to his re-enlistment, he has served at Scott and Chanute Air Force Bases, Illinois, and Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico.

He has been employed by the TCI Sheet Mill, Fairfield, Ala.

Pvt. James H. Golson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mattie L. Golson, of West Clanton, Ala., has re-enlisted in the Army for six years, the Fort Benning recruiting office has announced.

Private Golson, who is now in Co. M, 30th Infantry Regt., Combat Training Command, Fort Benning, has been in the Army three years. His decorations include the Korean Service Medal, Bronze Star, Combat Infantry Badge, Japanese Occupation Ribbon, and Good Conduct Medal.

As a member of Combat Training Command, he takes part in demonstrations for students at Fort Benning's famous Infantry School.

Recently arrived on Clark Air Force Base, Philippines, was S-Sgt. Billy J. Clements, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Grover, Rt. 1, Maplesville. Sergeatn Clements is the husband of Mrs. Jennie Clements of Montgomery.

Following his arrival on the Philippines base, Sgt. Clements was assigned to the 6205th Air Police Group, 13th Air Force on Clark AFB.

With the U. S. Air Force since Dec. 1945 Sgt. Clements is currently serving his [illegible] overseas tour of duty, having [illegible] Europe from 1946 through 1946.

Ottis O. Owens of Clanton has recently been promoted to the grade of corporal, it was announced here today.

Corporal Owens, who is serving with the Dixie Division at Fort Jackson, is in Co. B of the 167th Regt.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Owens of Rt. 1. His wife is the former Kathryn Grimes of Billingsley.

Pvt. Jimmie D. Fuller, Rt. 1, Equality, Ala., is serving with the 7th Inf. Div. in the snow-covered mountains of Korea.

In recent action the 7th has been patrolling and probing entrenched positions north of the 38th Parallel.

Private Fuller, a rifleman in the 32nd Inf. Regt., entered the Army in January 1951. He has been awarded the Korean Service Ribbon with one campaign star and the Combat Infantryman Badge.

Fuller attended Rockford High School.

Roy Eiland, seaman apprentice USN, of Rt. 4, Clanton, has reported for duty aboard the attack transport USS Menifee, in the Far East.

Eiland, who entered the Naval service July 10, 1951, received his recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Sgt. Tyus E. Brown, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Brown of Rt. 1, Verbena, Ala., recently arrived in Japan from Korea with the 1st Cavalry Division.

The division, now assigned to security duty on Hokkiado, Japan's northern-most island, was the second U. S. division to enter the Korean fighting, making an unopposed amphibious landing at Pohang-dong in July 1950.

Brown, who is now a squad leader with the 5th Cavalry Regiments Company F. arrived in Korea on August 10 and was awarded the Purple Heart, Combat Infantryman Badge, and Korean Service Ribbon with one campaign star.

His wife, Martha, lives in Verbena.

Standard Products And Marvin Prude Serve Well

(Payne Publicity)

You know Standard Products, oils and gasoline. Atlas Tires just can't be beat. And do you know (you should) that Marvin Prude, managing this popular service station makes friends at every opportunity and on account of this he has increased his business at the Standard Service Station at 218 Seventh Street, North, phone 9112, two fold since becoming the head of the station.

Marvin came to us from Birmingham and has so conducted his business that today he and his service is known far and wide throughout Central Alabama. He is one of those obliging fellows who is never satisfied with doing things haphazard. On the other hand he feels that the old saying is a good motto to follow. "What is worth doing at all is worth doing right." If for any reason you are not a patron of the Standard Service Station at 218 Seventh Street, North, in Clanton, drive into this well rated service station and note the difference. Always, first quality in Gasoline and oils, and service unexcelled. That's what you'll find at this up-to-the minute station.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach To Natural Health

By—
MARSHALL L. WARE

Sick · Headache

Migraine is a very severe headache which begins at the base of the skull and radiates upward and forward on one side of the head. The pain is intense and throbbing and is increased upon stooping or hearing loud noises. The eyes are sensitive to light and feel heavy. The patient is much depressed, feels weak and suffers from indigestion. Vomiting occurs frequently. The attacks may last for hours or even days. It is often spoken of as "sick headache." The disease chiefly affects women and is always associated with digestive disorders. The attacks usually occur at times when the patient is under some heavy nervous strain.

The vomiting and pain are due to the presence of bile in the stomach. There is much discussion going on just now with regard to the question of whether normally there is not a small amount of bile admitted into the stomach during the process of gastric digestion, and good authorities on the subject of physiology can be quoted in support of that view. However, it is recognized by all authorities that a considerable quantity of bile in the stomach is always abnormal and will cause headache and vomiting.

In order for bile to enter the stomach it has to pass upward through a ring of muscle fibers which closes the opening from the stomach. This ring acts as a valve, opening and closing in response to nerve impulses. This is how the movement of food from the stomach to the intestines is regulated. Inco-ordinations in the nervous control of the valve may permit its opening, and passage into the stomach of excessive quantities of bile and until this passes out again or is vomited, the headaches persist.

Migraine is a disease which usually responds readily to Chiropractic adjustments. Many cases are on record of complete cure after suffering with the condition over long periods of time. A number of such patients have become Chiropractors because they were enthusiastic over what Chiropractic had done for them.

We would like to take this opportunity to welcome the Maize family of Wetumpka, Ala., to our little community. We hope that they will be very happy here. Again we say, 'Welcome.'

Monday night, Jan. 28, the Clanton Independent basketball team motored over to Bessemer and played Teague Poultry. The game was really rugged and both teams were neck and neck at the end of the 2nd quarter. The score was 17-18 in Clanton's favor. But in that second half it looked like Clanton had 'buttered fingers' because they just couldn't hold that ball.

Bessemer beat them 44 to 39. This was the first game they have lost.

These boys are really good, so why don't you readers of this column come n ut and see these boys. Thursday night they play Avondale Mills at Sylacauga at 8:00.

Do You Need Insurance?

When you need groceries, go to a grocery store.

When you need medical attention, go to a doctor.

When in need of insurance, go to an established insurance agency.

Briefly, the law provides that the driver of an automobile involved in an accident in which someone is killed or injured, or property is damaged in excess of the amount provided by the law, must promptly report the accident to the proper authority and file evidence of security.

If the owner or the driver does not have automobile bodily injury and property damage liability insurance, the registration of the owner and the operating license of the driver will be suspended, unless the owner or driver or both are able to deposit sufficient security for the payment of any judgment for damage resulting from the accident.

MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE AND CONTROL OF CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA OF JANUARY 14, 1952.

Board Meeting
January 14, 1952

The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, met in regular session at the county courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on January 14, 1952, at 9:00 o'clock a.m. The following were present: W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and Chairman of said Board, and the following Associate Members of said Board: V. O. Lenoir, A. H. Smith, Welch Roebuck and J. M. Dunlap; absent: none, Judge Parrish presided as Chairman of the meeting and, a quorum being present, declared the meeting open for the transaction of business.

Whereupon, the Clerk of the Board read the minutes of the meeting of the Board held on December 18, 1951, whereupon the Chairman of the Board asked for corrections or additions to said minutes, there being no corrections or additions to said minutes and the same being correct, Mr. Smith made a motion that said minutes stand adopted as read, whereupon Mr. Roebuck seconded said motion, which motion was unanimously carried, and all the members present, except Mr. Dunlap, affixed their signatures to said minutes in the presence of the Board and the Clerk.

WHEREUPON, the Clerk of the Board read the minutes of the meeting of the Board held on December 24, 1951, whereupon the Chairman of the Board asked for corrections or additions to said minutes; there being no corrections or additions to said minutes and the same being correct, Mr. Lenoir made a motion that said minutes stand adopted as read, whereupon Mr. Dunlap seconded said motion, which motion was unanimously carried, and all members of said Board affixed their signatures to said minutes in the presence of the Board and the Clerk.

Mr. Smith offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Roebuck:

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the Board does hereby employ Buster Darby as Janitor of the Chilton County Jail effective January 15, 1952 at the salary of $50.00 per month.

The above stated resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of the members present.

WHEREUPON, the Clerk of the Board presented to the Board a list of all claims and accounts filed with him against the County. Whereupon the Board proceeded to audit all such claims, and it appearing to the Board that each of the following claims are itemized and sworn to, as provided by law, with evidence of delivery of each item to the county, as provided by law, that the materials, machinery, equipment and supplies purchased by the county for use on public roads, bridges and ferries were inspected and approved by the County Engineer, as provided by law. And it further appearing to the Board that all said claims are just, due, correct and unpaid and that no part thereof has been previously paid. Whereupon Mr. Roebuck offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Lenoir; and unanimously adopted by the vote of the Chairman and all members of the Board: BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That said claims are hereby audited, allowed, passed and approved by the Board. And be it further ordered by the Board that each of the claims, payable to the respective parties as hereinafter set out, for the materials or services as hereinafter set out, and in the amounts as hereinafter set out, be allowed, AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the Chairman of the Board is hereby directed and authorized to draw a proper county warrant on the county treasury for the correct amount in the payment of each of said claims, in favor of the person, firm or corporation to whom it is due, from the funds listed:

THE GREATEST CAR EVER BUILT IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD

The big 1952 FORD

Out-performs them all!
Ford's completely new 101-h.p. high-compression, low-friction Six, with free-turning overhead valves, is the most modern Six in the industry. And Ford's high-compression V-8, now 110 h.p., is the most powerful engine in the low-price field. Both are available with performance-proved Fordomatic Drive.

Out-rides them all!
The '52 Ford gives you riding comfort such as you have never before experienced in a car in the low-price field. With front springs tailored to the weight of each model, longer rear springs and diagonally mounted shock absorbers, Ford's Automatic Ride Control gives you the smoothest, easiest ride of them all—a level ride on straightaways, an even keel on curves.

Exclusive Power Pilot Economy!
Both the new Ford Mileage Maker Six and the Strato-Star V-8 have the exclusive Ford Automatic Power Pilot. This completely integrated carburetion-ignition-combustion system gives you high-compression "go" on "regular" gas.

Out-sizes them all!
The '52 Ford has longer wheelbase, wider front tread and greater length. It's big outside and big inside, with spacious seating for six and the largest luggage locker of them all.

New Coachcraft Bodies!
Ford's new Coachcraft Bodies are longer, stronger . . . distinctive in their modern beauty. They offer new hull-tight construction which seals out dust, weather and noise. And Ford has more color and upholstery combinations than any other car in its field!

Full-Circle Visibility!
With narrower corner pillars, picture windows all around and a rear window that's 48% larger you have "all-direction" vision that adds to your enjoyment and your safety.

Out-values them all!
With such modern design and engineering features as new Flight-Style Control Panel, new Power-Pivot Clutch and Brake Pedals, new Center-Fill Fueling, and new counterbalanced hood and deck lid, Ford adds up to more dollars and cents value than any car in its price class!

Fordomatic Drive, Overdrive, white sidewall tires (if available) and two-tone colors on Customline Sedan optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

'52 Ford

You can pay more but you can't buy newer or better!

THE KEMP DRY GOODS CO.

OLD ESTABLISHED LEADERS

(Payne Publicity)

Their long standing in this community is self evident of the fact that they are leaders in their particular line. The Kemp Dry Goods Company composed of father and son, are one of the oldest, if not the oldest dry goods in Chilton County, and right here let us say they are two of the county's dependable and most upright citizens. Fact is, they couldn't have remained in business so long unless they met the public four-square and always done business on the level.

Mr. Kemp, Sr., as a matter of course was the originator of this business, and naturally, in due time another generation came along, thus making the Kemp Dry Goods Company now composed of two generations. This alert and strictly honest concern handles a complete line of dry goods along with a line of shoes that for price and wearability cannot be matched elsewhere. Besides the Kemp's rank among the county's outstanding citizens and are held in high esteem by all who know them. Personally Payne Publicity, who has been coming to Clanton for the past 21 years, desires to at all times hold them in the highest esteem, feeling and knowing thy are men who any good citizens would want to numerate amongst their friends and acquaintenances and in their population.

EXCHANGE HOTEL IS

IDEALLY SITUATED

(Payne Publicity)

Located in the very heart of the business district in Clnaton, you will find the Exchange Hotel, an old, well-estblished hotel that offers the traveling public every convenience. One of the essentials of a hotel is expert maid service and this the Excange Hotel has at all times.

Jimmy Patterson, manager of the Excange is always alert to the needs of its patrons, and this coupled with its many modern conveniences make it a pleasant and convenient place to stop. Its lobby is well provided with comfortable chairs and the view to the street is par-excellent, the entire frontage being of glass.

The Exchange is kept scrupuously sanitary at all times; the various conveniences are modern and the Exchange Hotel in Clanton is in every way most inviting. Being centrally located saves time and unnecessary travel, especially for the man who is burdened with much baggage—and most of them are. Use all these conveniences when working, visiting or for any other reason you will require hotel accommodations.

BARGAINS GALORE AT

CHILTON HOME FURNISHING

(Payne Publicity)

If you want real bargains in furniture now is the time to visit the Chilton Home Furnishing store here in Clanton. Bargains galore are in store for the people of Clanton and its surroundings.

"Buck" Daniels has decided to give the people the benefit of genuine price slashing. He has not spared the ax in cutting prices to the bone, as it were. He has vast quantities of new goods for Spring and Summer coming in and he has told his force of clerks to cut and slash to suit the purchaser's pocketbook. Be of good cheer, especially if you are in the field for furniture. The Chilton Home Furnishing store has it for you and the prices—well they are not matched by any sale in Chilton County. Don't fail to visit this store during the coming two weeks.

SHELTON TRUCK AND

TRACTOR COMPANY, ALERT

(Payne Publicity)

It becomes worthy of special comment when a firm in any line of business continues to operate over a period of years, and over that period to consistently grow and to make an increasingly large circle of friends—plus expansion along all lines. Such a firm is the Shelton Truck & Tractor Company, Inc., phone 625 and 626, Clanton, and our personal knowledge of the company's activities permits us to compliment this civic-minded firm on the splendid record they have established throughout this section of Alabama.

Shelton Truck & Tractor Company is the farmer's true friend, handling International Trucks, parts and service. Every facility and convenience for use on the farm is sold by this alert and aggressive firm. They are also local dealers in the famous Oldsmobile car—the best all-around car on the market today; also dealers in the John Bean Power Sprayers. Having an intelligent understanding of the needs of the farmer and a marked willingness to be of assistance, distinguishes this firm as a truly Clanton concern. McCormick-Deering International Farm-All is made in five sizes to fit farm needs and can be seen at Shelton Truck & Tractor, Inc., show rooms on Sixth street, South, in Clanton. 1952 Oldsmobile is now on exhibition at Shelton Truck & Tractor Company.

Attention—

Thursday night at 6:30 p. m. will be "The Mothers March of Dimes," your last time to contribute to this will be throughout the city limits. The fire truck siren will be the signal for the drive to start. There will be several committees in cars to stop at your homes. So if you haven't made a contribution and want to, have your front porch light on or a candle burning so the committees will know to stop and collect your dimes or dollars. Let each of us help all we can.

HAS GONE TO WASHINGTON

(Payne Publicity)

Pharmacist Funk for years connected with the Aked-Wright Drug Store and a resident of Thorsby for many years, has resigned and accepted a similar position in one of the Washington, D. C., Peoples Drug Stores.

Mr. Funk has been a high-rated citizen of Chilton County for a long time, and we are quite sure he will be missed both here and in Thorsby. We understand his family will remain here for an indefinite period, or until Mr. Funk becomes definitely situated in the Nation's capitol.

LOCAL SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

HOGUE TWINS ARE 12

Elaine and Zane Hogue were 12 years old Monday, January 28, and the Junior Citizens Club, with their sponsor, Mrs. L. C. Warr, honored them at a school room party at the lunch hour. With the twins brother, Corp. Rufus J. Hogue, as special honor guest.

The two guests were showered with gifts. A box of homemade candy and a lovely box of handkerchiefs were presented to the special honor guest.

A special program was planned by the program chairman, Connie Sue Cole.

The twins were happily surprised when their brother arrived with a large white birthday cake beautifully embossed in pink and bearing the inscription, "Happy Birthday to You."

Mrs. Hogue sent the cake for the girls to share with their classmates.

The Senior Honor Citizens of Clanton for this school term were elected at the Junior Club meeting on Friday, Jan. 25, and were announced at the party on Monday. They are Mrs. Henry Jones and Mrs. Grady Heflin, both of Clanton.

Each year a man or woman are lected as Senior Honor Citizens by the Junior Honor Club. These citizens have to come up to the qualifications set up by the Club.

Barbara Davidson Entertains—

Members of the C. C. Club of Clanton and their sponsor enjoyed an Italian Spaghetti supper on Tuesday evening of last week when Miss Barbara Davidson entertained at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davidson. Poted house plants and flowering quince were used for decorations in the attractive home.

After a most delicious supper, the girls enjoyed a good movie at the Wadesonian Theatre.

Barbara was assisted in entertaining by her mother, and Mrs. Clifford Jones.

Club members present were Misses Grace Lawrence, Jean Thmopson, Alice DeRamus, Elinor Warr, Bobby Gray, Nannette Nivens, Lois Westerman, Margaret Foshee, Rebecca Popwell and the sponsor, Miss Dorothy Blalock.

Elinor Honored On Her Birthday—

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr complimented their daughter, Elinor, on her seventeenth birthday on Thursday night, January 24, when members of the C. C. Club, their sponsor and other guests had a most enjoyable evening at the Warr's home on 6th street.

A hand crocheted cloth covered the dining table which was centered with a white cake embossed in yellow, holding a candle for each of Elinor's happy years.

It is unique for one to have two birthday cakes, but this honoree received a lovely cake complete with birthday candles as a gift which was placed on the refreshment table. Punch was served from a crystal bowl. Sandwiches and other party dainties were served from the buffet.

The attractiveness of the home was added to by lovely arrangements of white carnations and snapdragons interspersed with fern.

For diversion the girls put on "Major Boles Acts," rendered vocal and piano solos.

As the honoree opened her lovely gift packages the group sang "Happy Birthday, Elinor."

The guest list included thirty-two of Elinor's girl friends, Miss Dorothy Blalock, sponsor of the C. C. Club, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Williams and Mrs. N. S. Johnson.

At one o'clock in the afternoon, on Monday, Jan. 28, fourteen neighbors and friends of Mrs. Flem Higgins pleasantly surprised her with a birthday get-together.

Earlier in the day, a neighbor brought a lovely arranbement of spring garden flowers to the honoree. This was placed on the dining table with the shower of gift wrapped packages and a beautiful white cake embossed in pink, bearing the inscription, Happy Birthday, Mamie.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Higgins, with cokes brought by her friends. The get-to-gether was enjoyed by all.

The neigbors and other friends of Mrs. Marvin Carter gathered at the home of Mrs. Flem Higgins on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 30th, and from there went in a group to the Carter home for a visit and belated surprise birthday party for Mrs. Carter.

As they entered the home they sang, "Happy Birthday" and each one presented the honoree with a love gift.

There was the usual white and pink birthday cake and flowers.

After a short visit, the gift packages were opened and refreshements brought by the friends were servd.

Recent Bride Feted—

Mrs. Royce Wulbur Lader, the former Mary Faith Chancellor, whose marriage took place on Jan. 10 in Meridian, Miss., was complimented at a tea shower on Jan. 25, when Mrs. A. M. Chancellor entertained in her home.

The guests were greeted by the hostess, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. D. L. Chancllor. Presiding at the bride's book where forty-two guests registered was Miss. Rosie Kinney. Miss Bertie Logan was in charge of the gift room where many lovely and useful gifts were on display.

The tea table featured a lovely lace cloth with a centerpiece of beautiful pink carnations, snapdragons and green fern. White condles, tied with pink tulle burned in crystal holders.

The color scheme was repeated in the dainty refreshments served by Miss Bertha Dennis, Miss Sarah Nell Patterson and Miss Judy Ann Chancellor.

Potted plants and spring garden flowers were used to adorn the living room of the home.

Clanton Club Entertains At Williams Home—

There was music in the air last week, and a pretty sound it was, too.

Responsible for the musical note in last week's happenings in Clanton was the Clanton Music Appreciation Club. Memories of the lovely party the club gave Friday night will linger longer than that "haunting refrain."

The buffet supper was given after the concert of Miss Mary Van Kirk, the first of the three Community Concert artists scheduled to come to Clanton.

The party was at the home of the club president, Mrs. R. C. Williams, and Mr. Williams, on Selma Road.

In the candle lighted dining room the buffet table was covered with an imported linen damask cloth, and was centered with an antique silver tray filled with dainty cup cakes. Pink camellias in pastel pink hues surrounded the tray. The three branched candlabra holding white tapers were adorned with green lacelon and pink camellias.

The receiving rooms were appointed with arrangements of camellias, snapdragons and carnations. On the antique pier mirror in the hall, a brass urn held an attractive Japanese arrangement of spring blossoms.

Attending the supper were members of the club and their guests.

The hostess was very attractively attired in a dinner gown of rose crepe with a beaded bodice.

Officers of the club are: President: Mrs. Williams; first vice president, Mrs. Joe Campbell; second vice president, Mrs. Bert Snead; recording secretary, Mrs. Reid Mullins; treasurer, Mrs. N. S. Johnson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Dyer Shackelford; accompanist, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston; publicity chairman, Mrs. Joe Mullins; parliamentarian, Miss Elizabeth Barton; choral director, Mrs. Raymond Mims.

Special Meeting of WSCS—

The WSCS of the Clanton Methodist Church held a special program in the downstairs auditorium of the church on Monday evening, Jan. 28.

This program served as a two fold program; in keeping with the Epiphany Service which is a part of the Methodist women's yearly program and also as a conclusion to a chain-visitation campaign through the local Women's Society of Christian Service.

Although the Epiphany program was a belated one, it was indeed in keeping with the observance of Praise and Thanksgiving to God.

Twenty-one members of the WSCS presented a beautiful spiritual program, "Because We Have Been So Greatly Blest," in scripture, words and song.

Gifts of increased membership, a well informed membership, volunteers for Christian service and money; were presented in words of praise from members taking part.

The presentation of lovely camellia corsages was made by the WSCS president, Mrs. W. A. Wright, assisted by Mrs. Omar Reynolds and Mrs. R. C. Williams, to fourteen new members and sixteen members who have spent the longest time in faithful service in the WSCS.

The worship center for this program was a table with an open bible with one burning taper in a gold candle holder placed beside it.

Immediately following the program the ladies were invited into the Young Adult classroom where they were served tea and delicious party sandwiches. cookies and mints from a table centered with a large silver bowl filled with pastel colors of dutch iris, narcissus, mums, carnations and Japanese magnolias in a beautiful arrangement; at either end of the table burning tapers in five-branched silver holders were placed, and the tea was poured from silver urns by Mrs. Sibly McGowin and Mrs. Mattie Lee Johnson.

The rooms were lighted for this lovely tea with burning tapers in the windows. Approximately seventy-five women attended this program and tea.

Pilot Club News—

The Pilot Club of Clanton held the January program meeting on Tuesday night, January 22, in the private dining room of the Dixie Cafe, with the president, Miss Marguerite Perry, presiding.

Mrs. L. C. Warr, Mrs. Earl Parrish, Mrs. Omar Reynolds and Mrs. M. A. Wright, visitors of the evening were made welcome.

The president presented Miss Helen Parrish, who introduced Mrs. Winston Calloway, of Verbena. guest speaker.

Mrs. Calloway's eight year old daughter was a victim of the dreaded disease, polio, about two years ago. She told of a mother's experience of a polio victim and the treatment her child took at Warm Springs, Ga., and the exercises she still has to take. She also brought out many important figures about the total victims polio is taking and outlined briefly the more recent accomplishments that medical science has brought to combat polio.

Mrs. Calloway was the former Jewel Moore of Clanton. She graduated from the Chilton County High School in 1942.

The Pilot Club contributed twenty-five dollars to the March of Dimes on Miss Parrish's radio sidewalk March of Dimes program on Saturday of last week.

MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE AND CONTROL OF CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA OF JANUARY 21, 1952

Board Meeting
January 21, 1952

The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, met in Special session at the county courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on January 21, 1952, at 9:00 o'clock, a.m., at the call of the Chairman. The following were present: W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and Chairman of said Board, and the following Associate Members of said Board: A. H. Smith and J. M. Dunlap; absent: V. Q. Lenoir and Welch Roebuck. Judge Parrish presided as Chairman of the meeting and, a quorum being present, declared the meeting open for the transaction of business.

Mr. Dunlap offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Smith:

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County does hereby concur in the award to Mr. L. J. Cousins, Contractor, Montgomery, Alabama, for the construction of Chilton County Project SACP-374-A- Grade, Drain & Pave, S-538(1),

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That said Board does hereby concur in the award to Mr. L. J. Cousins, Contractor, Montgomery, Alabama, for the construction of Chilton County Project SACP-374-A- Bridge, S-538(1).

The above stated resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of all the members present.

Mr. Smith offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Dunlap:

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, does hereby authorize W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and Chairman of said Board, to sign and enter an agreement in the name of and in behalf of Chilton County, by and between the State of Alabama Highway Department and Chilton County for the construction of the road and bridge from Clanton to Enterprise, known as Project No. S-538(1). and SACP-374-A, said agreement being in words and figures as follows:

F.A.S. FUNDS WITH STATE-AID
ACCRUALS SACP NO. 374-A
S-538(1)

AGREEMENT

This agreement made and entered into this the 21 day of January, One Thousand Nine Hundred and 52, by and between the STATE OF ALABAMA HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT, party of the first part (hereinafter called the State) and CHILTON COUNTY, by and through its Board of Revenue and Control, party of the second part, (hereinafter called the County).

WHEREAS, Section 13 of the Alabama Farm to Market Road Act of 1943, as amended by House Bill 64, approved June 1, 1945, alotted to each county an amount equal to 1-67 of $2,500,000 of Federal funds from the 1946-1953 Federal-aid Secondary Program with such Federal-aid to be matched by the State and County-share-and-share alike from the State-County funds provided in the Act.

WHEREAS, the above sum for the County is to cover construction costs and engineering and inspection charges in connection therewith.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of these premises the mutual covenants herein contained, and the sum of $1.00 by each of the parties to the other in hand paid, receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

That the State will enter into an agreement with the Bureau of Public Roads covering the improvement of the road and/or bridge from Clanton to Enterprise, known as Project No. S-538(1).

That the County hereby authorizes the State to transfer sufficient unobligated funds accrued to the credit of the County and held in the funds of the State to cover one-fourth of the cost of said project and the county agrees to pay to the State on or before the award of the contract a like amount of the unobligated funds accrued in the Treasury of the County to match such funds. Should the funds as provided in Section 13 namely, Federal funds in the amount of 74,575.31, plus the unobligated funds accrued to the credit of the County in the State Treasury plus the unobligated funds in the County Treasury for matching same, fail to be sufficient to cover the amount of the contract, the County will, on or before the award of the contract, pay to the State the difference in such amounts.

Upon completion of the project, a final settlement will be made between the State and County, adjusting overruns and underruns on such a basis whereby the State and County will share equally in the cost thereof over and above the FAS funds allotted to the County for the project.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the State of Alabama Highway Department has caused these presents to be executed by the State Highway Director and Chilton County, by proper resolution of its Board of Revenue and Control has caused these presents to be executed this day and year above written.

One Sure Way of Not "Flunking"

Judge Cunningham told me he's never had an answer like it. He was speaking about a woman appearing in court after she got a ticket for driving through a red light.

There's only a small fine for the violation, but the Judge soon discovered a more serious charge. Seems she didn't have any driver's license! Judge Cunningham naturally asked her why not, and then came her calm reply.

"I didn't have enough confidence in my driving ability to pass the test," she says. "So I didn't bother to take it."

From where I sit, that was a pretty foolish answer and showed some mighty dangerous thoughtlessness. It's always risky to disregard regulations. For instance, take Andy over at the Green Gardens. He follows a voluntary Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. This means his place is always clean, orderly and tidy. Sticking right to the rules gives him the "green light" to more customers and more business.

Shedding Concerns New Carpet Owners

Owners of new carpets often notice that the surface seems to be shedding when walked on or cleaned with vacuum or carpet sweeper. They frequently ask if this means they have a poor carpet or if the cleaner is wearing out their new rug.

In the making of pile carpets, such as the Axminister, Wilton, or Velvet, yarn is looped over wires, then the wires are withdrawn, leaving an uneven surface. The loops are sheared off to give a smooth, velvety surface. Some of the shearings are usually left in the rug and appear as fluff when the rug is used or cleaned for the first several times.

SAVE LOCKER SPACE BY REMOVING BONES

Removing bones from meat before freezing saves considerable locker space and does not cause the meat to lose flavor or juiciness.

As much as 35 per cent of the meat storage space may be saved by taking out bones. Moreover, boneless meat is easier to store, and wrappers are less likely to be broken or punctured during storage.

The greatest savings of space may be made by removing large bones, such as shoulder bones, shanks, and knuckles. Small bones like T-bones may be needed to hold the meat together and improve its appearance.

It should be remembered that a large quantity of meat should be prefrozen at a freezer locker plant.

Telephone Service is Growing, too

and the cost is up far less than prices in general!

"LADIES" already! My, how they have grown! And you can say the same for Alabama's telephone service.

IN JUST FIVE years in Alabama, the number of telephones you can call has more than doubled.

BEST OF ALL, the price of this bigger, better "package" of service has gone up on the average far less than prices in general . . . and less than our cost of providing the service.

ALWAYS a bargain, telephone service is today an even better buy than it was ten years ago, and a smaller part of the family budget.

STANTON NEWS

MISS RUTH HICKS

Don't forget your P-TA meets next Monday night at the Stanton Junior High School. You are urged to attend.

Mrs. Charlie Gay was admitted to the King Memorial Hospital in Selma, last Wednesday. We are glad to report that she was able to return to her home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Latham of Lawley, has many friends and relatives in this and adjoining communities who will regret to learn of her illness. Mrs. Latham, the former Fannie Griffin, is confined to a Selma hospital. She will be transferred to a Birmingham hospital within the next two or three weeks where she will have to undergo surgery. Her trouble has been diagnosed as tumor of the brain. Mrs. Arthur Latham is deeply loved by all who know her.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Bobby, and Judy and Mrs. W. M. D. O'Neal spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Preston O'Neal in Demopolis, Ala.

Mrs. Cora Fuller completed the sale of her property here to Mr. and Mrs. Julius Sample last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Lovelady are now occupying the Fuller residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fuller of Mobile, Ala., Mrs. Floyd Swindal, Mr. and Mrs. Royston Swindal, Jr., and daughter and Mrs. W. M. Moon of Tuscaloosa, Ala., were visitors in the Fuller home over the week end. Mrs. Cora Fuller returned to Mobile with her son, Gene, and his wife and will spend some time with them.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Fuller have been residents of this community for a number of years. They lived good lives and reared a nice family. Mr. Fuller passed to the great beyond some months ago and it is with deep regret that we lose Mrs. Fuller from this community. She will be greatly missed by her church, her friends and this community. Mrs. Fuller has the respect and love of all who know her and certainly she knows that she will always find the latch string on the outside to her at all times. The word "Welcome" means much to all of us and I feel sure that Mrs. Fuller knows that she is always welcome here with friends and loved ones.

Miss Peggy Rose O'Neal visited relatives in Nashville, Tenn., over the week end. She left by train Friday night and returned late Sunday night. She was joined in Nashville by her sister, Mrs. John L. Sherrer, Jr., and Mr. Sherrer of Marietta, Ga.

Mrs. A. C. Maness (Ethlyn Reynolds) of Tuscaloosa, Ala., spent the week end with her father and brother, Mr. Frank Reynolds and Mr. Millard Reynolds.

Mrs. James Lewis of Birmingham spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Hinton Duncan, and family.

Staff-Sgt. Howard Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Duncan and husband of the former Miss Venice Chism, will arrive from Korea during the month of February.

Ladon Duncan, son of Staff-Sgt. and Mrs. Howard Duncan, has been on the sick list. Mrs. Duncan has her son under the care of a Selma physician.

Jack Atchison, husband of the former Geneva Lawrence, is also expected from Korea real soon.

Mr. Earl Pickering of the Veterans Hospital in Montgomery is doing nicely. Mrs. Earl Pickering, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pickering visited him Sunday.

Mrs. Joe Davis and Mrs. Ophelia Carter attended a quilting party in the Shoults Community last Friday. Nine quilts were quilted that day tnd they reported a most enjoyable day.

Rev. and Mrs. Joe Davis motored to the Pleasant Grove Community Sunday where Rev. Davis brought the message at his regular preaching service. They were dinner and supper guests of the Grady Harrison's.

The Pleasant Grove Community will start building Sunday School rooms to the church at an early date. This addition to the church is badly needed. Many of our residents have loved ones buried at this church and go back to different services during the year. If you would care to make a donation to this building fund send it to Mr. Robert McAfee, Rt. Lawley, Ala. It will be greatly appreciated and certainly it is needed at this time.

Many friends inquire of Mrs. Mattie Wooley. She is at this time with her son, Maurice, and his wife in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Burnett and sons, Bobby and Brooks, and Mr. Doris Cook motored to Birmingham Sunday and visited with Miss Jean Baskin and Mr. Tip Burnett.

Mrs. Dock Dennis of Maplesville celebrated her birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Buck Burnett one day last week. Mrs. Burnett prepared a nice birthday dinner for her mother and the day was a very enjoyable one. Also present for the day were Mrs. Bud Burnett and son and Mr. Doris Cook, Mr. Buck Burnett and sons.

Contributions to the Mach of Dimes last week were: Southeastern Sand & Gravel Co., $5.00; Julius Sample, $2.50; Mrs. Art Sample, .50c; Mrs. L. R. Terry, .30c; and Mrs. John T. O'Neal, $2.00. This community so far has contributed $26.50. This total does not include those that have given through the school.

If you have not contributed to this worthy cause, do so at once. Your chairman, Mrs. Buck Burnett, is very anxious to give everyone a chance to give. Call 4925 and ask her to call for your donation, if you haven't already given. This drive ends the last of this month.

Mrs. Hicks Harrison, Mrs. Kate Harrison, Mrs. Elsie Farmer and son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Carter and Family. Sunday afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gaddy and daughter, Glenda, of Wilton, Ala.

Mrs. Maudine O'Neal, Mrs. Bessie Barnes, Mrs. Beulah Warren and Mrs. Olivia Apperson spent last Thursday in Prattville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mitchell of Selma (Pauline Harrison) have announced the birth of Linda Gale on January 25, 1952, weighing 6 pounds and four and one half ounces. Mother and daughter are doing nicely.

Things We See and Hear

BY "TUCK"

Sorry it took me so long to get back on the circuit again people, but it seems the past week or two I've been so busy with school activities and working, I haven't been able to put the necessary time to the task.

Boy, they're strictly wrecking the hall down towards the gymnasium aren't they, keeds? First thing you know if they keep this up they'll be having to rebuild that whole end of the building.

The magazine campaign seems to be coming along rather slowly now that most of the prospects are sold. Seems like the majority of the class has just about quit trying. Come on fellas', if you've been there before try again, maybe they forgot something they wanted.

Looks like Alice Deramus and Pat Huddleston are due the congratulations of, not only myself but the whole class. Coupla' brains, no less! Well, congratulations anyway, to the Valedictorian and Salutorian of the Class of '52.

Gotta' hand it to Myron Levine on the way he's going about this thing called the 'Siver Shield.' He's really put some hard work and long hours on the building of this masterpiece and we're sure it's going to be the best yet. Little more help from other sources and we'll have our yearbook on the presses in no time flat.

I never knew there was so much to being a senior, but brother, I've about had it. The sad part of it is only half the year is gone so far and the last half will be just twice as bad as the first semester. Can't win for losing!

Can you imagine Marion Deaton stooping so low? Now they tell me, in fact he told me himself, that he's started slipping into the drive-in. Don't know what we're going to do with you, 'DEKUS,' you're getting outa' hand, boy.

These Beta Club members are really getting on the ball. You can walk down the hall almost any period of the day and they're scrubbing the walls. Spirit like this is just fine. I just can't understand what brought it on. Some one sure promised a whale of a lot. I even saw Lenore Oglesby cleaning up the other day!! (The walls, that is.)

I think the biggest thing about being a senior is the fact that you don't have to do anything unless you just want to. Course there's the possibility of not graduating but that's the chance you have o take. You either work or yu dn't and it's strictly left up to the individual.

Love can do funny things to a fella' who was alright just a year or so ago. Buddy Burdette came to school the other day with suspenders and no belt on. Nothing wrong with that, of course, it just "ain't being done." Only one drawback, Bobbie didn't like it and he had to put his top shirt on. Funny thing, love.

Your Health

CONSTANT COUGHING

A cough is only a symptom, not a disease. It is a signal that something is wrong in the body's respiratory tract or breathing tube. If a cough persists too long, consult a physician.

An obstruction such as a food particle or other object in the respiratory passage will evoke a cough. It is nature's reflex effort to clear the passage so that breathing will be unhampered. Such a cough is simple and transient. Irritation in the throat or lower passages, however, during a cold or other infection; such as whooping cough, the distress of asthma, excessive smoking or low humidity and resultant dryness, acts in the same way. A cough, however, may also be produced by more serious conditions, such as tuberculosis or cancer. A cough, therefore is not something to be ignored.

A person suffering from a persistent cough is more susceptible to fatigue. The constant hacking cuts down rest, affects the larnyx or voice box, irritates the tissue of the respiratory tract, leaving the body tired and too weak to reject disease-producing germs

Any persistent cough should be investigated. A physical examination by a competent physician will elicit the cause and give a basis for treatment. Material coughed up will be examined to determine the nature of the infection and diagnose its location, whether in the nose, the adenoids, or the sinuses.

It must be remembered that the cough is a signal of a disturbance in the body. Many conditions may exist, such as tuberculosis, cancer or foreign bodies in the lungs. The majority of coughs, however, do not stem from such serious conditions

LAUNDRY DOES FINE WORK

(Payne Publicity)

Do you know that from where we sit the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company is a sure shot with both men and women. Saturday we were standing in front of the Alred-Wright Drug Store when two ladies came by with large bundles. One of them was opening up her bundle before dropping it in her car.

Her remark was: "I just wanted to see if my work at the Clanton Laundry was up to par. After inspecting it she said with a smile on her face, "You can always depend upon the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company, so clean and so fresh are their turnouts." I have been a patron of the Clanton Laundry for years. I recall when they were located on Sixth Street and I feel that Mr. Thompson has devoted many long hours of hard work to eventually establishing a laundry so near perfect and large enough to care for his patrons with dispatch. The writer joins this lady in boosting the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Co. Having traveled throughout the States he can truthfully say that the Clanton Laundry is as good as the best and a hundred per cent better than the most.

FOLKS and THINGS

ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Well folks, here we are again on the front page. Some fifteen years ago Billy Smith wrote a column for the News and published it in this column on the front page—you remember? He called it, "Things We Think". Then came "We Observe", written by Bonnie Hand. After a year or two "Folks & Things was born and it has been running since. This is not it's first appearance on page 1, but as a rule we have confined it to the editorial page or elsewhere in the paper. However, from now on you'll be seeing Folks & Things in this column. One of the best things about running your column on page 1, is that it gives you a couple more days to get the copy ready.

Last week when we were talking about all the ladies getting after us we failed to mention that a lot of the ladies had been very nice to us, also. For instance the letter we received from the Garden Club, written by the lovely Mrs. Dyer Shackleford, thanking us for our coopertion in publicizing the Carr Show at the City Hall. Enough letters of encouragement like that takes the sting out of the "cussings."

Speaking of the Garden Club reminds us that the Dogwood Trail planned and sponsored for Clanton is being backed by the Study Club (Lord I hope that's right this time), and not the Garden Club. The mistake was ours but then, if we didn't make mistakes we wouldn't be human. And don't say that's debatable.

That Japanese Magnolia in Omar Reynold's yard is a thing of beauty. It is in full bloom at this writing and looks like one big bouquet of cut flowers. It must have taken years to reach such beauty and size.

Dock Levine was marveling the other day that he and the writer both attended old Central High School at Birmingham and yet never met until we met in Clanton. Kids then, as we remember, stuck pretty close to the "gang" from the community in which they lived. Naturally we had our football heros, etc., just as today, but after that it was every fellow for his own crowd. We remember well that our crowd was from Hemphill School in West End and the old crowd from Hemphill was a mighty close "gang". Too, kids didn't get to know one another in a school like that. Students in schools like we have in Chilton County have it all over those in big town school.

Didn't mean to slight Welch Roebuck any last week when we run his statement at the bottom of the front page with a small head and Jim Dunlap's at the top with a larger head. Just happened that way. Course the two members of the present Board are running for different posts but just didn't want Welch to get his feelings hurt.

What's this about Horsley White being a candidate for the office of Circuit Clerk? That's the rumor going the rounds and it's pretty straight. J. C. Pattillo is the only avowed candidate to date but if Horsley gets into the race it may turn out interesting yet.

Note from Farrill Williamson says he has just completed a course at Fort Eustis and is back as commanding officer of Co. A, 167th Inf. 31st Div. He wants to tell all his friends hello and ask that they keep him up to date on the latest news.

Jimmie and Lora Rose Bell left Wednesday morning with little son Henry, for Houston, Texas, where they will meet their son Jimmie for a two day visit. Didn't get complete details but seems little Jimmie was sent there on some mission or other and they saw a good chance to visit with him for a short while.

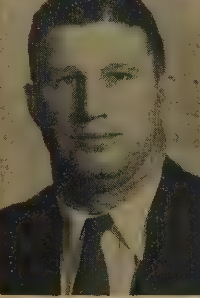
County Milk Production Shows Growth

Mrs. E. F. Bray of Route 1, Maplesville, Alabama, has found that a few good cows can add considerably to the family income. Mrs. Bray does not live on the route but she has arranged to have her milk brought to the route where it can be picked up. In October of last year, Mrs. Bray sold her first milk. By December, four cows were being milked and all above the amount needed for home use was being sold to the Carnation Company. During the month of December, Mrs. Bray sold $139.46 worth of milk after the hauling charges were deducted. Practically all feed fed to the cows was home grown feed. Mr. and Mrs. Bray have bought their own farm and plan to move as soon as possible. To be sure that a home grown feed supply will be available Mr. Bray has already started sowing pasture on his new farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Bray do not plan to milk cows for their only source of income, but they do plan to keep five milking cows to supplement their farm income. By milking a few good cows they can have at least one steady source of cash income the year round.

NEW RADIO PROGRAM

Evangelist Allen Walker will be heard daily over radio WKLF in a new religious program which will be announced and "The Bible Teaching Program". The program will be heard daily, except Sunday, 7:30 to 7:45 a.m. The following is on the agenda: Friday, "The Only Key That Will Unlock the Scriptures". Saturday, "The Second Coming of Christ". Monday, "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be". Tuesday, "What and Where is God?". Wednesday, "What is Jesus Like Today and What is He Doing?" Thursday, "Are Angels the Spirits of the Dead?"



Sherman Motley

Sherman Motley will be a candidate for membership on the Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control in the May Primary. He is from District Three.

CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL

The Chilco Lions scored two victories in a double header game last Thursday, Jan. 29, with Elmore County Training School at Elmore. The girls' scores were 20-9, Ollie Parker led, scoring 14 points for the Chilco Lions. The boys scores were 17-16, high point man was Virgil Keith with six points.

Thursday Jan. 31, Elmore came to try conquering the Chilco Lions with a double header game but failed. In a tough fight of the Chilton County Training School girls against the Elmore Training, Elmore was felled 13-4 with Ollie Parker making a high score of 6 points. Chilton County Training School boys socked Elmore boys 20-16 with Edward Brown making a high score of 11 points.

Chilton County Training School Junior teams defeated Jemison's teams Wednesday, Jan. 30, at Jemison. The girls' scores were 15-4, favor of Chilco Lions, with Myrtle Johnson and Ruther Barbour each making 6 points.

CLANTON KIWANIS CLUB HAS SPECIAL TREAT

Members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club had a special treat in store for their regular meeting Thursday night, January 31, when Arthur Bazzell of the Key lub Committee brought Alfred T. Vaughn of Troy, Ala., to the Club as guest speaker. Vaughn to the club. Mr. Vaughn, a world traveler, presented to the club through film and lecture a most interesting and educational program on South America.

Kiwanians were indeed fortunate in having Mr. Vaughn as guest speaker.

NEW HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB ORGANIZED

Chilton County has a new addition to it's Home Demonstration Clubs. Cane Creek Home Demonstration Club was organized in January, increasing the total eighteen clubs in the county.

The club met at the home of Mrs. E. R. Young with fifteen prospective members present.

The following officers were elected President, Mrs. T. L. Williams; Vice-President, Mrs. E. R. Young; Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Tony Connell; Reporter: Mrs. Cecil E. Giles; Song Leader, Mrs. Percy McKinnon; Recreation leader, Mrs. Howard W. Jones.

Objective Chairmen: Rural youth, Mrs. Percy McKinnon; Citizenship, Mrs. Arthur Headley; Farm Bureau, Mrs. E. R. Jones; Community Activities, Mrs. R. A. Rhodes; Defense Activities, Mrs. L. Driver; Foods Leader, Mrs. A. H. Ingram; Clothing Leader, Mrs. V. L. Vines; Food Preservation Leader, Mrs. Percy Robinson; Home Management Leader, Mrs. Lee Wyatt; Home Furnishings Leader, Mrs. O. A. Rutherford; Child Care and Family Life Leader, Mrs. Walter Giles.

Cane Creek Club meeting date is the second Tuesday in each month.

deGRAFFENRIED APPOINTED TO BOARD OF VISITORS TO MILITARY ACADEMY

Edward deGraffenried

Representative Edward deGraffenried on Jan. 31st was appointed by the Speaker of the House to serve as a Member of the Board of Visitors to the United Staaes Military Academy. Other Members of the House appointed by the Speaker were Reps. Sieminski (D.-N.J.), Wigglesworth (R.-Mass.) and Miller (R.-Md.).

The law requires one of the Members of the Board of Visitors to be the Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives, or his designee. Representative deGraffenried will serve as the designee of Representative Carl Vinson who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The duty of the Board is to inquire into the state of morale and discipline, curriculum, instruction, physical equipment, fiscal affairs, academic methods and other matters relating to the Academy.

Local Youths Meet With Kiwanis

These young people of Chilton County High School were used on the program of Clanton Kiwanis Club recently. The Committee on Boys and Girls had charge of the meeting, and these young people were presented to the Club by this Committee. Each had a part on the program. Several Club members remarked that it was one of the best programs the Clanton Club ever had. Each one spoke with confidence and with a deep sense of conviction. The Clanton Kiwanis Club is proud of the fine young people who visit the Club Meetings from time to time; and has pledged itself toward the developing of youth and their talents.

TINGLE ENTERS RACE FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE COURT

Dave Tingle, who has been head of the Veterans' Farm Program, for the past six years, will be a candidate for the office of Probate Judge of Chilton County in the May Primary.

Tingle says he has given the matter long and serious thought and will go into the race to win the nomination on the Democratic ticket.

His father is a Methodist Minister, and is now District Superintendent of the Tuscaloosa District with headquarters at Tuscaloosa. Two of his sisters and a brother-in-law, Stoakley Porch, have taught school in Chilton County.

He married Mable Camp when she was Bible Teacher at Chilton County High School and they have two children.

Mr. Tingle says he is a life-long Democrat and a World War II veteran with three years service in the air force. He was shot down over Germany on his 26th mission and was held a prisoner of war for one year.

During his supervision of the veterans' training program in this county, Chilton has risen to one of the top three counties in the state.

Things We See And Hear

—By "TUCK"

Carroll Johnson says that when that evaluation committee gets here there won't be anything to improve on. He says they're about to work his head off getting ready to welcome the visitors. Carroll, you can at least say you helped to "clean up C.C.H.S.." (And did it need it?)

What we need around here is just a little rain. It's getting kinda hard to keep your head above the water isn't it?

Ya' know. Driving around this town on Sunday evening can have it's disadvantages also. Last Sunday made four straight evenings that I have been attacked from behind. The last two guys excuse was that they were looking at the street and didn't see me stop.

'Bout the only solution I can suggest for him is that he might try watching where he's going.

Boy, the senior class is really rolling this year. They've broken all the records of other classes so far. And it looks like they're still going strong. You might say this was (paid pol. adv) so don't think I'm bragging. (And it wasn't I who paid it).

Don't anyone laugh but I actually had a person congratulate my column the other day. Thanks! I'll see that your name gets in the paper. (You're normal ain't ya').

Ya' know! Somehow, school ain't so bad
As sometimes students make.
It's not the school that drives 'em mad,
The teachers take the cake.
(Or is it the other way around)

Ya' know, it's a good thing Mr. Amis is such a good fella' at bowing. I hope he enjoys it cause that's sure what he asked for. We went away over the top in our magazine campaign. (For the benefit of those who are not in the senior class, you're not supposed to understand that wild paragraph).

Well people, looks like we're losing Mr. Kerr after all. Mighta known it was too good to last. I guess when you get a fella that everybody likes something is bound to happen. All we can say Mr. Kerr is, "Good luck and don't forget us."

Looks like we are finally going to be able to see that well advertised cinema, "THE THING". I guess I'd better warn you people: don't go alone. I was beginning to think it would be old fashioned before it got to Clanton, but I can guarantee against that.

The ball games are all coming out in our favor this year. Ae least the great majority are. Like Mr. Hicks says: "We've sure got a good team this year". (I wonder what Mr. Bulger has to say about that.)

Sometimes I wonder about these seniors! Now they've started staying in school at night just to get up their assignments. I wonder if they're studying or just throwing a party? When you become a senior you almost have to stay in at night in order to keep up with your lessons.

You know from the looks of the halls this year you would almost think there was no such thing as a tardy bell anymore. You can usually count from about half to three-fourths of the school's inmates still roaming around two minutes after the bell has already rung. You can't say I don't know what I'm talking about because I'm usually out there myself.

To The Citizens And Taxpayers Of Chilton County And The State Of Alabama

Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama, has made demand on your officials for the sum of Nine Hundred Ninety Three Thousand, Six Hundred Twenty Four Dollars & Fifty Five Cents, ($993,624.55), which they have charged in the Auditors report as being due Chilton County. On page 55, Exhibit No. 6, I quote as per Auditors' report. Grand total due County by J. Lee Smith: $37,560.29; On page 58, Exhibit No. 6, Sheet No. 4, Grand total due County by W. L. Parrish: $183,675.93; On page 59, Exhibit No. 6, Sheet No. 5, Grand total due by Hoyt Freeman: $152,550.19; On page 60, Exhibit No. 6, Sheet No. 6, Grand total due by Monroe Parrish: $154,816.56; On page 60, Exhibit No. 6, Sheet No. 6, Total amount due County by R. L. Ousley: $151,602.81; On page 61, Exhibit No. 6, Sheet No. 7, Total due County by Howard Roper: $151,602.36; On page 63, Exhibit 6, Sheet 9, Grand total due County by W. M. Polk: $161,816.41.

The above charges amount to $993,624.55, which Mr. Eagerton has made demand on your County officials to pay. He states that we are due Chilton County this amount. Mr. Eagerton should know that there was not this amount of money paid out of the County Treasury during the entire period of the Audit October 1, 1946 through September 30, 1948. If Mr. Eagerton says that your officials should pay all the operating expenses incurred in the operating and carrying on the affairs of Chilton County, I would like to know just why he charged us more than was paid out for carrying on the county business. I would like for him to state whether or not he was trying to assassinate the character of your officials.

I am listing below a few of the items and warrant numbers, which the Auditors charged to me two or more times, which are as follows: Warrants No. 512, No. 281, No.691, No. 477, No. 671, No. 253, No. 473, No. 314, No. 312, No. 510, No. 511, No. 682, No. 963, No. 962, No. 515, No. 671. Warrant No. 676 was charged six times on different pages of the Auditors' report.

The above said warrants aggregate or total the sum of $13,119.97. They also charged to me Warrant No. 515, dated 10-28-1946, page 103, payee Cecil Smith, amount $227.99. They also charged me with this same warrant No. 515, dated 10-28-46 under the name of Dixie Wilson, on page 211, amount $227.99. They charged me with warrant No. 671, dated 12-3-46, page 148, payee J. L. Motley, amount $142.80. This same warrant No. 671 was charged to me twice under the name of Clanton Home & Auto Supply Co., on page 206. They also charged me with Warrant No. 713, on page 211, amount $5,713.78. This amount was charged to me twice in the Auditors' report.

The above is only a sample as to what the Auditors have charged me with. I have an office in J. O. Miller's 5c and 10c Store in Clanton, Alabama, and I would like to show this Auditor's report to all the citizens and taxpayers of Chilton County. It would not take but a few minutes of your time. Will you please come in and let me show you that the above statements are true.

J. LEE SMITH,

HOPE YOU LIKE IT

Doing our best to keep abreast of the times Chilton County News has enlarged to a seven column newspaper.

Our dream for 1952 is to add an engraving plant where we can make our own engravings and print pictures of local interest and of local people without the necessity of waiting until the news or incident is "stale" before we can get it in your newspaper.

This will take a bit of doing and will of necessity have to come later in the year, but we just had to tell you what our plans for the future are.

As to the larger paper, practically all the newspapers in the land have increased their size from the old six column to seven column in width and this has been our wish for some time.

We believe it will be a great improvement over the former Chilton County News and we hope you like it.

FROM WALNUT AND CHESTNUT COME BASS

Recently J. L. Bennett, who by the way is quite a fisherman in his own right and manufactures flies, handed us this editorial from the Montgomery Advertiser which he thought would be of interest to Chilton Countians:

Every Fisherman Knows That

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries has come out with the flat-footed statement that no fish has ever been known to climb a tree. Such a cocksure attitude arouses serious doubts about one federal bureau with which we had no quarrel, until now.

Notice that the statement did not say that the Bureau of Fisheries never heard of a fish climbing a tree, but rather that no fish has ever been known to climb a tree. This a direct, unprovoked assault on Southern folklore, in which fish spend about as much time in the branches as the water.

Every fisherman worth his pork rind knows that, approaching a trout stream, he has often heard loud, hurried [illegible]. Breaking through the underbrush he has [illegible] that the circles of waves around each splash are [illegible] rather than convex. Even to the untrained mind this indicates that something dove into the water, not out, as is the more commonly reported fish gymnastics.

Alabama [illegible], for instance, are just crazy about pecans and will walk several hundred feet to reach a pecan tree. Being angler-wise, they're suspicious of the fallen nuts, preferring instead to pick them from the limbs. This accounts for the low pecan yield near well-stocked ponds.

In Chilton County we even take them from the branches of Walnut and Chesnut. (Creeks, that is).

Your Health

FRACTURES

[illegible] ken but [illegible] a com[illegible] a break [illegible] to the [illegible]

Because of the break in the skin, there is danger of foreign material or bacteria entering from the outside and causing infections in the wound and in the bone. This is a serious complication, and it is why compound fractures are considered surgical emergencies.

All fractures should be immobilized as soon as possible. In the home, for example, wen a person slips and incurs a fracture, it is important to call the physician immediately. Until he arrives, an out[illegible] support can be given to the injured part by ty[illegible]ow about the leg or ankle. Ordinary newspapers folded into [illegible] thicknesses can be used to [illegible]t an arm, particularly if it [illegible]sary to transport the pa[illegible] a nearby hospital.

If the thigh is involved, a long firm stick or board can be secured with bath towels, handkerchiefs, napkins or other usually handy equipment. It should be remembered that in the fractures of the thigh bone it is most essential that there be complete immobilization. If not, there is danger of the patient suffering shock from movement of the fragments. This could prove very serious.

Fractures are serious injuries, and unpleasant complications may result. If it is possible to render first aid to the victim of a fracture until the physician arrives, do so. If in doubt, do nothing.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama
Dear Sir:

Please allow me space in your paper to make a few statements relative to an article published in the Union Banner January 31, 1952, over the head of "A Taxpayer and Voter." This statement he made about me, "I see Ex-Judge Smith is going to make the 'missing funds' cases an issue in his campaign. Well I think that is one of the best steps he could have made for I sure believe it will help to defeat him."

I knew when I began to expose the State Auditor's report it would hurt someone, however, the people should know the truth regardless.

The Taxpayer and Voter also made this statement: "I notice in Judge Smith's letter that somebody saw Red Sparkman shedding tears while he was auditing the county books a year or so ago, while these examiners were auditing the county records and uncovering all that rotten, putrid, corrupt mess that was perpetrated against the taxpayers of Chilton County. They were confronted with enough to make an angel weep. Selah. A Taxpayer and Voter."

Now, if Mr. T. E. Wyatt, editor and publisher of the Union Banner thought the statements that Mr. Taxpayer and Voter made about me were worthy of being published, may I ask him to state the name of this taxpayer and voter.

I have very little respect for any man that will hide in a dark corner and throw a rock at his neighbor or his dog. If Mr. Voter and Taxpayer is trying to uphold a crooked audit, liquor and pills, I will make this statement, that if exposing the audit made by the State Auditors and the condition of the State Auditor, Roland L. Sparkman, while examining the records of Chilton County, will make Mr. Taxpayer and Voter against me I do not want his vote as I would not be the kind of an official that would serve the best interest of Chilton County.

Mr. Wyatt, will you please publish the name of this taxpayer and voter?

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Before going down to join the line outside the tax collector's office at the court house (it was the final payment, as usual), I announced to the family that I was off to pay my poll tax.

When I returned home later, weary and full of resolutions about being more prompt next year, the five-year-old greeted me with,

"How did they look?"

I didn't quite understand her interest in the court house crowd, but I answered,

"O, all right I guess. The same as usual."

"Did they smell bad?"

Now this question startled me into giving her my full attention.

"Did who smell bad?" I asked, rather fearing her answer.

"The pole cats, ofcourse. The pole cats you went to pay. Did they smell bad? And why did you have to pay them?"

And that, friends, took a lot of explaining.

The neighbor next door gave me a suggestion to pass along to housewives who cook on gas ranges. She lets the pilot light on her stove cook her stewed fruit for her at night. She puts the dried fruit in a heavy kettle with plenty of water, covers the container tightly and puts it over the pilot light. The next morning, all she has to do is add sugar and her breakfast fruit is ready.

* * *

Seems I never learn things until too late. I was rummaging around in the bottom of my sewing box looking for a button when I jabbed my finger on a pair of sharp scissors. Now a sympathetic visitor tells me the accident wouldn't have happened if I'd keep the points of the scissors stuck into an ordinary cork.

Keeping my sewing box a bit neater would help, too.

Speaking of buttons, our orderly neighbor slips them on a big safety pin when she removes them from discarded clothes. That way she keeps each set separated and can tell at a glance how many buttons of each kind she has.

* * *

The whole neighborhood is excited over the arrival of twin boys in the home of the young army couple down the street. The two-year-old wants them to hurry home from the hospital so he can play with them. When I tried to explain that they're only the size of dolls, can't even sit up or walk or talk, he was a little disappointed, but he replied,

"Well, they can help hold my kitty cat."

New idea for cooking fish: instead of rolling fish fillets in flour or meal, our good-cook neighbor rolls them in packaged biscuit mix. It gives them a delicious crust.

And here's something for supper: toast bread and then put a thin slice of cheese on the toasted side. On top of the cheese spread beaten egg white which has been salted. Then carefully drop an egg yolk in the center. Bake in a rather slow oven for about 15 minutes or until as done as your family likes eggs.

THIS WEEK'S TALK

A Revival In Nation's Capitol

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

The Rev. Billy Graham, the 33 year old, blonde, wavy haired preacher, who is our nation's number one Gospel Evangelist, has taken the Gospel of Christ into our nation's capitol city. Last Sunday his services drew a record attendance of 45,000 people. The evangelist's pulpit was the same stand that is used for the inauguration of the presidents of the United States. What an opportunity for any preacher; but what an opportunity for any nation. Every nation should have its spiritual voices, as well as the political voices. This nation has more spiritual voices than all other nations of the world put together. Besides the voice of thousands of Gospel ministers, here is the voice of the nation's number one evangelist, who is lifting up his voice like a trumpet, and showing this nation its sins. He is pleading for men and women of every walk of life to turn from their sins, and turn to God.

The Rev. Mr. Graham says that people of this country are hungry for God. He thinks that if he were to run for the office of President of the United States on the platform of calling the people back to God, back to Christ, and back to the Bible, that he would be elected ... We are pleased with the great success that the evangelist is having in his ministry, and the hunger for God he is witnessing in the hearts of thousands; but let us hope that he does not offer himself for president. It is true that we need a God-fearing, and God loving, and God serving, man in the White House, but a layman needs to fill that place. The calling to preach the Gospel of Christ is a greater work and responsibility than that of being president of the United States.

Nations, like Israel and Judah, have had their prophets who warned them of national sins; and of the doom which awaited them if thye turned not unto God in repentance. The United States has her own prophets, and warning is being given, that if this nation forgets God, Psa. 9:17 will be its part. "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all nations that forget God."..God never did send His judgement before he gave warning. But when the warning was not heard and heeded to, then the judgement came ...The Evangelist Mr. Graham told his crowd of 45,000 listeners Sunday that "America is marked for death unless the people come to Christ."..President Truman was not present at the meeting, though he was specially invited..I think he should have gone; don't you?

Adding 30 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate to a ton of animal manure makes it about equal to 100 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer.

Our Red Cross Or Your Red Cross And Its Purposes

What is the meaning of the Red Cross, or should we say our Red Cross?

We do not believe the general public understands just what their Red Cross is doing. We would like to take this opportunity to outline the activities of your Red Cross, in fact—our Red Cross. First: It is a force for good, people helping people, and may we state that wherever and whenever people are helping people there is certainly a force for good. All who give to this Red Cross organization are as individuals serving others under the Red Cross banner and they are part of everything which is done through this organization's activities. This means taking care of disasters, servicemen, veterans and civilians—as well as we are a part of the precious communications link between the serviceman and his family wherever he may be—here in this country or overseas. In connection with servicemen and their families, may we give an example of service rendered by your own Chilton County Chapter of your Red Cross recently. Your Red Cross executive secretary who is making this appeal was instrumental in getting the father of one of our own Chilton County Servicemen into a hospital in Birmingham for a serious operation, without which this father would probably have not lived long. The father was unable to pay for this operation and besides he was unable to pay the advance $100.00 which was required in order to enter the hospital. We have been given permission to state here that the father is Mr. John T. Hughes, Rt 5, Clanton; father of serviceman Jack L. Hughes. We are giving you, the public, this information to show just what your Red Cross is doing. The hospital bill and doctor bills were advanced by your local chapter but will be refunded to us by the Army Emergency Relief as a report of this case and a referral was made to the AER. Assisting the military in getting servicemen home due to illness and death in the serviceman's family is also a phase of the good service rendered through the local Red Cross chapter, which phase is known as "home service." in connection, your Red Cross worker for Chilton County would like to mention we were able to get a captain home from Korea a few months ago due to serious illness in his family. This Captain was loud in his praise when he came to your local chapter office to thank us for our efforts in his behalf.

We would like to point out that your Red Cross, Chilton County Chapter, has rendered services to 542 servicemen, to say nothing of 60-odd veterans and 25 civilians in the past year. You, the public, can readily see from these figures "the charter of the American Red Cross was issued by Congress to primarily render services to the servicemen." We are giving you these figures to try and show the various activities of your Red Cross in this county. Going further into detail we would like to bring to your attention your Red Cross office takes care of complaints regarding allotments, assits parents and wives with necessary affidavits for dependency and hardship discharges.

Last but not least, is our Red Cross Blood Program. We have had this program in our county twice and will soon be scheduled for another such program in March. The residents of Chilton County have already benefited from this Red Cross Blood Program being brought to our county, although this phase of our work is still in its infancy.

The majority of people do not fully understand that there is networks between chapters and field directors. (field directors being those Red Cross workers who are stationed in our government hospitals and in the Army camps) making possible the network of Red Cross workers with the armed forces. Perhaps you do not know that the Red Cross came of age in World War I. In 1941, this being the time our American Red Cross had its great challenge and based on experience then our American National Red Cross offered services to all Amercan Fighting men in every theatre of operation. We, the people, have continued this wonderful work since that time, and the need has grown greater.

Let us please bear in mind now and always that a contribution to your local Red Cross is an invest-peace.

Sherman Motley Will Make Good Revenuer

Sherman Motley of Maplesville district has announced his intentions to become a candidate for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control, representing the Third District of Chilton County.

Mr. Motley is a man of talent, and in every way fully competent to serve in this capacity. He intends to make a thorough canvass of the county. Mr. Motley wants to see every voter, man and women. He is sincere and feels he can do much for the taxpayers of this county, and we believe he would make an excellent member of the Board of Revenue and Control. From what we have been able to learn he is popular in every section of the county; he is able and in every way a citizen who wants to serve the public sincerely, devotedly and without fear or favor. If for any reason Mr. Motley does not get in direct contact with you, bear in mind that he is desirous of serving you on this board and will serve diligently and with charity to all and favoritism toward none.

NEW RULE AFFECTS SALE OF USED FARM MACHINES

So that farmers who intend to sell their used farm machinery to another person may fully understand the Office of Price Stabilization regulations governing such a resale, a section of Ceiling Price Regulation 100 is given.

"Any dealer or reseller who does not recondition and guarantee determines his ceiling for used equipment by the sum of the following: 1. The trade-in allowance or purchase price paid; 2. $25 or 10 per cent markup, which ever is greater; 3. The reseller's ceiling price for labor and parts actually used in repairing.

In no event, however, can the ceiling price so determined exceed 85 per cent of the base price where the machine is less than two years old, or 70 per cent of the base where the machine is over two yearsold.

TIMELY JOB

Now is the time to make the farm shop safe for 1952 repair and service work.

News From Your OPS

All 1951 model used cars now have a ceiling price 8 per cent below the prevailing selling price as new cars, OPS says. Earlier models, under the OPS used car ceiling price regulation, have a current ceiling price 2 percent below the December 31, 1951 ceiling. Next required ceiling price reduction of 2 per cent, effective April 1, will be the same for 51's as well as earlier models.

OPS is going to test 'community food pricing' in Fresno, Calif., Fargo, N. D., and Jacksonville, Fla., to find out how this method of posting identifiable ceiling prices for goods can be practicably applied nationally. The grocery posting program is called 'community pricing' because it sets a ceiling price that is community wide for each commodity in each class of store in a pricing area. A similar plan was popular with shoppers in World War II.

Substitution by television makers of a compulsory, longer warranty at additional charge, in place of the former 90-day warrant, constitutes a tie-in sale in violation of OPS General Ceiling Price Regulation, the stabilization agency says. Buyers should have full option to take or leave any additional item in making a purcase, OPS says.

* * *

OPS says: When you buy shirts you ask for shrinkproof cottons. You can help make your dollars shrinkproof by buying wisely, paying no more than ceiling prices and saving all you can.

* * *

Inflation decreases the amounts of food, shelter, clothing, health service and luxuries the dollars in pay checks will buy, says OPS. That is why OPS urges every American to help keep a high standard of living by paying no more than ceiling prices, buying wisely and saving all you can.

A seller of farm equipment who acquires used equipment for sale and resells it without reconditioning or guarantee must, says OPS, set a ceiling price which is: the sum of the trade-in allowance or urchase price, plus $25 or 10 per cent of the trade-in allowance or purchase price, plus ceiling price of parts and other materials and the labor charge for repairs.

Under the OPS passenger automobile ceiling price regulation, if a used car is traded in as part payment for a new car, the invoice must show the make, model, body style and optional equipment on the trade-in, the allowance for the old car and its motor and serial number.

Dealers for each make of passenger automobile have now been provided with official ceiling price lists by means of OPS special orders. These lists are for reference by prospective purchasers and include ceiling prices of all extra, optional and special equipment.

Do you have insurance on your family? The job of the Office of Price Stabilization is not only to hold down prices of the things you buy but to keep that insurance worth more in the future. Inflation robs insurance of its value. There is security for tomorrow in stopping inflation today.

"We citizens of the Twentieth Century, having the benefit of history and experience to guide us, cannot let a race between unrealistic prices and unrealistic wages destroy the sound foundations that have been built. A temporary system of direct controls will help us avoid that danger," states Michael V. DiSalle, Director of Price Stabilization.

Market Demand For Farm Produce Soars

Market demand for production of farm products in 1952 is the highest in history.

The need for total farm output is considerably above 1951 and about 50 per cent more than before WW II. At the same time many people have left the farm for other jobs and military service. In other words, fewer workers remain on farms to produce the huge output needed. The number of farm people dropped from 32 million in 1910 to 24 million by 1950. From April 1950 to April 1951 farm population dropped another million.

To meet this need for expanded farm production with fewer workers farmers will have to rely on use of power equipment that is well adapted to the needs of each job on the farm. They will have to make higher acre yields through improvements in fertilizations practices, better use of insecticides, better planting seed, and proper cultural practices. Also, turning out a high percentage of good quality products with as little loss or waste in marketing will be essential. And better farm management by balancing crops and livestock to get production for market on more acres and using farm labor and other resources profitably throughout the pear will pay off big this year.

Alabama seed growers are speeding up the state's rapidly expanding livestock program by providing adequate supplies of grass and clover seed.

Farmers! Use Your Own Credit System

FARMERS HAVE REASON TO BE PROUD OF THEIR LAND BANK SYSTEM

Farmers of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana are proud of the Federal Land Bank and the 79 National Farm Loan Associations in the three states. The banks and the associations have a net worth of over 26 million dollars. They are owned entirely by the farmers who use them.

The bank and the associations are operated for the sole benefit of farmers. The long-term loans and small annual payments make it easy for members to repay their loans. If the member has a crop failure or some other disaster, the National Farm Loan Association—with a local board of directors—neighbors in many cases—will lend an attentive ear to the member's problems.

Local servicing of a member's loan affords many advantages. Consider now consolidating your debts into a land bank loan, or borrowing for any necessary agricultural purpose. Visit, Telephone or Write the Secretary-Treasurer of your

HIGHLAND

We had fine attendance in Sunday School last Sunday and much interest and enjoyment was shown in the study of the lesson.

We also had several visitors, whom we welcome back at any time they can come. Let us all be very much in prayer for all our church services and do everything possible to increase our attendance.

There will be prayer meeting at the church on Thursday night of this week. The monthly meeting of the WMS will be held also, as we did not have any services on our last WMS meeting date because of a misunderstanding of the time set for the meeting. We urge all members to be present and welcome all visitors.

PLEASANT GROVE METHODIST CHURCH NEWS

Rev. H. A. Jones brought a good message Sunday to a reasonable good crowd. There is a good deal of sickness in our community. We are praying that they will all soon be able to be back with us in our service.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Jones were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Durbin and family.

James Lewis and John Douglas Hosey spent Sunday with Jimmie Durbin. Mr. and Mrs. John Earl Hosey spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Brice Cobb of Calera, spent Snuday with Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Durbin and also visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and family Sunday afternoon.

Fred Hosey and Mrs. Cora Atkinson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Popwell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott and family are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Hosey of Columbia, South Carolina.

We are glad to have Mrs. Dallas Culp and Laura Ann Ratliff with for our Sunday night service. They are from Mount Nebo Church.

We were mighty glad to know that Mrs. Lula Best was able to be back with us in our service Sunday. She has been on the sick list for some time.

This community extends its deepest sympathy to the family of Mr. Oliver Sims in the passing away of Mr. Sims.

We've 93 Candles on Our Cake!

Your A&P is 93 years young this week. For it was about this time in 1859 that our founder, George Huntington Hartford, pridefully opened the doors of his modest little store on Vesey Street in downtown New York, the forerunner of today's A&P.

Even with his vision, we suppose he'd be surprised to see how his little business has grown.

We think he'd be proud, though, to know that the basic idea that guided him then, "to bring more good food to more people for less money," has been the reason for our growth.

We pledge to maintain this principle as long as there's an A&P!

Chiropractic

THE MODERN APPROACH ■ NATURAL HEALTH

By Marshall L. Ware

INTERCOSTAL NEURALGIA

This is a painful condition localized in the spinal nerves distributed to the tissues around the chest. The pain is sharp and stabbing, and radiates along the course of the nerves to the front of the body. The muscles are tense. Breathing is not affected.

The nerves involved emit from the spinal cord through openings formed between two vertebrae in the spine; these openings are known as intervertebral foramina. There is one of these on each side between every two vertebra in the spine. The openings are formed by notches, so that each vertebra contributes to form two openings on each side. If either of any two vertebrae get out of position, the size of the opening is changed and pressure is produced upon the nerve fibers which pass through it.

Pressure on a nerve causes improper function in the tissues or organs supplied by it. Impingement in the intervertebral foramina may affect a few or many nerve fibers which go to make up the nerve trunk at that point: so that an impingement at any given point might produce disorders at one or more of several points in the body, according to which particular fibers of that nerve trunk are involved. Some of the fibers of a nerve trunk pass to the surface of the body. Others in the same trunk pass to internal organs.

Intercostal neuralgia results from impingement of superficial nerve fibers, and the sensory function is involved. Chiropractic records show that this is a condition which usually yields rapidly to adjustments. The correction of the misaligned vertebrae removes pressure from the nerves and normal health follows.

RIGHT SOIL MIXTURE FOR USE IN HOTBEDS

Soils used in hotbeds to start truck crop plants should be well supplied with organic matter of some kind.

When it is available, peat mixed with sand, half and half, makes an excellent mixture. However, well-rotted stable manure can be used in place of the peat.

About one-fourth pound of 4-10-7 fertilizer per bushel of the soil will add materially to the start plants get. The soil should be screened through at least one-half inch hardware cloth and placed in the hotbed frame two or three weeks before the seeds are planted.

CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA
CHAMPION BRAND

—that's NATURAL Chilean Nitrate ... rich in sodium and minor plant food elements

● Nitrate Nitrogen

All the nitrogen in Natural Chilean Nitrate is fast-acting nitrate. Dissolves in normal soil moisture ... is completely available to the crop. Nitrogen increases yield and improves quality of food and feed crops ... nitrate of soda furnishes more nitrate nitrogen than any other alkaline nitrate.

● Sodium — improves crop health and vigor

Natural Chilean Nitrate is rich in sodium — contains 26% of this element (equivalent to 35% sodium oxide). Sodium can act like potash — may partially substitute for it in potash-deficient soil. By itself, sodium increases the availability of applied phosphate ... tends to have a "sweetening" effect on the soil.

● Rich in minor plant food elements

Natural traces of other elements are found in Chilean Nitrate. These include iodine, manganese, copper, zinc, boron, magnesium, calcium, iron and sulphur. In small quantities, these elements are essential to proper plant or animal nutrition.

● Free-flowing pellet form

Chilean Nitrate can be applied in any standard distributor. For larger yields and top-quality crops, order Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda — proved by more than 100 years of experience.

Simmie Earl Williams Would Make Fine Member

We have been told that Simmie Earl Williams, post office, Verbena, would be a candidate for the Board of Revenue in this (Chilton) County. His many friends are jubilant of the fact that he has announced his candidacy.

Mr. Williams is one of those deep thinking individuals who will make a good board member. He has the ability and he is willing to sacrifice much in order to help the taxpayers of the county get out of a rut in which they have been plunged by reason of unreliable men getting into public office. Mr. Williams is a man of sterling qualities and one who would in every instance safeguard the interests of the taxpayers and all citizens in general. A vote for Simmie Earl Williams will be a vote for honest government and in helping get Chilton County on its feet again, at the same time by placing in office a man of sterling qualities, and a man who has always been rated as a staunch, upright citizen.

Don Celebrates Birthday—

Mrs. Ress Driver entertained at a children's party on Thursday, Jan. 31, honoring her son, Don, who was seven years old.

Snapshots were made of the honoree with his large pink and white cake, also of Don and his little friends.

The boys and girls enjoyed a few television programs and taking part in the games planned. As Don opened his gift packages his friends sang Happy Birthday.

Each guest received a balloon as a parting gift.

Cola drinks and the birthday cake were served to the following: Christy Cox, Sherry Cox, Ray Cox, Joe Carter, Brenda Morgan, Deloris Jones, Carolyn Moatts, Dorris Sanders, Larry Buckner, Michael Cox and the honoree.

Mrs. Driver was assisted in directing the entertainment by Mrs. Raymond Cox.

Crowson-Jones Vows Said At Home of Bride's Parents—

The marriage of Miss Mildred Yvonne Crowson and Homer Lamar Jones took place Saturday, Jan. 26, at five-thirty in the afternoon, with the Rev. R. E. Wilkins officiating.

The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. An improvised altar in front of the living room mantle was banked with green palms. A large brass urn filled with snapdragons, gladiolas, and stattice in tones bridal white, interspersed with plumasa fern centered the mantle. Seven branched wrought iron candelabra holding tapers were placed on either side of the altar.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Willie A. Crowson of Clanton.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Robert L. Jones and the late Mr. Jones of Jemison.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. H. S. Peterson of Thorsby, pianist.

Soloist was Mrs. Monroe Crowson of Clanton, aunt of the bride. She sang, "I Love You Truly," and, "The Lord's Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Mr. Bobby Jones.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a suit of Navy blue with a matching hat and accessories of chartreuse. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. J. D. Jones served her sister as matron of honor. Her suit was of navy wool and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Bobby Jones served as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with an exquisite lace cloth. A tiered wedding cake, centered with a miniature bride and groom formed the centerpiece. A low arrangement of white snapdragons, stattice and gladiolas marked the buffet. White tapers burned in brass holders on the dining room mantle.

After the first cutting of the cake by the bride, Mrs. E. F. Chancellor and Mrs. W. E. Willis served the refreshments.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for a short wedding trip.

The couple will make their home in Clanton at the present.

Mr. Jones is employed with the TCI in Birmingham.

A. A. U. W. Luncheon—

The AAUW had its luncheon at the Dixie Cafe on Saturday, Feb. 2, 1952. The tables were decorated very beautifully in spring flowers.

Mrs. Joe Campbell, president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Charles Patterson, Mrs. Jerry Bodden, and Miss Elizabeth Barton were hostesses.

The invocation was given by Mrs. W. F. Haywood.

Miss Barton introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. T. B. Deramus of Verbena. Mrs. Deramus spoke on England and her experiences in a village in rural England. Her description of the scenes, and her narrative about the natives and villages were vivid and inspiring. She had a number of pamphlets and souveniers she had obtained while in England.

At the close of the meeting we welcomed three new members, Mrs. Joe Mullins, Mrs. Jerry Bodden and Mrs. Reid Mullins.

The Association had as guests for the day Mrs. John Page, Mrs. J. D. Heflin, Mrs. Leo Langston of Jemison, Mrs. Samuel Johnson, Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Mrs. R. C. Williams and Mrs. Dick Hayes.

WARDROBE TO TAKE ON BRIGHTER LOOK

No longer do salesladies try to sell customers dull colored dresses for the winter or early-spring wardrobe.

The traditional navy blue will be pepped up in 1952 with such colors as daffodil yellow, beige, and gold. Also, leading colors will be all of those in the range from beige to gold and from pink to red. Neutral colors used alone or in combination with maple sugar, blue, ivory, navy blue, or black will be in the spotlight. Yellow for both toppers and accessories will be found on the market. The yellow trend includes such colors as mimosa, porcelain, gold, banana, lime, and chartreuse.

HOMEMAKERS NEED TO BE GOOD MECHANICS

Today's homemaker needs more mechanical knowledge than ever before.

The hand that rocks the cradle now runs the washing machine, dishwasher, vacuum cleaner, sewing machine, and an increasing number of other mecanical servants. Whether the homemaker uses them to best advantage and keeps them in condition depends considerably on her understanding of how they work. In emergencies she may be called to make simple repairs, such as changing an electric fuse, patching an electric cord or plug, or opening a clogged sink drain.

The mechinically-minded housewife always has the ability to use and run her household equipment economically.

Might As Well "Get In Key"

Last Tuesday Judge Cunningham wanted to go fishing. "Why aren't you working?" I asked.

Judge explained how his wife had gone on a trip, taken his keys by mistake—and now he couldn't get in the office. So we went fishing.

Next day, he wanted me to go again. I was surprised those keys hadn't shown up yet. "The little woman phoned to say she mailed them," the Judge explained. "They're now in the office, under the mail slot. I'd get 'em if I could just open that door." He grinned and picked up his fishing rod. "Great little woman, the wife. You can always count on her. Let's go!"

From where I sit, we can use tolerance like the Judge shows for his wife's absent-mindedness ... and she shows for his habit of lighting out for the fishing hole at every opportunity. He can't see why she likes tea, and she doesn't share his taste for a glass of beer. But they get along fine! Learning to respect other people's ways will "open the door" to happier living.

Congregational Church—

Youth Sunday was observed last Sunday, and members of the Pilgrim Fellowship took complete charge of the morning service. Those who conducted the service were Peggy Parrish, Martha Jo Woodson, Madelaine Gustafsen, Carol Howard, Nancy North and Mary Jackson. Sally MecLendon preached the sermon on the subject, 'Dedication.' Shirley Petersen played the organ, and W. A. Perry and James Kincaid, Jr., took up the offering. These young people conducted the worship with great dignity, and the congregation was very appreciative of their leadership.

More Pastures For 1952

ALABAMA farmers made great progress in the establishment of pastures in 1951. This is in line with expanding livestock production and should be continued and expanded in 1952. One of the greatest farming opportunities lies in the establishment of more land to pastures.

A.P.I. Extension agronomists suggest that producers try to work out a year-around grazing system for their farms and establish crops which fit into this system.

If the system includes clover-grass permanent pastures which are to be seeded this year, they should be planted this month or early in March. Later plantings usually fail.

Established clover-grass permanent pastures which were not fertilized last fall should be refertilized right away. Keeping the clover-grass permanent pasture well fertilized not only increases the yield but increases the nitrogen, phosphorus, and calcium content of the plants and helps control weeds.

It is a good time now to plant or plan to plant supplementary grazing crops to be used this summer when the permanent pasture is not furnishing enough grazing.

Lespedeza sericea should be planted as soon as danger of freezing has passed. If land has not already been prepared it should be prepared this month. Sericea is adapted to a wide range of soils in Alabama and will give good returns from grazing from about April until November. It also produces good hay. Old stands of lespedeza sericea should be refertilized before growth starts.

February is also a good month to set kudzu crowns or seedlings. Remember that kudzu was a life-saver for many farmers throughout the state in 1951 during the dry summer.

Annual lespedeza is another good grazing crop to use in the summer and fall when the clover-grass permanent pasture is not furnishing enough grazing. It also makes good hay. This crop can be seeded now in all except the northern one-fourth of the state. Kobe and Korean are the best varieties for hay and grazing. Common is a good variety to use in the permanent pasture mixture.

For some homemakers sewing is a chore, for others it's a necessary evil. But for Mrs. Verd Riddle, of the Odenville Home Demonstration Club, no day would be quite complete without a little time spent at her electric sewing machine. Mrs. Riddle has been a St. Clair County dress revue winner for three years and she is an expert at all kinds of sewing, including the art of making drapes such as those shown above which adorn the window in her sewing room.

"Just Chewing The Cud"

If this peaceful herd bull, basking in the wintry sun, could speak he'd probably have a couple of things to say. Quite naturally, he would more than likely have a few choice words about the unusually fine weather he's enjoying. And then—more or less feeling his oats—he would probably pay tribute to his owner, the Alabama farmer who manages to keep him well fed and happy by providing him with plenty of tasty feed throughout the year.

Now, few farmers are interested in what their herd bulls may or may not be thinking, but it's a pretty sure bet that they are all interested in keeping their livestock in good condition.

The formula for well fed cattle is no secret. It's made up of just three or four main ingredients. First of all, it's necessary to have the right kinds of plants and sufficient acreage to prevent over-grazing. Then, of course, plenty of the right kinds of fertilizer applied at the right time makes for well-fed grasses, clovers, and grains. Another necessity is a system by which pastures and crops are coming on all of the time—plenty of summer crops, supplementary grazing crops, and winter crops. Then there is the matter of insurance in the form of a barn full of hay or stacks in the field, set aside just in case the weather doesn't cooperate.

Your cattle can't pen a note of thanks for their good treatment, but they will pay you for your troubles with increased gains and more profit on market day—if they get the feed.

Now Is The Time To Secure Planting Seed For The '52 Crop

THE supply of cottonseed for planting this year's crop appears to be good. This is true not only for Alabama but also for the entire cotton belt.

In 1951 about 25,000 acres of cotton were grown for certification in Alabama, with a production of nearly 400,000 bushels of registered and certified seed. This is an increase of about one-third over previous years, but it should be noted that the supply of Alabama-grown certified seed will plant only about one-third of our cotton acreage.

Certified seed and the best of uncertified seed always move first. Farmers should buy or arrange for their cottonseed supply early.

National 4-H Winners

TWO Alabama 4-H Club members were among the national winners named at the National 4-H Club Congress which was held recently in Chicago. The boys are Kenneth Driskell, of Wilmer, and Willie Woodall, of Midland City, Rt. 1. Each received a $300 college scholarship for his excellent record.

Driskell, a national winner in the farm and home electric contest, has compiled a long list of completed projects during his seven years of club work. He has made over half a dozen electrical appliances for use in his workshop and has completely wired all of the buildings on the farm. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Driskell.

Willie Woodall won national honors with his outstanding gardening project. He has carried a garden project for the past five years and for the last four years he has been the first-place gardening winner in Dale County. Beef, hogs, field crops, poultry, dairy cattle, and soil conservation are other projects the youngster has completed. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Woodall.

SECRET OF SUCCESS—Assistant County Agent Jeff Martin, at left above, gets a few inside tips on cotton growing from two young Monroe County experts at the game. F. J. Melton, 11, and George Melton, 14, with the help of their 17-year-old brother Charles, produced 32 bales of cotton on 28 acres this year.

CORN CROP IS OK—F. J. and George Melton, youthful Monroe County farmers, display some of their corn crop at right above. They averaged more than 40 bushels per acre on their 11-acre crop this year. Hogs and dairy cattle are the marketing agents for the corn.

PEACHES OR STRAWBERRIES—No matter which it is it's sure to make a tasty dish for the Melton's table. Mrs. Jane Melton (inset) turns to the deep freezer for a lift for the dinner menu. Her loaded pantry shelves and deep freezer help keep her three hard-working sons well fed.

They're Just 11, 14, And 17

Boys Do Man-Sized Job On Monroe County Farm

THERE are many successful farms in Monroe County, but none exactly like the farm of Mrs. Jane Melton.

It is operated by Mrs. Melton's three sons, F. J., 11 years old, George, 14, and Charles, 17.

But despite their youth these youngsters are doing a man-sized job of carrying out a profitable farming business.

Any one of the three boys can handle most any job on the farm and their record proves that they do a good job of it. In 1951 the youngsters grew 32 bales of cotton on 28 acres, 11 acres of corn averaging more than 40 bushels per acre, and looked after the dairy cattle and hogs.

A well-rounded pasture program has a definite place in their over-all farm plan. Most of the feed for the nine dairy cows and 55 head of hogs comes from the pasture crops. The Melton boys sell market hogs from a brood herd of three sows.

F. J. is the "hog man" in the family. It is his job to look after the group of shotes. He imported a registered Hampshire gilt from Tennessee this year to improve the quality of the hogs.

All three of the boys take turns at running the farm tractor and they are all just about experts at it. But when it comes to cotton picking, 11-year-old F. J. is the undisputed champion of the family.

"I have picked as much as 300 pounds in a day," says F. J., "but I had to start early and stay late." George can pick about 225 pounds per day and Charles doesn't want to estimate how much he can pick. F. J.'s cotton picking record is 175 pounds in one-half day.

Mrs. Melton's job in the family-operated farm is keeping the family well fed. And just like the boys, she is an expert in her field. She keeps the pantry shelves loaded with canned vegetables, fruits, jams, and jellies. And the large deep freezer is always full of frozen foods that can be turned into a tasty meal on short notice.

Assistant County Agent Jeff Martin points with pride to the Melton family as farm and community leaders. "Mrs. Melton and her three sons are good farmers," he says, "and they do just as good a job in community and 4-H Club work as they do with the farm."

J. C. Ford, Pioneer Alabama Extension Service Worker, Retires

WIDELY KNOWN as a farm leader, J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension garden and orchard specialist, retired Dec. 31 after 35 years of work with the Extension Service.

A pioneer Extension worker, Ford was among the first college-trained county agents in Alabama. His first job was as county agent in Macon County in 1914; his last has been as garden and orchard specialist on the state Extension staff. Also he served on the state 4-H Club staff and as county agent for both Morgan and Fayette Counties during his long career.

Probably Ford's most widely recognized work was done in the control of garden pests. Under his leadership, A.P.I. scientists and several manufacturers in 1948 agreed upon a single garden dust that has been successful in the control of practically all garden insects and diseases. This dust—labeled now as "Auburn-Approved"—has done away with the necessity for home gardeners to buy numerous insecticides and fungicides, each for a certain pest.

Along the Way

with P O Davis

P. O. DAVIS

DIRECTOR, API. EXTENSION SERVICE

IT has been two months since goals for farm production in 1952 were announced. They call for a new high level in total crop production in the United States. And they do the same for Alabama.

In fact, the call is for more livestock and livestock products as well as for more crops. We'll need more food and fiber at home and more to go abroad.

We'll begin with cotton. Last year, Alabama farmers planted 1,460,000 acres in cotton. This year we're asked to plant 1,650,000, or 13 per cent more than last year.

Corn acreage will be about the same. The 1951 figure in Alabama was 2,740,000 acres and the goal for this year is 2,735,000.

The cotton goal, of course, will be the most difficult to attain—an acreage increase of 13 per cent over the previous year isn't easy. And it'll be more difficult this year because of a shortage of labor and other factors that handicap farmers. But the increase can be made; and it is in line with good farming in Alabama based upon wise use of labor, land, equipment, and capital.

FACTS ABOUT COTTON

I urge you to plan for a high yield of cotton per acre by:

1. Selecting land that is good for cotton. Prepare it thoroughly before planting. Poor preparation of soil before planting is always a mistake, and is very expensive.

2. Planting good seed of the best variety for your farm.

3. Fertilizing heavily, using the right kind of fertilizer. Don't forget to have it on your farm well before planting time.

4. Proper cultivation and warfare against cotton insects. Poison and equipment to apply it is essential.

Cotton is a crop that works well in combination with other crops and with livestock. It has problems but it pays those who produce it properly and efficiently.

MORE CORN PER ACRE

Again corn will use more land than any other crop in Alabama with the exception of trees. And there is an urgent need for more corn. In fact, it is necessary in order to produce more meat, milk, and eggs.

To this, I add that information is available which, if applied, will result in a big increase in corn production per acre. Production essentials are:

1. Good corn land, properly prepared before planting.

2. A good seedbed. This is essential to a good stand and normal growth of plants. Poor preparation is a serious mistake.

3. Good seed of the best variety and enough for a good stand.

4. Enough fertilizer of the right kind, including nitrogen later as a top-dressing.

5. Planting at the right time for the summer rains. Of course the rains don't always come—as in 1951.

6. Just enough cultivation to control weeds and grass.

TALKING IT OVER—Pinckard homemakers like to get together for a review session on the day's lesson in homemaking. Shown in one of these review sessions at right are Mrs. C. W. King, Mrs. J. P. Walton, Mrs. Jewell Borland, Mrs. J. W. Gulledge, Mrs. C. L. Gissendanner, and Mrs. L. E. Gissendanner.

Dale Farm Women Put Homemaking Short Cuts To Work At Home And Throughout Community

FARM women in Dale County may forget a lot of things, but they aren't forgetting the latest homemaking tips learned in their home demonstration club.

For here is where they learn those little short cuts that make the job of being a housewife easier.

And through constant effort these farm women are keeping pace with their counterparts in the cities and towns of the country.

A good example of this learning program is the Pinckard Home Demonstration Club. Through a well planned program members of this club are keeping abreast of social, cultural, and domestic changes of the times.

During 1951 their monthly demonstrations included such topics as pickle making, seasonal refreshments, secrets to smart sewing, plastics, and preparing youth for world living. Leaders in the club attended county leadership schools to keep up-to-date with changes. Then they brought this new information to local club members.

But activities of this group of homemakers are not confined to their own club. They are always ready to take part in community, church, and school improvement projects. And they take an active part in training the youth of the community.

This year all of the club members gathered to can apples for the school lunchroom, and in one-half day they canned 480 quarts. Recreation and music are other parts of their youth program.

Members of the Pinckard Club do not keep information learned through the club to themselves either. They carry the story of better homemaking to all parts of the community by visiting neighbors who are unable to attend club meetings.

"In this way," says Mrs. Lance Tompkin, club president, "we are carrying homemaking know-how to every home in the community."

Recommended Cotton Varieties For Alabama

By H. B. TISDALE, Plant Breeder
A. P. I. Agricultural Experiment Station

THE results of cotton variety tests conducted by the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station on its Main Station, Substations, and Experiment Fields for the past three years (1949-51) show very little change to be made in 1952 from the recommended varieties in 1951.

The average results of the tests conducted for the past three years in northern and central Alabama where non-wilt-resistant varieties are generally grown, show that Plains, Coker 100 Wilt, Smith 78, Empire, Stoneville 2B, and Deltapine are the highest yielding varieties with satisfactory fiber properties for these sections of the state.

The average results of three-year tests conducted in central, southern, and northern Alabama where wilt-resistant varieties are generally grown, show that Plains, Coker 100 Wilt, Stonewilt, Smith 78, and Auburn Hybrid 56 are the highest yielding wilt-resistant varieties with satisfactory fiber properties for these general areas. Auburn Hybrid 56 is a new variety which will be given a different name later; the seed supply is limited.

MORE WEALTH FROM CORN IN ALABAMA

By J. C. LOWERY
A.P.I. Extension Agronomist

MORE wealth from corn in Alabama—and you at once say, "how?" Well, the fact is corn is rapidly becoming one of the big sources of cash income on Alabama farms. For generations, corn has been just a crop used to produce feed for the mules, to fatten a hog or two, and for meal to make corn bread for the family. We have grown corn mostly through force of habit.

We are now producing cotton on less than 15 per cent of the usable land in Alabama. There is about twice as much land in corn as in cotton. More and more our farmers are turning to tractors in place of mules. This cuts down the need for feed. So we have a great opportunity in Alabama to make corn one of our main sources of cash.

Corn has many uses. You can sell it as grain. And corn markets are now within reach of nearly all farmers in the state. Elevators are in operation in Mobile, Selma, Anniston, Jasper, Decatur, Guntersville, and Larkinsville. It is probable that others will soon be in operation. Numerous mills buy quantities of corn. Large numbers of trucks at corn buying centers awaiting their turn to be weighed and unloaded are becoming a common scene in Alabama. This corn for cash business brings in millions of dollars in Alabama. In addition, much corn is swapped for livestock or hay.

Another growing practice which brings in cash income is that of hogging-off corn. You will find farmers hogging-off corn in almost any section of the state. This is a money-making practice and a soil-building practice as well. It takes only seven bushels of corn to increase the weight of a hog 100 pounds, if you provide good, green grazing and the right kind of protein supplement for the hog while on the corn. That is, it takes 14 bushels of corn to make a 200-pound hog.

If you can make 28 bushels of corn per acre, you can produce two hogs per acre. Those two hogs would have been worth about $80 last November. If you can make 42 bushels per acre, you can produce three hogs. From 70 bushels per acre, you could make five hogs. The good thing about this system is that you don't have to build extra cribs; you don't have to pull your corn and store it in the crib. Of course, some soils are subject to overflow in winter, so it is necessary to harvest the corn, store it, and feed it to the hogs. Almost anywhere in Alabama we can start hogging-off corn in the middle of June or around the first of July, and continue until planting time the next spring. Producing corn for hogging-off is one of the best ways we can get more wealth from corn in Alabama.

Corn is also needed for other livestock. Corn fits well in the dairy program and also in the expanding beef business.

Hens give a good return from corn. If you can produce fifty bushels of corn to the acre, you are producing enough corn to feed fifty hens for a year.

Just any way you take it, with good management, you can make those corn fields you have been planting just through force of habit become some of the best money-making fields you have on your farm. BUT DON'T GROW CORN THROUGH HABIT; GROW CORN TO MAKE MONEY.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For more about the do's and don't's of growing corn Mr. Lowery has prepared a companion article which will appear in the next issue of this publication.)

WINS IN CHATTAHOOCHEE. The Daviston community in Tallapoosa County has won the 1951 title of Chattahoochee Valley's most progressive community. Pleased over the honor are, left to right, Joe B. Thompson, president of Daviston's improvement club; Fletcher Farrington, county agent of Tallapoosa County, and P. O. Davis, director of the A.P.I. Extension Service.

HEAD JERSEYMEN—Named at the recent annual meeting of the Alabama Jersey Cattle Club to head that organization in 1952 were, left to right, Dr. Joseph Wilson, Birmingham, vice president; Robert Newman, Huntsville, president; W. H. Eaton, Auburn, secretary - treasurer, and Bill Alverson, Albertville, assistant secretary. All these leaders, except Alverson, were re-elected to the respective posts they held in 1951. The office of assistant secretary was created this year.

This Month on the Farm

by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

FEBRUARY is a hard month on Alabama brood cow herds. By this time many cattlemen have used the greater portion of their feed, and many cattle have been off green grazing for several weeks and are greatly in need of vitamin A. It is good practice to turn the brood cow herd on any available green grazing crops every day when the ground is dry enough, even if only for a few hours at a time, to give them as much vitamin A as possible.

COWS on rough grazing should have from one to three pounds of oil seed meal or four pounds of corn and cob meal and one pound of oil seed meal per day, depending on their size and condition and the severity of the weather. Cattle should be observed every day and weak animals taken out of the herd for extra attention and feed.

FORESTRY tree plantings should ordinarily be completed by the last of February. The planting dibble is the best tool for planting in soft soils. The mattock or grub hoe is best for tightly-packed soils. The best time for planting is during wet, rainy days.

PLAN now to beat the 1952 fall break in the hog market. It always happens. Top out the spring litters, ready for market July-October, by feeding and pushing the pigs to market weight by the time they are six months old. Making full use of early hybrid corn, good green grazing, supplement, and good management methods including parasite and disease control, will do the job.

HOG producers who plan to purchase foundation brood stock this spring should always examine each boar, gilt, or sow for blind or inverted teats. Pigs cannot nurse udder sections so affected. This defect is hereditary and boars transmit the weakness to their daughters.

WHAT farmers plan to produce this year is important information to people who buy farm products. Now is a good time to contact your best market outlets and let them know what you expect to have for sale this year.

MANY building repairs, particularly interior improvements, can be made during February when weather conditions are not suitable for other work. Before making extensive use of new building materials, careful checks should be made on both their desirable features and limitations. For example, in using asbestos-cement boards, more ventilation must be provided for than is necessary when using wood construction.

* * *

FOR best results with most truck crops, they should be planted on fairly fertile land with a good amount of organic material. The investment necessary for the production of vegetable crops is usually fairly high. Unless a reasonably good yield is made the chance of making a profit is small.

TERRACES should be plowed out and weak places repaired before preparing land for spring planting. Plan on establishing meadows to take care of runoff water from every terrace.

THE BIG TEST—Before placing eggs in incubators they are inspected for size, uniformness, and shape. Then they are weighed individually to make sure they come up to the proper standard for hatching eggs. Mrs. L. D. Smith, Abbeville, Rt. 2, is shown at left above weighing an egg before it goes into the incubator.

THEIR FIRST DAYLIGHT—At center Mrs. L. D. Smith checks on a tray of one-day-old New Hampshire chicks. These chicks may be sold to other poultrymen in the Wiregrass section or kept on the Smith Farm and grown out for layers.

FULL DOSE—Mrs. L. D. Smith, at right, treats a young pullet for diseases and parasites while a helper holds the bird. She treats for fowl pox, Newcastle disease, and worms in one operation. This treatment is given when the birds are six weeks of age.

RECIPE FOR FEBRUARY

ON these cold, wintry days no food seems to "hit the spot" quite as well as a steaming bowl of hot soup. And besides being a tasty dish, a soup made from left-over vegetables provides another way of cutting the cost of the food bill. Utilizing the juices from vegetable cooking also saves a large portion of the vitamins which are frequently poured down the drain.

This month's recipe is designed for fresh-cooked or left-over vegetables. Try it.

CREAM OF VEGETABLE SOUP

2 c. cooked vegetables, chopped
1 c. meat or vegetable stock (or water and chicken bouillon cube)
2 T. minced onion
2 T. butter, margarine, or bacon fat
2½ T. flour
2½ c. milk
Salt and pepper

For vegetables use spinach, green beans, peas, asparagus, corn, potatoes, carrots, celery, Lima beans, or a combination. Cook enough vegetables in boiling, salted water to make two cups when cooked. Drain, reserving stock. Chop the cooked vegetables. (Canned or left-over cooked vegetables may be used.)

Saute onions in fat in top of double boiler for two minutes. Sprinkle in flour; mix well. Add milk and stock slowly and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Place over boiling water. Add vegetables and reheat. Season to taste.

Simple Rules Get The Job Done

Homemaking, Hatchery Work Keep Henry County Housewife Busy

MRS. L. D. SMITH doesn't know the answer to the old question of which came first, the chicken or the egg. And to her it doesn't make any difference.

But she does know how to succeed with poultry.

Her home poultry business in Henry County covers all phases of the business from the egg to the chicken and back again to the egg.

Mrs. Smith has the poultry business all to herself. Mr. Smith is content to run his farm enterprises including peanut production, hogs, and cattle. He insists that the poultry part of the farm is out of his jurisdiction.

But this doesn't bother Mrs. Smith. She has her own ideas about poultry and she carries them out with true feminine efficiency. When profits are totaled up records show that her ideas pay off.

The Henry County poultry grower has the business set up in two separate departments. The laying flock which produces hatching and market eggs is one operation; the hatchery is another. However, each department is partially dependent on the other.

Eggs from the laying flock are hatched and the chicks sold to other poultrymen. But Mrs. Smith keeps enough baby chicks to keep her laying flock up to full strength all of the time. She keeps about 1,800 hens in the hatching egg flock the year around.

All of the large, uniform-sized eggs are hatched. But eggs that don't quite come up to her strict requirements for hatching stock are sold at a reduced price to customers who pick them up at the farm.

Strict sanitation is the number one rule around the Smith poultry farm. And this has paid off in healthier chicks. Mrs. Smith's hatchery has had a "Pullorum Clean" rating since 1948.

She feeds the laying flock breeder mash to get eggs with higher fertility, and eggs are gathered at least twice a day to preserve this high quality.

A good disease prevention program is carried out in all phases of the poultry farm. Pullets for the hatching flock are vaccinated for pox and Newcastle disease and treated for roundworms at six weeks of age. The flock is culled throughout the year and low producers and inferior hens are taken out.

In fact, Mrs. Smith attributes all of her success with chickens to three simple rules. "It takes good chicks, close attention to details such as feeding and watering, and a good sanitation program to control diseases and parasites," she says. "These three things are what make or break a poultryman."

New Bull Ready For Service

The young Guernsey bull, Chedco White Lick, has just been added to the Artificial Breeding Unit at Auburn. He is the first of several additions to this unit. Purchased from the White Lick Guernsey Farm, at Mooresville, Indiana, the bull should be popular with Alabama dairymen. He is an animal showing much type, and has production records that should prove valuable in transmitting production to his offspring.

In four daughter-dam comparisons, based on 365 days production, his transmitting index is 13,077 pounds of milk and 532 pounds of butterfat.

His sire, Chedco Advance, has 13 advanced register daughters and five AR sons. He is out of Chedco Blossom, who produced in one lactation 13,679 pounds of milk and 619 pounds of butterfat.

Alabama Tests Show Sericea Doesn't Respond To Borax

By CLARENCE WILSON
Associate Soil Chemist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

THE Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station does not recommend borax in the fertilization of sericea.

Sericea fertilizer tests which have been in progress since 1947 have not shown an increase in yields due to borax at any location. These tests were made on several different soil types located in various parts of the state. At one location borax appears to have reduced the stand and yield where sericea was growing on a light, sandy soil. In some cases, farmers have reported that the use of fertilizers containing borax gave unsatisfactory results when applied to sericea stands.

In some areas special fertilizer mixtures containing borax are made and sold for use on such crops as alfalfa and crimson clover. On the basis of present experimental tests such mixtures are not recommended for sericea.

BETTER BIRDS—Assistant County Agent James Fields, third from left, brings a group of Winston County High 4-H Club members up-to-date on the proper methods of culling hens in the laying flock. Field trips to actually carry out various types of project work are a regular part of the young 4-H'ers' club work. The boys are practicing on the flock of Andrew Mote, of Double Springs. Left to right are Donald Frazier, Don Dodd, Agent Fields, Tom Jeff Henderson, Jimmy Snoddy, John Snoddy, Bobby Martin, Douglas Bull, and Mr. Mote.

Her Home Is Almost A Greenhouse

Retired School Teacher Has Full-Time Job With Flower Hobby

FOR MANY years Mrs. Annie Lee King taught school in Covington and Lamar Counties and dreamed of the day she could settle down to her hobby of flower growing.

Then a couple of years ago she retired and moved to Shelby County to devote all of her time to growing flowers.

However, the Shelby County Home Demonstration Club member didn't wait until she had quit teaching to start learning about flowers. She has been studying them all of her life and is an expert on several varieties.

She keeps up with all of the latest floricultural information through books and magazines, and many of the ideas she picks up are put to work in her home flower garden.

Mrs. King's home now looks like a greenhouse. She has scores of different plants growing in almost every room of the house, but African Violets are her special pets—she has more than a hundred of them.

About a year ago disaster struck Mrs. King's flowers. While she was away visiting, almost every one of her African Violets was killed by cold weather. But her many friends heard about it and began sending her leaves from their plants. She rooted them and soon had her collection back to normal.

Mrs. King does all of her own rooting from small cuttings or even single leaves of flowers. She seems to have a magic touch, for under her watchful eye even the most difficult plants soon take root and begin growing.

Mrs. King doesn't consider herself a florist though—she's in it strictly for the fun she gets out of growing plants. She doesn't sell any of her plants, but hundreds of her home-grown flowers are scattered over the state where she has sent them as gifts.

But the Shelby County hobbyist modestly denies that she is an expert in her field. She claims that she has just had a lot of good luck.

Folks who know of her hobby say it takes much more than luck to grow flowers the way Mrs. King does.

JUST CHECKING UP—Mrs. Annie Lee King, of Columbiana, makes her daily round through the house to check on her flowers. She says flowers need some attention, but most folks bother them too much. She thinks the best system is to leave them alone as much as possible and let them grow.

Follow daily market reports on products you have for sale. Market news services include newspapers, radio, government price reports, market buyers, cooperative marketing associations, and representatives of agricultural agencies. Planning these marketing jobs early in 1952 at the same time you make production plans should help you buy and sell to better advantage and wind up the year with a more satisfactory income.

Overlooked Income

$1,000,000 By-Product

THE poultry manure in Alabama broiler houses this year will have a value of nearly one million dollars. The manure will have this value from the standpoint of its chemical analysis alone, as compared to commercial fertilizers, and does not include its very valuable organic materials. About 10 pounds of manure is produced for each broiler sold (this includes droppings plus litter).

On this basis, 1,000 broilers yield five tons of manure. At current fertilizer prices this is worth $10 per ton, or $50 per 1,000 broilers. In other words, the manure value is equal to the profit made by growers during low-price periods. Efficient growers could afford to produce broilers for the value of the manure alone. The value of the manure will pay labor cost in growing broilers, or will pay all housing costs on a broiler farm.

A landowner could build broiler houses for his tenants and if he got all the manure from these houses as rent, the manure value would pay for the house in three to five years if four broods of broilers were grown each year.

The analysis of poultry manure will vary, but the table below shows the average analysis of samples taken from houses using peanut hulls and shavings as litter, as compared to stable manure. The tests were reported by E. M. Rahn, of the University of Delaware.

Per Cent Composition of Fresh Broiler and Stable Manure

Kind of Manure	Moisture	Nitrogen	Phosphate	Potash
Broiler	28	1.5	1.0	0.9
Stable (horse)	64	0.4	0.3	0.3

From this it can be seen that the plant food content of broiler manure is more than three times that of stable manure.

Many broiler growers in Alabama are making excellent use of the manure from their broiler houses. They are, in many cases, doubling and tripling their crop yields. However some growers fail to realize the great value of this product and consider it only a nuisance that must be cleaned out of the houses. It is a common practice in some areas for growers to give the manure away to anyone who will put new litter back in the house. This means that some growers are willing to give $500 worth of fertilizer away in order to get new litter put in their 10,000-capacity broiler houses.

In recent tests, four tons of poultry manure per acre produced as much corn as 1,000 pounds of 10-10-10 commercial fertilizer. And two tons of poultry manure produced as much corn as 10 tons of stable manure.

Broiler manure should be considered as a fertilizer material and every pound cared for and used. Three tons of poultry manure per acre on corn and cotton land seems to be the most desirable rate of application on most Alabama soils. This is equivalent to applying 600 pounds of 4-10-7 and side-dressing with 400 pounds of nitrate of soda. This is the amount of fertilizer used in thick spacing corn demonstrations, and it is important that enough stalks of corn be present to use this amount of fertilizer.

On land where the fertilizer balance is unknown it is advisable to use 200 pounds of 0-16-8 fertilizer per acre to insure enough phosphate and potash when high rates of poultry manure are used.

In addition to making a very valuable contribution to the cash farm income in Alabama the broiler business is also building soil at a fast rate.

It's Produce Or Be Culled For Marshall-DeKalb D.H.I.A. Cows

DAIRYMEN in Marshall and DeKalb Counties are putting the facts and figures of dairying up to their dairy herds.

For the individual cow this means either "pay or go."

Through the Marshall-DeKalb Dairy Herd Improvement Association, 14 dairymen are taking the guessing out of dairying on their individual farms. By accurate records they are able to see which cows are making a profit for them. And more important, they can easily spot those animals that are lying down on the job.

Hirram Frasier, test supervisor for the association, visits each of the 14 farmers once a month. He weighs the feed consumed by each cow, records the pounds of milk she produces, and runs a butterfat test on the milk. By figuring the value of feed and comparing it with the market value of milk produced, he works up a balance sheet for each cow.

The dairyman takes this balance sheet and culls his milking herd for more efficient production.

During 1951 a total of 396 cows were checked regularly by Mr. Frasier. And of this number, 59 were culled out by dairymen because of low production, sterility, udder trouble, or other reasons. Average production of all cows in the two-county association was 4,777 pounds of milk and 238 pounds of butterfat. More than 20 cows produced more than 1,000 pounds of milk each per month.

Pigs Are Calendar Watchers-That Is, Good Pigs Are

By SUS SCROFA

TO BEGIN with, let me tell you that this is no joke—I'm dead serious. So how about pulling up a chair and listening for a few minutes? Maybe you'll think I'm sounding off too much for a young squirt, but my brain ought to be used for something before it winds up with a bunch of eggs in the frying pan. To tell you the truth I've been worrying a lot lately about my cousin, Hamless Scrofa. He's the disreputable looking character at left above. That gal at right is another cousin, Big Ham Scrofa.

MR. SUS SCROFA

Now I can't say too much about Big Ham; she's a pretty slick looking gilt if ever I saw one. And my Ma says she'll make one of the best brood sows in the country. In other words, Big Ham will be a regular calendar watcher.

But Hamless, well, there just ain't much good that can be said about him. He has just about ruined his life with his stubbornness. And the sad part of it is, he's too far gone for help. But maybe his life will be worth something after all. That is, if his case will keep some innocent little fellow like me from being shiftless.

Guess I shouldn't be telling off on my kinfolks like this, but everybody knows Hamless ain't worth two pork chops nohow. So I'm just gonna tell you how he come to be in the shape he is.

Hamless didn't believe in planned parenthood, so he was born on the coldest day we had had in 20 years. The snow looked pretty so he got out and rolled around in it. Come pretty near freezing to death, too. Now if he had been a calendar watcher he would have arranged it so he could be born around March 1 or Sept. 1. And if the air was a little nippy he could have stuck close to the pig brooder in the corner of the farrowing house.

His Ma didn't give much milk so Hamless had to struggle along on about half enough to eat most of the time. He never tasted protein supplement, minerals, or green grazing. No sir, not a bite. Thought such things were for sissies.

And he was always putting off things, like the visit to the hospital. Why I bet he was a year old before he got around to having that little operation. And lice and mange . . . Shucks, old Hamless spread them all over the country. Just too lazy to use a little BHC.

Then instead of going to market when he was six months old, like any good hog ought to, Hamless waited until he was two years old. By then he looked so bad the buyer turned him down flat.

So Hamless came back home and kept right on drinking from the same old mud-hole. He got so wormy they thought he was gonna die any day. But he lived, if you can call it living, and about this time he found his appetite.

That hog eats enough to keep a dozen shotes fat, but it don't have no effect on him. I was figuring up the other day and he has cost his owner 75 bushels of corn. Corn, corn, corn—that's all he ever eats.

But what aggravates me is that Hamless knew better. He's just like a lot of fellers, he knew how to make prime pork chops out of himself. He knew most of those things the hog experts call good management practices, and he could find out the rest of them. But for one reason or another old Hamless just never got around to practicing those better hog-growing methods.

His owner would be better off selling sassafras tea or something than he would raising hogs like Hamless. In fact, I think his owner is quitting the hog business. Claims it ain't profitable. But I'll tell you one thing, I bet if his owner kept one eye on the calendar he'd find out that growing hogs is a pretty good business.

Well, I've got to run along and have my glasses checked. If I'm going to get to market by the time I'm six months old, and make any money for my owner, I've got to watch every little thing. And you know something? A lot of hog growers would be better off if they did the same thing.

Shifting To Livestock

By H. L. EUBANKS
St. Clair County Agent

ST. CLAIR County farmers are shifting their farming to more livestock. And this change means livestock will soon be contributing nearly half the average annual farm income in the county.

The ratio of cropland to pastures is one of the big changes. Farmers have planted 14,000 acres of row cropland to pastures. This changes the county totals to 43,000 acres of harvested crops and 30,000 acres of permanent pastures and grazing crops.

The farm census of 1950 shows that livestock contributed 39 per cent and crops 61 per cent of the cash farm income. This compares to 18 per cent from livestock and 82 per cent from crops in 1945. The per cent of income from livestock continues to climb.

In 1950 cash farm income for St. Clair County totaled $1,492,000. There were 1,640 farmers with one or more cows, 1,358 farmers with one or more hogs, and 1,784 farmers with chickens. There were 2,211 farmers in the county.

"The Farm and Home Program for More Income and Better Farm Living" was the theme of the recent meeting of A.P.I. Extension Service workers in Birmingham. At this five-day meeting county Extension workers and members of the state staff at Auburn worked on and planned for an enlarged program designed to make the meeting's theme a reality.

Facts and figures on row crops, hogs, beef cattle, dairying, poultry, and other farm enterprises, along with discussions on all phases of homemaking, were covered at the meeting.

Madison County Boasts Of Ten 100 Bushelers In 1951

ALTHOUGH most farmers over the state had plenty to complain about concerning the weather and its effect on crops last year, 10 Madison County farmers haven't been saying much. They made over 100 bushels of corn per acre despite the drought.

Topping the list of "100 bushelers" was W. B. Douglas, of Huntsville, Rt. 3. In the Madison County More-Corn-Per-Acre Contest he was the top producer in the 5 to 10-acre division with an average yield of 149.15 bushels per acre on 10 acres. Among the one-acre contestants Franklin Miller, of Huntsville, Rt. 2, was first with a yield of 128.54 bushels.

The champion whole farm division corn producer was Wesley Thomas. He gathered an average of 73.62 bushels per acre from 60 acres.

Other Madison farmers who produced 100 or more bushels of corn per acre are Harvey Jacks, New Market, Rt. 2, 127 bushels; Tracy Jacks, Plevna, 112.20 bushels; Ben Lawler, Brownsboro, 102.12 bushels; Tom Mann, New Hope, 101.92 bushels; Garland Joiner, Huntsville, Rt. 2, 100.96 bushels; George Darwin, Huntsville, Rt. 2, 100.51 bushels; W. G. Cornelison, New Market, Rt. 2, 100.20 bushels, and Rex Walls, New Market, Rt. 2, 100.10 bushels.

For maintaining farm improvements, new buildings, etc., farmers should cut their own logs where possible and saw the rough lumber at local mills on a custom basis. Always be sure that your lumber is properly seasoned before it is put to use.

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

ROOTWORM IN CORN was effectively controlled with one pound of aldrien per acre applied in the fertilizer in experiments conducted in 1951. In fields where infestations were severe, this treatment resulted in as much as 18 bushels per acre increase over the production in areas where there was no treatment.

ZINC DEFICIENCY, commonly known as pecan rosette, has been found in 77 per cent of the pecan orchards in Southeast Alabama, according to a recent survey. In Barbour County, rosette was prevalent in 90 per cent of the commercial orchards.

FOR MECHANIZED FARMING the type of seedbed preparation is especially important as it influences all succeeding machinery operations. The elimination of high and low spots—found in most fields—results in more efficient planting, cultivating, and harvesting operations. The soil should be thoroughly broken to a uniform depth of at least six inches well in advance of planting time.

ALTHOUGH THE GENERAL RECOMMENDATION FOR APPLYING NITROGEN TO CORN has been 60 to 72 pounds per acre, more recent results show that one-eared varieties such as U. S. 13 made best yields when spaced 12 to 18 inches in the drill in three and one-half-foot rows and fertilized with 90 to 120 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Prolific corns such as Dixie 18 have yielded best at thinner spacings, 18 to 24 inches in the drill, with the above rates of nitrogen. These results apply to most sections of the state except the Wiregrass where different spacings and nitrogen levels did not produce profitable increases in yields at rates of nitrogen above 30 pounds per acre. This was probably due to unusually dry seasons while these tests were being conducted.

ADEQUATE POTASH APPLIED TO ALFALFA AND SERICEA is reflected for several years in high yields of cotton following these crops. Recent studies have shown that where annual applications of 400 pounds of muriate of potash were made to alfalfa, or 200 pounds of muriate to sericea, the cotton yield was higher with normal fertilization—even after several years—than with very high rates of potash following alfalfa or sericea that received one-half the above rates.

PINE TREES NEED TO BE CLEAN-PRUNED to 17 feet above the ground in order to yield one clear log. However, pruning height should never exceed one-half of the total height of young trees. The first seven feet can be reached with a short-handled pruning saw. Two handles made of light material proved to be very convenient in pruning pines experimentally for the additional 10 feet. A seven-foot handle makes it easy to prune up to 12 feet. A 13-foot handle is used to complete the job up to the necessary 17 feet.

THE AUTOMATIC PICK-UP BALER has proved to be very satisfactory for baling hay behind peanut combines. The hay can be handled best by the automatic baler where it is placed in light or small windrows with a side delivery rake. When the windrow is too large, difficulty is encountered in the operation of the automatic baler. Hay from the automatic baler handles very satisfactorily for grinding.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Boy. Are we confused. It wasn't the Garden Club that sponsored the Carr Florist Show at the City Hall. It was the Music Club. And it wasn't the Music Club or the Garden Club that sponsored the Dogwood Trail for Clanton—it was the Study Club. Believe us. The Concert Association sponsors the concerts and the Chilton County Christmas Chest Association sponsors the yearly Christmas Chest.

Speaking of the Christmas Chest that Committee was to be called back within thirty (30) days to decide on the organization of the Ches as a day in, and day out, charity. As to how we haven't heard of a meeting being called. That doesn't sound like our Mr. Bell who is chairman. Maybe he hasn't recuperated from that bad sick spell he had during January.

There are big things doing at Jemison next week. Askew Davis and W. G. "Lacey" Lacey, was in telling us about it. They are both members of the T-J Lions Club and the Club is sponsoring a big show at the Jemison High School Auditorium on February 16th. The proceeds are to go to their Sight Conservation Fund. Both Lacey and Davis are all enthused about the show.

They also told us of a Minstrel Show they are planning and promised to bring the show to Clanton if it went over big when they showed in Thorsby and Jemison. If and when they get the show going we are looking forward to seeing it. Could use some of that local entertainment about now.

I. A. Dennis, who made a mighty good race for Circuit Clerk, against J. C. Pattillo four years ago, will make the race again this year we hear from reliable sources. Watch for him to make his announcement next week. Dennis is from Maplesville.

Judge Oakley Melton has filed with the Secretary of State for his race for renomination in the Spring Primary, for the office of Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit. We haven't heard of any opposition to date for the Judge and if and when a candidate tosses his hat into the political ring, he had better be good. Judge Melton is a favorite with all whom he comes in contact.

Jimmy Bell tells us there will be a meeting of the Chilton County Chest Friday night week — that's February 22, and incidently George Washington's birthday—the meeting will be held at WKLF and all members or interested parties are requested to attend. This is the meeting in which the Christmas Chest will be converted into a workable organization for providing for the needy throughout the year as well on December 25th. It needs and deserves your support.

Rev. Joe McKinney deserves a lot of praise for his work with the March of Dimes this year. Under his direction more money was raised to fight polio than has ever been raised in the county for this cause. Too, he did a wonderful job of educating the people as to the need for a concerted effort in fighting this dread disease.

Oh, goody, we got a fan letter and it makes us very proud. First because someone was nice enough to write us, and second, because she is the parent of our good friend. Here's the letter:

"I am Jimmie Bell's mother and I want to thank you for keeping me informed of the where-abouts of my roving children.

"Friday I did not get a letter so I said I will look over the Chilton County News, they maybe gone some place. Well, right there on the front page, in your column, told about them going to Texas. I was so very happy to know that they had gone to see Jimmie, Jr. Thanks again, and I enjoy reading the Chilton County News so very much."

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. Henry Bell.

Now that's a letter we are proud of. God bless her, but we don't know where those kids are this week, and there ain't much telling.

'March of Dimes' Is A Success

To the People of Chilton County:

I take this method of expressing sincere appreciation to everyone who in any way contributed to the success of the "March of Dimes" campaign in our county. We did not receive the full amount of the quota handed down to us from State Headquarters, bt we did, according to my information, receive more than in any former "March of Dimes' campaign. I take it that the above state fact spells success.

I should like to give the name of each person who made a contribution, but time and space forbids. I do wish to name the persons who were my front-line assistants and to give them due credit for a good job well done.

I should like to say that the radio and our newspapers and movie theatres, were unstinted and untiring in their efforts to keep the "March of Dimes" before the people. They did a jam-up job of advertising for us. Therefore to Tabor, Tucker, Wyatt, Jackson and Wade, we would say, "Thanks a million."

Then there are the workers in the local communities over the county who come in for their share of the credit and praise. They are: Maplesville, Mrs. Theron Watson; Thorsby, Mrs. Cecil Cleckler; Jemison, Mrs. Lester Pate; Lomax, Mrs. Leonard Sandlin; Stanton, Mrs. Mildred Burnette; Verbena, Mr. J. L. Messer; Cooper, Mrs. Hughie Taylor; and Mt. Creek, Mr. George Culver.

I think special mention should be given to Mrs. R. M. Tucker who had charge of the "Mothers' March on Polio," to Mr. G. O. Willingham who directed the "March of Dimes" in Clanton and served so well as treasurer for the campaign in the county, and to Prof. Ed Sledge who directed the campaign among the colored people, and did a swell job of it.

I cannot close this letter without calling attention and giving praise to one who collected more money than any other person in the "March," she is Miss Helen Parrish who laid out for herself a seemingly all but impossible task of collecting and laying dimes edge to edge in the amount of $256.00. Well, she went $60.00 beyond the task she had laid out for herself.

Curly and Jim also come in for their share in the praise for they too did a fine job of collecting through their programs.

A report of amount received from schools will be published. The over-all receipts throughout the county from all sources will be approximately $2,500.00.

Sincerely yours,
J. M. McKINNEY,
Director, Chilton County "March of Dimes."

MARCH OF DIMES COMMITTEE

The March of Dimes Committee for 1952, reading from left to right, chairman, Rev. J. M. McKinney; treasurer, Buddy Willingham; and Mothers' March chairman, Mrs. R. M. Tucker, report approximately $2,400 has been collected for the March of Dimes.

COLORED MARCH OF DIMES WORKERS

E. D. Sledge and group of his co-workers are pictured here as they made their reports to the Mothers' March chairman, Mrs. R. M. Tucker.

Mrs. Tucker stated, "I am grateful to the teachers, mothers and daughters in the colored section of Clanton who always co-operate so well with the community projects and drives."

Sledge and his school made a large contribution to the March of Dimes.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN

The Chilton County Evangelistic Campaign has been set for March 30 through April 13. "Christ is the Answer," is the slogan to be used. The Chilton Baptist Committee consisting of all the active pastors and heads of the departments in the association, met recently and chose the following commitees for the Evangelistic Campaign:

The committee whose duty it is to supervise the Evangelistic Rally has set March 2 at 2:30 p.m. at Liberty Hill church as the date to meet. This service will be broadcast from 2:30 to 4:00 over WKLF. A very splendid program is being arranged for this broadcast. The committee anticipates inviting the heads of the various departments of our work who are employed by the Baptist Executive Board of Alabama. Please remember this date and attend this rally.

COLLINS CHAPEL PARENT-TEACHERS

The Parent-Teachers Association at Collins Chapel will hold a regular monthly meeting Friday night at the school.

Time of the meeting is 7:30. A guest speaker will be presented at the meeting.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TO BE STUDIED

The Chilton County Board of Education has arranged for the Chilton County High School to be evaluated during he week of March 3-7. All high school members of he Souhern Associaion of Colleges and Secondary Schools must be checked by 1953 if hey are to meet the recommendations of the association. The faculty and the students of the local high school have been getting ready for the visiting committee for some months past and by the time the visitors arrive it is hoped that everything will be in order.

The purpose of this examination, or study, is to find how well the school is meeting the educational needs of the community, and to see how improvements may be made to further increase the effectiveness of the educational program of the school.

This visiting committee will be composed of outstanding school men and women of the state, and their mission will be one of helpful suggestions, and not one of adverse criticisms. If they find things not up to standard, and they will, they will make constructive suggestions as to how improvements may be made.

The county board of education thinks that much good will come of this project, and the faculty knows that a great deal of work has already been done as a result of this program.

Mr. John D. Eiland and family of Stanton, Va., spent a few days with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Eiland. John D. Eiland is head of the Eiland Wholesale Beer Agency in Virginia.

IMPRESSIVE CHURCH SEQUENCE

On the music recording stage at RKO Radio a group of ministers listened as Franz Waxman conducted a 70-piece, all-violin orchestra for the music score of "The Blue Veil" Flashing on a miniature screen high on the wall behind the orchestra were scenes from the picture which enabled Waxman to cue the tempo of the music to the action of the film.

Over the heads of a score of young girls robed in white, who awaited Confirmation, a mixed boy-and-girl choir broke softly into the strains of "Stand Up For Jesus."

The ministers looked on as young actress Natalie Wood was confirmed and as star Jane Wyman looked on with tears in her eyes. Once more the choir took over, rendering "Jesus Calls Us."

When the scene ended, a spokesman for the group congratulated Producer Jerry Wald.

Replied Wald, "I'm afraid I can't take credit for that particular scene. It was the real thing. Those sequences were taken inside the All-Saints Episcopal Church in Pasadena. The choir you saw is the regular choir of that church, under the direction of James H. Shearer, whom you saw playing the organ in the film. The Rev. John F. Scott, who appeared as an aide to the Bishop in the confirmation scene, is the regular pastor of the church. The Bishop, little Miss Wood and Jane Wyman were the only actors in the scenes you saw."

CENSUS REPORT

Census report shows that 9,996 bales of cotton were ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1951 prior to January 16, 1952, as compared with 5,497 bales for the crop of 1950.

DEMOCRATS ELECT ATKINSON, TUCKER FOR FOUR YEARS

J. B. Atkinson was re-elected Chairman of the County Democratic Committee at the meeting last Wednesday afternoon and R. M. (Ben) Tucker was named Secretary.

Atkinson has served as Chairman of the Committee three times previous to the current term and one time as a member of the State Committee. Tucker has served as secretary for the past 14 years.

MEETING OF UNIT AND TRUCK GROWERS MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

There will be a meeting of the Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association Friday night at 7 o'clock at the old Thorsby Hardware Building at Thorsby. All members are requested to be present.

T-J LIONS CLUB TO PRESENT BLACKFACE MINSTREL

The T-J (Thorsby-Jemison) Lions Club is in the midst of preparation of a blackface minstrel which they will present at the Jemison High School Auditorium early in March. This show promises to be a real wow! So get your laughing clothes ready, folks, you'll need 'em if you see this one.

Watch your local papers for further announcements. — Robert B. Johnson, Sec.

KIWANIS HAVE CHILDRENS AID PROGRAM THURSDAY

Last Thursday night at the regular weekly meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club the meeting was under the direction of Rev. A. T. Hickman who is Chairman of the Underprivileged Children Committee.

Miss Louise Foshee, Attendance Supervisor of Chilton Co. Schools, was principal speaker.

A motion was adopted whereby all members would bring used clothing for the use of underprivileged children to this week's meeting.

CLANTON MUSKETEERS NOW IN KOREA

Three modern musketeers from Clanton are with Battery B, 69th Field Artillery in Korea and mention the fact in a letter received this week that they collected more than any other "outfit" for March of Dimes. To be exact they collected -4,800.00. And that's a lot of money in Korea—or anywhere else.

The Clanton boys are Cpl. Barney Owens, Cpl. Preston Ousley, and Cpl. William Thomas. The three soldiers have been together in Korea for the past six months.

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION ON BROTHERHOOD WEEK

I Commend the observance of Brotherhood Week, February 17-24, to all our citizens. It is well, at a time when principles upon which our democracy is founded are gravely threatened, that we should reassert them firmly and rededicate ourselves to their daily practice. Brotherhood Week provides an opportunity to affirm our acceptance of the obligations implicit in the brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God.

C. FENN JONES, Mayor.

Man Dies When Autos Collide At Thorsby Saturday

Allen Brown, age 72, of Clanton Route 2, died at Central Alabama Hospital last Saturday afternoon when the car in which he was riding was in collison with another at Thorsby. Mr. Brown had been in ill health for some time and was in the car with his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Devaughn, and Mrs. Nancy Friday. Other occupants of the crash were hurt only slightly. Funeral arrangements will be found elsewhere in this issue.

NEED FOR TREATMENT SHOWN IN VISION SURVEY

An alarming number of students in the Clanton Elementary School have been found deficient in vision. This fact has been brought out by the P.-T.A. sponsored Visual Analysis Program. Such deficiencies are great handicaps in the student's scholastic achievements, therefore their recognition is most important.

Programs of this nature are being carried out in many parts of the nation and Clanton Grammar School P.-T.A. feels vey forunte in being able to have such a program in the Clanton School. The program has been made possible by the combined volunteer efforts of the teachers, parents, and Dr. William B. Eiland.

Notices of results are being sent to the homes of the students examined and the parents are urged to cooperate.

REVIVAL AT FIRST ASSEMBLY

Mrs. Troy B. Helms from Hattisburg, Miss., will conduct a revival at the First Assembly of God church, 1st Ave., Clanton, Ala., beginning February 17, through February 24.

Special subjects are Sunday morning, "My Lord and My God"; Sunday night, "Nobody Cares"; Thursday night, family night, "Children, don't obey your parents"; Friday night, "Only 24 hours to live, healed from Cancer."

Everyone has a special invitation to attend these services.

The so called democrats coming out for "Ike" couldn't possibly be doing so because of their dislike of Truman. It hasn't been definitely established that he will even be the candidate. Seems to us they're just sore at the Democratic Party.

WHO'S TO BLAME?

Many employees, unfortunately, are beginning to regard their paychecks—after taxes—as their total pay.

When tax deductions increase, they want the employer to make up the loss by raising wages.

If citizens and voters take that stand, there is little chance of ever getting taxes reduced. If everyone succeeds in passing the tax bill on to his neighbor, it's just the old rat-race down the road to inflation.

As far as necessary government spending is concerned, we are all stuck with it, and each should bear his share.

When taxes begin to hurt too much, we should complain to Congress about this wild spending for non-essentials, instead of trying to pass the buck.

A CODE OF LIVING

In these days when the evidence points to a widespread weakening of the American moral fibre, with major crimes climbing faster even than the increase in population, it is encouraging to note that a great moral force in America is growing even stronger.

The Boy Scouts of America celebrated its 42nd birthday during Boy Scout Week, February 6 through 12. It was an occasion when we could pause and consider its mark on the youth of the nation. Since 1910, more than nineteen million American boys and men have been influenced by this Scout Oath:

"On my honor I will do my best—

To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law.

To help other people at all times.

To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

For its young men members, known as Explorers, the Boy Scouts of America has his dedication pledge, which could well be adopted by all Americans:

"I will live the Scout Oath and Law. I will be familiar with the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the Bill of Rights of the United States of America. I will respect and obey the law in order to have security and freedom.

"I will share the responsibility of my home, school, church, neighborhood, and community; and when legally of age, I will register and vote in all elections. I will deal fairly and kindly with my fellow-citizens of whatever race or creed, in the spirit of the Scout Law and America's tradition of equality of opportunity.

"I will work to preserve our American heritage of liberty and responsibility. I acknowledge that the privileges we enjoy were won by the hard work, and sacrifices, faith and clear thinking of our forefathers. I will do all in my power to pass on a better America to the next generation."

Today over 2,900,000 boys and men are actively enrolled in over 80,000 different units. Scouting is indeed a great asset to the nation. May it continue to succeed in influencing the lives of countless more boys as you go "Forward. . .On Liberty's Team."

HOBBIES

The compulsory retirement plans of industry [illegible] pose a problem [illegible] of people reaching [illegible]. Many of the persons [illegible] rather empty future, for it is difficult to stop suddenly the mental and physical machinery that has been geared to business competition. Wise is the person who foresees this inactivity by preparing himself with an avocation.

It is not good to lose interest, and a satisfying hobby will not only keep curiosity and zest alive but very often will create a field of financial return.

Age is more or less an individual problem just as it is a normal growth pattern. Many persons at thirty suggest physical and mental characteristics of aging. Others at 70 may reveal a wrinkled skin which is offset by a sprightly walk and a mental agility.

The development of these conditions may slow up a person in advancing years, but age itself is not a debilitating factor. Again certain physical changes are natural [illegible]. Muscles and chest become smaller and the waistline larger. The skin loses its elasticity and tends to wrinkle and to develop certain types of spots and moles. Hair is apt to become gray and thinner. In some individuals, mental deterioration is evident.

Perhaps one of the greatest problems of growing old is the feeling that one is no longer needed, that usefulness is over. Everyone wants to be a contributing power, whether it be in business, the home or the community. The end of a long life of service and activity needs a compensatory substitute.

That is why the development of a hobby is encouraged. Accept the challenge of retirement by getting ready for it now. Maybe the younger years are the more productive ones, but wisdom and experience come with emotional maturity and there is great satisfaction in pursuit of an interest that will keep you happy mentally, and occupied physically.

DREAMS COME TRUE WHEN YOU MOUNT UP ON WINGS OF FAITH

By Rev. J. M. McKinney

"Let us learn like the bird for a moment to take sweet rest on a branch that is ready to break; she feels the branc tremble, yet gaily she swings. What is that to her? She has wings! She has wings!"

There is a great moral running through a late popular song hit: "Swinging On A Star." If you are content to be a mule or a pig or a fish, well, that's just about what you'll grow up to be. But you can be better than you are. In fact, you can rise to almost any height you wish, even to swinging on a star, depending on whether you have a worm'-eye view, or a bird's eye view.

Hope for the race isn't based on the hoodlum, but on the nobleman. And when hoodlums get into high places, they become menaces to mankind. Jesus called them, "Wolves in Sheeps Clothing."

Man's supreme desire is for security. The hoodlum thinks he is secure when he has hidden his head in the sand of material power. The nobleman knows he is secure only as he "Mounts up with wings as eagles" toward the summit of the city of God, for security resides only in God.

We human beings are so prone to become parrots of partisan politics pronouncing accurately its shibboleths, but never soaring to the noble heights of true statesmanship or, changing the figure, to become canaries of conventionalism, singing glibly our traditional songs, but never winging our flight into the stratosphere of God's eternal truth.

Man may "mount up with wings as Eagles," or he may hide his head in the sand of the proverbial ostrich, but only as he mounts up will he find security. Hence the words: "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint." (Isaiah 40:31.)

This is simply another way of saying that those who have a vital faith in God, shall by means of the wings of faith soar above the sinful and sordid things of life, and learn to live a life that is upon the higher levels.

In the realm of intellectuality, they that wait upon the knowledge shall mount up with wings as eagles, and shall soar above the realm of ignorance and superstition, and shall be in the know concerning the things of the world.

In the realm of religion, to "mount up with wings as eagles" spiritually, comes of "Waiting on the Lord." And waiting on the Lord here means full acceptance of, and fully committiong one's self to the Lord. This constitutes the "Wings of Faith."

I have never mounted up with wings of an aeroplane because I have never committed myself to one. I could have gone up, but I have been content to be grounded.

Too many would-be Christians choose to shudder in the dungeon of doubt, and have their own ways rather than commit their way unto the Lord, and mount up with wings as eagles above their doubts and fears.

Now it goes without saying that one cannot fly without wings, and the acquisition of wings is simply dreams come true. When I was a boy I used to dream I had wings and could fly, and it was a most exhiliarating experience until I awoke to find it only a dream. I repeat, that the acquisition of wings is simply dreams come true. But in order for dreams to come true, they must be winged by faith.

Faith isn't mental assent, but full-souled commitment. Men dreamed of a round world, and winged their faith by building ships to circumnavigate the globe, and found their dreams to be true. Man envisioned a horseless carriage. By means of wings of faith his envisioned hope is realized in the thing of beauty and service, the automobile.

By means of the wings of faith the dream of a flying boat has been realized and the aeroplane has become the transfer of the sky-ways.

In our day men of faith are beginning to dream of a warless world. This, too, shall be realized, but not until by means of the wings of faith men commit their ways to the Prince of Peace. Let us seek then, the wings of faith.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Some of the hearts are amazingly thin, some are squatty and fat and all of them are slightly misshapened. Paste is smeared around the edges although it's obvious that not-too-clean fingers tried to wipe it off.

The printed letters are scraggly, but they're big. And, marching along in their uneven line, they spell I LOVE YOU.

Maybe it isn't the most beautiful or most artistic Valentine in the world, but the head of the house will think it is when he finds it beside his breakfast plate. Of course he'll never be able to guess who made it or how it happened to be by his plate, not even when the five-year-old asks pruodly how he likes his surprise.

The neighbor down the street has discovered a party game that's as much fun for grown-ups as it is for children. She calls it Grab Bag, and here's how it is played:

An assortment of articles is placed in a big bag, and the bag is handed to a guest. He must reach into the bag and, without taking it out, describe the first article he touches. Whoever guesses correctly what the object is scores a point. The bag is passed around until each guest has had an opportunity to describe one of the items.

The night we played the game, the bag's contents included an egg beater, bubble gum, earrings, beads, Scotch tape, a ruler, a salt shaker, a tooth brush and a pencil sharpener.

There's been great confusion in the house of the twin baby boys. The proud parents took them out of their cribs to show them off to visitors the day after they came home from the hospital, forgot which crib each came out of, and now they aren't at all sure which baby is which. They may have to take them back to the hospital and have them fingerprinted again so they can be sure of each baby's identify!

Odds and ends: Paper stuck to a varnished surface can be removed by putting a little olive oil on it and then rubbing with a soft cloth. A few drops of vinegar in the water in which you boil shrimp will kill the unpleasant shrimp odor. Glycerine rubbed on the bathroom mirror will keep it from fogging. Belts, handkerchiefs and other small articles won't tangle in the washing machine if thye're all put into a mesh bag.

Please, doesn't anybody know how to teach a small child to blow his nose? Several of the mothers in our neighborhood are still frantically searching for a way to cope with this problem.

The neighbor around the corner delights dinner guests at her house with this dessert: Just as lemon flavored gelatine begins to congeal, she folds in chopped pecans, dried figs and cherries. She serves the dessert topped with generous puffs of whipped cream.

Here's a suggestion for a busy-day lunch: Spread apple butter generously over pieces of buttered toast. Put strips of crisp bacon on top and place under the broiler just long enough to heat the apple butter. Strips of cheese may be subsituted for the bacon if desired. Either way it's mighty good!

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Marvin Glasscock, R. R. Stutts, R. C. Williams, Raybon Crew, Wallace Headley, J. R. Thompson and J. W. Hayes are preparing land for sericea lespedeza. In all the above cases the sericea will serve two purposes, erosion control and forage for cows.

S. D. Posey, Robert Crumpton, Wallace Fox, Wallace Headley have started preparing land for Kudzu.

A tentative order for Kudzu seed has been placed with Herpbs Brothers for approximately $1.25 per pound. Kudzu seed planted on sedge or idle land at 2½ to five pounds per acre should give a ground cover, if planted like watermelons, the third year.

Jack Roberts states, "All I want is more Fescue and someone else can have the clover." Jack has grazed sixty head of cattle on forty acres of Fescue this winter without supplement feeding.

In addition to preparing land for Kudzu, Sericea, summer grasses it is also time to prepare land for Lespedeza bicolor, Quail's favorite winter food. To farmers who will prepare land and fertilezer same, the State Department of Conservation will furnish through this office the bicolor seed free of cost.

To keep macaroni or spaghetti from boiling over while cooking, put a tablespoon of butter or margarine in the water.

To keep a bowl steady when whipping ingredients, place it on a wet folded cloth.

THIS WEEK'S TALK

The Book of Books

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

When the late Mr. Calvin Coolidge, the 29th President of the United States, lay on his death bed, he asked some one to bring him "the Book." He was asked "what book," his reply was, "The Bible, the only Book." This proves that Mr. Coolidge had na appreciation for the Word of God. He had rather read the Bible than any other book. And that is the way it should be with every American. The Bible is a Lamp unto our feet, and a Light unto our path. And it is sweeter to the soul of the Christian than honey in the honeycomb.

Mr. Robert A. Vogeler in his articles in the Saturday Evening Post told of his recent experiences in a Communist prison. He stated that he repeatedly asked for a Bible to read, but did not receive one for some time. However, he was allowed to read other books, such as Dickens, Tolstoy and Shaw. His own testimony is this: "Although I read Pickwick Papers two or three times, the other novels of Dickens, and especially Oliver Twist, were so depressing that I could read them only once. The Bible, in spite of certain depressing chapters, gave me the greatest solace of all. I now know that, if I were marooned on a desert island, the Bible is the one Book above all others that I would most like to possess."

In a recent convention held in Rio de Janeiro by the Brazil Bible Society, eleven different denominations were represented. Every one rejoiced when it was reported that 302,263 Bibles, 312.338 New Testaments, and 3,665,592 Gospels and portions of the Holy Scriptures were distributed in Brazil during the past three years. For this circulation of the Scriptures, the Postmaster-General of Brazil announced that he was issuing a special postage stamp to commemorate Bbile Sunday. . . .Let us pray that there will be a revival of the reading of the Bible in this country. That the American people as a whole will turn unto God in repentance of sins, and in humility before God that He might forgive our sins, and spare our country from so much war and bloodshed. "When the righteous rule, the people rejoice; but when the wicked rule there is weeping in the land.

A good way to handle pie dough is to place it on waxed paper. Gather up the paper into a bag and manipulate the dough through the well blended.

Recent Bride Honored—

Mrs. Lamar Jones, nee Miss Yvonne Crowson, was feted Wednesday afternoon with a tea gift shower by Mrs. E. F. Chancellor at her home in Glendale Drive.

In the dining room an arrangement of white narcissus and fern centered the lace-covered tea table. White candles burned in crystal holders. Early spring flowers and potted plants were used to adorn the receiving room.

Guests were greeted by the hostess, the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Crowson. Miss Betty Chancellor was in charge of the bride's book, Mrs. Zeddard Willis presided in the gift room. Serving refreshments were the hostess and Miss Chancellor.

Betty Is Eight—

Mrs. W. K. Gillespie entertained at a children's party on Friday afternoon, February 8th, honoring her daughter, Betty, who was eight years old on Monday, February 11.

Betty's birthday cake was a large oblong white cake, embossed in pink, topped with the inscription, "Happy Birthday, Betty" and holding eight pink candles.

The Valentine theme was carried out in the home decorations and the parting favors given to each guest.

Games and contests were directed by Mrs. Thomas Martin, with the contest prize going to Patsy McKinney.

It was a happy little honoree, as she opened each gift wrapped package brought by the twenty-eight little boys and girls attending the party.

Y.W.A. Rally Held—

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the Unity Baptist Association met with the First Baptis Church of Clanton Sunday afternoon, February 10th, at 2 o'clock.

"Shining Like Stars" was the theme for the afternoon. The program was opened with the Y.W.A. hymn, "O Zion Haste," after which Mrs. H. T. Ousley, associational W.M.U. president, offered prayer. The welcome address was given by Mrs. P. D. Ellison, Y.W.A. counselor.

A most appropriate devotional taken from John 1:1-14 was so ably given by Miss Sara Nell Moore, young peoples leader of the associational Y.W.A. Focus week were given by Mrs. Ellison.

The watchword, taken from Daniel 12:3 was repeated in unison. Mrs. Russell A. Williams offered the offeritorial prayer.

Five churches answered the roll call, with forty-eight representatives present.

Special music was rendered by a group of Y.W.A. girls from the First Baptist Church.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Mary C. Page, of the Goodwill Center of Birmingham. Mrs. Page used the Bible scriptures Daniel 12:3 and Matthew 28:16-21 in opening her talk. Using the hymn "O Zion Haste, in connection with her most interesting and enlightening message.

Benediction prayer was by the Rev. R. E. Wilkins.

After the meeting a reception was held in the church dining room. Punch was served by Mrs. Mary Louise Wright, from a crystal bowl surrounded with green fern splashed with white narcissus and red hearts. Cookies were served by Mrs. Reedie Taylor, Young People's director. Assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. J. L. Teel, social chairman for the young people, Mrs. J. Gilbert Hutchinson and Mrs. Referee Lineberry.

Sunday School Class Close Contest—

The men of the Wesley Followship Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church, Clanton, were entertained by the ladies of the class on Wednesday evening, February 6th, at a Valentine's dinner party at the Chilton County High School lunchroom.

This celebration came at the close of a contest which had been running for some time between the ladies and men of the class.

A beautiful large colonial nose gay of white narcissus, red camelias and old fashion hyacinths tied with wide red satin ribbon and white maline, flanked by burning red tapers in crystal holders centered the table area where the class officers and honor guests were seated. Miniature nose gays and burning red tapers were placed at intervals on the lined covered U-shaped dinner table. Valentine souvenir place cards and other Valentine favors were used to further carry out the theme.

As each couple arrived, they were greeted by the ladies of the entertainment committee and a boutonniere was pinned on the coat lapel of each man.

Invocation was by the Rev. J. M. McKinney, guests were welcomed and the men were given a special welcome by a Valentine greeting.

Group singing of old favorites and songs appropriate for the Valentine season were enjoyed.

Seated in the class officers table area were, Mr. Omar Reynolds, class teacher, Dr. J. E. Edgar, president, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, vice president, and Rev. J. M. McKinney, church pastor, who was honor guest.

At the conclusion of the dinner party Valentine contests and games were diversion.

Serving on the entertainment commitee were Mrs. J. E. Edgar, Mrs. Sybly McGowin, Mrs. George Tucker, Mrs. R. C. Williams, Mrs. Russell Shelton, Mrs. Burton Mullins, Mrs. Omar Reynolds and Mrs. W. E. Huddleston.

Mrs. R. T. Cothran, Mrs. Ada Dennis and Mrs. Martha Brown visited in Montgomery Sunday.

Mrs. Alice DuBose visited her daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hines in Siluria, Friday.

Mrs. Sallie Mathieu is recovering from a face infection.

Mrs. Ada Dennis and Mrs. Alice DuBose made a business trip to Luverne Wednesday.

Clanton Placed In 'A' Bracket For District Hoop Tournament

On January 30, the coaches and principals of the thirty-eight schools represented in the third athletic district of Alabama.

The procedure of selecting the teams for the two brackets in the district were by nomination from the floor and a majority of votes carrying. Each school was entitled to one vote.

The final decision was that only Sidney Lanier High of Montgomery and A. G. Parrish of Selma would be included in the "AA" bracket.

This left thirty-six schools in the "A" bracket. Since such a number would be too large for one tournament the group was divided into two groups; the eastern half with twenty teams and the wesern half with sixteen.

Chilton County High, represented by Coach V. E. Bulger and Assistant Principal, S. E. Waters, was ceded first in the eastern half, by a poll of the coaches, followed in second place by Maplesville, and third by Ramer. In the western half Greensborough was ceded first.

The eastern tourney lasts from February 25 through 27th. Clanton drew a bye in the first round and Plantersville in the second. The eastern tournament will be played in Selma.

The first-place winner of the eastern half will play the second-place winner of the western and vice-versa. Clanton has an excellent chance to win out in the district and go to the state battle in Tuscaloosa.

CLANTON TOPS CALERA TWICE

Clanton's Varsity topped Calera 54-16, and turned it over to the Junior team who tripped Calera 53-17.

In the Varsity scrap Earl Smith sewed up 16 points, followed by Clarence Benjamin Oaks, Jr., with 12, Jack Bean with 8, and Joe Douglas Grooms with 5. The best Calera could offer was Collum with 6 and Knight with 5.

The Junior boys, who have yet to lose a game this year, was led by "Ed Mooney" Littlejohn with 12 and Luther Foshee and Richard Easterling with 10. Jacks of Calera had eight.

MAPLESVILLE COUPLE WED IN MISSISSIPPI

FRED SMITH
Candidate For Probate Judge
of Chilton County says:

If The office of Probate Judge of Chilton County is being offered for sale to the highest and best bidder for cash—then I don't want it that way and COUNT ME OUT, and

If The people of Chilton County want the same kind of government they have had in recent years—then I don't want it, COUNT ME OUT. I refuse to believe the good people of Chilton County are offering the office of Probate Judge for sale. I believe they know that a candidate who will buy the office will likewise sell the office. I refuse to believe that the people of Chilton County want a continuation of the kind of government which has brought so much embarassing publicity to our County and people.

I Believe The People of Chilton County want an honest, fair, and efficient government which is responsive to all the people regardless of political faith, creed or race. On this basis, I will greatly appreciate the vote and influence of the voters of the County, and if elected your next Probate Judge, I will give the best that is within me to merit your faith and confidence.

I Believe The people of Chilton County are aroused and interested, as never before, in the type of man who is to be their next Probate Judge. I believe they should and will look into the public and private lives of each candidate for this office, and from these facts vote for the candidate who, in their best judgement, gives the greatest promise of administering the affairs of the office honestly, fairly, efficiently and impartially to all the people of the county. If I am that candidate, I shall be most grateful for your confidence. If I am not that candidate, then I will still be interested in good government in Chilton County.

I Believe The people of Chilton County will want a clear-cut, straight-from-the-shoulder declaration from each candidate as to what he stands for, and what he proposes to do when and if he is your next Probate Judge. I do not propose to pussy-foot the issues in this campaign; pull any punches, have any secrets or connive with enemies of good government, or be a party to any form of Click operations.

On the above and following declarations, I solicit your vote and influence in my humble efforts to represent all the people of Chilton County as your next Probate Judge:

1. WHO AM I? I am just an everage country boy who has come up the hard way. I never knew the comforts of plenty, but I know too well the disappointments of not enough. I have known hard work, and I am now making a living operating a small grocery store at Jemison. I am 49 years of age, a member and Deacon of the Baptist Church, member of the present Chilton County Board of Education, Mayor of Jemison, member of the Thorsby-Jemison Lions Club, member of the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce, and interested in every worthwhile institution or project in my community and County, which tends to promote the progress of our people. Out of a very humble beginning, I had a desire and ambition to better my humble lot and the living standards of others just like me. I have fallen far short of my ideals, but as a private citizen, member of the Town Council and Mayor of Jemison, member of the Chilton County Board of Education and official member of my church, I have done the best I could with the tools given me to promote the welfare and higher living standards and opportunities for my neighbors and community. My compensation has been largely the success of many projects and the comforts and progress which has come to this community and our people. These accomplishments, though seemingly small and trivial, have fired an ambition and desire in me to be of a greater service to a larger number of our people, and if elected your next Probate Judge, I hope to be instrumental in promoting and bringing greater opportunities to an even larger number of the people of our county.

2. BUY AT HOME. I believe the government of Chilton County belongs to the people of our County. The tax payers, financial and business institutions should be considered first when the people's money is being spent for materials, supplies and equipment necessary for the operation of our government. If I am your next Probate Judge, purchases of whatever kind and county business of whatever nature will be transacted with Chilton County taxpayers, so far as it is possible and practicable to do so. If Chilton County tax payers pay the taxes, then they should have a fair and equal opportunity to keep these taxes at home.

3. MEMBERS OF OUR BOARD OF REVENUE AND CONTROL. Members of our Board of Revenue and Control play a very vital part in our County government, and if I am elected your next Probate Judge, it will be my duty and pleasure to cooperate fully with them and all other elected officials of our County to the end that our people will have confidence and respect for our local government. Co-operative officials beget a co-operative people.

4. CLICK GOVERNMENT—I am opposed to any kind of click government. Around every courthouse there is an old political click, administering the affairs of government from dark and secret places. I am not that kind of a candidate, and I will not be that kind of a Judge if I am elected to this office. The clicks must move out and the light of day turned on every official act of our government. The door of the office of Probate Judge will be open to every man, woman and child for the impartial transaction of county business regardless of political faith, creed or race.

5. NO STALKING HORSE—I am running for Probate Judge of my own choosing. No one has tricked me into the race to strengthen or weaken another candidate. I am running my own candidacy as an average citizen and taxpayer of this county. I have not entered into any political allignments of any kind or nature, and I will not do so for personal gain or advantage to the hurt or injury of any other person, candidate, or to the detriment of good government.

6. EDUCATION. As a member of our Chilton County Board of Education, I am in a position to know that our school program is far below the needs of our children. We know that all schools are crowded, lack facilities that other schools have; our teachers and school bus drivers are still inadequately paid, but our program is being administered efficiently as present appropriations will permit. Whether I am your next Probate Judge or a private citizen, I will always be interested in greater educational opportunities for our children.

7. PENSIONS. While the Probate Judge has nothing directly to do with assistance to our aged people, it is my belief that those who are left alone in their old age, without adequate means of support, should be properly provided for through public aid. If I am your next Probate Judge, I will lend my personal efforts and the influence of the office to any measure which seeks to properly take care of those who need our help.

8. COUNTY GOVERNMENT—I believe our County government should remain in the hands of Chilton County people. There is entirely too much centralization of government from Washington down through Chilton County. There are people in Chilton County just as honest and as capable as there are in Washington who can administer our local government and should do it.

9. MISSING FUNDS. I have seen newspaper accounts and have heard many comments by local people concerning the "Missing Funds" issue. I do not know all the facts about the story, but I do know that the County and our people have come in for some very unfavorable publicity and criticism. Honesty is as honesty does, and any man worthy of the honor of representating the people of Chilton County as their Probate Judge should desire for honor's sake to be an honorable and trustworthy servant of the people. When an official has been found to betray the trust placed in him by the people, then we have the constituted authorities in our courts to deal with such betrayals of trust and mete out justice through fair and impartial processes of law. I have not and will not attempt to assume any of the rights and perogatives of the courts. It is the duty of the courts to determine the guilt or innocense of any and all persons charged with unlawful acts.

10. VETERANS—I am not a veteran for the simple reason that I was born at the wrong time to be one—too young for World War I, and too old for World War II. As a patriotic citizen I would have served the Armed Forces of my country just as all veterans did if I had been called to the service. Whether as a private citizen in the rear ranks, or as your next Probate Judge, Veterans and their organizations may know that I am ready to serve them and their cause at all times. In my opinion, every consideration should be given to the welfare of our boys who faced the guns and terrors of war that we might have Peace in the World.

11. PEOPLES GOVERNMENT. All citizens of Chilton County regardless of status in life or location in the county, should have an equal interest in the administration of our government. I believe the county government belongs to all the people, and without fear or favor, it should be so administered. If I am honored by your vote and election to this office, I shall dispose of any private business that I may have, move to Clanton, and give my full time and efforts toward making you the best Probate Judge of which I am capable.

12. OUT OF THE MUD. Chilton County has never received its fair share of road funds. If I am your next Probate Judge, I propose to start a movement the day I take office to get Chilton County "Out of the Mud." My past record supports this promise to you.

On the basis of the foregoing statement and promises, I hope to see and ask every citizen of the county to support me in my efforts to represent them honestly and impartially, and thereby reclaim our County Government to the people.

Sincerely,
FRED SMITH

Jemison High Wins Over Maplesville And Verbena

The Jemison Panthers hit the jack-pot last week, winning all three of their contests. The first game on Tuesday night, saw Verbena High, 4th seeded entry in District Tourney, go down by the count of 47 to 35.

J. W. Langston and Wayne Guin of J.H.S. teamed up to rattle the nets for 20 and 15 points, respectively. Kent Lowery, John Cannady, Charles Cobb and Glenn Marcus teamed up to turn in one of their better defensive games. Jemison rolled up a 20-point lead midway of the third quarter. Coach Cobb then played his reserves freely, who held the Verbena cagers fairly well under control, but the margin was reduced to a 12-point lead by the final whistle.

Thomas, with 11 points, was high-pointer for Verbena. Sanders, Mims and Lee all gave a clean-cut performance of hard play for the losers, but they were unable to cope with the bell-ringers, Guin and Langston.

Verbena had previously defeated J.H.S. by a 42-37 score.

In the B-game, the Jemison lads tripped the Verbena team by a 29 to 27 score. This game developed into a real rooter-tooter as the lead exchanged several times the last half. J. Martin (14) and A. Cox (7) led the J.H.S. scoring; while Moore (9) and Burkhalter (8) led for Verbena.

On the following Thursday night Jemison motored to Siluria and won over Thompson High 31 to 24 count. This was the first game played in Thompson High's new gymnasium, which is a real beauty. Langston, Lowery and Gothard paced the Jemison High School scoring with 7 each, while J. Harris (7) and Naish (6) led for the home towners.

This was J.H.S.'s second win over Thompson High this season.

The Jemison Bees took a rather drab affair from the Thompson Bees, 33 to 15. Royce Smith (11) and J. Martin (8) were the top scorers for J.H.S., while Coggins (6) and Owens (4) high-pointed for the losers.

In the third game for the week, which was against Maplesville on Friday night, the Jemison Panthers really had to extend themselves to overcome Coach Kelly's Redcoats by a close margin of 43 to 42. The Jemison boys were off their usual form in both shooting and passing, but they made up this difference by sheer hard scrapping and controlling the rebounds from both boards. Kent Lowery played perhaps his best game of the season in this one. He was continually snitching the ball off the boards and away from the Maplesville dribblers.

Maplesville, too, is one of the seeded teams in the District Tourney at Selma on February 25-28. This fact keyed the Jemison boys up to the point of giving 'em a real tussel, and a tussel it was, too.

Both, Coach Kelly of Maplesville and Coach Cobb of Jemison deserve secial praise of staying alive through this one. Games like this one is tough on the sirit, rough on the circulation and simply terrible on the nerves. Both teams gave their faithful coaches every ounce of basketball skill and energy they could muster, and when these factors all came together in one game, the spectators are amply rewarded with a fast and furious exhibition of basketball play.

Langston and Guin, with 12 each, K. Lowery (10) Cannady (7) and Cobb (2) rounded out the J.H.S. scoring. Taylor (16) and D. Davis (10) rounded out the visitors scoring.

The Jemison Bees, after a puny start, finally got woke up and turned in a creditbale perfromance, only to lose a toughie to the visitors 31 to 30.

Little Lamar Barrett, Collins Chapel's contribution to Jemison's basketball hopefuls, fired the big noise in this game. He banged out 15 points and played a spirited floor game. Glaze (9) led the Maplesville scoring.

Jemison plays Isabella High at Isabella tomorrow (Friday) night, February 15.—Robert B. Johnson, Sports Reporter.

DAT'S IT, BOY. De NATCHEL kind!

—NATURAL CHILEAN NITRATE contains all nitrate nitrogen
PLUS beneficial sodium

World's only natural nitrate
Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda contains 100% nitrate nitrogen ...fast-acting, completely available nitrogen. Nitrate of soda furnishes more nitrate nitrogen than any other alkaline nitrate. Dissolves in normal soil moisture. Promotes growth and increases yields, improves quality and protein content of food and feed crops.

Sodium—beneficial to plant vigor
Chilean Nitrate contains 26% sodium, equivalent to 35% sodium oxide. Sodium acts like potash—can partly substitute for it when that element is lacking in the soil. By itself sodium increases the availability of applied phosphate . . . tends to "sweeten" the soil ... improves crop health and vigor.

Rich in natural trace elements
Chilean Nitrate is naturally enriched by traces of iodine, manganese, magnesium, boron, calcium, iron, sulphur, copper, zinc and others. In small quantities these elements assist in promoting plant or animal nutrition . . . help crops resist nutritional diseases and disorders.

Easy-handling . . . free-flowing
Chilean Nitrate's snowy-white pellets can be applied quickly and efficiently in any standard distributor. For more than 100 years, successful farmers have enjoyed larger yields and better quality crops through continuous use of Natural Chilean Nitrate. When you buy, look for the bulldog on the bag. That's Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda—"de natchel kind!"

Chilton County Law & Equity Court In Equity

Gloria Bavar, A minor, et al, Complaintant, vs. G. W. Bavar, et als, Defendant.

By virtue of a degree in the above stated cause rendered on the 25th, day of January, 1952, by the Circuit Court in Equity, to satisfy said decree, I will sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at public sale, at the Courthouse door of said County, between the hours of 11 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M.

ON THURSDAY, THE 21ST DAY OF February, 1952, the following described property, viz:

The Northwest fourth of Section 1, Township 20, Range 13, ten acres in the Northwest corner of the Northwest fourth of the Northeast fourth of Section 1, Township 20, Range 13, the Southwest fourth and west half of the west half of the Southeast fourth of Section 36, Township 21, Range 13, all located in Chilton County, Alabama.

This the 28th day of January, 1952.

C. Delle D. Cobb, Register, Ex-Officio.

Small fry usually like diced cooked potatoes served in a cream sauce with a pretty garnish of finely minced parsley.

Does Money Grow On Chilton's Trees?

Yes, if the woods are protected from fire, overgrazing, and excessive use of the ax and saw.

If you protect a young pine seedling from germination to ten years of age, it will pay you ten fold at maturity.

There are a number of other things that a well kept forest will do other than pay off which is paramount. It provides recreation for the hunting sportsman, scenery for the appreciative nature lover and clean water for the fisherman.

Chilton County people are too smart to stand by and watch a $1,000,000.00 business ruin. Help your County, State, Nation, and self by stopping forest fires and wasteful cutting.

Keep Chilton County and Alabama green!

BEES INCREASE CRIMSON CLOVER SEED YIELDS

County agents estimate that more than 17,000 colonies of bees were used in Alabama last year to increase crimson clover seed yields an average of 65 pounds per acre.

Guess again... it's the '52 FORD!

The greatest low-priced car ever built!

You won't believe your eyes when you see the big, new '52 Ford! For never before has a low-priced car offered such power, such fine-car styling, such big-car comfort! You'll see such built-for-keeps advances as Ford's new longer, stronger Coachcraft Bodies . . . its more powerful, high-compression V-8 and Six engines . . . and the many other features described below.

The most powerful low-priced car ever built!

The car that's made greater strides forward for '52 than any other in its class!

Ford's 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8 is the most powerful engine—and the only V-8 offered in a low-priced car. Ford's 101-h.p. Mileage Maker Six is an all-new low-friction Powerhouse with free-turning overhead valves and shorter piston stroke. Both engines feature the Automatic Power Pilot which gives you high-compression "go" with regular gas.

Full-Circle Visibility. Curved one-piece windshield . . . car-wide rear window . . . picture windows all around give you visibility "unlimited." A Ford exclusive in the low-price field.

Automatic Ride Control. New wider front tread, lower center of gravity and diagonally-mounted rear shock absorbers help you get a smooth, level ride.

Ford Coachcraft Bodies. Styled to stay beautiful and designed to stay young.

Fordomatic Drive. Fordomatic gives you torque-converter smoothness plus the get-up-and-go of automatic gears.

White sidewall tires, if available, and Fordomatic Drive optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

All members are urged to be present.

Notice—

The Home Makers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist church will meet Friday afternoon, February 15th, at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Crit Jones.

Baptist Young Peoples News—

The First Baptist church young peoples organizations met on Friday afternoon of last week in the following homes:

Peggy Carroll was hostess to group one of the Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary with Janice Wood presiding at the business session.

The girls sang their G.A. hymn, repeated the watchword, the Star Ideals and Allegiance, in unison.

Patsy Young, the program chairman had planned an interesting program, entitled "Tell Me How," which was presented by Ann Jester, Peggy Carroll, Betty Parker, Shirley Price, Marie Rhodes, Loujean Westerman and Janice Wood.

At the social hour, Peggy, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Hughey Carroll, served refreshments in the Valentine motif, to nine members and the counselor.

The Intermediate G.A.'s group two, met with Shirley Cox. Myrna Crew, president, called the meeting to order using the formal opening. Mrs. Dorothy Nelson, Counselor, brought the devotional. Reports were given. Plans were made for the girls to send Valentines with scripture verses to shut-ins. This was to be their February community mission work. Plans were also made to study the mission book on February 22nd, at the home of Mrs. W. C. Golden. The march meeting will be with Myrna Crew. The meeting was turned over to Louise Golden, the program chairman, who had asked the following girls to take part, Geraldine Melton, Shirley Cox, Myrna Crew, Ann Spicer, Lynn Stroud, Faye Bates and Louise Golden, using for their subject, "Love Finds A Way."

A new member, Nettie Pearl Maddox, was welcomed into the group.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. C. O. Cox.

The younger group of the girls auxiliary met with Lynn Lineberry with 20 girls and the two counselors, Mrs. R. R. Sutley and Mrs. George Jester, present.

Jennye Lee Polk, a new member, was made welcome.

After repeating the G.A. mottos in unison, the G.A. hymn was sung.

For the program entitled, "Keys to a Christian Living," the girls took part in a panel discussion which included five keys to a Christian life

Cookies and cokes were served to the group.

On Monday of this week the younger G.A.'s met at the church to study the mission book, "Everywhere Teaching the Word," with Shirley Cox and Ann Jester of the Intermediate group leading the study.

Barbara Kay Turner, Julie Wade and Sandra Blalock were welcomed into the Auxiliary.

There were twenty-three girls and their counselors present.

These little friends of Miriam Golden's were very sorry indeed to learn that she had undergone an appendectomy on the day before.

The Dorene Owen G.A. group met with Caroline Dickinson at her parents' home on Lay Dam Road on Friday.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Priscilla Hubert. followed by the group singing the G.A. hymn. Prayer was offered by Jane Jester. Old and new business was taken care of.

A very inspiring story, "The King's Daughter," was told by Maryetta Propst. Elizabeth Mims, Jane Jester and Caroline Dickinson led in a very interesting discussion of early prayer, later when they began to pray alone and the different steps of the girls Auxiliary led into the sharing of their personal experience which was of real value. The closing prayer was by Linda Miller.

A social period was enjoyed when the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. C. Dickinson and Mrs. W. W. Brown served delicious refreshments from a table covered with a red linen cloth. A huge heart-shaped red Valentine filled with Valentine cookies centered the table. Sandwiches and Valentine candy with Coca-Cola drinks were served with the cookies to twelve girls and Mrs. Luther Mims.

S. S. Class Holds Meeting—

The Willing Workers Sunday Class of the First Baptist church met in the home of Mrs. Luther Little Monday night for the regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Jim Blair, president, presided over the short business session.

A very inspiring devotional was given by Miss Elizabeth Barton.

During the social hour Valentine games and contests were enjoyed, with prizes going to Mrs. Blair and Sharon Hubert.

A delicious salad refreshment plate was served to the following members: Mrs. Jim Blair, Miss Elizabeth Barton, Miss Gertrude Jones, Mrs. Joe Groms, Mrs. B. F. Williams, Mrs. Ada Westerman, Mrs. Beatrice Bryan and Mrs. Thomas Hubert, and visitors, Sharon, Tommy and Priscilla Hubert.

Celebrates Birthday—

Patsy Minor had her fourth birthday on Monday, February 11th, and she celebrated the big occasion on Saturday, February 9th, at a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Minor. Yellow jonquills and the Valentine idea were used for decorations.

Patsy's friends brought pretty gift wrapped packages which she opened and displayed for all to see. Her birthday cake was white all decorated in pink and green and held four small white candles.

The little honoree's sister, Jackie, and Mrs. Cecil Ellison played games with her and her guests.

Mrs. Minor served ice cream and cake for refreshments and gave a lolly-pop in the shape of the Valentine heart to the following: Judy Ellison, Benny Joe Williams, Faye Williams, George Tucker, Jr., Darrell Ellison, Jack and Josehine Moore, Elizabeth Maddox, Sylvia McKee, John McKee, Linda and David McKee, Glenda Kendrick, Linda Nelson and Freddy Headley.

Mrs. Moore Hostess To Circle—

Circle Two of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church met with Mrs. Joe Moore Monday afternoon. Mrs. Dewey Eubanks led the devotional when each one present quoted her favorite scripture. Prayer was by Mrs. Eubanks.

Reports were heard from various committees. Mrs. Reid Mullins gave the introduction to the Mission book, "Tangled Threads," by Dr. Ralph Phelps, Jr. The study was further carried on by Mrs. Mullins, Mrs. Eubanks and Mrs. Verna Bean in a most interesting and enlightening manner.

The hostess served a salad refreshment plate to the following ladies: Mesdames Reid Mullins, S. D. Brown, Russell Lewis, Verna Bean, Arthur Taylor, John McKee, Billy Maddox, Horsley White, W. J. Billingsley, H. T. Pipes, Dewey Eubanks, W. C. Dickinson and G. C. Walker.

CLANTON GARDEN CLUB

The February 12th meeting of the Clanton Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Gerald Burdette.

The president, Mrs. J. M. Higgins announced the meeting would begin with the program. Mr. W. A. LeCroy and Mr. T. B. Bryd of Wetumpka, Ortho Products of California Spray and Chemical Corporation representative, presented two film on "Care of roses," and "camelias and azaleas."

Coffee and cake were served to all present, including Mrs. Samuel Johnson and Mrs. Otto Jones, honorary members.

The Horticulture chairman, Mrs. Callen Alred, raises the question of purchasing a garden encyclopedia, as a beginning of the garden club library. It was voted not to do so at this time. Mrs. Alred informed the club that Mrs. Hattie Alred was donating mimosa and watermelon crepe myrtle to the club. It was decided that the crepe myrtle would be suitable for park planting.

The conservation chairman, Mrs. John C. Wade, notified the club that the Study Club has donated a dogwood tree to the garden club's park project. Mrs. Wade asked the club for a note of thanks to Mr. W. A. LeCroy and the F.F.A. boys for planting light dogwood trees in the park and preparing holes for the planting of the shrubbery. Mr. LeCroy and the F.F.A. boys will make the plantings as soon as top soil is delivered, giving generously of their time.

It was unanimously voted that the garden club join with the Study Club in a city council of clubs and give whole hearted support in doing this.

Copies of the newly formed constitution were given to the members for possible corrections to be made at the next meeting.

Mrs. Bob Reynolds Hostess Circle Of W.M.U.—

Members of Circle Two of the W.M.U. met with Mrs. Bob Reynolds Monday afternoon, February 11th, at 3 o'clock. When all members had assembled, refreshments were served, Miss Mary Clements was co-hostess. All joined in singing, "America." The study topic was "Our Samaria," just serving where we are.

The devotional was brought by Mrs. Elvin Dawson, scripture Acts 1:8. Mrs. Dawson used as a basis for her devotional a true missionary story. The needs of a family in our midst and the manner in which all had come to the aid of this family.

Mrs. Marvin Dawson told of the Corner Memorial Clinic in New Orleans and the Good Will Center at Baltimore, Md.

The topic, "God answered prayer that night," was brought by Mrs. Bob Reynolds. Miss Mary Clements told of the Home Missions work being done in Brazil by Dr. L. M. Bratcher. Closing prayer was by Mrs. George Naish. Sixteen members were present.

Chilton County Community Concert Association Presented Baritone Michael Rhodes

The Chilton County Community Concert Association presented Michael Rhodes, young Columbia artist baritone, at the First Baptist Church auditorium, Friday evening, climaxing another successful concert series. The sympathetic interpretations of Mr. Rhodes' various selections, the perfect freedom of vocal technique, which distinguishes his concerts, enthralled his listeners who brought him back for curtain calls again and again in the Aria Nemico della Patrie (enemy of his country), from Giordano's opera "Andrea Chenier," the audience showed deep appreciation of the power and beauty of his dramatic baritone voice and gave him warm and resounding applause.

Mr. Schmidt, the accompanist, who appeared on the program in several selections, distinguished himself as an artist of note and was also enthusiastically received by the audience.

Following the concert the choir of the First Baptist Church, of which Mrs. Bea Bryan' is president; Mrs. Raymond Mims director; Mrs. Erle Ellis, organist, and Miss Euna Powell, secretary, entertained with a buffett supper, complimenting Mr. Rhodes and officers of the Chilton County Community Concert Asscoiation; Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, president; Miss Naomi Turnquist, vice president; Mrs. James Wade, secretary; Mrs. Bea Bryant, recording secretary; M. James Heflin, treasurer; Mrs. Hugh Jones, publicity chairman.

Sixty guests were present.

HIGH SCHOOL P.-T.A. OBSERVES FOUNDERS DAY

The Chilton County High School P.-T.A. observed Founders Day with a special program at their February meeting, Tuesday afternoon.

The program was presented in the form of a play with Shirley Cox and Ann Spicer portraying the two women who were founders of the Parent-Teacher Association, fifty-five years ago, Mrs. Bierney and Mrs. Hurst.

Others in the cast were: Helen Wyatt, Charlotte Wilder and Betty Hocutt, who were representing the P.-T.A. members.

The purpose of the play was to make clear to the members of the P.-T.A., the reason for sending an offering to state headquarters every year as a Founders Day gift.

A table, covered with white linen, centered with a lovely white cake, a tall white taper and silver bowl filled with red carnations and flowering quince; held the silver trays for the offering to be placed in.

At the conclusion of the play the P.-T.A. members were served the cake as they placed their offering in the silver trays.

Miss Marguerite Perry was in charge of the program.

Another feature of this February meeting was a Fashion Show presented by Mrs. B. F. Williams and a group of Senior II and Senior III girls of the Home Economics Class. The clothing that the girls modeled was furnished by the Avondale Mills and the Chicago Sales Company was the local sponsor.

This group will present the Fashion Show at several schools in the county.

Soft music could be heard all during the Fashion Parade, played by Miss Eleanor Warr, at the piano.

"We've saved a lot of money with DODGE 'Job-Rated' TRUCKS"

says fruit packer FRANCIS HEIDRICH
Herman J. Heidrich & Sons, Orlando, Florida

"We're really sold on Dodge for all-'round economy and dependability. Every one of our trucks has been replaced by a Dodge and the whole fleet is standing up in a way that sure saves us money.
"Dodge trucks certainly fit our job and keep costs down."

How you, too, can reduce hauling costs on your job

Here's a sure way to cut hauling costs on your job. Get a truck that gives you more mileage on gas and oil . . . that costs less for upkeep . . . that carries more payload. A truck like that will really save you money!

Owners of Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks enjoy the outstanding economy of trucks that are "Job-Rated"—engineered at the Dodge factory to fit a specific job. Because they're "Job-Rated," these trucks stand up better, save money.

Come in today for the complete economy story. Let us show you how a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck will cut your hauling costs.

Reduce costs with economical power—Dodge truck engines have four rings per piston, lightweight aluminum pistons, compression ratios as high as 7.0 to 1, and other economy values.

Reduce costs with low upkeep—You get such money-saving advantages as chrome-plated top piston rings, exhaust valve seat inserts, positive-pressure lubrication, and many others.

Reduce costs with bigger payloads—Because a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck has better weight distribution, it carries more load on the front axle. As a result, you can haul bigger payloads.

Things We See And Hear

—By "TUCK"

I never thought we'd have any trouble eating that forty pounds of candy but it's taking us quite a while to kill it all off.

Well Pete got on his knees for us Monday. I was about to think that he wasn't coming back to face the music. He says it's going to be him and them in next year's class if they don't beat the '52 seniors. I don't believe they can do it. How about it class?

Mr. Amis suggested that if we eave anything to the school this year it should be a shelter from he main building to the lunchroom. The reason for this, he says, is be-ause he hasn't been to lunch a lay at C.C.H.S. that it didn't rain. He said if they wouldn't let us build breezeway to throw a few rocks n the ground and spread out a ew shingles here and there and naybe that would serve the pur-ose. He may have a point there.

The halls around the old place re taking on a new look these ast few weeks. It isn't at all ard to tell we're going to have isitors in a few weeks or months. f that's what it takes I'm all fer because it surely is an improve-ent over the old facing of the terior of Chilton High. I might so add that the Beta Club is do-g a great deal of this new facing ork and we are very much in-ebted to them for a fine job.

I've heard some talk this season at if you're missing the ball games u're really missing a treat. Seems e have quite a team this year and ey're pulling for the trophy. All ey need to go now is some good d backing and support. How about students? If you really think ything of them this year why not ow it by going to the games. I agine it would help a great deal. Seems like the new Mathematics acher is going to fit in quite well we give him half a chance. Here's ping everything goes well the st of this year between Mr. Rob-son and the students.

These juniors have a very strong creation period these days. Most the time when I see them, if ey are doing anything at all they e out on the football field play-g marbles. I sure hope one of em doesn't strain himself by ex-ing too much energy.

By the way, if there is anything thering you or that you don't ow just go to Joe Grooms. He ems to knw all and see all, and tells mst of both of these. Any-ng troubling you just ask Grooms, knows!

You know at a movie like the e up at the Drive-In Monday or esday night you'd think everyone uld want to be as close as pos-le. Funny thing, there was at st one parking place between ev- car. I wonder why that was?

Miss Barton read us some of the past senior class poems and from the sound of some of them we've really had some hot rod poets pass through our school. Seems we've had a regular bevy of Shakespeares and what have you. (I believe the big majority was, what have you.)

Those people from the employment agency the other day did more harm than good I believe. Just about every girl I've talked to (I talk to nothin' but girls) is no longer interested in anything. How could this be? Say, maybe that was the unemployment agency. They're not even interested in boys. This could prove fatal!

Wiley Jones says the spelling lessons we are receiving at school lately are all wrong. He says they're still trying to teach him to spell 'taters with a "P." This we got to see about, Wiley. We can't afford to let them teach the wrong thing down there. 'Specially when it comes to spelling.

CIRCLE THREE MET WITH MRS. HUDDLESTON

Circle Three was entertained by Mrs. W. E. Huddleston. Twelve members and two visitors, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. McKinnery, were present. The meeting was called to order by the Circle leader, Mrs. Speaks.

After the devotional and business was taken care of it was stressed very much that we were all to attend the revival services and to invite the neighbors to be there. After the regular meeting we enjoyed a lesson in the Book of Acts with Mrs. Joe Mullins' assistance.

The meeting was enjoyed very much by all present. The next meeting is to be with Mrs. Clara Mullins.

CIRCLE FIVE MET WITH WITH MRS. ROBERTS

Thirteen members of Circle Five of the Methodist church were guests of Mrs. Buck Roberts on Monday evening.

The business session was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. R. M. Tucker. Reports and new business were dispersed with after which the entire group took part in the devotional reading and the study of The Book of Acts, which is the Bible study for this year. Each month the circles study this book until it is completed.

A most delicious salad plate with hot coffee was served to those present.

A pan rinsed in cold water before scalding milk will prevent sticking.

News From The Shoults Community

Rev. Joe Davis filled his regular appointment at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening. He brought to a large audience two wonderful messages.

The building fund for the new class rooms for the church is growing and it is hoped that work will soon begin. The committee for the building has as chairman, Mr. Robert McAfee. Donations to this fund may be sent to Mr. McAfee, or to the treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Garner, both addresses are Lawley, Ala., Route 1.

An Auxiliary of the W.M.U. of Pleasant Grove Church, the Y.W.A. has recently been organized and is doing a wonderful work. Mrs. Bessie Garner, the president of the W.M.U., is commended for her tireless effort she puts forth to have the W.M.U. and it's auxiliaries working and active. She also is a teacher for the beginners and has been for many years. We need more women and men who would be as faithful to their church.

Home Demonstration Club—

Shoults Club held their last meeting with Mrs. George Shoults with nine members present. We were happy to have one visitor from the Maplesville Club, Mrs. Daisy Littlejohn. Mrs. Littlejohn was at one time the wife of our beloved pastor, the late Edward Littlejohn. His life has been an inspiration to many people.

Mrs. Sam Shoults led the devotional at the meeting, Miss Ada Martin gave for her demonstration, "Plan for Good Nutrition," which was very interesting and helpful.

Next Club meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thelma Hathcock. The demonstration will be, "The Small Child and his Parents."

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace of Lawley were visitors at the worship service here Sunday. Also Mrs. Birdie Wilkinson, Mrs. Eva Eunice of Montgomery. Mrs. Wilkinson and Mrs. Eunice were dinner guests of their sister, Mrs. Bessie Garner.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Philip Hicks and son, Corky, of Moody Air Force Base, Valdosta, Ga., spent a few days last week here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith had as their guests last week end their children, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Smith and baby of Piper, Mr. and Mrs. Heath Fountain and two children ot Selma.

Mrs. Thelma Hathcock has accepted a position in Selma, Ala., with the cigar factory there.

A quilting party was given last Friday at the home of Mrs. Walter Lawley. Those enjoying this party were: Mrs. Sam Shoults, Mrs. Willie Hathcock, Mrs. Annie Sewell, Mrs. Gladys Latham, Miss Ruby Lee Latham, Mrs. Messer Smith, Mrs. Dorothy Lenoir, Mrs. Raynard Hale, Mrs. John Hicks, Mrs. Coby Lawrence, Mrs. Harvey Grover, Mrs. Joe Davis and Mrs. Pugh of Stanton; Mrs. Lena Snead of Centreville; and Mrs. Bessie Garner. A bountiful and delicious lunch was served buffet style at the noon hour. Five quilts were completed, and everyone enjoyed it very much and also the fellowship together.

Mr. Claude Hathcock attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Brown, of Clanton, last Monday at Mt. Pisgah Church. We extend to the family our deepest sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Glass and two sons, Jeff and Mike, of Maplesville, visited here Sunday with Mrs. Willie Hathcock.

THORSBY NEWS

ESTELLE HAYES

Baptist Church News—

Mr. W. G. Williams, Superintendent of the Sunday School work in Chilton County, conducted a very splendid conference with the Sunday School superintendents of various churches in the Chilton Association last Sunday afternoon at the Thorsby Baptist Church. One of the very fine things accomplished at this meeting was the grouping of the 37 churches in the association and the selection of men to work with each group of churches. Bro. Williams has in mind vitalizing the interest of Sunday School work in the County. He plans group meetings for the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Sundays in each month and the bringing the groups together for a county-wide S. S. meeting on the 4th Sunday afternoon. Another objective is to find eladers who work under his supervision with the various departments in the County from the Cradle Roll through the Extension Department, Evangelism and Training.

Mr. J. O. Boockholdt, who is the associational director of the Baptist Training Union work, has some very splendid plans in the making to vitalize the interest of the churches in our association in a Training program. His program will be presented in the near future.

Mr. C. H. Bearden, Associational Brotherhood director, is stimulating the interest in the organization of Brotherhoods in the various churches in the Association. He has the interest and cooperation of the Brotherhood Secretary of Alabama and will put forward some very progressive plans for his program in the near future.

The spring revival meeting at the Thorsby Baptist Church has been set for the week of March 16-23. Rev. M. G. Fields, pastor of the East Thomas Baptist Church, Birmingham, Ala., will conduct the song services and Rev. Fred Halbrooks, pastor of the Circlewood Church in Tuscaloosa, will be the evangelist. Rev. Fields has been a life-long friend of the pastor, Rev. B. B. Burks, and Rev. Halbrooks is a friend of long standing. Rev. Halbrooks is a graduate of Howard College and of the Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

Lutheran Church News—

Regular morning services will be held on next Sunday at 11 o'clock. These services are being well attended, and the new pastor, Rev. William Morgan is preaching some fine sermons. The public is invited o come and hear him.

The Rev. and Mrs. Morgan left Monday afternoon for Decatur, Ga., where they will attend the annual convention of the United Lutheran churches of the Georgia-Alabama Synod. They will return to Thorsby on Thursday afternoon.

The Lutheran Ladies 'Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Ernie Hanson on Wednesday afternoon, February 20th. All members are urged to be present.

The ordination of Rev. J. S. Dunigan and four deacons were held at Holly Grove Baptist Church Sunday at Jemison. The deacons were Bros. Alex Sails, Tom Scott, Wayman Hicks and Dennis Singleterry.

Services at the Union Baptist Church Sunday. After a timely Sunday School and all nine classes made good reports the program of the installation began. The church was beautifully decorated with snapdragons, fern, buttercups, narcissis and greenery. A seat was draped in white with two baskets of flowers at end of the chair and flowers on table back of chair. Rev. N. H. Smith, Jr., and wife were seated in the chair. Rev. Smith was being installed as pastor of the Union Baptist church. Choir No. One dressed in black robes with white scarfs sang very beautifully for this special occasion. Mrs. Christine Stabler made the welcome address. The Rev. I. S. Cole pastor of the First Baptist Church, Enterprise, Ala., delivered the installation sermon, which was really a masterpiece from the theme, A Forward Look, scripture John 19-22; Philippian 3:14. The charge as pastor was given by the Rev. R. C. Mixon, among the things he said was, this is the happiest moment of my life to give this charge to a young man.

Sunday night Rev. N. H. Smith, Jr., pastor preached from the theme Our Pulpit, Proverbs 22nd chapter, 29th verse. As a token of appreciation for Rev. N. H. Smith, Jr., gifts of money from each auxiliary, members and friends were given in honor of his third year as assistant pastor and installation service.

WE'LL GIVE YOU TOP DOLLAR ON A TRADE-IN NOW

To The Citizens And Taxpayers Of Chilton County And The State Of Alabama

I have made statements about the STATE AUDITORS and the AUDIT they made of the Chilton County Commissioners Court records which are almost unbelievable, however, the statements which I have made are true and I can and will prove that they are true.

I will ask Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama a few questions. Mr. Eagerton, did Judge W. L. Parrish call you over long distance telephone and tell you that Roland L. Sparkman (Red Sparkman), State Auditor, who was auditing the records of Chilton County at that time, was carried to the Willingham Hotel in bad shape, and that you had a crazy man up here auditing the records and to come up here and do something about it? You did come to Clanton, but you did not go into the Probate Office to discuss the condition of Roland L. Sparkman with Judge Parrish.

Mr. Eagerton, I will ask you if, at another time, Mr. Luther Kendrick, who was at that time a State Highway Patrolman, and who is now Sheriff of Chilton County, called you over long distance telephone and told you that he had found Mr. Roland L. Sparkman at the Court House in Clanton, Alabama, in the room where the county records were being audited, crying and shedding tears, and threatening to commit suicide, and that Mr. Kendrick got Mr. Sparkman to give to him some pills which Mr. Sparkman had, and Mr. Kendrick told you over long distance telephone the condition he had found Roland L. Sparkman in.

Mr. Eagerton, I want you to state whether or not you ever discussed this condition of Roland L. Spark- with Mr. Luther Kendrick, Highway Patrolman, Sheriff J. A. Nivens, or Mr. C. B. Cox, who was at that time representing Chilton County in the Legislature of the state of Alabama?

Mr. Eagerton, I will ask you and Mr. Sparkman if, while during the process of making the audit and before anyone should know as to what the audit might disclose when completed, did you or Mr. Sparkman discuss the audit with a few of my political enemies, and was there a meeting held after dark behind closed doors to discuss the best methods to publish this crooked audit, and to get the Grand Jury to indict some of the county officials?

In the State Auditors report they charged the officials of Chilton County with a total sum of Nine Hundred Ninety-three Thousand Six Hundred and Twenty-Four Dollars and Fifty-Five Cents ($993,-624.55.)

Mr. Eagerton, you made a written and oral demand on the officials of Chilton County that they were due this amount of money to Chilton County. You should have known that this was several hundred thousand dollars more than was paid out of the Treasury of Chilton County during the entire audit period.

I believe that when I expose this crooked audit the good people of Chilton County and the State of Alabama will ask Mr. Eagerton and Mr. Roland L. Sparkman to resign and that the State will place someone at the head of this Department that they can trust in making an honest audit.

This auditor's report has given Chilton County a "Black Eye" and has done to me a damage that cannot be repaired.

I am quoting below three letters from the President of the First National Bank of Clanton, Alabama, wrich reads as follows:

"Clanton, Alabama
February 5, 1952

Honorable J. Lee Smith
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Mr. Smith:

We have examined the Gasoline Fund Account of Chilton County covering the period from October 1, 1946, to January 19, 1947. We do not find a warrant charged to this account in the amount of $226.19, during the above period.

Yours very truly,
C. O. JONES,
President."

"Clanton, Alabama
February 5, 1952

Hon. J. Lee Smith
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Mr. Smith:

We have examined the Road and Bridge Warrant account of Chilton County, covering the period from October 1, 1946 to January 19, 1947. We do not find a warrant charged to this account in the amount of $5,713.78, during the above period.

Yours very truly,
C. O. JONES,
President."

"Clanton, Alabama
February 8, 1952

Hon. J. Lee Smith
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Mr. Smith:

We have examined the ledger sheets of the account of W. M. Polk, Treasurer of Chilton County, Gasoline Fund, for the period of October 1, 1946, through January 19, 1947. We were unable to find any warrants for the following amounts charged to his account during the above stated period; $244.83, $151,20, and $213.10.

Yours very truly,
C. O. JONES,
President."

I would like to ask Mr. Eagerton and Mr. Roland L. Sparkman why they charged me with this Five Thousand Seven Hundred Thirteen Dollars and Seventy Eight Cents ($5,713.78) twice in the audit. I would also like to ask them why they charged me with a Hundred Fifty One Dollars and Twenty Cents ($151.20) five times in the audit.

Mr. Eagerton, I would also like for you to state whether or not this audit was sworn to as required or provided by law.

I will have more to say in next week's paper.

Copy to Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts, State Capitol, Montgomery, Alabama, and also to Mr. Roland L. Sparkman, State Auditor.

J. LEE SMITH.

Chilton County Beef Cattle School Is Very Interesting

Approximately 60 Chilton County beef cattle producers met with County Agent and others to study recommended producion practices and to observe beef development in the Northwest section of the county.

Mr. W. H. Gregory, Extension Livestock Marketing Specialist, delivered a most informative and well illustrated beef cattle management lecture. Initial statemens advanced by Mr. Gregory were o the effect that catlemen wih economical production units (good ctatle and grazing programs) have a bright future in the price and demand forecasts. The human population is increasing much more rapidly than beef animals are. All forseeable future indicates continued demands for industrial production and the high employment that naturally follows heavy demands. This naturally means high national income, many housewives bidding for choice cuts of meat—perferably beef—and profitable markets for producers with economical production units.

Mr. Gregory divided Chilton County beef production into four types of production. He thoroughly reviewed the production methods recommended by A.P.I. and now being used by successful producers. Types of production are:

1. Production of purebred breeding stock.
2. Prouction of killer or stocker calves.
3. Steer dry lot feeding.
4. Stocker grazing and feeding.

Each of the four methods have a place on some farms in the county and continued expansion of all four types of production was recommended.

A formal meeting of the County Cattlemen's Association (now 46 members strong) included introduction of newly elected officers and a "Dutch" dinner at Martin Good Food on Highway 31, South of Clanton. The Association officers for 1952 are:

President, Ralph Mims, Rt. 4, Clanton, Ala.

Secretary-Treasurer, C. C. Fiquette, Clanton, Ala.

Vice President, H. C. Arnold, Clanton, Ala.

Directors, Dr. H. M. Nix, Maplesville, Earl O'Neal, Rte. 1, Stanton, Ala.

Charles Patterson, Clanton, Ala., and Hoyt Freeman, Rt. 1, Maplesville, Ala.

The Beef School was concluded by a cattle and pasture tour. Approximately fifty beef producers made the inspection tour and study of catle and catle feeding programs being followed by a group of local producers.

Democracy the Same

There are those who have had great moments and memories of conflict in our democracy; competition and division in both parties and in society.

People are always the same, they love, they hate, they work and they're grateful whether they be kings, queens, or just the man on the street, if you will listen to their story. I have a feeling of inspiration to tell our voters of uneasy minds and hopeful hearts. That our democracy is the same as it was 175 years ago.

It depends on you, and all of us, how well we discipline ourselves and let us press forward toward a specific goal. This was the motto by Thomas Jefferson and if it was good in those days it is good now.

So as friends and good neighbors, let's work together and hold up democracy in our county, State and Nation. A member of the Democratic Executive Committee, J. Shelton Cook.

MRS. RUTH KYLE KELLEY

Mrs. Ruth Kyle Kelley, age 47, of Clanton died at 11:00 p.m. Wednesday. Funeral services were held from Liberty Hill at 11:00 a.m. Friday, conducted by Rev. Fred Lowery, Rev. Homer Carroll and Rev. R. W. Stuckey. Interment in Liberty Hill cemetery.

Pallbearers were Lee Spivey, Luke Chambers, Earl Melton, Adron David, Ray Enfinger, J. W. Johnson. Honorary pallbearers were W. A. Verner, W. W. Bishop, Ira Crowe, Oliver Mims, A. P. Taylor, Bob Powers, R. Hogue, Dewey Rockett. Members of Mrs. Kelley's sewing club served as flower ladies.

She is survived by the husband, M. M. Kelley; parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Massey of Clanton; one son, Marvis Kelley, Jr.; one daughter, Mrs. Audell Melton of Clanton; two grandchildren; three brothers, A. J., W. M., and W. W. Massey, all of Birmingham; two sisters, Mrs. L. J Patterson of Birmingham and Mrs J. A. Scroggins of Opelika. Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Clanton, Alabama

Mrs. R. V. Yeargin of Route 3, Clanton, Ala., has found that a few cows can supplement the family income without adding a great deal of extra work.

Mrs. Yeargin has been selling milk less than a year, but she is convinced that it is a paying proposition. In fact, Mr. and Mrs. eargin are already expanding their dairy program and plan to be selling milk from five cows by fall.

At the present time two cows are being milked and the milk is being sold on the "B" grade milk route. Mrs. Yeargin stated that the two cows produced an average of forty to fifty dollars worth of milk per month.

Practically all of the feed is being grown on the farm. Since no cotton is grown, it has been necessary to buy some cotton seed meal.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeargin plan to increase and improve their pastures along with the feed crops. As the pasture acreage can be increased more cows will be added. Mr. and Mrs. Yeargin plan to continue adding cows until they can turn entirely to dairying for their farm income.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

By Marshall L. Ware

LIFE TO YEARS

Do you number among your acquaintances any people, old or young, who appear to know all that is going on about them, who do not forget what they learn, and who can just naturally turn their hands to any kind of work or play?

If you could look inside of these extraordinary people and see their mechanism, you would find every one of them to have an extra fine set of nerves connecting his working parts.

This kind of person knows more of the world about him than do people generally for the sole reason that he has better nerves than they in his sense organs—his eyes, ears, mouth, nose, and skin—to bring to his brain the facts of the world about him. He sees, hears, tastes, smells and feels more and better than other people.

His fine memory is due to the good, firm nerve material in his brain to retain impressions once received.

He quickly learns to play ball, make a hole in one, handle his car in fast traffic, operate a typewriter, or play the violin, for the reason that the nerves to his muscles are set for fast and accurate movements.

Chiropractic works with nerves, builds them, cultivates them. In this way it helps boys, girls, men and women to learn their world and to play their full part in it.

This is why the great musicians, actors, ball players, athletics, and business men are turning more and more to Chiropractic in order that they may be at their best and do their best all the time.

A good way to handle pie dough is to place it on waxed paper. Gather up the paper into a bag and manipulate the dough through the paper until it forms a ball and is well blended.

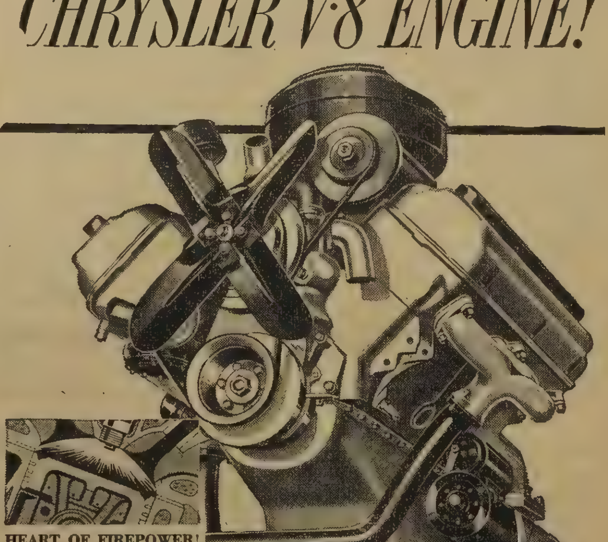
CHRYSLER V-8 ENGINE!



HEART OF FIREPOWER!

This hemispheric combustion chamber, with large, well-cooled valves right in the dome, is the basic reason FirePower outperforms all previous engines, even on non-premium fuel!

WHETHER you plan to buy a Chrysler or not, we cordially invite you to drive this revolutionary Chrysler FirePower V-8 engine. Only FirePower performance can possibly tell you what it is like. We want you to have that experience. The FirePower engine is a basic new design so advanced it can meet rising performance needs for years to come. Today it delivers 180 horsepower, even on non-premium fuel, and when desirable with simple changes in manifolding, compression, and carburetion the horsepower can be raised to 250 . . . or over 300, as in the experimental Chrysler K-310 car. Naturally, others will imitate this Chrysler achievement, at least in part. We honestly believe that the FirePower engine will outperform any other car in America . . . and we invite you to learn the new standard in engine performance Chrysler has set by driving it yourself.

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES

VOLUME XXX CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1952 NUMBER 8

FOLKS and THINGS

ABOUT TOWN
—By Ben

As the fellow said who stepped through the bass drum—we get a bang out of our Sunday School boys. The past Sunday for instance: At the close of the lesson they were reading scriptures and taking turnabout, a verse at a time. When one boy finished he said, "Irvin calling John Hollis. Come in John Hollis, over." Then we heard: "Roger," and the boy called took up the next verse. And you wonder that our dandruff is turning grey?

Frank Scott informs us that his son, John Ed, has left for the Navy. He is stationed at Bainbridge, Maryland, and will on the first of April enter Navy OCS.

Boy, we told you about these clerk jobs at the courthouse. Those things are dangerous. Dan Cupid got another victim through the heart last week when Evelyn West was married to Cliff Klie. Cliff is manager at Yeilding's. Evelyn has been doing some work in the Tax Assessor's office.

We're glad Herman and Thomasine Lecroy have adopted them a baby girl. No home is complete without children and the Lecroys are two wonderful people and that added "Ray of Sunshine" will brighten their home all the more. We can tell that Herman is getting a wonderful "kick" out of playing Papa.

Vernon Payne, our assistant Editor, became a father Wednesday morning and things at the News office are quite topsy-turvy. The new arrival was a seven-pound boy and their second. The mother is Marietta Hamilton Payne. She and the new son are doing fine at Central Alabama Hospital.

ABOUT POLITICS: Only three candidates for the office of Probate Judge have qualified with the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee. The three are Fred Smith of Jemison, former Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and John Higgins. John qualified Tuesday of this week. Buck Roberts, a sure candidate, hasn't qualified as yet, nor has Dave Tingle, who is expected to qualify before the deadline on March 1st.

The three candidates qualified for the office of Circuit Clerk are: J. C. Pattillo, Horsley White and Dock Dennis. Horsley is a newcomer to politics, this being his first campaign. Dock Dennis made the race six years ago against Pattillo and was defeated.

While we're about it we might as well get unpopular with some of our political friends, but we are against six-year terms. We do believe that our congressmen should have four-year terms, because with only two-year terms it keeps them running continuously. But so far as we are concerned all offices should be for four years. If the officeholder is competent and we think he deserves another term we can easily vote him back for four more. When we get stuck with a lemon we think four years is plenty to have to bear with him. This fad of changing all offices to six-year terms seems to be getting out of hand. First thing you know, all officeholders will expect six-year terms.

Pope Payne has announced he will be a candidate for his old place on the County Board of Education. Pope has served faithfully and well for many years and deserves your consideration.

Earl Reeves seems to be the only one who wants the Treasurer's job. It is a difficult place to fill and we don't expect Earl will have any opposition.

On the Board of Revenue and Control seven men have announced so far for the two places: Semmie Earl Williams, Jim Dunlap, Johnnie Johnson, Welch Roebuck, G. Marcus Jones, Joe Graham and Sherman Motley.

Omar Reynolds announced this week for the office of Probate Judge on the Republican ticket.

Safety Patrol Members To See Tembo As Guests

Members of the Safety Patrol at Clanton Elementary School will be guests of the Clanton Drive-In to see Tembo when it is shown there in the near future.

The Safety Patrol is sponsored by Clanton Lions Club.

County Red Cross Chairman Named

J. H. Boockholdt

J. H. Boockholdt, County Superintendent of Education, has been named as Fund Chairman for the 1952 Red Cross Drive. In accepting the position as Chairman, Mr. Boockholdt said: "I consider it a privilege to represent an organization that covers the territory and does the work that the American Red Cross does! It is definitely one of the most far-reaching and one of the best established organizations in America!

Here in Chilton County we have seen actual proof of the help it can offer. When the storm of 1932 swept much of our County, the American Red Cross appeared to offer instant assistance. We can rest assured that in a similar disaster, we would receive the same spirit of cooperation. On behalf of the fine workers who will soon join our efforts from all parts of Chilton Cunty, I want to urge you to do your best to help us reach our quota of $5,000. This County has a real reason for being interested in the American Red Cross!"

Mr. Boockholdt announces that workers for Chilton County's individual communities will be published shortly. It is hoped that the entire quota will be reached within one week of the Drive. Red Cross Week in this County is March 1st through March 8th.

MORRISON'S FURNITURE STORE ON TELEVISION

Morrison's Furniture Store is advertising "Those Heavenly Carpets" by Lees, over Television WBRC, Channel 4, at 5:30 to 6 o'clock on Sunday, Feb. 24th. Listen in thru courtesy of Morrison's. The time and date was inadvertantly left off the advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue.

Jim Plott Says He Will Amend Act Of 1901

In a statement issued Tuesday, Reresentative J. S. Plott announced to the citizens of Chilton County that at the next regular session of the State Legislature he would favor amending the Act of 1901 where the county engineer will have authority to work private driveways such as farm, cotton mill, saw mill, and will also introduce a Bill to put all county employees under the Social Security Act.

Much criticism has been made recently in regards to this act and many citizens have approached the representative to get the act amended.

Alabama Mills Entertain Seniors

Thursday (today) Alabama Mills will entertain the seniors of Chilton County High School with a tour of the local Alabama Mill and a religious picture show and a luncheon at the Clanton Baptist Church.

This is an annual custom of Alabama Mills and is looked forward to by the seniors.

Clanton Kiwanis Club Sponsors Freedom Forum

The Clanton Kiwanis Club will sponsor "An Americanism Program" at the City Hall Thursday night, February 28th, at 7:15. The general public is urged to attend.

This program consists of two Videograph presentations entitled "This Is Our Problem" and "The Power Of Your Vote." The program is presented by P. A. Redmond, Jr., Executive Vice President, of Alabama Mills, Inc., and J. C. Park, Jr., the company's Cost Accountant. Mr. Park narrates "This Is Our Problem" and Mr. Redmond is the narrator of "The Power Of Your Vote." The program has been presented on ten occasions over the state since the first of the year.

"This Is Our Problem" points out the dangers to this country of encroaching socialism and communism and also exemplifies the superiority of "The American Way of Life" and how best we can preserve this way of life. "The Power Of Your Vote" tells of one of the most important methods available to all Americans to fight for the preservation of the American way of life. It demonstrates very clearly the power of one individual vote in any election.

Building Fund Day At First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church, J. Gilbert Hutchinson, pastor, has designated Sunday, February 24th, as Building Fund Sunday. A goal of five hundred dollars per Sunday over and above our regular budget giving has been set. This is a grand total of twenty-six thousand dollars for the building fund for the year 1952. To reach this goal we must have the wholehearted co-operation of every member of the church.

Each one will be asked to make a pledge: to be paid weekly, monthly or for the year. Special emph[illegible] will be placed on the weekly pledge. The slogan for attendance on our building fund day will be: "One more than ever before." This will mean that we must have at least 657 in Sunday School and every one remain for the worship service.

At the close of the morning service a period of fellowship will be held. At this time a covered dish dinner will be served in the Junior Department assembly room. Bring your dish and enjoy the food and fellowship. Coffee, cups, plates, etc., will be provided.

Date Set For Alabama Industry Days April 28

The week beginning April 28th has been set for Alabama Industry Days this year, according to R. K. Argo, Personnel Director of the Alabama Mills and ardent supporter of the three-day celebration each year.

According to Mr. Argo the last week in April will mark the date for the celebration each year in the future.

Dock Dennis Will Make Race For Circuit Clerk

I. A. Dock Dennis of Maplesville, who made the race for Circuit Clerk against J. C. Pattillo and was defeated will again be a candidte for the same office this year.

Mr. Dennis says he thanks all those who supported him in his last race and again asks their support

Local Soldier Designs Case For Army

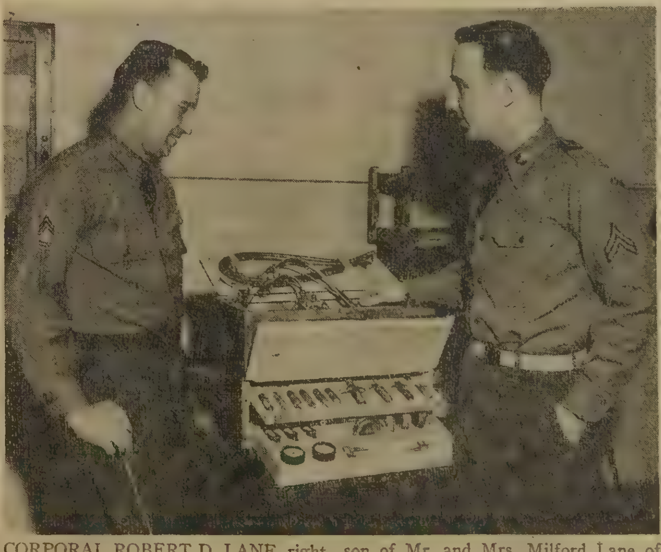
Frankfurt, Germany—A new type of carrying case for the field range parts has been designed by Corporal Robert D. Lane, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford H. Lane of 204-1st Avenue, Clanton, while he is serving in Germany with the Fourth Infantry Division.

With the idea of eliminating the damage resulting from parts jarring against one another and insuring an easy selection of any desired part even in darkness, the case features individual compartments and sockets in contrast to the unsectionalized design of the old case. Lane's kit also provides an attractive and space-conserving means of displaying spare parts for inspection.

Slightly larger than its predecessor, the new case is 22 inches long by 10 inches wide and a foot deep. A hinged top opens upon a compartment for carrying copper fuel lines. Bordering the large compartment is a long, narrow compartment for carrying generators, and at the large compartment's end is a place for an immersion heater wick — a horseshoe compartment with slots for the legs of the wick.

Beneath the compartments are 2 wide, shallow drawers with sockets hollowed in their beds in shapes corresponding to the various parts they are intended to contain.

The young corporal made the drawers with two-ply boards. He built ordinary drawers. Then he traced the outlines of all the different parts on the second plys, cut out the tracings, and glued the second plys into the drawers. As an added safety measure, a panel is hinged on the front of the case so as to close both drawers and prevent them from falling open.



CORPORAL ROBERT D. LANE, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Lane of Clanton, points out features of the new c arrying case he designed for housing parts for the field range, to his sergeant.

Corporal Lane was inducted into the Army in September, 1950, and arrived in Germany last May. He is a graduate of Chilton County High School and attended the University of Alabama.

Prior to his induction into the service, Lane was employed as service manager for the Goodyear Service Store in Clanton.

John Headley Hurt In Traffic Mishap

John Headley, who has been acting Dog Catcher for Clanton for the past several years, was seriously injured in a traffic accident at Seventh Street and Fourth Avenue North, in Clanton Tuesday morning early. He was taken to Central Alabama Hospital where he is recuperating from his injuries.

Tembo At Clanton Drive-In Theatre

One of the most unusual factual adventure features of the season will be presented at the Clanton Drive-In Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, February 25 and 26, when Tembo is brought here

The picture is produced and directed by Howard Hill, world's greatest archer, and a native of this county, having been born in the northern part of Chilton County west of Jemison.

It is an account of Hill's African Safari during which he hunted jungle beasts armed only with his bow and arrow.

Appears In College Play At Howard

Russell Arnold Williams, a junior at Howard College in Birmingham, has a role in the next production of the Howard Masquers, the dramatic society.

The play is "The Madwoman of Chaillot." Russell has the part of a sewer man. It opens March 4 in the college auditorium at 8:30.

The son of Russell Williams, Sr., he is majoring in speech and English. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, Spanish Club, International Relations Club, and is vice president of Masquers.

CANCER EDUCATIONAL MEETING

Monday is "Investment Day" in Clanton. Chilton citizens will be asked to contribute a few hours—not money—of their time to inform themselves better on Cancer Control. Investment Day is being held in every county of the State. Only through public consciousness of this problem, and early diagnosis and effective treatment can we combat this most fatal disease. We truly hope every man and woman will give some throught and study to this problem. Those wishing more information, call 266-J.

Omar Reynolds Announces For Probate Judge

To the People of Chilton County:

Some few weeks ago, I made the statement that it was my intention to become a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate, subject to the action of the Republican Primary. I have now qualified and will present my candidacy to the people from time to time, and your vote and influence will be appreciated.

OMAR L. REYNOLDS

MAKES FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT AS CANDIDATE FOR PROBATE JUDGE

MR. JOHN M. HIGGINS

Mr. John M. Higgins, Thorsby lumberman, has filed qualification papers as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of Probate.

He stated: "I hereby make formal announcement of my candidacy and assure all of you that I shall appreciate your consideration. I will conduct my campaign in the interest of efficient, honest and progressive government for our County, and will dedicate my full time and efforts to making my administration the most progressive and successful in our County's history, if permitted to serve as your Probate Judge.

Your vote, influence and advice will be sincerely appreciated."

Horsley White Candidate For Circuit Clerk

Horsley White has announced for the office of Circuit Clerk of Chilton County. He will have as his opposition J. C. Pattillo and Dock Dennis.

Mr. White has been in business in Clanton for many years and is well known throughout the county. He promises to make an intensive campaign and will do his best to see all the voters between now and May 6th.

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

In offering myself for membership on the Chilton County Board of Revenue, I do so with the full realization of what I wish to accomplish for the people of this county

I stand for better roads and will work for better roads during every day I serve our county.

I am old fashioned enough to believe in honest government and want the people to have honest government. This they will get if I am elected to help govern this county.

I believe that if we put the money we now have where it belongs we can do the things we need to do without increasing taxes. This statement goes from the County level to the government of the United States.

I believe in putting the money where it will be of benefit to the most people.

If elected I will do my very best to make you the best public servant you have ever had.

Sincerely, G. Marcus Jones,
(Pd. pol. adv. by G. Marcus Jones, Clanton, Ala.)

WATCH OUT COW TOWN

Montgomery can look to her laurels as the cow town of the south. Farmers of Chilton County are getting more "cow conscious" than ever before and more money is being invested in pasture lands and cattle.

With Central Alabama Stock Yards handling sales amounting to approximately half million dollars each year and our modern Chilco Packing Company operating, Chilton County bids fair to make tremendous headway in the cattle industry within the next few years.

BLOOD FOR BROTHERHOOD

By James Kerney, Jr.
Editor, Trenton, N. J., Times

Pick any American along the street and ask him, "Do you hate the people you work with, shop with, live with?"

His quick answer will be, "Don't be silly. Of course, not. I get along fine with everybody."

That's part of the American tradition. We get along fine with everybody. The counterman in the grocery, the waitress in the restaurant, the fellow at the next bench or desk, as well as the man across the street and his wife and children, they're all alike to us. They're all neighbors.

The idea of getting along with people is an old American custom. Nevertheless, one week out of the year we announce publicly that we don't care what a man's creed, color or national origin is; he's our neighbor. That's Brotherhood Week.

In the face of this somebody is bound to ask, "Why have Brotherhood Week? It's what we do all the year."

Well, it doesn't hurt to remind ourselves that this is a great country. It suits us fine. We live in it and love it. Of course, we'd like the rest of the world to feel peaceable toward us, but until that happy day we'll do our best to keep the peace here and among our friends abroad.

In the meanwhile, most of us feel there isn't much we can do to change the world. It's a little too big for us to handle by ourselves. The average fellow says, "That's a job for the big shots. I'll tend to my own business." But the peace of the world is part of our business today, even if most of us don't know what we can do about it

This year the National Conference of Christians and Jews has come up with a happy suggestion. You can pledge a pint of your blood in Brotherhood Week. There isn't a better way for Americans to show they mean brotherhood as a working idea. Give a pint of your blood for your neighbor who might need it or for some one caught in a disaster. Never mind his color or his religion, if he needs your blood to live. Or give your blood for a soldier in Korea. He may be one of our American boys, or he may be a Turk or a Greek, a Canadian or a Britisher. Whoever he is, he needs blood because he's been fighting so that there can be peace in the world.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

CHOREA

Chorea, or popularly called St. Vitus' Dance, is a condition marked chiefly by lack of coordination throughout the body generally, resulting in jerky, purposeless movements and causing the victim very often to harm himself if not closely watched.

Generally believed to be caused by a germ of the streptococcus type, chorea is definitely related to rheumatic fever. In both the heart may be affected. It chiefly attacks the age group from five to fifteen, and girls more often than boys.

Apparently the causative agent gets in the brain and nervous system, accounting for the characteristic symptoms of nervousness and a "fidgety" lack of muscle control. Inability to coordinate is also manifested by stumbling, jerking, a shaking inability to button clothes or pick up objects because of the shaking of the arms and hands.

The strange jerky movements are apparently all different in character, since no two seem to be alike. The twitching will range from a slight tremor to almost violent movements. It is difficult to say when the disease starts. There may be dizziness, headache, vomiting and even a slight fever before the jerky, purposeless movements appear. Weakness, awkwardness, listlessness, restlessness, inability to pay attention are other signs.

Rest in bed is important for the child with chorea. He should be watched carefully since very often he can arm himself by the spasmodic movements, particularly if he throws himself out of bed as frequently occurs.

The attitude toward the victim of chorea should be soothing and comforting, for there is a tendency to emotional imbalance. The patient is aware of his spasmodic "threshing about." He becomes oversensitive and irritable.

The sufferer should be supervised closely by a physician who, very often, can prescribe certain medicines that will tend to make the purposeless movements less violent, and thus reduce the chances of producing physical harm.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Why is it that wedding anniversaries are so much more pleasant than birthdays. For older folks, that is. They both mark the addition of years, but somehow you aren't so consncious of age on wedding anniversaries.

Not long ago, on our anniversary, the head of the house and I were chuckling over some of the happenings of that Important Day when the five-year-old appeared and asked,

"What are you laughing at?"

"We're just remembering some of the things that happened when we married," she was told.

"Oh, yes, that's right—you are married, aren't you? I thought I"d heard you mention it, but I wasn't sure."

As I've said before, I never learn the easy way to do things until too late.

Just last week I had such a terible time hanging my fresh curtains that I wished I had never bothered with getting them clean, had left them limp and grey. The trouble was with the curtain rods. I had the curtains on the rods and one end of the rod in the bracket, but the other end stubbornly refused to behave as it was supposed to.

First the rod was too short to reach the other bracket. So I made it longer. Then it was too long. While I was making it shorter again, the end already in its bracket came out. At that point I was so exasperated I wanted to throw the whole thing out ino the back yard for the five-year-old, the two-year-old and their friends to dress up in, but a stubborn streak made me keep on struggling until I got those curtains hung.

Then, at the end of the ordeal, the next door neighbor informed me that I would have had no trouble at all making the rods fit the brackets if I had marked the place the rods fit together before I took them down. Using the mark as a guide to slip the rods together again, each end will fit easily into its bracket.

And while we're on the subject curtains, the tie-backs will be exactly even if you pull the shade down to the point where you want the tie-backs placed and use it as a guide.

Sitting out in the yard soaking ing up some February sunshine the other afternoon, I kept fanning away some vaguely familiar buzzing insects. Turned out they were mosquitoes. Now I don't mind battling mosqitoes during the Summer months, but it seems mighty unsporting of the pests to engage in biting expeditions during February!

The neighbor around the corner always seems to have somethnig good to eat when friends drop in to see her. One of the favorite foods of those friends is her caramel crumb coffee cake. Her recipe calls for 1¼ cups sifted flour, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 5 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoonn baking powder, ¼ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup buttermilk, 1 egg (beaten) and 2 tablespoons finely chopped nuts.

Add brown sugar and salt to flour. Cut in butter until mixture resemble fine meal. Take out ¼ cup of this mixture, add nuts and reserve for topping. Add other ingredients and pour into a well-greased layer cake pan. Sprinkle crumb mixture on top and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes.

BETTER SPEECH CLUB PRESENTED PROGRAM

The Better Speech Club, composed of Mrs. Curry Thomas' Sixth Grade Class in the Clanton Elementary School, presented a most interesting and entertaining program on February 12th. The guests were met at the door by the hostess, Marie Mims, and shown to seats by James Studdard.

An extremely varied program was given, being made up of dramatic and patriotic speeches, various poems, piano selections and folk dancing.

Mrs. Joe Mullins expressed the sentiments of all the guests when she made a short speech of appreciation to the class, who, under the capable direction of Mrs. Thomas, had presented such an enjoyable program.

At the close of the program, refreshments were served to the guests, numbering around twenty parents and friends, and to the members of the Club.

Officers of the Club are: James Studdard, President; Dean Dennis, Secretary; Edwin Mullins, Treasurer; and Marie Mims, Hostess.

THIS WEEK'S TALK

Uncle Riley Is 101 Years Old

by

Rev. A. T. Hickman

"With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation." (Psa. 91:16). This is a promise made to those who will set their love upon God, and who will dwell in the secret place of the most High, and abide under the shadow of the Almighty. This promise has been fulfilled in the life of Uncle Riley Robinson. He was 101 years old last week. All these years he has lived among his friends, who know him, and love him. He has lived in the same house for over seventy-five years. It is interesting to know this dear old man, to see his smiling face, and hear his tender voice. Everything depicts a godly life; a life lived in the secret place of the most High, and under the shadow of the Almighty. Uncle Riley remembered his Creator in the days of youth. He set his effection upon the things above, and not so much upon the things of this life. And because he has set his love upon God, and have tried across these years to dwell in the secret place of the most High, and under the shadow of the Almighty, God is now honoring him with long life.

Uncle Riley says these 101 years have not been a life of ease, or a flower bed or roses; for there has been the cross of life with him like every one else. But he learned that to be yoked up with Christ was far better than to be yoked up with the devil. He has found the walk with Jesus to be the easier way, for His yoke is easy, and His burden is light. Trouble has come his way as it comes in the pathway of all men, but Uncle Riley has had the Lord with him in all his troubles. God has proved to be a present help in time of trouble. If it did not pay to live a Christian life, Uncle Riley would found it out a long time ago, but if he had to come over the road again, he says a Christian life would be his choice. It is mine also. Just how many more years this dear man will be among us is any one's guess. But at this time he is feeling fine. I drove out to visit him last week, he was cutting wood; had been hauling dirt in the yard. The outdoor life suits him. Uncle Riley, it is a pleasure to know you, and here I wish you many more happy years. Your smiles, kind tender voice, and a warm handshake depicts to me, the spirit of a real Christian. I hope to be with you on the day you are 102. Be good, I'll see you again. (Brother Hickman).

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET

The Cane Creek Home Demonstration Club met for their first meeting on Tuesday, February 12, with our club president, Mrs. F. L. Williams. There were 19 members present. The meeting was called to order by our president and devotional was conducted by Mrs. E. R. Young. This was followed by the group singing the hymn for the month, "Tell Me The Old, Old Story."

This being our first meeting we discussed different projects and one was chosen for the year. We also decided to sponsor boys and girls 4-H Clubs.

Miss Ada Martin gave a most interesting demonstration on The Child and His Parents. After a few minutes of social activities, Mrs. Williams served refreshments to the group.—Reporter.

DECIDING IF BROOD SOW STAYS OR GOES

During February and March several hundred thousand pigs will be farrowed on Alabama farms.

"And," says G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension Service hog production specialist, "at and after farrowing time are the best opportunities for livestock owners to check up on the efficiency of their brood sows to decide whether or not they stay on the job."

IN APPRECIATION

We, the management of Devaughn's Food Center in Clanton, have found an immense pleasure of serving the public in our new store. Since the morning of November 29th, during which time the entire personnel of our store has enjoyed meeting and serving many acquaintances of long standing and at the same time have made many new acquaintances and also renewed many old, all of whom we now feel are our regular customers, and are using this as one means of telling you so; but still, as another way of expressing our appreciation to all we will in the future offer you the customary week end specials—not for the week end only, but rather from Thursday morning of each week till Wednesday noon of the following week. In so doing, we feel that such practice will meet the convenience of all our friends and customers, which of course, is one of our main objectives.

We sincerely thank you for past patronage and solicit your continued friendship and patronage as we extend our invitation to those who may not have yet visited our store. Sincerely, J. W. Devaughn and Orbie Devaughn.

High temperatures cause a greater decrease in milk production than low temperatures. The most favorable temperatures for cows appears to be around 50 degrees F., both for milk production and efficient feed use.

Nineteen workers met at the church Sunday afternoon and made a canvass of our town for the Religious Census. A very thorough and satisfactory job was completed and the workers met with good response from all who were contacted. As a result of this census we anticipate Sunday School enlargement and setting up a systematic visitation program.

Rev. Lincoln Newman, promotional secretary for the Baptist of Talladega ounty, will conduct a Sunday School Clinic in our church March 3, 4 and 5th. He has just returned from conducting a Southwide Sunday School Clinic in Miami, Fla., where he spent two weeks in this work.

Bro. Folk, B.T.U. Director, gave out about 60 awards Sunday night to those who took the recent study course. He also had a very nice letter from Rev. J. E. Lambdin, editor of the B.T.U. Magazine of Nashville, Tenn., commending him for the splendid work and leadership he is doing in our Training Union.

Mr. J. C. Boockholdt, County Associational B.T.U. Director, has obtained the Rev. [illegible], Promotional Secretary of the Alabama B.T.U., for the County wide Evangelistic Rally to be held at the Liberty Hill Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon, March 2, from 2:00 to 4:00. The main speaker for the afternoon is the Rev. C. B. Arandall, pastor of the Dawson Memorial Baptist Church of Birmingham. The committee is to be commended for securing the services of these two able speakers and we feel sure that everyone who cannot attend this rally in person will appreciate the privilege of hearing these two great Christian workers speak on this program which will be broadcast over WKLF.

Bro. Akins Collins announces that the regular weekly meeting of the church choir will be held at 7 o'clock this Thursday night.

Remember our spring B.T.U. Study ourse to be conducted the week of March 10-14.

To The Citizens And Taxpayers Of Chilton County And The State Of Alabama

The Commissioner's Court records of the period, October 1, 1946, to January 20, 1947, were examined by Mr. M. F. Watson and Mr. F. W. Reid, State Examiners of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama, and they made the following statements in reference to the Commissioner's Court records of Chilton County. I quote:

"A statement of all funds was secured from the Depository, together with cancelled checks. All funds were reconciled with the records and balances as shown by bank letter attached to the file copy of this report.

"All acts of the County Board of Commissioners were verified with the minutes. Claims paid were verified as to authority and proper funds. The Board meets at the regular term as provided by Title 12, Section 9, 1940, Code of Alabama. All meetings were attended by proper quorum of the members. The minutes are complete and neatly kept.

"All receipts were properly recorded, posted and same verified with the bank deposits.

"Records examined included the Revenue Ledger, Appropriation Ledger, Journal, Accounts Payable Ledger, General Ledger, Bond Register, Purchase Orders issued, Minute and Records of the Treasurer covering Miscellaneous Trust Funds.

"All funds in the General Ledger were checked and trial balance made. There were no temporary loans made during the period under review.

"All claims were checked as to legality and properly checked to the Appropriation Journal and Accounts Payable Ledger. Unpaid claims against the General Fund amounted to $3,763.90, Gasoline Tax Fund $11,570.45, Sales Tax Fund $7.50 and Gasoline Tax Paving Fund $75.50.

"CLAIMS AGAINST OFFICIALS FOR ILLEGAL PAYMENTS, OCTOBER 1, 1946, TO JANUARY 20, 1947. NONE."

This Audit Report was filed in the Probate Office September 12, 1947, and signed by Ralph F. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama. There was not anything charged to the Commissioners or me. About one year after the above date, while the Examiners were examining the records, Judge W. L. Parrish and the Commissioner's Court, they re-audited the same period examined by Mr. M. F. Watson and Mr. F. W. Reid, who did not find anything wrong with the records. However, Roland L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman and C. R. Keener, who made the second audit, claimed everything wrong. I quote the statements they made in their report:

"The minutes of the Court were found to be vague, indefinite and incomplete. In many instances they were not understandable as to the intention of the Court and were written in such context and contents as to make them appear arbitrary and|or capricious. The orders and judgements of the Court as recorded were indisputably lacking and conclusiveness as is encumbered upon the Courts of record."

Mr. Sparkman and Mr. Keener charged me with thousands of dollars that there was no warrant or check issued for, or no money paid out of the county treasury.

Mr. Eagerton, I will ask you, inasmuch as Mr. Watson and Mr. Reid made an affidavit as to their examination of the Commissioner's Court records and Mr. Roland L. Sparkman and Mr. C. R. Keener made an affidavit as to their examination covering the same period, may I ask you if Watson and Reid's affidavit speaks the truth? And may I ask you if Sparkman and Keener's affidavit speaks the truth?

Mr. Eagerton, I would like for you to state how much the Roland L. Sparkman and C. R. Keener audit cost the taxpayers of Chilton County and the State of Alabama. I would also like to ask you if Roland L. Sparkman was paid for the time he spent in the Willingham Hotel when he was not in a condition to audit the records, and if so, how much?

I will have more to say next week.

J. LEE SMITH,

(Paid political advertisement by J. Lee Smith).

MACEDONIA

There was a nice crowd for W.M.U., G.A.'s, Sunbeams and R.A.'s Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Nix gave a supper Saturday night honoring their daughter, Mrs. D. Z. Nix, of Robertsdale. Those who enjoyed this occasion were: Miss Miriah Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Nix of Robertsdale and Mr. Hoyt Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ward and Tommy of Ensley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ward and Mr. Joe Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hayes' Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hayes and Rebecca of Clanton.

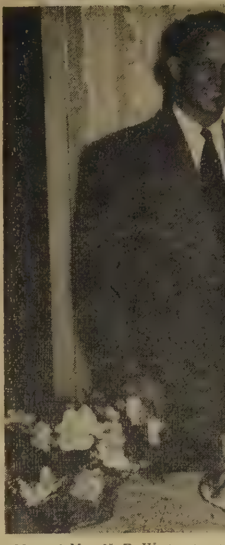
Wedding Supper Given For Bridal Couple



Mr. and Mrs. N. E. West entertained at a wedding supper on Saturday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Klie.

The table covered with a lace cloth centered with the large tiered wedding cake. The cake was white with pink roses embossed around the tiers and a lovely bride and groom perched on top. Lovely bowls of white narcissus and yellow daffodils completed the table arrangement.

A most delicious chicken dinner was served after which the guests enjoyed taking "flash pictures" of the bride and groom and their guests.

Notice—

There will be a special meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 6, on Monday evening, February 25th, in the home of Mrs. M. R. Lancaster. Time 7:30.

All members are urged to be present.

Home Makers Class News—

The monthly meeting of the Home Makers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, was held on Friday afternoon, February 15th, in the home of Mrs. Crit Jones. Co-hostesses were Mrs. M. C. Hamilton, Mrs. T. E. Wyatt and Mrs. Gordon Thompson.

Artistic arrangements of early spring flowers were used to adorn the Jones home.

Mrs. H. G. Crew, class president, called the meeting to order.

A beautiful devotional message on "Faith" was so ably given by Mrs. Willie Bean.

Mrs. Tom Kemp and Mrs. Greely Powell were in charge of the program hour at which time a Valentine contest and a Washington contest were enjoyed, with appropriate prizes going to Mrs. A. K. Corbett and Mrs. Horsley White.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Crit Jones and approved.

Reports were heard from the various committees. Other business was discussed.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames Howard Boockholdt, class teacher, H. G. Crew, M. H. Lane, T. E. Wyatt, Leo Thompson, W. W. Brown, A. K. Corbett, Horsley White, Willie Bean, Tom Kemp, Flem Higgins and the hostess.

Young Matrons Circle Meets—

The Young Matrons Circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church, Clanton, met Monday afternoon, Febrnary 18, with Mrs. E. H. Waldrop.

Mrs. Milton Diefenderfer was the leader on the discussion of the book of Acts.

After the study course refreshments were served to Mesdames Cecil Carter, E. D. Dailey, Woody Speaks, Howard Buckner and Milton Diefenderfer.

Celebrates Birthday At School—

Maryetta Propst was twelve years old on February 9th and she celebrated the occasion on February 8th with her classmates and her teacher, Mrs. L. C. Warr. After lunch, Maryetta and her friends gathered in the school room for a period of celebration.

The honoree was showered with pretty-gift-wrapped packages. After pening the packages and putting the gifts on display for her friends, the group enjoyed delicious cakes with cola drinks. Instead of the usual birthday cake which would have held twelve candles, Maryetta's mother, Mrs. J. E. Propst, furnished individual white cakes beautifully embossed in pink. Each cake held a tiny white candle.

Fidelis Class News—

Mrs. J. R. Mullins, Miss Lois Black, Miss Marguerite Perry and Miss Johnnie Martin were joint hostesses to the Fidelis Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, on Monday night of this week.

The Mullins home was made more attractive with bowls of red roses, camellias and other seasonal flowers.

Mrs. Herman LeCroy brought the meeting to order with prayer.

The evening program was in charge of Miss Perry who also brought an inspiring devotional, using as her subject, "The Loom of Life." Miss Perry presented Mrs. L. C. Warr, who was guest speaker. Mrs. Warr used as her subject, "That The World May See Christ Through Citizenship." Bringing special mention of the work and benefits of the Junior Citizen Club of the Clanton Elementary School.

The hostesses served refreshments to twenty class members and visitors, Mrs. Warr and Mrs. Bowers. Mrs. Earl Parrish, Class Reporter.

WEST - KLIE MARRIAGE

The marriage of Miss Evelyn West to Clifton D. Klie was solemnized on February 13th, 1952, by the Rev. M. L. McCormick. The ceremony was quietly performed in the chapel of the Central Methodist Church in Meridian, Miss.

The bride wore a wine suit with grey and wine assessories and her corsage was of whte carnations.

The couple will reside in Clanton, where Mr. Klie is manager of Yieldings.

Baptist Y.W.A. Banquet—

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, was honored at a "Sweetheart Banquet" at the church on Monday evening, February 11th, when the Valentine theme and colors were used for decorations and the Y.W.A. colors of green and white were emphasized in the menu.

The banquet table was centered with a lovely creation of red flowering quince with white baby breath and yellow jonquil entwined with a cupid heart of white lace. Burning red tapers placed on the table furnished light for the dinner, furnished and served by the business women's circle of the Women's Missionary Society.

The theme for the evening program was "Love."

Toastmistress was Miss Jetty Faye Ellison. Thanksgiving by Mrs. C. O. Cox. Welcome, by Miss Ellison. Response by Wallace Neeley. Group singing was led by Miss Nanette Nivens. Piano solo by Miss Donna Klinner.

Senior Class Party—

Members of the senior class of the Chilton County High School who attended the Valentine party given by the home room mothers last Thursday night at the school report a wonderful time.

Red paper hearts and matching streamers decorated the library room where games, square dancing, the Virginia Reel and the Grand March were enjoyed, with Mrs. Russell Payne directing the dancing.

Prizes were awarded, favors given and the evening passed much too fast for the fifty or more young people taking part.

In a class room across the hall from the library, the mothers had prepared to serve delicious refreshments of ice cream and individual Valentine cakes with punch to the group.

Mr. R. M. Tucker was on hand to catch interesting photographs of the affair with his camera.

C.C.H.S. Observed Founder's Day—

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Chilton County High School served Founder's Day on Tuesday afternoon, February 12th, in the school library.

An interesting program was presented by members of the school, including a Founder's Day playlett, directed by Miss Marguerite Perry.

One of the highlights of the afternoon was the fashion show of Avondale Mills fashions, modeled by girls of the Home Economics Class of the schol, of which Mrs. B. F. Williams is teacher.

Refreshments were served from a table centered with a silver bowl filled with red flowers.

A life time membership to the C.C.H.S. P.-T.A. will be presented in the near future by the Association to Mrs. W. M. Polk, Sr., Mrs Hugh Jones, Mrs N. S. Johnson and Mrs. J. E. Gowan, for their outstanding work in the past with the P.-T.A. of the C.C.H.S.

Surprise Birthday Party—

While Miss Grace Lawrence was visiting with her sisters family, the Reedie Taylors on Tuesday evening, February 12th, members of the C. C. Club and their sponsor, Miss Dorothy Blalock, gathered at the Lawrence home. When Grace arrived home, much to her surprise, she was greeted by her friends singing, "Happy Birthday."

The party refreshment table featured a cloth of Mexican hand embroidery with a centerpiece of a white Valentine arrangement with red and white spring flowers. Silver trays held party sandwiches and other danties served with delicious punch. Ten burning red tapers in silver candelabra completed the table appointments.

Mrs. J. P. Lawrence was assisted in entertaining for her daughter by Mrs. Reedie Taylor and Mrs. C. F. Wenzel.

Has Second Birthday—

Little Mary Murr is two years old—going on three.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Murr, and the grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bean.

On Wednesday afternoon, February 13th, the mother and grand mother entertained at a children's party at the Bean home, celebrating Mary's birthday.

The little honoree was as lovely as any life-size doll in a waffle weave pique aqua colored dress, with matching ribbon in her hair, and it was such a happy occasion for Mary when each friend presented her with a pretty gift package.

As the little guest arrived one couldn't help but observe that the pre-kindergarten set is producing a group of beauteous belles and handsome beaus for the future.

The Valentine motif with inflated various colored balloons were used to decorate the home. Mary's birthday cake was white, beautifully embossed in pink and green, holding two tiny pink candles.

Refreshments were ice cream and heart shaped cakes.

Miniature colored [illegible] baskets filled with candies, [illegible] were parting [illegible]

Mr. Scott dropped by during the party hours to make pictures of the honoree and her guests who were: Susan Speaks, Donald Wyatt, Mike and Sandra Cox, Carolyn Cleckler, Ellen and Joe Coggins, Danny and Kathy Cleckler, Benny Joe Williams, Alex Jackson, Ann Dailey, Barbara Cleckler, Tommy and Gary Godwin, Joan [illegible] Randy Connell, Kathy Meatts.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams Entertains—

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams were hosts to a Valentine buffet supper and bridge on Wednesday, February 13th, at their home on Selma Road.

The buffet table was covered with an imported linen cloth and appropriately marked with a colonial nose gay placed on a mirror plaque. The nose gay was of white narcissus and blue hycinth, trimmed with red tulle, with red streamers holding Valentine hearts. Red tapers burned in crystal holders.

Red camellias were used to adorn the living room of the home.

Prizes for high bridge scores went to Mrs. J. D. Bell and Mr. J. C. Parr. The other prize was awarded to Mrs. C. C. Craig.

Guests at three bridge tables were: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Beil, Mr. and Mrs. George Willingham, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Parr, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Klinner, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bullington, other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Robertson.

Guest speaker, Miss Majorie Stilth, State young peoples leader, who spoke on "Christ in you." Miss Stilth told of many interesting things about her recent trip to Mexico. Benediction prayer was offered by Dr. J. Gilbert Huchinson.

Things We See And Hear

—By "TUCK"

Harold Parr says the reason Buddy Burdette wasn't in school the other day was because he had a re-collapse. Harold seems to have lost his ability to use the English language. (Or any other for that matter). I've looked for Harold, and that word just isn't in the dictionary.

Betty Sue Bean seemed just slightly embarrassed the other day in that fashion show when she had to show what was underneath. Under the same circumstnaces we probably would have been embarrassed too, Betty Sue, however, I hope we're never caught in just the same predicament.

The population of the school dwindled rather fast last week due to the overy-abundance of the flu germs floating around. There wasn't but 175 absent Friday and that's just about 1-3 of the whole bunch. Oh, well, maybe it won't [illegible]. I asked Mr. Waters if they were going to let school out when we reached the 200 mark and he didn't answer. I rather doubt it, don't you?

Seems like the Senior II play this year is going to be a dilly (I'm not sure that word is in the dictionary either, Harold), this year, doesn't it, keeds? The class is getting all enthused about the whole thing so it must be a whiz. One sure way of finding out is to go see the play yourself.

Probably the only cure for the flu is staying out of school. That seems to fit right in for most of the students. Boy, there was more passes signed last week for people going home. With the flu???

The Senior class Valentine Party last Thursday night was really a blowout. They really had a good time. Even if most of them were sick with the flu. Ya' know, Carolyn, I still don't believe you gave us all of that brkoen heart. Man, I haven't put that thing together yet. By the way, we even learned to square dance, so if you want a free lesson just go to some member of the Senior Class. 'Course I won't say what the outcome will be. Joe Popwell and Wallace Neeley seem to be best suited for this type of dancing so I recommend them very highly. (Sucker!!)

The gun was loaded,
He didn't know!!
He shot away his hand.
How could a fellow
With right good sense,
Be such a foolish man?

You know, people are funny. Just a few months ago a fellow running to lunch, fell on a post and broke his arm pretty badly. Enough so that he had to miss quite a bit of school. Now, just about the whole crowd runs and jumps the same fence the boy fell on. Won't we all ever learn? How about not running to lunch for a while and see if the food isn't just as good when you walk as it is when you run. You can at least [illegible] energy until you've cleared that fence.

Myron (flower in face) [illegible] says that the annual [illegible] being completed. [illegible] all mounted and [illegible] from taw. Well, [illegible] look forward to a wonderful yearbook this year so be ready for it when it arrives.

Looks like the senior class is in for a deduction from their bank savings. Mr. Hicks says that he had the walls of the building painted and he doesn't know [illegible] money for it is coming [illegible]. I have a pretty [illegible] says we don't [illegible]. I think it would be O.K. [illegible] ing, of course, the Seniors get their name somewhere in conspicious recognition of the fact that they paid for the job.

When greens are packed in baskets or crates, finely crushed ice should be placed in the containers. If greens are bunched and loaded in bulk on a truck, ice should be placed between layers and over the load.

Pickle Cucumbers and Pimiento Peppers Prices increased this year to the following:

No. 1 Cucumbers	$5.00 per 100 lbs.
No. 2 Cucumbers	$2.00 per 100 lbs.
No. 3 Cucumbers	$1.00 per 100 lbs.
Pimiento Peppers	$80.00 per ton

Cucumbers and Peppers will bring you a nice cash income at the time when you really have no other crop income.

Mrs. C. C. Conway Hostess To Circle Two—

Circle Two of the W.M.U. met with Mrs C. C. Conway Monday, February 11th, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Andy Beaman as co-hostess. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. B. C. Lenoir, Circle chairman. Mrs. Russell Scott in charge of the program gave the devotional. The group joined in singing "America." The theme for February was "Our Samaria." Mrs. Bill Cofer presented the topic, "Its Just For Them." "The Meaning of Missions," was given by Mrs. Tom Cost. "In the Jungles and Out," was given by Mrs. B. C. Lenoir. Closing prayer by Mrs. J. A. Peterson.

Cake and coffee were served to the group. Present, with these already mentioned were Mesdames A. M. Attaway, Nora Davenport, Cora Ellison, Nell Jones, Bessie McNeill, Edna Reynolds, Ruby Thrash, Sam Woodley and a visitor, Miss Velma Price.

Meeting of P.-T.A.—

On Wednesday afternoon the P.-T.A. held its regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs Lester Pate. Mrs Elena Cost and Miss Mary Clements were in charge of the program. The topic for the month, "Foundations for Better Communities." Pupils from the first grade sang a song. Three pupils from the second grade, Delia Cost, John Griffin and Dwight Cobb read the scripture. Pupils from the third grade sang "The Little Red Wagon," with Diane Martin giving the narrative of the song, assisted by Lois Ann Woodley. Pupils from the first and second grades sang "We Have the Mumps."

Miss Mary Louise Wright, County Home Demonstration Agent, showed a picture of 4-H Club projects and activities and spoke on "Backgrounds for Better Communities."

During the business session it was agreed to have the cooking school as planned by Steel City Supply Company. The president, Mrs. Pate, gave a report on the meeting of the County Council P.-T.A. at Maplesville as being very enjoyable and the attendance was good. Punch and Valentine cookies were served to the group.

Meeting of Quest Club—

The Quest Club held its February meeting at the home of Miss Sybil Langston. Mrs. George Naish, co-hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president. Mrs. V. O. Lenoir. The order of procedure was changed, the program being presented first. Mrs. C. L. Watson gave a commentary on the film. Two pictures were then shown, "South Chile," and "The Atocama Desert." The origin of St. Valentines Day was given by Mrs. Fred Smith. Mrs Lenoir presided during the business session. Members responded the roll call with the names of famous Americans. Mrs. C. L. Watson gave a report from the library board.

The following officers were elected for the next year, president, Miss Melba Patton, vice president, Mrs. S. W. Cost; recording secretary, Mrs. Marvin Dawson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Dezzie Littlejohn; treasurer, Mrs. S. L. McNeill; historian, Mrs. Leo Langston; parliamentarian, Miss Sybil Langston.

The hostess served refreshments.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. N. McGraw for the past several days were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wheatley, Sgt. and Mrs. Jimmy Wheatley, Mrs. Billy Wheatley and Patricia Ann Wheatley of Penn's Grove, N. J.

Sgt. Jimmie Wheatley is surgical nurse in the Medical Corps Army. He is on his honeymoon, having married February 9th. Mrs. Maud Sproull in Birmingham entertained Sgt. and Mrs. Wheatley at luncheon on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Conway entertained the Wheatley family at dinner on Monday night.

Home for the week end from Alabama College was Miss Annette Reynolds.

James Guy is home on ten days furlough from Camp Jackson.

From Birmingham to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. McGraw, were Mrs. Jack Benson and family, Mrs. Byron Cox and family and Mrs. Willie Mae.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mims of Montgomery spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Bonnie Willis.

Miss Barbara Ann Jordon was a week end visitor of the A. C. Brattons.

rmed Services Committee Conducting Daily earings; Edward deGraffenried A Member he Procourement Subcommittee the House Armed Services Com- tee, of which Representative Ed- rd deGraffenried is a member, is nducting daily hearings toward nging about a single catalogue be used by all three services procurement.

epresentative deGraffenried stat- that under the procurement pol- s heretofore used each service been allowed to procure what- r items considered necessary for use of each respective service, hout rgard to what the other vices were doing. The congress- n stated that under this system service has known what items other services had on hand and account of this method much ste of money and inefficiency has ulted, according to testimony of ar Admiral J. W. Fowler, who recently been appointed Direc- of Supply Management Agen- ; and Director of the Munitions ard Cataloging Agency in the partment of Defense on the sub- of Federal Catalogue Program.

he Congressman stated that on ount of the inefficient system etofore in use, many items have n stockpiled over a period of ny years because of the fact that er agencies had these items with- the knowledge of the procure- nt agency ordering them. Also account of this system, there e been many varied prices in purchase of articles and many re articles of the same nature lered for use. For example, Ad- ral Fowler testified before the committee today that the armed vices had been using some 20,- different kinds of venetian nds and like blinds at various ces which could be materially re- ed; that over 200,000 items of ber had been used, which could be very materially reduced; t shoes, nails, pillows and other ns of purchase of the same type for the same use had been or- ed by each of the armed services different prices.

dmiral Fowler stated before the committee today that after the alogue System is inaugurated, a troyer will no longer have to de- d upon having to carry a full of valves, pistons, etc., for her ticular make of auxiliary engine, but that within the size categories which are covered in the standardization plan, she will be able to requisition a spare from any of her sister vessels or from the tender, regardless of the make of engine that she has on board and that such standardization will reduce the number of spare parts required from 1,187 different types to approximately 60 different items in the future. The Congressman quoted Admiral Fowler as stating the Standards Agency is advising all procurement agencies of the government that on July 1, 1952, mandatory specifications covering these standardized engines will be issued and that all subsequent purchases must be made under these specifications, except where very special circumstances are called to the attention of the Munitions Board Standards Agency and authority obtained accordingly.

deGraffenried stated that after the completion of the catalogue no purchases can be made by any Service of any items not listed in the catalogue and each procurement agency will know the number of each item on hand in the various other procurement agencies, thus eliminating much unnecessary stockpiling of materials. The Congressman quoted Admiral Fowler as stating that the correlation of the activities of the Standards Agency and the Cataloging Agency is being achieved, not only by placing them under one administrative head, but by locating them in one building where the files and personnel of each can be mutually available. deGraffenried stated that it is estimated by the Subcommittee and by Rear Admiral Fowler and others who have testified before the Subcommittee that literally billions of dlolars will be saved to the taxpayers of America by inaugurating the catalogue system. The Congressman stated that each of the services pays different prices for the same or similiar item and that this practice must be abolished and the single catalogue and procurement policy established.

The Subcommittee will go to New York on February 21 to study the catalogue system and procurement policies of the Armed Services Medical Procurement Agency, where it is said a unified buying is in effect and has saved millions of dollars already.

Safety For Six Bits

Read about an Iowa farmer who has really protected himself when he moves machinery on the highway after dark. He's rigged up a pretty good warning light and it only cost him 75 cents.

Seems this warning light is made up from an old windshield wiper motor with a taillight attached in place of the wiper blade. The motor is then clamped, wired, or taped to the rear of any piece of machinery.

When the motor is hooked into one hot wire and grounded, the light moves back and forth and is bound to attract attention. Wires work off a battery, a headlight, a taillight—anything "hot."

From where I sit, a little extra precaution will often pay off in big dividends. Take the beer retailers. They keep their places clean and orderly by voluntarily following the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. It's "safety first" with them all the time because they know it means better business.

The Only Thing Different About This Advertisement is the Faces

When this advertisement first appeared about a year ago, five other fine young men appeared in it. They were the state officers of the Future Farmers of America. Their terms of office have expired—five other splendid young rural gentlemen have succeeded them. So only the faces in this advertisement have changed—it is published again during this 23rd year of the FFA to help publicize the praiseworthy creed of the organization.

"I Believe . . ."

This is "FFA Week" when 12,100 Alabama members of the Future Farmers of America will observe the organization's 23rd anniversary. They will re-affirm their faith in a creed which states:

"I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds . . . in the promise of better days through better ways . . .

"I believe that to live and work on a good farm is pleasant as well as challenging . . .

"I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others . . .

"I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so—for others as well as myself . . .

"I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task."

The membership of Future Farmers of America consists of boys and young men 14 to 21 years old who, under able educational leadership, are studying vocational agriculture in approved high schools throughout the Nation.

The foundation upon which Future Farmers of America is built includes leadership and character development, sportsmanship, cooperation, service, thrift, scholarship, improved agriculture, organized recreation, citizenship and patriotism.

We are happy to publish this advertisement in recognition of the fine efforts of the membership of the Future Farmers of America and their leaders and teachers. They, too, are "Helping Develop Alabama."

Watermelon Disease Control Methods

A number of watermelon diseases are common throughout Alabama. Most of these diseases can be controlled or prevented by seed treatment, dusting with funficides, crop rotation, or planting resistant varieties.

Descriptions of the symptoms and control practices recommended by the Experiment Station are listed below:

Gummy stem blight is a fungus disease which is both soil and seed-borne. It is recognized by the cracked stems, especially near the center of the hills and a gummy material oozing from the cracks. Leaf spots are also produced and are sufficiently numerous in wet weather to kill the leaves.

Anthracnose is another seed and soil-borne fungus disease. Most of the damage occurs to the leaves which are completely killed or "burned" in wet weather.

Damping-off is the killing of young plants before or soon after they emerge. It may be caused by any of the several microscopic organisms present on the seed or in the soil, including those organisms causing anthracnose and gummy stem blight.

Wilt or stem rot is another soil-borne fungus disease. The organism gains entrance through the roots. It plugs the water-conducting vessels and produces poisons which eventually cause the plants to wilt or die. Once the soil is infected, the organism may remain there for 15 years or more in the absence of any succeeding watermelon crop. Use of the resistant varieties, Blacklee and Lessburg, and rotations are the only control

Root kaot is caused by microscopic eel-like worms which bore their way into the roots and stimulate the production of knots. Infected plants are stunted and yellow and are much more susceptible to the wilt disease. Control consists of planting in a new ground or following 2 or more years of corn, small grains or velvet beans. Watermelons may be grown on land infested with the root knot nematode if the soil is spot treated with a suitable fumigant prior to planting.

Seed treatment will control anthracnose, gummy stem blgiht, and damping off. Soak the seed in mercuric chloride, one part to 1,000 parts of water, for 10 minutes. Rinse in clear running water for 15 minutes and dry. This kills those organisms on and inside the seed coats. Before planting treat the seed with arasan or spergon at the rate of 0.6 per cent by weight of seed (one-half teaspoon per pound), to protect them against damping off.

Dusting the foliage with a dust containing Z-7 or copper dust will control leaf spot diseases. Three to four applications of the materials should be applied at seven to 10-day intervals. Beginning when leaf spots first appear.

What this Statement Does Not Show

THIS FINANCIAL STATEMENT—Liberty National's report to the holders of its 3 million policies—while made up of some big figures—does NOT tell the whole story. It does not show the "double duty" performed by Liberty National dollars. In the most important sense, these funds represent the resources which serve to guarantee that obligations to policyowners will be met faithfully and promptly. In addition, until the funds are paid over to policyowners, they are loaned to people and businesses who have need for the funds and consist of over 13,500 individual mortgage loans on homes, apartments and commercial buildings—bonds issued by electric, gas, telephone and water utility companies—loans to railroads and industrial companies of all types—bonds issued by the Federal Government, the states, counties and cities—and real estate held both for investment and Company use. Life Insurance dollars have played an important part in the growth and development of the nation.

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

By— N N Marshall L. Ware

INFLUENZA (FLU)

An acute, infection and contagious disease, spreads with great rapidity; associated with catarrhal inflammation of the respiratory and digestive tract, disturbance of NERVOUS system.

The onset is sudden with chills, quick pulse, fever 101'-103', pain in the eyes, head, joints and muscles—followed by chilliness along spine, sore throat, hoarseness, sneezing, watery eyes and dry cough, patient being very weak.

Most cases recover rapid if proper care is taken but can develop into pneumonia, Otitis media (infection of middle ear), bronchitis, mys carditis (inflammation of muscles of heart) and neuritis.

Care should include, putting patient to bed until fever remains normal for three days, warm well ventilated room, liquid diet with six to eight glasses of water daily.

Spinal adjustments maintains the body functions to such vital organs as liver, lungs, kidneys and intestines which throw off poisons, reduces fever, increases circulation, making recovery faster with less pain and after effects.

Reeves Announces As A Candidate For Re-Election As County Treasurer

B. E. Reeves

To all Voters of Chilton County:

Four years ago I offered my services to the citizens of Chilton County, as their County Treasurer; and their confidence in me was expressed at the polls, when they elected me to fill that office for this term. I pledged to them that I would discharge the duties of this office efficiently and honestly, to the very best of my ability.

I have kept my pledge, and am happy to report that each and every penny handled by me is properly recorded on the records of this office. Several changes have been made since I have been in office, which tends to safe-guard, even more, the funds of the County. I have never forgotten that my duty is to ALL the people of this good County.

I am again offering my services to the citizens of Chilton County, as their County Treasurer; and if it is their desire, and will, that I fill that office for another term, I am confident that they will go to the polls and vote for me. As my record this term proves my ability, and experience, I do not think it necessary to outline this to you in this letter.

I do pledge to the citizens of the County that I will continue to handle matters pertaining to this office efficiently, and honestly, to the very best of my ability and experience.

My duties require practically all of my time, and I know I will be unable to see everyone personally, and am taking this means of asking for your aid and support which will enable me to be re-elected to this office.

One request I wish to make of all voters of the County, whether you vote FOR me or AGAINST me, be sure to go to the polls, after careful consideration to determine who will serve the PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY best, and vote for YOUR CHOICE OF ALL CANDIDATES, so that the will of the MAJORITY of the VOTERS may be expressed, and that way we will be certain of getting good men in the various offices.

Please accept this letter as a personal message to each of you, and my sincere thanks for your past and future vote, which is certainly appreciated very much.

Sincerely,
B. E. REEVES,

(Pd. pol. adv. by B. E. Reeves, Clanton, Ala.)

Chilton County Democrats met at the courthouse last Wednesday afternoon to set fees and qualifications for the coming primaries. Much enthusiasm was shown and many of the prospective candidates were present. The Chilton County News cameraman got pictures of the proceedings and some of the candidates. PICTURE NO. 1. shows County Chairman, J. B. Atkinson, opening the meeting. Frances Speaks was acting as Secretary. (2) A group awaiting the opening of the meeting. Candidates for Probate Judge, N. L. (Buck) Roberts, Dave Tingle, and John Higgins can be seen mixing among the gathering. (3) A little too close to the flash sat Ab Rutherford, a member of the committee and a member of the Democratic Party in Chilton County for two generations. In the same picture are Marcus Jones, Candidate for Membership on the Board of Revenue and Dave Tingle, a prospective candidate for Probate Judge. Also shown sitting next to Jones is Lonnie Cost. (4) Chilton County's Tax Assessor and candidate for Probate Judge, N. L. (Buck) Roberts. (5) A group of staunch Democrats watch with interest the proceedings: A. B. Foshee, County Solicitor, Horsley White, Tom Kemp, Cliff Walton, Buck Roberts, and Nat Bentley. (6) Former Probate Judge and again candidate, J. Lee Smith. On the right is Bob Owens. (7) Candidate John Higgins. (8) The Chairman J. B. Atkinson relaxes during a discussion. (9) Cliff Walton had just heard a joke on the Republicans.

KILL WILD PLUMS TO AID CONTROL OF PEACH PHONY DISEASE

Thickets of wild plums near peach orchards are dangerous, says B. P. Livingston, Chief of the Division of Plant Industry, Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries. Not only do these natives plums harbor the virus of the phony disease which has caused the loss of nearly three million peach trees in Alabama, Georgia and other southeast states in recent years, but they are also breeding grounds for most of the other diseases and insects that take a heavy toll from the peach growers profits.

Mr. Livingston says that wild plum bushes can be effectively killed by spraying them with a solution of weed-killer chemical known as Ammate. The solution is made by dissolving the chemical in water at the rate of one pound of Ammate to a gallon. Plums are beginning to bloom in Alabama and when they are in full bloom is an ideal time to locate and saturate them with the Ammate solution. Most of the plants are usually killed by this first spray, but seed from last year's fruit will later germinate and some of the larger trees may sprout leaves late in the summer or early fall. It is recommended therefore, that a second application of the AMMATE spray be made the latter part of August.

The Division of Plant Industry, in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, has been fighting the phony disease since 1929. Orchards in the affected areas are inspected every summer and the growers pull out the infected trees marked by the inspectors. Phony is caused by a virus and it is spread from diseased to healthy trees by certain insects. It stunts the growth of peach trees which affects the quantity of fruit produced and most of the peaches on such affected trees are so small that they go into the cull pile. The disease often gets its start in new orchards from nearby plum thickets.

For further information on control of phony write the Bureau of Entomolgy and Plant Quarantine, 32 Mulberry Street, Macon, Ga.

JEMISON F.F.A. NEWS

The Jemison Chapter Future Farmers of America held their annual chapter speaking contest in chapel, Friday, February 1, 1952, cash prizes were awarded to first, second, and third place speakers. Bobby Jones won first, Tommy Martin second, and Charles Williams won third place. Bobby will represent our chapter in the county contest to be held some time this month.

Our quartet is also planning to enter the county quartet contest, which they won last year. The quartet is composed of James Martin, Billy Conway, Kendall Martin and Charles Williams.

Our F.F.A. basketball team played their initial game Friday afternoon and was defeated by Verbena 32-19. Center James Maddox was high point man with 14 points to his credit.—Orvil Moore, Reporter

IT PAYS TO TOP-DRESS OATS BEFORE MARCH 1

Auburn, Ala. — For those who want to make good yields of oats, here are some tips from J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist.

To get high yields there is an important job to do right away. That job is top-dressing oats with nitrogen, using up to 48 pounds per acre. This amount of nitrogen can be supplied by using 300 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources, such as ammonium nitrate or sulphate of ammonia.

"To get the best results from nitrogen it must be applied between February 15 and March 15," says Lowery. "By all means the job should be done by the first of March. Test after test, over a period of 30 years or longer, show that less returns are obtained for each week nitrogen application is delayed after March 1. In other words don't let March 1 get by without top-dressing oats."

Tests made by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station at Auburn show that 48 pounds of nitrogen applied to oats before March 1 gave an increase of 32.9 bushels of oats per acre over a 10-year period.

1951 Marked Great Year For Liberty National

Liberty National Life Insurance Company held its annual stockholders' meeting on February 19th in the auditorium of the recently completed addition to its Home Office building in Birmingham. President Frank P. Samford released the following statement:

"1951 marked the greatest growth in any year since the Company was incorporated by a special act of the Legislature of Alabama in 1900. Growing continuously with Alabama, the progress of the Company has accelerated in keeping with the forward development of the State. A new milestone was passed in the history of insurance in Alabama in that, for the first time, there is now an Alabama life insurance company with more than $100 million of resources—the total resources of the Company at the end of 1951 being just over $109 million. This pooling of capital available for investment in Alabama by an Alabama insurance company is of interest to every citizen of this state and adds a measure of stability to the entire economy of the state.

"While the Company has approximately three million individual policies outstanding on the lives of citizens of every state of the Union and while the major portion of its business is conducted in the Southeastern section of the United States, the Company is extremely proud of the confidence in which it is held by the people of its Home state of Alabama. This business in Alabama has increased to the point where twenty-nine District Offices are now maintained throughout the State and there is no community in Alabama which is not served by some field representative of the Company. There are now more than 900 Liberty National field and district office representatives serving the State of Alabama in addition to the [illegible] employees in the Home Office in Birmingham. Through this outstanding organization, the Company offers to the citizens of Alabama the ever-popular Brown Service burial insurance policy and all forms of life insurance other than group with premiums payable either weekly, monthly, quarterly, semiquarterly or annually.

"A substantial portion of the resources of the Company are invested in Alabama in the form of loans to buy or build homes, apartments, and commercial buildings, loans to construct water systems and electric, gas and telephone lines, loans to cities for all purposes and loans to many types of Alabama businesses. Liberty National Life Insurance Company is not only providing sound and safe burial and life insurance to the people of Alabama at a reasonable cost but is also playing its part in building Alabama into one of the great states of the nation by providing capital for worth-while enterprises. This capital is in turn obtained from the citizens of Alabama and other states who have selected Liberty National as "their life insurance company."

"I call your attention to the detailed financial statement of the Company which you will find in this paper."

Headline says: "Solons Demand Closing Glaring Tax Loopholes." Funny we never find any "glaring loopholes," in our tax blanks.

FOREST FIRES AND CHILTON

Chilton County was one of eight counties in the state that burned more than ten thousand acres in forest fires last year. Chilton County burned 10,392.3 acres. Only Jefferson, Shelby, Baldwin, Mobile, St. Clair, Escambia, and Talladega exceeded acreage burned in this county.

Carelessness is the answer to most of our fires and not until we learn that negligence means fires, and fires mean loss of timber and future timber, and timber means prosperity and wealth, will we wake up to the fact that we must protect our forests.

Thirty nine of Alabama's counties had less blazes during last year. Even though in the first eight counties in the number of acres burned, Chilton County had a decrease in acreage from the previous year. In 1950 more than a thousand acres of forests were burned than were burned the past year. In that year the number of acres burned were 11,397.

Charles Gay and our local Forestry group are doing a fine job but they still need the help and cooperation of each and every one of us to further control our forest fires.

Last year our county was one of the leaders in the state. It is a dubious honor—let's be at the bottom this year.

CHILTON COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

In less than a year the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce has grown to more than one hundred members and has accomplished much for the county.

The Chamber has accomplished or aided in these projects:

(1) Southern Bell Telephone has spent several thousands enlarging and improving their facilities here in Clanton.

(2) The Alabama Power Co. has installed new lines, additional feeder stations, and built new warehouses in South Clanton.

(3) Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Co. has completed their line, established a pumping station in Billingsley; and the City of Clanton has completed installations for distributing gas in the city.

(4) A new water system has been developed in Maplesville. Clanton has plans for additional water plant and improvements that will cost about $160,000.00 and double the present capacity.

(5) Central Alabama Stockyards, Inc. has been opened and is now operating with a gross weekly sale averaging nearly $8,000.00. And by the way, did you know that in 1944 livestock brought only $5,000.00 into our county? The 1951 figure reached $205,000.00.

(6) The C of C established a revolving fund for purchasing and financing milk cows, and provided advertising for the program in local papers. The county voted itself a new $450,000.00 hospital.

(7) We have one new restaurant in operation in South Clanton, and another under construction.

(8) Our Drive In Theatre has been termed the most beautiful in the South, and is now planning new additions and improvements.

(9) The Thorsby Fruit Shed is doing an annual business measured in millions of pounds and hundreds of thousands of dollars.

(10) Two new Motels have been added to our accomodations and a third has been completely remodeled.

(11) The Chilton County News has added thousands of dollars worth of new equipment and has just begun printing a new seven column paper.

(12) Our stock show and industry days program was proclaimed the best in the State and received national publicity.

(13) Central Alabama Gas Co. already has one of the largest installations of its kind in the State and is now planning still greater expansion.

(14) Signs have been erected at the County lines on all major highways to advertise Chilton County.

(15) We have met various officials and interested parties to discuss building and improvent to the business life of the County.

(16) Trips have been made to surrounding towns and cities to contact reputable concerns and individuals to either help develop, retain, plants and offices.

(17) Efforts have been exerted to prove our cooperative feeling toward the development of any and all improvements. And our weight has been thrown in to help stop other destructive actions and proposals.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

We have a Big Boy around our house now; the two-year-old has turned three. He's quite impressed with his new age and made a tour of the neighborhood to spread the news, returning home with a fistful of cookies and two melting Hershey bars.

The five-year-old, who gives promise of growing up to be the joy of all sellers of cosmetics, decided to give him a bottle of perfume for his birthday present, but she was tactfully persuaded that a dump truck or an airplane would be more appreciated.

Oh, it's easy to see that the three-year-old is growing up: His overalls are too short, his shirts will hardly button across his fat stomach and he no longer objects to getting his hair cut. And then there's the matter of his reading tastes. He used to revel in stories of the adventures of talking animals, but the other night he interrupted the story of two cute talking squirrels to comment disgustedly:

"Humph! Squirrels can't talk. They just say, 'Chee! Chee!' "

Yes, our three-year-old is a Big Boy now.

The warm weather prompted hundreds of little star-shaped wild onion flowers to pop up out in the yard, and several times a day the children bring in tight wads of blossoms to "decorate" the house. The trouble is the flowers look so much prettier than they smell.

The mother around the corner solved the problem of what to do with the short-stemmed floral offering her children bring her.

Having learned from experience that the setms are too short to stay in any vase, she keeps a bowl of damp sand on the kitchen table and sticks the flowers in it. They stay fresh a remarkably long time, she says, and this arrangement pleases her children, too.

After trying desperately, and without success, to find a way to teach youngsters to blow their noses, we now learn on good authority that small children should never, never blow their noses. Seems nose-blowing by little children often leads to all kinds of complications like sinus trouble and ear disorders.

Excessive curiosity can cause trouble even in the kitchen. The next door neighbor was distressed because all her cakes sagged in the middle instead of standing up nice and light the way the recipes promised. Then she learned that the droopy centers were caused because she peeked into the oven too often and too earily. Now she holds her curiosity in check until the minimum baking time given in the recipe is up before she looks in the oven, and her cakes are beautiful to behold.

Since she has become an expert cake maker, the next door neighbor passes along this recipe for Heavenly Hash Cake:

You'll need ¼ pound butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup flour, ½ cup cocoa, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 cup broken pecan meats and 12 marshmallows cut into pieces.

Cream butter and sugar well. Add 1 egg and half the flour, mixing thoroughly. Add other egg and remaining flour. Dissolve cocoa in small amount of water (just enough to moisten it well) and add to batter with vanilla. Blend in nuts and bake at 350 degrees for an hour. When cake is taken from oven, dot with pieces of marshmallows and cover with your favorite chocolate icing.

Now stepping out with a military cadence are two Clanton, Ala., area seamen recruits, WAVES, USN, Mabel N. Manning of Mountain Creek, and Barbara J. Thornton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie E. Thornton of Box 35, Cooper.

They are now undergoing recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. For them the next few weeks will be filled with drill, learning to identify aircraft and ships; how, when, why, and whom to salute; the background of Naval courtesy, history, organization, and how to live harmoniously and efficiently as a member f a large and complex organization.

The Waves will be transferred to duty within the shore establishment of the Navy, to one of certain foreign stations, or to a service school for specialized training, following graduation from recruit training.

Master Sergeant James J. Aussant, a member of Detachment 4, 3420 ASU, Fort Bragg, N. C., retired from the service after serving for more than 34 years, January 31.

He was in the Navy for 4 years, and during the first World War visited 36 different countries aboard a naval destroyer.

In September of 1924, Sergeant Aussant enlisted in the Army. His entire career in the Army was spent in the United States since he had contracted yellow fever in the Navy. Five years of his Army service were spent doing recruiting duty in Clanton, Ala.

He is an inactive member of the Lion's Club in Clanton, Ala. His hobbies are collecting antiques and baseball.

Sergeant and Mrs. Aussana will reside in their new home at San Marcos, Texas.

Things We See And Hear

By TUCK

Seems like a person will get into trouble any year except the seventh grade and his senior year. The only difference is that the undergrad is afraid to do anything wrong, and the senior has just been in so much trouble in the last six years that he doesn't want to get into any more.

Well the senior play is finally getting underway after a grueling 4-hour try-out last Thursday afternoon. Seems as if most everyone is satisfied with the results and they are going to strive to beat the junior play. I might add, they're going to have to do some tall acting to beat that play because it was ding nigh perfect. BOTH NIGHTS!

You know, I can't understand why Grace Lawrence doesn't join the Glee Club. I have positive proof of the fact that she has excellent vocal chrods and will vouch for it myself. Of course I can't say whether she can sing or not but brothcer, can she yell? Everyone in town looked to see who had gotten run over by the Mach truck.

I said the senior play was about to get under way, but it seems they have had some conflicts and haven't started off in such grand fashion. Here's hoping they pick up pretty soon and get everything under way.

A few weeks ago I stated the fact that the basketball team was going to make a stab at the tournament his year. Well they not only made a stab at it, they hit it. And from all reports and the opinions of many they seem to stand a good chance of winning the trophy.

If you want to hear some real good singing, folks, just go over to the revival at the Methodist Church and listen to Bill Mann. You don't have but a coupla' more days for a chance at this fellow's singing, so if you don't want to miss a treat come over to the church.

COMPARED WITH WAGES, FOODS ARE A BARGAIN

Using the period 1910-14 as a base of 100, wholesale food prices are now 293, retail food prices 299, and average weekly factory earnings are 569.

"The 1910-14 period was a time when most economists agree that a desirable balance existed between farm income, industrial income, and prices paid," explains Austin Ezzell, A.P.I. Extension Service distributor marketing specialist.

NOTICE

The Verbena P.-T.A. will meet Monday night, March 3rd, at 7:00. The program is a panel discussion on building helpful personalities.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

INVESTIGATE SLEEPLESSNESS

The use of drugs to induce sleep may make you a slave to a bad habit. Many persons have difficulty in sleeping and, after wrestling with their problems for several days and nights, may feel obliged to take a sleeping pill or powder. Their sedative effect puts the body at rest and sleep results.

Commonly used as sleep-inducing agents are the barbiturates, a family of drugs called depressants. These compounds have real value if used with discretion under the supervision of a physician. Before the barbiturates appeared, physicians depended on such habit-forming opiates as morphine and codeine both to relieve insomnia and to ease severe pain. These drugs are strongly habit-forming and thus recognizably dangerous unless used only under medical supervision. They may not be legally sold except on prescription.

A victim of insomnia should consult a physician. The condition is not a disease but a symptom and therefore a signal that something is awry in the emotional or physical structure of the body. It has many causes, many of which require no drugs for relief. If the physician prescribes a drug, it should be taken only so long as he directs. No attempt should be made to refill a prescription for continued use without the physician's order. After repeated use, a drug's effect on the body becomes less so that more is required to produce a given result. The patient thus needs more and more to put him to sleep, developing finally either acute or chronic poisoning or addiction.

See your physician if you can't sleep. Let him discover the cause of your wakefulness. Don't take any kind of drugs unless prescribed, no matter how harmless they seem in the advervtisements. Don't take a drug handed out by a sympathetic friend. That friendly gesture may be harmful.

FOOD SUPPLY AND DEMAND SITUATION

Auburn, Ala. — Economists in government and industry foresee a food supply as good as or perhaps better than last year's.

Austin Ezzell, A.P.I. Extension Service distributor marketing specialist, says there will be considerable increases in some food groups this year. In others, the year's production cannot be predicted accurately as yet. But the overall supply will be large.

The specialist adds that the demand may be greater than in 1951. Of course many other things can affect food prices in addition to supply and demand. Weather conditions can cause much more or much less of certain foods. This fact may result in price fluctuations, despite good general supplies.

"Legal price controls also can affect prices—and even the supply situation," says Ezzell. "Price ceilings can prevent price rises on the open market. Sometimes they cause more of certain foods to seek outlets through black markets. Or they may discourage production of certain foods. Both these alternatives eventually mean higher rather than lower prices."

With our present s it should not be too many s before all of the most traveled roads in the county are paved. s I was born and raised in Chil- County, I am deeply interested in the welfare of our county. I would like very much to serve the citizens of this county in this office another term. If you, the voters, see fit to elect me to this office for another term, I will serve Chilton County to the best of my ability and to the best interest of each individual and economically to get a dollar value for every dollar spent. I stand for honest and efficient government.

I will not make any promises to any individuals or groups for personal interests.

I will personally contact as many of you as I can in the weeks to come. Thanking you in advance for your support, I am,

Sincerely,

HILYER - PATTERSON

The wedding ceremony for Miss Imogene Hilyer and Mr. Thur Patterson was performed Friday morning, February 15th, at the home of Rev. N. E. Cook with a double ring ceremony, attended by a group of relatives and friends.

The bride wore a navy suit with navy and pink accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Imogene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hilyer of Clanton. Thrul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson also of Clanton.

The couple are making their home in Clanton after a short wedding trip.

Poplar Springs

(Too Late For Last Week)

Sunday School and Training Union attended very well yesterday, and each class enjoyed a good discussion of the lessons.

Several of our regular attendants were absent on account of flu and other sickness.

Our hearts were made sad to learn of the death of Mr. J. P. Traywick, father of Mr. J. W. Traywick, of Vida, Ala. Mr. Traywick has been ill for several weeks. He died early Monday morning.

Miss Imogene Hilyer and Mr. Thurl Patterson were united in marriage Friday morning, February 15th, by Rev. N. E. Cook, in the home of Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Cook. Others present for the wedding were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hilyer, Misses Alma and Gena Hilyer, Mr. and Mrs. Jerrell Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Smith and Mrs. J. B. Ray. The couple will make their home in Clanton. I'm sure our church joins in wishing the best of everything all through a long and happy married life for them.

Another great event for the bride was a shower, given her by Miss Louise Ray and her mother, Mrs. H. A. Ray. Games were played and refreshments were served. Thirty-two ladies looked on while the bride opened the many lovely gifts she received. She really received many lovely and useful gifts and good wishes of which she expressed her appreciation in a sweet manner.

Those present for the occasion were: Mrs. Dock Hilyer, Mrs. Henry Patterson, Mrs. Obie Patterson, Mrs. Aaron Ellison, Misses Alma and Gena Hilyer, Mrs. Jerrell Miller, Mrs. Aaron Hilyer, Mrs. Reedie Hilyer, Mrs. Willis Hliyer, Mrs. Dee Patterson, Mrs. Ernest Grant, Mrs. E. W. Hill, Mrs. Jesse Thornton, Mrs. Linzie Mickleson, Mrs. Smolon Thornton, Mrs. Macie Armstrong, Mrs. C. C. Smokes, Mrs. Gaines Glenn, Mrs. Obie Smith, Mrs. W. C. Moore, Mrs. Buck Griffin, Mrs. Ben Wells, Miss Mary Wells, Mrs. Alpha Dobbs, Mrs. P. G. Eiland, Mrs. Grover White, Mrs. N. E. Cook, Mrs. Jim Miller and Mrs. T. V. Miller.

We cordially invite everyone in reach of our church and not going to some other church, to be sure to come to our Sunday School and worship service next Sunday and Sunday night. Also do come to prayer service each Wednesday

GROWING PULLETS

A good poultry range with a good leguminous crop will raise top quality pullets at lower cost.

When MRS. L. L. TRAYWICK of Route 2, Clanton, Alabama, was asked why she milked cows, the reply was, "I milk cows so that I can buy the things I want." Mrs. Traywick is milking two good cows, and the average monthly check amounts to approximately $50.00. Mrs. Traywick does not plan to milk more than two cows, but she does plan to keep purebred cows so that extra heifers can be sold at a profit. At the present, Mrs. Traywick has two producing purebred cows and two registered heifers. During the past year Mrs. Traywick sold a purebred cow and heifer for $445.00. This, added to the milk sales, amouns to a very nice income from dairy cows.

Mrs. Traywick is carrying out a small scale dairy project that a great many farm families could follow. It would be very interesing to see the number of home improvements that could be made if every farm housewife along the milk route had $500.00-$600.00 per year to spend as she wants to.

CLANTON COLORED CHURCH AND SOCIAL NEWS

(Too Late For Last Week)
Martha Moore, Reporter

The installation service of Rev. N. H. Smith, Jr., at Montevallo, Ala., last week was very successful. Monday night the Hopewell Baptist Church of Clanton was on program, sermon by the Hopewell pastor, Rev. G. E. Smitherman, and was enjoyed by all. Wednesday night the Union Baptist Church was on program, and we listened to a great sermon by the Rev. E. W. Burt. Music by the choir No. 1 of the Union Baptist Church, and the choir from the Macedonia Baptist Church of Columbiana, Ala., it was enjoyed very much.

Circle Ada (the Young Matrons) of the Union Baptist Church met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Daisy Dickerson. A fine meeting was reported. The lesson was taught by Mrs. Estella Edwards, remarks by Mrs. Lula Judkins and others who were visiting the meeting. Mrs. Essie Quin, president, Mrs. M. B. Coker, supervisor.

The Hopewell Baptist Church is now in the lime light. Electric lights were installed in the church last week. We are very happy for them.

The pastor, Rev. G. E. Smitherman, brought a soul-stirring message for Sunday at 11:00 a.m., the message was, "The Ability of our Heavenly Father," scripture, Matt. 6:9-10.

The church has made progress under the present pastor, Rev. G. E. Smitherman.

Community Concerters Present, Gary Graffman At The Piano

The Chilton County Community Concert Association will present the third and last series of concerts on Tuesday, March 4, at the auditorium of the First Baptist Church, at 8 o'clock, in Clanton. The seniors of the Thorsby Institute will again distribute the programmes and serve as ushers. The Artist to be presented is Gary Graffman, a young pianist in the great tradition. Bearer of many significant honors — the only winner of the Rachmaninoff Fund contest in 1947, the recipient of its Special Award in 1948, and the winner of the 1949 Leventritt Contest—Gary Graffman is well launched on a career which began with his first public appearance at the age of eight.

Born in New York City October 14, 1928, Graffman started his piano studies when he was four. When he was eight his parents took him to Philadelphia for the annual auditions at the Curtis Institute of Music. The judges smiled when the boy entered the room carrying his own pedal extension. But they gave serious approval when he played Mozart's Concerto in A major and Bach's Two-Part Inventions. He won a ten-year scholarship and studied under Mme. Isabelle Vengerova. He was graduated from the Institute in 1946. During this period he made a number of appearances.

At ten he appeared with the Indianapolis Symphony under Fabien Sevitzky; when he was twelve he gave a Town Hall recital in New York. But his father, Vladimir Graffman, a well-kńwon violinist and pedagogue, wisely did not push his career and insisted that he complete his High School studies at the same as he was attending Curtis.

In November 1946, the eighteen-year-old pianist won prominence as the only winner of the first Rachmaninoff Fund Piano Contest. A short time later Graffman auditioned for Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra who, impressed with his "exceptional gifts," engaged him for three appearances. After playing the Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 2 with the orchestra in the spring of 1947, the young man gave recitals in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. In December 1948 the Rachmaninoff Fund presented him in recital at Carnegie Hall. Olin Downes wrote in the New York Times: "This is a young pianist with a true and communicative temperament, an admirably schooled musician, and a virtuoso who can give a representative performance before any audience in the world."

In September 1949 he won the Leventritt Contest. His award was three appearances with major orchestras in early 1950: with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony under Leonard Bernstein; with the Buffalo Philharmonic under William Steinberg; and with the Cleveland Orchestra under George Szell. With each of the orchestras the versatile young pianist played a different work — the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 1 in D minor in New York, the Chopin Concerto No. 1 in E minor in Buffalo, and the Beethoven Concerto No. 3 in C minor in Cleveland.

During the summer of 1950 Gary Graffman went abroad for the first time to travel, to study and to visit various music festivals. From his headquarters in picturesque Siena, he made motorcycle trips to Rome, Venice, the Florence May Festival and Amalfi. He also visited the Salzburg Festival, heard music in Vienna and attended the new historic Bach Commemorative Festival at Prades, given under the direction of Pablo Casals. Before coming home at the end of September, a young fellow-pianist, Leon Fleischer, gave a party in his honor in Paris. Among the guests who attended were the composer-conductor-pianist Leonard Bernstein, another fellow-pianist Eugene Istomin, and the American composers Lukas Foss and Ned Rorem.

During the season 1950-51, young Graffman will appear with the Chicago, Tulsa and Birmingham Orchestras.

Congratulations to Mrs. R. W. Stuckey, formerly of this community, on the arrival of her first grandchild. Mr. and Mrs. Mack Harper of Decatur are the proud parents of a baby girl born February 13th. Mack is the son of Mrs. Stuckey.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Calfee and sons of Bessemer have moved into our community. We welcome them. They have bought and are living in the house formerly owned by Jack Mizzell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. White and family had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Vester Oaks, of Lomax.

We were proud that Mr. Wiley Tucker was able to be home for the week end from the Veterans Hospital in Montgomery. He attended services at Mulberry Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Wilson announce the arrival of a baby girl born February 17th. Both mother and baby are doing nicely at home.

This community extends sympathy to Mrs. A. M. Middlebrooks on the loss of her father, Mr. Manley Smith. He passed waay at her home February 13.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Tucker of Birmingham were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Tucker.

Last reports from Mrs. Maude DeShazo, who is in the South Highlands Infirmary in Birmingham, were that she is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wells spent the week end in Montgomery with their son, Joe James Wells. They attended services at Emmanuel Church Sunday.

Our sympathy goes to Mr. Suiley Calfee and Mr. Cecil Calfee in the loss of their mother who passed away Monday, February 18th. She was laid to rest at Mulberry on Tuesday.

Mrs. Emma Manning returned home from Birmingham Sunday. She had been visiting her children.

Mrs. Charlie Cooper spent several days recently in Columbus, Ga., with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bryant of Birmingham were the week end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bryant.

Mrs. O. F. Davenport, Sr., is on our sick list this week.

A Shower—

Mrs. Mack LeCroy was honored last Friday evening with a Stork Shower at the home of Mrs. Harold Smith.

In the dining room, an arrangement of spring flowers and fern centered the lace covered table. Candles burned at each end of the table.

Pear blossoms and other flowers were used to adorn the receiving rooms.

Guests were greeted by the hostess, Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Eloise Wilkins, sister of the honoree, poured coffee from the silver coffee urn.

Mrs. L. S. Calfee, who was also a hostess, served refreshments. Mrs. Grace Smith presided in the gift room, where they were displayed.

The honoree received many nice and useful gifts.

Thorsby Institute News—

The annual Declamatory Contest was held in Helen Jenkins Hall on February 22 at 7:30 P. M. The girls who took part in the contest were: Sara Manning of Thorsby, who gave a piece from "Miss Minerava and William Green Hill" by Frances Boyd Calhoun; Nancy North of Billerica, Mass. gave a speech, "The Fundamental Conflict" by Rep. Walter H. Judd; and Heidi Dismuke from Dallas, Texas, gave Joyce Kilmer's poem, "The House with Nobody in It." Mary Jackson, Detroit, Mich., was also supposed to compete in the contest, but was unable to attend. The boys in the contest were: Richard Davis of Thorsby, who quoted Edgar Allen Poe's famous poem, "The Raven;" and W. A. Petry who gave a piece, "The Circus Doctor" by J. Y. Henderson.

The prize of $5 for the girls went to Sara Manning, and the boys' prize was won by Walter Perry.

Last Wednesday a group of students from Miss MacBrayne's speech class gave an assembly program which was enjoyed by all. Two girls also sang a song, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes."

The annual competitive plays between the Pushies and the Phillies will be held on March 22. We are looking forward to the event.

Interesting plans are being made for the Christian Life Conference which is to be held April 4, 5 and 6. If you wish to attend the conference, either notify the secretary Carol Howard, Thorsby, Alabama, or Thorsby Institute.

CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

The Chilton County Training School observed the previous week as the National Negro History week. The theme for the week was, "The Great Teachers." The following topics were discussed:

"Negro in Religion," Rev. E. W. Burt and Principal E. D. Sledge.

"Negro in Business," Mrs. U. Williams and Mr. N. K. Calloway.

"Negro in Science and Sport," Miss Mary E. Lawrence and Mr. William H. Bell.

"Negro in Vocation," Miss Rose V. Lee and Mr. John Sims.

"Negro in Music and Literature," Miss M. Herring, Mrs. R. C. Sledge and Mrs. S. Person.

The following students participated in above programs: Annie B. Bethel, Elzenia Bethel, Marie Williams, Mary A. Greene, Mary Louise Gunn, Rosie Frazier, Rebecca Smitherman, Ruther Barbour, Lucy Brown, Edward Brown, Grady Barbour, Odell McDaniel, Eugene Singleterry, Hugo Sailes, and Robert Graves.

The sponsors of Friday's program presented a play entitled, "Judgment Day." Outstanding characters were: Minerva, by Mary L. Gunn; Zeke, by Robert Graves; Rev. Brown, by Payton Sanders; Gabriel, by Odell McDaniel; Angels, by Mary E. Arrington and Annie Marie Barbour.

The faculty and student body of the Chilton County Training School were entertained by Mrs. Williams, Home Economics Teacher, of the Clanton High School, and some of the Home Economics girls. They presented a fashion parade and afterward their "quintett," rendered two selections which was enjoyed by all. The County Training School "N.F.A. Quintett" and the "N.H.A. Quartet," rendered two selections each.

The program was very inspiring and was carried out in a very gracious manner.

We are extending an invitation to them to come back at any time to present to us another program. Ronnie McDaniel, Reporter; E. D. Eledge, Principal.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY

BUCK ROBERTS

Several weeks ago I made a statement through this newspaper that it was my intention to ask you to promote me to the office of Probate Judge. I have now qualified to run for the office of Probate Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

My views regarding our county affairs will be presented to you during the course of this campaign.

Your vote and influence in my behalf will be greatly appreciated.

N. L. (Buck) ROBERTS,

To the Voters of Chilton County

I am again asking you for the office of Clerk of Circuit Court. As you know, I ran before and got a mighty good vote, for which I thank you very much. I was born and reared in Chilton County.

I am a Veteran of War World I. I will be very grateful to you for your vote and influence. I will be around to see you.

Thanking you in advance for your support.

Yours truly,
I. A. DENNIS.

BILLINGSLEY FHA HOLDS MEETING

Wednesday, February 20th, 1952, the Billingsley F.H.A. held its regular monthly meeting in the Home Economics Department at 1:35 o'clock.

The president, Eloise Hilyer, presided over the meeting. After roll call by Sue Ware, the secretary, the club repeated the Natinoal FHA creed. Lamerle Green was asked to give the treasurer's report. After the business of the club was transacted the meeting was adjourned.

After the meeting girls from the 8th grade class were entertained in the dining area of the Home Economics Department with a tea by the club members.

The color scheme was red and white, the FHA colors. The table was attractive with a white damask table cloth. The center piece was of Bridle Wreath and flowering Quince. On each side were two white candles.

The individual cakes served were appetizing with embossed red rose buds against the white icing.

Johnnie Sue Williams served the punch.—Reporter, Netfie Jo Williams.

FRIENDSHIP HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

On February 22 the Friendship Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Harry Sims with seven members and one visitor present. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. R. R. Sutley. Mrs. James Gillespie gave the story of the hymn of the month, "Tell Me The Old, Old Story." The group joined in and sang the song. Mrs. J. D. Collins gave the devotional. The minutes were read. The roll call was answered with, "How I Plan To Help A Young Person In My Community."

Mrs. R. R. Sutley, the Child Care and Family Life Leader, gave the demonstration, "The Small Child and His Parents," which was very interesting.

The group played a game and had prayer. Refreshments were served.

The Club meets with Mrs. James Gillespie in March.

Poplar Springs

We had 68 present for Sunday School and worship service Sunday, even though the weather was bad. There are still several sick in our community.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Thornton and children visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thornton over the week end. Glad to have them at church too. We are always glad to have visitors to worship with us.

On Monday afternoon our WMU met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Devaughn and Ora, who are shut-ins. Several ladies and our pastor was present, and a very interesting program was given.

Let's remember Mr. and Mrs. John Bradberry who are real sick in our prayers. Bro. Cooks' mother is not doing well and many others are sick.

Dr. Grover Carl Parker is stationed in Selma visited Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Cook Monday.

We plan to start our revival the second Sunday night in April, we hope to have much prayer, and are preparing to win many who are lost to Christ during this revival. Bro. Fred L. Lowery will do the preaching.

Mrs. Esther Childers and children, Mrs. Anna Wells and Mrs. Orval Popwell visited Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Carroll in Aliceville over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thornton had word from their daughter, Mrs. Charlie Mae Smith that she was in a car wreck. She was in the hospital in Okinawa for a few days, but is home and doing fine now.

Mrs. W. M. Nobels spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jones in Selma. Making several trips to the Baptist Hospital for treatments.

Remember Prayer Services each Wednesday night.

PLEASANT GROVE METHODIST

(Too Late For Last Week)

The weather was cold and bad Sunday, but we had a good crowd out for Sunday School and for MYF.

Tiny Scott spent the week end with Pete McKee. Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Clack spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Randel Ledbetter of Selma, Ala., spent the week end with the latter's paernts, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosey.

Mr. and Mrs. John Earl Hosey took Saturday night supper with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Gains Gleen and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and family Sunday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Ocie Payton took Sunday dinner with Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Gibson. They visited Mrs. Walter Henley, who is confined to her bed at the home of Rev. Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clup and Mr and Mrs. Vennie Culp of Clanton, Ala., visited Mrs. Walter Henley at the home of Rev. J. W. Gibson Sunday afternoon.

Fred Hosey visited Mrs. Walter Henley at the home of Rev. J. W. Gibson Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Mark Hosey visited Mrs. Walter Henley at the home of Rev. J. W. Gibson Monday afternoon.

Everybody enjoyed the monthly fellowship meeting at the home of Wilson Atkinson last Wednesday night. We would like for more of our members to come out and be with us each Wednesday night before the third Sunday in each month. Our nex tmeeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott.

Remember to come to church and Sunday School.—Reporter.

DAVE TINGLE TO MAKE PROBATE RACE

DAVE TINGLE

Dave Tingle qualified with the County Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee today to make the race for the office of Probate Judge.

He has taken a two-months leave of absence to make the race and stated he was making the race because of no outside influence, but because he wanted the office and thought he could be of service to the county. He stated he is tied to no group and will see as many of the voters of the county within the next two months as possible. He stated his ticket will be a ticket for honest government.

EARLY PREPARATION OF COTTON LAND ADVISED

Auburn, Ala. — Many farmers over the state are busy cutting stalks and breaking land to get ready for this year's cotton crop.

"There's no doubt," says O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist, "that these farmers have learned it pays to get cotton land ready early so the soil will settle before planting time. It is much easier to get a stand on land prepared in this way."

A firm seedbed also allows farmers o plant on time. This results in higher yields at no extra cost.

Andrews says one good way to prepare land is to break and disk it. Then law off rows. Apply fertilizer and bed on it at least seven to 10 days before time to plant. Drag down beds with harrow or drag just ahead of planting, adds the cotton expert.

CONTROL CHICKEN LICE

Chicken lice can be controlled by broadcasting two pounds of sulphur in the litter for each 100 square feet of floor space.

To The People of The Sixth Congressional District of Alabama

I hereby announce my candidacy for re-election to Congress from the 6th Congressional District of Alabama.

As your Congressman, I shall continue my earnest endeavor to serve all of the people of our District effectively and to the best of my ability, and to further in every way the program and stability of our District, our State, and our Nation. I recognize fully the responsibility of representing you in the Congress at this time of continued crisis in the history of our nation. I shall appreciate sincerely your support and cooperation, which I have had in full measure since I have been your Congressman. I shall continue to represent you in Committee and on the floor of the House to the best of my ability and to give full and personal attention to every problem which you may see fit to bring to my attention as your Congressman.

I will appreciate your suggestions with reference to any matters or legislation in which you are interested. I am deeply and sincerely grateful for all of your past help and support.

Faye Williams Is 5—

Little Faye Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams, celebrated her fifth birthday last Friday, February 22, with a party at the home of her parents on Selma Road.

The honoree greeted her guests, wearing a light blue taffeta evening dress, with rosebud ribbon corsage and ribbon streamers at the waist, and a wide ruffle at the hem, caught at the side with rosebuds and lace.

A circus motif was carried out in decorations and refreshments. Large inflated balloons, decorated the living and dining rooms. The table, covered in a linen cloth, was centered with a large cake, embossed in yellow and holding five burning candles, and decorated with miniature circus animals, in yellow, marching around the cake. The cake was placed on a musical cake platter, which played, "Happy Birthday" as the little guests marched in and took their places at the table. The platter was placed on a mirror plaque which had ribbon streamers, in circus colors, running down the table and then each was tied in a bow hloding a yellow jonquil. The plates, in gay circus colors, held ice cream, an individual cake, with a little circus animal in yellow, on each, and a stand-up circus cutout in a gum drop. Each one also received candy and a big balloon.

Games and contests were enjoyed and Freddie Headley and Sherry Cox won prizes for pinning the tail on the big elephant.

Those enjoying this delightful courtesy were: Glenda Daniel, Cecil Wade, George Tucker, Jan Sexton, Butch Carter, Beverly Hicks, Patsy Minor, Janice Traywick, Freddie Headley, Harold Lawrence, Sherry Cox, Christy Cox, Betty Jan Kyser, Josephine Moore, Jack Moore, Beth Maddox, Jim Wade, Gail Kirkpatrick, and the honoree's sister, Lynn Williams.

AIDS TO BETTER DIGESTION

Let us briefly consider what digestion is and what part it plays in the ability of the body to make full use of the food we eat. We shall then better understand the importance of good digestion and the importance of doing our best to promote it by eating in a wise manner.

After food is taken into the body it undergoes several changes before it is completely used up. First, it is mixed with secretions of the mouth, stomach, and small intestine and is reduced to a semi-liquid state. This is merely a preparation of the food for use by the body. And this preparatory step is called DIGESTION.

Then comes a second step in which the liquid food filters through the lining of the stomach and intestine into the blood stream to be distributed to he millions of cells in all parts of the body. This second step is called ABSORPTION.

Now the body cells picks up and makes use of the food material which has been brought to them by the blood stream. The third step is called ASSIMILATION. Thus the body derives no nutrition from the food we eat until this third stage is reached.

Perfect digestion means perfect preparation of the food inside the body for use by the body. If anything interferes with digestive activity, we have a condition known as INDIGESTION.

We can help ourselves to improved digestion by following these suggestions:

1. Food should be chewed thoroughly, gulping half chewed food does not promote good digestion.
2. Tasty foods have been proved scientifically conducine to good digestion.
3. Moderation — a person should never feel stuffed at the end of a meal.
4. It is an aid to digestion, not to do heavy physical work immediately after a meal.
5. The mind should be free of unpleasant thought during a meal. Heated arguments and emotional upsets have caused many a case of INDIGESTION.
6. A normal nerve function to all digestive parts is a MUST—If the spine is crooked the nerve supply is not normal and instead of DIGESTION—we end up with INDIGESTION and our food is wasted.

Follow the above suggestions and note a gradual improvement in your own health picture.

Investment Day Program Held

The Investment Day Program was carried out in Clanton on Monday by the Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society in cooperation with the citizens of Chilton County which was represented by organizations throughout the entire County at a candle light dinner at the Dixie Cafe. Mrs. Hugh Jones, Chilton County Commander of American Cancer Society, sponsored an educational meeting to arouse the interest of every citizen in the "Fight Cancer" crusade that is being put on in every County in the State, to create an awareness that only through early diagnosis and prompt effective treatment can we combat this second greatest killer in the nation.

Mrs. Sophia L. Jones was paid tribute during the evening as the first Chilton County Commander of Cancer control work.

Mrs. Dyer Shackelford, dinner chairman, called the roll and pinned each guest with a miniature American Cancer Society symbol, the two-edged caduseus bearing sword. This crusading fight cancer emblem was used as the entire dinner theme. Among local speakers was Dr. J. H. Johnson, president of Chilton County Medical Society, who made interesting points on cancer control.

Dr. Charles Hathaway, a noted Cytologist, and his wife, Dr. Hathaway, a Pathologist, were out of town guest for the evening from Birmingham. Dr. Charles Hathaway, in the Cytological aspect treating of the study of cell structure, gave illustrations of cells impaired by cancer, and explained some of the theories that now prevail concerning the cause of cancer which is as yet undetermined, and other research possibilities. Dr. Hathaway, in listing the five large research projects in the state, included the $88,900.00 appropriation to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and the $290,000.00 appropriation to the other four, all in Birmingham.

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

G. MARCUS JONES

In offering myself for membership on the Chilton County Board of Revenue, I do so with the full realization of what I wish to accomplish for the people of this county.

I stand for better roads and will work for better roads during every day I serve our county.

I am old fashioned enough to believe in honest government and want the people to have honest government. This they will get if I am elected to help govern this county.

I believe that if we put the money we now have where it belongs we can do the things we need to do without increasing taxes. This statement goes from the County level to the government of the United States.

I believe in putting the money where it will be of benefit to the most people.

If elected I will do my very best to make you the best public servant you have ever had.

Sincerely, G. Marcus Jones,

(Pd. pol. adv. by G. Marcus Jones, Clanton, Ala.)

To the Citizens of Chilton County And the State of Alabama

I am publishing another affidavit, as the people of Chilton County and the State of Alabama should know the general condition of Roland L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman, while auditing the records of Chilton County.

Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama was well informed as to Roland L. Sparkman's condition while auditing the records of Chilton County, and Mr. Eagerton knew that at times Mr. Sparkman was not in condition to be in possession of public records. Mr. Roland L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman, was employed by Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama, and Mr. Eagerton had authority to dismiss Roland L. Sparkman at any time that it was to the best interest of the State of Alabama.

Mr. Eagerton, I will ask you if you had Mr. M. F. Watson and Mr. F. W. Reid, who were working under your supervision to audit the records of Chilton County for the period from October 1, 1946, to January 20, 1947, and said audit was approved by you and filed September 12, 1947, and the said audit covering this period made by Watson and Reid, they did not charge the Commissioners or me with anything, and they stated in their auditor's report "CLAIMS AGAINST THE OFFICIALS, NONE."

Yes, they checked all the Commissioner's Court records and according to the statement they made in their report and approved by you, there was nothing wrong. Everything was in perfect order, and they made an affidavit as to the records of Chilton County. Do you believe that Mr. M. F. Watson's and Mr. F. W. Reid's affidavit spoke the truth as to the records of the Commissioner's Court of Chilton County? If you did believe the affidavit made by them spoke the truth, why did you have Roland L. Sparkman and C. R. Keener to re-audit the records for the same period audited by Watson and Reid at the expense of the taxpayers? Was it in order to satisfy a few of my political enemies with whom you and Roland L. Sparkman associated while in Clanton, Alabama? Was the second audit made to assassinate the character of Chilton County officials?

Mr. Eagerton, if you had done your duty as an official, you would not have permitted Roland L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman, to have made this second audit.

I was elected to the office of Mayor of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, for two terms which I served, and I was elected to the office of Probate Judge of Chilton County for two six-year terms. I have a good record and I am proud of it. Mr. Eagerton, can you say that you are proud of Roland L. Sparkman's and C. R. Keener's audit of Chilton County's records?

For your information, I am publishing another affidavit which is as follows:

"STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY

Before me, the undersigned authority for said County and in said State, personally appeared Coy Rucker, who, being first duly sworn, deposes and says on oath that during the year 1949 he was a special officer for the ABC Board of the State of Alabama and as such had authority to make arrests for violation of law and affiant says that on an occasion during the months of March or April 1949 he came out of the Sheriff's office in the courthouse of Clanton, Alabama, and observed R. L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman, one of the auditors who was auditing the records of the Commissioner's Court of Chilton County, Alabama, at that time, come out of the Probate Judge's office and said Sparkman appeared to me to be excited, nervous and not as a normal man, and in common terms and expressed by me, there was something wrong with him, in my opinion, and immediately Mrs. C. E. Stapp, who was a clerk in the Probate Judge's office called me and stated that R. L. Sparkman or Red Sparkman had been in the office and stated to Mrs. Louise Inzer, one of the clerks in the Probate Office, at that time, that "it was an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" and Mrs. Stapp stated to me that Red Sparkman was on a rampage and wanted me to stay around for protection.

(s) Coy Rucker

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this May 26th, 1950.

(s) Helen K. Atkinson,
Notary Public."

The second audit made and approved by the Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama is a disgrace to that Department. An audit like this one should not be made in a civilized country. This second audit made by Roland L. Sparkman and C. R. Keener misrepresented the Commissioner's Court records from start to finish.

I will have more to say next week.

J. LEE SMITH.

CHAMPION BRAND
THE NATURAL NITRATE

-because NATURAL Chilean Nitrate contains beneficial sodium PLUS minor plant food elements

● Nitrate Nitrogen

All the nitrogen in Natural Chilean Nitrate is fast-acting nitrate. Dissolves in normal soil moisture . . . is completely available to the crop. Nitrogen increases yield and improves quality of food and feed crops . . . nitrate of soda furnishes more nitrate nitrogen than any other alkaline nitrate.

● Sodium — improves crop health and vigor

Natural Chilean Nitrate is rich in sodium — contains 26% of this element (equivalent to 35% sodium oxide). Sodium can act like potash — may partially substitute for it in potash-deficient soil. By itself, sodium increases the availability of applied phosphate . . . tends to have a "sweetening" effect on the soil.

● Rich in minor plant food elements

Natural traces of other elements are found in Chilean Nitrate. These include iodine, manganese, copper, zinc, boron, magnesium, calcium, iron and sulphur. In small quantities, these elements are essential to proper plant or animal nutrition.

● Free-flowing pellet form

Chilean Nitrate can be applied in any standard distributor. For larger yields and top-quality crops, order Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda — proved by more than 100 years of experience.

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed by The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, that the Tax Assessor of said County be and he is hereby ordered and directed to assess the amount of fifty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in said County upon the assessment made for the State purposes as shown by the books of assessment of the current year and the same be collected at the same time and in the same manner as the State Taxes are collected.

"School Tax Levy 1952 — County-Wide Three Mills"

WHEREAS, A Special Election was duly and legally held on the 11th day of April, 1939, in and for Chilton County, Alabama, to determine whether or not a special tax of 30c upon each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said County should be levied annually for a period of twenty years from September 30, 1939, and expiring on September 30, 1959, for public school purposes within said County, and

WHEREAS, The results of said election is as follows: 701 votes were cast in said election for the proposed taxation; and 122 votes were cast in said election against the proposed taxation.

THEREFORE, A tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in Chilton County for public school purposes having been voted and levied as provided by law, it was therefore moved by Mr. Smith and duly seconded by Mr. Roebuck that a special tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in Chilton County, Alabama, for public school purposes be levied in addition to all other general and special taxes for the current year as provided by Title 52, Section 254, of the Code of Alabama of 1940, and that said taxes be and are hereby levied upon all property as assessed for revenue in the County for the State of Alabama, as shown by the books of assessments after the same have been corrected as provided by law, said taxes to be used for public school purposes and the Tax Assessor is hereby directed and ordered to assess the same on the taxable property in Chilton County, Alabama, at the rate of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said Chilton County, upon the assessment made for State purposes as shown by the Books of Assessments for the current year and that the same be collected at the same time and in the same manner that the State and County taxes are collected. Said motion being duly made and duly seconded and being put to the Board, all the members present of the Board voted unanimously for the adoption and passage of said motion and the presiding Chairman declared said motion duly and legally carried in the manner as above set forth.

"School Tax Levy 1952 — County-Wide, One Mill"

WHEREAS, A Special Election was duly and legally held on the 13th day of June, 1939, in and for Chilton County, Alabama, to determine whether or not a special tax of 10c upon each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said County should be levied annually for a period of twenty years, from September 30, 1939, and expiring on September 30, 1959, for public school purposes within said County, and

WHEREAS, the results of said election is as follows: 764 votes were cast in said election for the proposed taxation; and 230 votes were cast in said election against the proposed taxation, and that three-fifths of those voting in said election having voted for said proposed taxation.

THEREFORE, a tax of 10c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in Chilton County for public school purposes having been voted and levied as provided by law, it was therefore moved by Mr. Lenoir and duly seconded by Mr. Smith that a special tax of 10c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in Chilton County, Alabama, for public school purposes be and is hereby levied in addition to all other general and special taxes for the current year, 1952, as provided by Title 52, Section 246, of the Code of Alabama of 1940, and that said tax be and is hereby levied upon all property as assessed for revenue in the county for the State of Alabama, as shown by the books of assessments after the same have been corrected as provided by law, said taxes to be used for public school purposes and the Tax Assessor is hereby directed to assess the same on the taxable property in Chilton County, Alabama, at the rate of 10c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said Chilton County, upon the assessment made for State purposes as shown by the books of Assessments for the current year and that the same be collected at the same time and in the same manner that the State and County Taxes are collected. Said motion being duly made and duly seconded and being put to the Board, all the members present of the Board voted unanimously for the adoption and passage of said motion and the presiding Chairman declared said motion duly and legally carried in the manner as above set forth.

"School Tax Levy 1952 — District "A," Three Mills"

WHEREAS, A Special Election was duly and legally held on the 13th day of June, 1939, in and for School District "A," Chilton County, Alabama, to determine whether or not a special tax of 30c upon each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said School District should be levied annually for a period of twenty years from September 30, 1939, and expiring on September 30, 1959, for public school purposes within said School District, and

WHEREAS, The results of said election is as follows: 768 votes were cast in said election for the proposed taxation; and 212 votes were cast in said election against the proposed taxation.

THEREFORE, A tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in Chilton County for public school purposes having been voted and levied as provided by law, it was therefore moved by Mr. Lenoir and duly seconded by Mr. Roebuck that a special tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property as assessed and shown in District "A" in Chilton County, Alabama, for public school purposes be and is hereby levied in addition to all other general and special taxes for the current year as provided by Title 52, Section 254, of the Code of Alabama of 1940, and that said tax be and is hereby levied upon all property as assessed for taxation in School District "A" for the State of Alabama, as shown by the books of assessments after the same have been corrected as provided by law, said taxes to be used for public school purposes and the Tax Assessor is hereby directed and ordered to assess the same on the taxable property in said District "A," Chilton County, Alabama, at the rate of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said Chilton County, upon the assessment made for State purposes as shown by the Books of Assessments for the current year and that the same be collected at the same time and in the same manner that the State and County taxes are collected in said District "A." Said motion being duly made and duly seconded and being put to the Board, all the members present of the Board voted unanimously for the agdoption and passage of said motion and the presiding Chairman declared said motion duly and legally carried in the manner as above set forth.

"School Tax Levy 1952 — District "B Three Mills"

WHEREAS, A Special Election was duly and legally held on the 13th day of June, 1939, in and for School District "B," Chilton County, Alabama, to determine whether or not a special tax of 30c upon each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said School District should be levied annually for a period of twenty years from September 30, 1939, and expiring on September 30, 1959, for public school purposes within said School District, and

WHEREAS, The results of said election is as follows: 23 votes were cast in said election for the proposed taxation; and no votes were cast in said election against the proposed taxation.

THEREFORE, A tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in Chilton County for public school purposes having been voted and levied as provided by law, it was therefore, moved by Mr. Smith and duly seconded by Mr. Lenoir that a special tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property as assessed and shown in District "B" in Chilton County, Alabama, for public school purposes be and is hereby levied in addition to all other general and special taxes for the current year as provided by Title 52, Section 254, of the Code of Alabama of 1940, and that said tax be and is hereby levied upon all property as assessed for taxation in School District "B" for the State of Alabama, as shown by the books of assessments after the same have been corrected as provided by law, said taxes to be used for public school purposes and the Tax Assessor is hereby directed and ordered to assess the same on the taxable property in said District "B," Chilton County, Alabama, at the rate of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said Chilton County, upon the assessment made for State purposes as shown by the Books of Assessments for the current year and that the same be collected at the same time and in the same manner that the State and County taxes are collected in said District "B." Said motion being duly made and duly seconded and being put to the Board, all the members present of the Board voted unanimously for the adoption and passage of said motion and the presiding Chairman declared said motion duly and legally carried in the manner as above set forth.

Special Hospital Tax, Four Mills

WHEREAS, A Special tax election was duly and legally held on Tuesday, November 7, 1950, in and for Chilton County, Alabama, at which there was submitted to the qualified electors of the said county the question of whether or not the said county shall levy and collect annually in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special county tax not exceeding four mills on each dollar of taxable property in the county, to be used solely for acquiring, by purchase, lease, or otherwise, constructing, operating, equipping, or maintaining county hospitals, or other public hospitals, non-profit hospitals, and public health facilities, and

WHEREAS, The results of said election is as follows: There were cast by the qualified electors of said county in said election a total of 4,052 votes, and of the said total 2,114 votes were cast for said proposed taxation and 757 votes were cast against said taxation, being a majority of 1,357 votes for said proposed taxation. The question so submitted to the electorate of said county has accordingly been voted in the affirmative by a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at said election.

WHEREUPON, Mr. Lenoir offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Smith: IT IS HEREBY ORDERED AND RESOLVED by The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, that pursuant to authority so to do granted by the electors of the county at a special election held in the County on November 7, 1950, there is hereby levied for the tax year of the county beginning on October 1, 1951, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special county tax of four mills on each dollar of taxable property in the county to be used solely for acquiring, by purchase, lease or otherwise, constructing, operating, equipping, or maintaining county hospitals, or other public hospitals, non-profit hospitals and public health facilities in Chilton County, Alabama, and that said taxes be levied upon all property assessed for revenue in the county for the State of Alabama, as shown by the books of assessments after the same have been corrected as provided by law, said taxes to be used solely for said purposes and the Tax Assessor is hereby directed and ordered to assess the same on the taxable property in Chilton County, Alabama, at the rate of 40c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property in said Chilton County, upon the assessment made for State purposes as shown by the books of assessments for the current year and that the same be collected at the same time and in the same manner that the State and County Taxes are collected.

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed by The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, that the Tax Collector of Chilton County, Alabama, is hereby ordered and directed to collect said special county tax in the same manner and under the same requirements and laws as taxes of the State are collected, and said Tax Collector shall keep said amount separate and apart from all other funds and shall keep a clear and distinct account thereof and shall turn the same over to Chilton County Hospital Board, an agency of Chilton County, whose duty it shall be to receipt therefor. Said motion being duly made and seconded and being put to the Board, all the members present of the Board voted unanimously for the adoption and passage of said resolution and the presiding Chairman declared said resolution duly and legally carried in the manner as above set forth.

Honorable Norman L. Roberts
Tax Assessor Chilton County
Clanton, Alabama

I, W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and Chairman of The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby certify that on the 11th day of February, 1952, being regular term of The Board of Revenue and Control, said Board levied the following taxes at the rate for the current year, 1952, for the purposes as shown herein:

(1) The Board levied a tax of 50c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property for general county purposes.

(2) The Board also levied a tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property for public school purposes.

(3) The Board also levied a tax of 10c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property for public school purposes.

(4) The Board also levied a tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property for public school purposes in School District "A" of Chilton County, Alabama.

(5) The Board also levied a tax of 30c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property for public school purposes in School District "B" of Chilton County, Alabama.

SURPRISE UNEXPECTED GUESTS WITH CHICKEN

Auburn, Ala. — One way to pleasantly surprise unexpected guests is to keep a supply of cooked chicken in the home freezer.

"The way to prepare chicken for freezing," says Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, 'is to cook it in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure for 40 minutes."

After cooking, cool, then remove meat from bones and cut in half-inch pieces. Chill, then make a compact roll. Wrap roll in cellophane paper. After this is done, wrap the roil in heavy paper and store in the home freezer unit.

This Month in rural Alabama

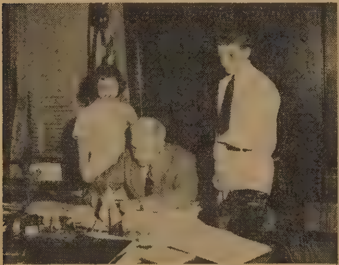
MARCH 6, 1952

. . . . SECTION OF - CHILTON COUNTY NEWS - CLANTON, ALA. . . . .

4-H'ers Put Their Motto To Work

Alabama's 128,231 4-H Club members place much emphasis on their motto "To Make the Best Better," and one of the many ways they carry out this motto is with their forestry projects. Each year hundreds of thousands of pine seedlings are donated to the youngsters by many of the paper and lumber companies of the state. And although the profits from this type of project may not come for a number of years much valuable work is accomplished. Many worn and eroded hillsides are planted with seedlings and much comparatively useless land is improved.

This month, as the state's club members celebrate National 4-H Club Week, March 1-9, hundreds of farm boys can point with pride to the young stands of fast growing pines or the newly planted fields of young seedlings they are growing as club projects. And members of the Delta 4-H Club, in Clay County, are one of the many groups who take keen interest in their pine tree projects. Pridefully showing his "tree crop" to a group of fellow club members at right above is 4-H'er Barby Miller, who has five acres of trees which he planted two years ago. Looking over the baby forest are, left to right, Tommy Jones, Charles Shaddix, Gerald Dial, Alfred Brooks, Jim Hill, Rendall Freeman, Albert Daughterty, John R. Smith, and Local Leader Gilbert Landers. Several of these boys have started pine tree projects this winter.



National 4-H Club Week Proclaimed

Hilda Terry, vice president of the Alabama 4-H Club Council and member of the Moundville High School club, left, and Bobby Bridgman, council president and member of the Elmore County High School club, look on as Governor Gordon Persons signs the proclamation designating the period March 1-9 as National 4-H Club Week. During this special week, Alabama's 128,231 4-H Club members are reporting on their activities during the past year and making plans for work to be accomplished during the coming months.

For Big Corn Yields Use The Best Hybrids

EACH year as more farmers turn to livestock for a major part of their income the importance of corn in the farming system is increased. Successful production of hogs, poultry, dairying, and beef is dependent to a big extent upon the production of grain to go with the expanded pasture program.

In an effort to find the hybrids best suited for production in Alabama, the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station each year runs tests on the hybrids. The substations located in all of the major soil areas of the state produce and test these hybrids and the results of these tests are the basis for recommendations to farmers.

The hybrids found to be best adapted to different sections of the state are as follows:

Northern Alabama. Best white hybrids: Pfister (P.A.G.) Nos. 620 and 631. Second choice white hybrids: Georgia 101, Dixie 17, McCurdy 1005W, Dixie 11, and Tennessee 10. Best yellow hybrids: Pfister (P.A.G.) 170, U. S. 13, North Carolina 27, and Dixie 18. (Recommended on a trial basis are two varieties that have appeared good in limited testing; these are Dixie 33 (white) and Dixie 22 (yellow).)

Central and Southern Alabama. Best hybrids for each of these sections are the same.

A Stake In The Future

THERE isn't quite as much glamour connected with the job of digging 1,000 holes in an acre of ground and carefully planting a tree in each excavation as there is with fitting livestock and showing them in stiff competition. And results from planting and caring for a stand of trees don't come as quickly as the harvest which rolls around for the lad growing row crops or pigs—but the reward in the long run is just as high.

For the youngster who sweats through the job of planting row, after row, after row of young seedlings is banking on the future. True, it may be 15 or even 20 years before the big harvest is made, but in the meantime there are other considerations. That acre of well-tended trees becomes a stumbling block in the path of erosion, a storehouse for water checked in its flow down a hillside, and a haven for countless wild animals.

The youngster who spends his time and energy planting trees gains much in return. He learns to appreciate trees as a crop—in Alabama, timber and forest products are a major crop—and he also learns to protect and care for trees just as he fights the insects, weeds, and diseases that attack his row crops.

Perhaps the forests and the wealth of products gained from them aren't appreciated in the same way we prize a highly bred animal or a high yielding hybrid grain perfected by years of diligent research and breeding.

Since the sound of the first ax blow rang through the virgin forest of our country the endlessness of our timber supply has been more or less taken for granted. But the fact that some 2,000 4-H Club boys and many more landowners are now developing reforestation and timber management projects is an encouraging sign. The trend toward more intelligent use and protection of our forests will most certainly lead to an increased income from this slowly dwindling source.

DAIRY DATES IN MARCH

ON March 11-12 dairy producers and manufacturers are invited to attend a Cottage Cheese Clinic which will be held in the recently completed Creamery Building.

The other big event is the Dairy Farmers' Conference which will be held March 17-18. The conference, which is the first of its kind ever held at Auburn, is open to producers, manufacturers, and others interested in the improvement of the dairy industry in Alabama.

During the conference every phase of the dairy industry will be covered in discussions by members of the A.P.I. Teaching, Research, and Extension staffs. Dr. M. H. Forhman, of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, Beltsville, Maryland, will discuss the principles of breeding better cattle and will report on the results of experimental work done on crossbreeding dairy cattle at the Beltsville Station.

SOUP'S ON—It's really chow time for this fine litter of four-week-old Duroc pigs and they are the kind of pigs that make good use of a full feed.

This excellent litter, on exhibit at the recent Monroeville Regional Hog Show, is the kind of litter hog producers will be looking for in late February and early March when the biggest crop of pigs in Alabama history begins to show up. But big litters of thrifty pigs like these don't just happen. It takes good breeding, good feeding, and good management to produce "bacon-makers" that will make money for you.

Fertilize Alfalfa To Maintain Production

By CLARENCE M. WILSON
Associate Soil Chemist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

FIELD experiments with alfalfa have shown that annual applications of phosphate, potash, and borax must be supplied if good stands and yields are to be maintained. Most alfalfa fields in Alabama should be top-dressed annually with 900 to 1,000 pounds of 0-12-20 containing 20 to 25 pounds of borax per acre after the first year in which the alfalfa was established. This fertilizer should be applied in February before growth starts or after the first cutting is made in the spring. On light soils subject to rapid leaching and on heavy soils too wet to get on in early spring, applying fertilizer after the first cutting would be desired.

Potash is especially important in maintaining yields and stands of alfalfa. Chemical analysis has shown that a yield of four tons of alfalfa hay per acre removes a minimum equivalent of about 250 pounds of muriate of potash. Further losses of soil potassium may be expected from leaching.

The experimental data in the following table show the effects of different rates of potash on life of stands and yields of alfalfa where sufficient amounts of lime, phosphate, and borax were supplied. These tests were made on the main station at Auburn.

Soil type*	Annual applications of muriate in pounds per acre
	0	100	200	400
Norfolk sandy loam
Life of alfalfa stand (years)	1	3	3	4
Total yield of alfalfa hay (tons per acre)	1.5	9.7	12.7	16.6
Chesterfield sandy loam
Life of alfalfa stand (years)	3	6	6	7
Total yield of alfalfa hay (tons per acre)	6.8	18.8	23.9	26.0

*Native potassium supplying power of Chesterfield soil approximately twice as great as for Norfolk.

Even our best potash-supplying soils in the state are soon depleted by alfalfa unless liberal applications are added. As the soil potash supply decreases, alfalfa yields decrease and finally the stand is lost. Furthermore, alfalfa which is not adequately supplied with potash is forced to draw upon the native soil potassium to the point where crops following alfalfa may show extreme potash deficiency.

Sugars and fats are soluble in hot water. Therefore soak any sugary or greasy pans or utensils in hot water. Hot water "sets" milk, eggs, and starchy goods and makes their removal difficult. So rinse or soak mixing bowls, mixing spoons, doughy dishes, and such in cold water.

Hundreds of Alabama dairy farmers are realizing as never before the importance of keeping good records on their dairy herds. Through Dairy Herd Improvement Association records these dairymen are able to cull out the boarders and keep only profit producers. Here Andy Wayand, center, is pointing to an outstanding record made by one of the cows in the Dairyland Farm herd, of Opelika. Wayand is test supervisor for the Central Alabama D.H.I.A. Looking on with him are Assistant County Agent Dick Teague and W. R. Corr, Jr., right, herdsman for Dairyland Farm.

Along the Way

with
P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, A.P.I. EXTENSION SERVICE

LET'S start this column with a statement by Abraham Lincoln which is just as true today as it was during his lifetime:

"You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence. You cannot help men premanently by doing for them what they could do and should do for themselves."

Next, let's talk about corn. Again in 1952 corn will be the No. 1 Alabama crop in the use of land.

And it's still paramount for hogs and poultry. Cattle, of course, do well on less grain but it is good for them.

Much progress has been made in corn yields but we need to make much more. This can be done by selecting good corn land, preparing it thoroughly, fertilizing adequately, planting good seed of the right variety, and cultivating lightly often enough to control weeds and grass, but no more.

There are differences of opinion on time of planting. I still insist that corn planting should be timed to expected summer rains, which did not come last year.

Ordinarily, in most of Alabama we get rains from late June through July; therefore, this is the best time for corn to be making, or in the stage from tasseling to mature corn. This brings us to the conclusion that late April or early May is a good time to plant corn in Alabama because in this way it is timed to normal summer rains. Open pollinated corn requires about 60 days from planting to tasseling. Hybrid corns tassel in a week or 10 days less time.

G. B. Phillips, our swine specialist at Auburn, keeps reminding us that an increase in corn production will make a big increase in our hog money if corn is fed to hogs on grazing, and if good-management is used.

Another profitable way to market corn is to feed it as part of the ration for laying hens. Alabama is a deficit area on eggs. Records show that poultrymen who do a good job get a labor income of $2 to $3 annually per hen. Last year most of them made around $3.

A farmer with 1,000 hens properly managed should expect a labor income of $2,000 to $3,000 per year.

Last year, we recall, was a hard year on Alabama farming. Weather was a big handicap; there was little rain during the spring; most seed didn't germinate and stands were poor. This, of course, reduced yields in the fall.

Farmers who prepared their land thoroughly before planting got much better stands than those who didn't.

I hope that no farmer will make the mistake of planting seed on a poorly prepared seedbed this spring. County agents keep reminding farmers about this.

QUITE A CHANGE—This is a sight unknown to L. Chatterton before he moved to the Black Belt. In Montana his herd of 200 Herefords required 2,500 acres of land—in Hale County the 200 head of cattle are thriving on only 320 acres. Mr. Chatterton is shown at center looking over a group of springing heifers.

Winter Grazing Makes The Difference

Western Farmer Calls Black Belt Paradise

THE tall, lean man in cowboy clothes talked as if he had found the garden of Eden. And perhaps he was right. For his community in Central Alabama is named Prairie-Eden.

"I've been fooling around the cattle business for almost 50 years, but I've never seen anything like this," he said. "Here it is mid-January and my cattle are still sleek and fat—yet I haven't fed any concentrate feed. Of all of the cattle country I have ever seen this is the best."

And L. Chatterton, of Greensboro, Rt. 3, in Hale County, meant just what he said. He has found a cattleman's paradise in the Black Belt of the South.

Mr. Chatterton is no youngster at the business of growing beef cattle either. Since he was a small boy on a farm in Montana, Herefords have been his whole life. He grew up with Herefords and has watched the style changes in "steak-growing" for half a century. And as an outstanding breeder he has had a part in bringing about some of these style changes.

But along about 1944 fate stepped in to break up Mr. Chatterton's prosperous ranch in Montana. His physician told him that he would have to quit the cattle business and move to a warmer climate. "Sure I'll move to a warmer climate," Chat told the doctor, "but my herd goes with me." He had been growing the same herd for 42 years and he refused to think about leaving his cattle behind.

So he began to look around for a place to move his Herefords. R. J. Kinser, of the American Hereford Association, advised him to look over the possibilities of the Black Belt.

"I couldn't have been any more surprised if he had said Shangri La," Chatterton declares. "But I decided to take a chance and come down for a look around. A little later—in October, 1944, to be exact—I packed up lock, stock, and barrel and moved 200 of my Herefords to Hale County."

In his present location in the Black Belt, Chatterton's herd stays in good condition on 320 acres. It took 2,500 acres to maintain his herd in Montana. At present he is carrying one cow to every one and one-half acres on the farm. "Four years from now I expect to be carrying 400 cattle on my 320 acres," declares Chat.

Chatterton's herd grazes Caley peas from about mid-February to May 1. From then until October the herd grazes Dallis grass and white clover. And from October to frost they switch to Johnson grass. And then from frost to the time cattle go on Caley peas they graze the fescue and ladino clover mixture.

This system gives year-around grazing. However, Chatterton does point out that his cattle don't get grazing every day in the year. Ice or exceptionally cold weather usually keeps them from grazing a few days during the winter period. And in summer short drought periods usually spoil his chances for grazing every day in the year. Surplus Johnson grass is cut for hay and stored for use during these short grazing periods.

In the seven years that he has been a southerner Mr. Chatterton has made several observations about cattle business in the South. "One of the biggest things that has hampered progress in Alabama is speculator bulls," he says. "These are lower quality bulls from some of the nation's best breeding herds.

"Another mistake many of the cattlemen of Alabama make is not keeping their own herd replacements," he continued. "Heifers will get fat here on pasture. Yet in the West they won't fatten on grazing." High prices offered for these animals have caused many cattlemen to sell rather than keep the animals to build up the quality of their herds.

Mrs. Chatterton is an outstanding homemaking leader in Hale County and Alabama home demonstration circles. And she is now secretary of the Alabama Hereford Breeders Association. She has served as county home demonstration club president and state treasurer. And in 1947 she went to Europe to represent Alabama club women in home demonstration work.

The Chattertons have reached a high mark in their profession, but retiring has never entered their minds. "My whole life has been this one herd of registered Herefords," says Chatterton, "and I intend to spend the rest of my life with the same herd."

So in the Black Belt of Alabama L. Chatterton—Hereford breeder—is setting his sights for more and even bigger accomplishments.

Don't Mine Your Soil

PEANUTS are "hard on the land" because of the large quantities of plant nutrient elements they remove from the soil when both peanuts and hay are removed.

Reporting on results of field experiments at the Wiregrass Substation and with cooperating farmers Soil Chemist F. L. Davis and Substation Superintendent C. A. Brogden, of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station, say tests have shown that calcium in the form of lime or gypsum and potash are needed in amounts larger than are commonly used if the fertility of the soil is to be maintained for peanut production. The results of these tests have shown specifically:

1. That peanuts grown and gathered from the same land year after year "mined" the soil of its supply of calcium and potash.

2. That applications of phosphate, potash, and calcium (as either lime or gypsum) restored yields.

3. That a low percentage of sound, mature kernels was a good indication of calcium deficiency in the soil.

4. That applications of lime or gypsum always increased the percentage of sound, mature kernels whenever the yield was increased.

Program Planners --- The youth of the county were well represented when the Choctaw County Extension Council met in January to make plans and set goals for 1952. The smiling group of 4-H Club youngsters shown above is one of the three segments which make up the council. Farm and home leaders, with more than a little help from these boys and girls, outlined a broad program designed to increase farm income and improve the standard of living in this West Alabama area.

Treated Fuzzy Or Reginned Seed Found Superior To Acid-Delinted, Treated Cottonseed

By H. B. TISDALE, Plant Breeder
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

EITHER fuzzy or reginned cottonseed, treated and drilled at the rate of a bushel per acre, produced greater yields than 16 pounds of acid (sulphuric)-delinted seed of the same variety that were treated and hill dropped, according to results of 35 tests conducted by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station at 12 locations in Alabama during the last three years, 1949-51. Lower rates of acid-delinted hill-drop seed produced even lower yields than the 16-pound rate.

The yield of seed cotton from fuzzy seed averaged 1,302 pounds per acre while that from reginned seed was 1,300 pounds when drilled at the 32-pound rate. Acid-delinted seed produced an average yield of 1,219 pounds of seed cotton at the 16-pound per acre hill-drop rate, 1,182 pounds at the 12-pound rate, and 1,144 at the eight-pound rate. In other words, as the rate of seeding acid-delinted seed in the hill-drop methods was decreased, the yields of seed cotton decreased.

In these tests, acid-delinted cottonseed that were hill dropped failed to give as good stands as either fuzzy or reginned seed that were drilled. The number of missing hills per acre for the 16-pound rate of acid-delinted seed was 1,607. For the 12 and 8-pound rates there were 1,775 and 2,095 missing hills, respectively; whereas only 577 and 786 hills per acre were missing from the areas planted with fuzzy and reginned seed drilled at the rate of 32 pounds per acre. A horse-drawn planter adjusted for hill dropping or drilling was used to obtain these stands.

In tests at three locations—Brewton, Prattville, and Crossville—where soil and weather conditions were more favorable for emergence and seedling stage of cotton, the results showed very little differences in yields and stands obtained from the different methods of planting or the amount of seed planted.

However, the average results of all tests indicate that the best stands and yields were obtained from 32 pounds of drilled and 16 pounds of hill-dropped seed per acre.

RECIPE FOR MARH

EGGS, plentiful in most homes and cheaper in price during this month, make an excellent basis for the main dish for the family meal. Eggs contain high quality protein, vitamins, and minerals needed by the body.

If you have to depend on buying eggs, you can usually save a few cents by buying according to grade. Grade AA and A are usually preferred for cooking in the shell and for poaching. For many purposes you may use the lower grades, instead of the more expensive top grades. The lower grades work out well for most baked products where other flavors predominate.

Eggs are a versatile food. They combine well with practically every food known. Often when eggs are plentiful, our families become tired of them. That's a good time for us to get the recipe book and look up some new ways of preparing them. One of the best recipes for using eggs is in a main dish casserole, combining eggs with white sauce and bits of leftover ham. A good recipe for this dish is as follows:

SCALLOPED EGGS AND HAM

6 hard-cooked eggs
2 cups white sauce
4 T. melted butter
1 cup chopped, cooked ham
1 cup bread crumbs

Make white sauce with 2 cups milk, 4 tablespoons fat, and 4 tablespoons flour. Moisten crumbs with butter. Into greased baking dish, put layers of crumbs, white sauce, chopped ham, and sliced eggs. Repeat. Cover top with crumbs and brown in moderate oven (350°F.)

Use The Best Hybrids

Best white hybrids: Dixie 11 and Louisiana 521. Best yellow hybrids: Dixie 18 and North Carolina 27. Second choice hybrids: white—Georgia 101, Dixie 17, and McCurdy 1005W; yellow—McCurdy 1001. (Other white hybrids named as second choice for central Alabama only are Pfister (P.A.G.) 631, and Tennessee 10.)

In both central and southern Alabama the white hybrids Coker 811 and Dixie 33 are recommended on the basis of limited trials to farmers who would like to try something new that has looked good. In Central Alabama, the trial basis list also includes Pfister (P.A.G.) 620 (white).

This Month on the Farm

by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

SEED sericea in March on a firm seedbed and refertilize established stands of sericea. On most farms there is land that should be seeded to this crop. Sericea is one of our best, if not the best, crops for supplementary summer grazing for cattle. Sericea really showed its value during the drought last summer by carrying cattle through periods of short grazing.

REFERTILIZE established stands of kudzu. You may need to set some more kudzu, especially if you are a hog grower in the southern part of the state. Although it takes two or three years to get kudzu established, it is a mighty good crop to furnish a few weeks of grazing during periods of summer drought. In addition, it is our very best plant to set along gullies and ditch banks to stop erosion.

* * *

HAY is an essential part of a feed and grazing program. The weather of the last two years emphasized more strongly than ever the importance of saving some hay. Then, too, the seriousness of bloat makes it necessary to have hay for feeding during the bloat season. Insofar as possible, surplus growth from the permanent pasture, winter grazing, sericea, kudzu, or other crops in the grazing program should be saved for hay.

* * *

TURN your winter legumes when they have made a profitable growth. Turn the vetches, Austrian peas, and crimson clover when the green tops in 100 square feet of average growth weigh 20 pounds or more; turn lupine when the green tops per 100 square feet weigh at least 40 pounds.

* * *

EACH year we hear of cattle being lost during March because of bloat. Usually this loss is caused by not observing the cattle often enough. All cattle on succulent legume grazing should be observed each afternoon between 3 o'clock and dark, that part of the day when most bloat occurs. Bloating cattle should be removed from the pasture immediately, placed in a dry lot, and given additional treatment if necessary.

* * *

THE surest way for market hog growers to beat high feed prices is to plant some early maturing hybrid corn just as soon as the danger of frost is over. It will be ready for hogging in 80 to 90 days, and hungry shotes will appreciate getting it—cafeteria style. See your local county agent for recommended varieties.

* * *

IF the first group of baby chicks was started in December or January, a second group may be started this month to increase the size of the laying flock this fall. This is the "last call" to start pullets for fall and winter egg production.

* * *

MANY farmers are still trying to find new poisons or combinations of poisons best for cotton. Based on five years of work by entomologists of the A.P.I. Experiment Station, the 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT and 20 per cent toxaphene are the best of all the materials tested for the control of cotton insects. A dust containing two and one-half per cent heptachlor and five per cent DDT has been added to the approved list of cotton poisons.

Marshall Community Clubs At Work

MARSHALL County rural communities are working together like they have never worked before. And this era of close cooperation is paying off in better farm living for all concerned. Above and at right are some of the people who led and worked with the three communities that were prize winners last year. Awards for communities showing the most improvement each year are made by the Marshall County Rural Community Development Council that is composed of businessmen, newspapermen, radio station personnel, and members of the agricultural agencies in the county.

Mt. Hebron was the top winner for 1951 and received a cash award of $300. Second place and $200 went to Lattiwood community; Asbury won the third prize of $100. Seventeen communities entered the contest which is designed to stimulate rural community improvement and better farm and home living.

Left—Leaders who guided the Mt. Hebron community program are, left to right, J. D. Hodges, school principal; Mrs. Edward Dodd, home demonstration club president; Dwight Ayers, P.T.A. president; Edward Dodd, council member; Smith Dyar, council president; Wilson Ray; Mrs. Wilson Ray, P.T.A. secretary; L. B. Plunkett, local pastor, and Miss Imogene Hodges, council secretary.

Right center—Members of the county Extension Service staff arrange their schedules in order to attend the monthly meetings of some of the 17 community clubs in the county. They are, left to right, Assistant Agent C. E. Pass, County Agent W. L. Martin, Home Agent Christine Huber, Assistant Agent A. W. Thompson, and Assistant Home Agent June Holley.

Upper right—Here members of the county community council discuss farming practices which will be included in the scoring of the communities this year. All kinds of farm and home as well as community improvements are included in the point system used in the contest. From left to right are W. L. Martin, Guntersville; Jesse Culp, Albertville; P. S. Walker and Porter Harvey, Guntersville; Frank Hales, Boaz; Bob Lee and J. J. Benford, Albertville; Jack Oliver, Boaz; E. G. Small, Arab, and W. J. Alverson, Albertville.

Right—Visitors to the Asbury community watch the progress being made on the Asbury gymnasium and basketball court. This was one of the main jobs tackled by the Asbury club last year and club members furnished most of the labor for building the big recreational center. For High Corn Yields Treat Your Crop Right

By J. C. LOWERY
A.P.I. Extension Agronomist

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Lowery's article last month dealt with the many possibilities for expanded use of corn in our farming system. For those interested in the steps necessary for high yield production, he has prepared this companion article.)

If you plan to make money out of corn, you must produce it just as cheaply as possible. This means that you have got to cut your labor costs as low as you can, and make as high yields as possible. We now know how to produce corn with very little labor, especially where tractors are used.

Below are some suggestions based on research at the A.P.I. Experiment Station, and the application of this research in thousands of demonstrations throughout Alabama in making higher corn yields. If applied, these suggestions will help you to get more wealth out of corn.

1. Kind of soils. Grow corn on any reasonably well-drained soil of good fertility.

2. Soil management. Grow winter legumes for soil improvement in the corn rotation.

3. Soil preparation. Break land several weeks before planting time and harrow and disk to make a firm seedbed. Turn winter legumes at least 10 days before corn is to be planted. Bury deeply any trash so it will decay and be out of the way of cultivators.

4. Variety. Use the variety which is best for your area according to variety tests of the Experiment Station. See your county agent for these tests. Most farmers making high per-acre yields grow hybrid corn.

5. Use good seed. Use only high quality seed with a germination of at least 90 per cent. Do not save planting seed from your hybrid corn.

6. Plant enough seed. Plant enough good seed to get a good stand.

7. When to plant. Best corn yields are made if the corn tassels about the time of summer rains. Weather records of the past 50 years show that this rainy season usually comes in early July. Therefore, in general, the last of April and the first of May are best planting dates. (In extreme South Alabama, especially in the Gulf Coast area, early March appears to be a good planting date.)

8. How to fertilize. (a) Corn following a good crop of winter legumes that was fertilized needs no additional fertilizer. Plant on time, even though legumes have not made enough growth.

(b) If corn follows cotton or other crops fertilized with 600 pounds or more per acre of a complete fertilizer, side-dress with 300 to 400 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre or equal nitrogen from other sources, such as ammonium nitrate, ammonium sulphate, or anhydrous ammonia.

(c) Where corn is not following good legumes or a well fertilized crop, use at least 300 pounds of 4-10-7 or 6-8-4 per acre at planting, and side-dress with 225 to 300 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources.

(d) In the Gulf Coast area if corn is not following well fertilized crops, apply 800 pounds of 4-10-7 per acre at planting. Side-dress with 250 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources.

(e) On Highland Rim soils along the Tennessee border and other soils deficient in potash, use 400 to 500 pounds of 6-8-8 per acre at planting and side-dress with 150 to 225 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources.

9. When to side-dress with nitrogen. Side-dress 35 to 40 days after planting. Apply to early varieties 20 to 25 days after planting.

10. Spacing. Space according to fertility of soil, kind and amount of fertilizer used, and the kind of hybrid used.

If you fertilize heavily, space 12 to 18 inches apart in three and one-half-foot rows. If you do not fertilize heavily, space 20 to 30 inches apart in the row. For best yields, single-eared hybrids must be spaced closer than prolific kinds.

11. Cultivation. Cultivate early, shallow, and often enough to keep down weeds; and lay-by early.

PLANNING FOR BETTER SEED—Officers and directors who will lead the Alabama Crop Improvement Association during the coming 12 months are shown above making plans for the year's work. Seated left to right are H. H. Knowles, Headland, president; Immediate Past President James D. Hays, Huntsville, and Ralph R. Jones, Auburn, secretary. Standing are W. A. Womack, Ashford, director; H. Owen Murfee, Jr., Prattville, vice-president, and Carson Whitson, Talladega, director.

Not shown are Directors Gust Riemer, Elberta; Jake Jewell, Orrville, and Fred Welborn, Section, and Charles F. Simmons, Auburn, association treasurer.

The Trucker's Problem

Higher Yields At Lower Costs

By JOHN BAGBY
A.P.I. Extension Horticulturist

THE problem facing Alabama truck growers in 1952 is how to produce large yields of good quality vegetables at the lowest possible cost per unit. With the cost of fertilizer, machinery, and labor continuing to rise it will be important for farmers to do the most efficient job possible.

Over a period of years the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station has conducted experiments with a number of vegetable crops to determine the best cultural practices. The suggestions given below are based on these experiments.

Most truck crops respond well to fairly heavy applications of fertilizer. When the fertilizer was increased from 500 pounds to 1,000 pounds per acre, the average yield of a number of crops was increased more than a ton per acre.

Organic matter is also very beneficial when applied on land to be planted to truck crops. Stable manure—if available—is the best form of organic material. Turning under a legume such as lupine, crimson clover, or vetch is the next most desirable practice since legumes also add nitrogen to the soil.

Tests show irrigation is another practice which will pay on vegetable crops. On an average, truck crops need at least one inch of water per week. Although the average annual rainfall in Alabama exceeds 50 inches, we often have periods of two to five weeks with little or no rain.

It has also been found that on light, sandy soils better yields may be obtained by dividing the fertilizer into two or more applications rather than applying the full amount before planting.

On many of the light, sandy soils nematodes or eelworms have seriously reduced yields of okra, tomatoes, beans, peppers, and other vegetable crops. There are two possible methods of controlling these pests. One method is to plant crotalaria, corn, oats, or other small grain in the rotation. Nematodes apparently do not attack these crops and will not stay in the soil where they are grown. The other method is to treat the soil with a fumigant containing ethylene dibromide. This method is quicker but more expensive than the rotation method. On test areas the yield of cucumbers for pickling was increased from 125 to 269 bushels per acre by treating the soil with ethylene dibromide.

While it may not be possible for many farmers to follow all of these practices, any one of them, along with other good practices such as planting on good soil, frequent shallow cultivations to control grass and weeds, and a dusting program to control insects and diseases should mean larger yields, better quality, and greater profits to the truck grower.

Mighty 'Mites

Although an individual termite is rather small in size, the collective damage by a colony of the insects can be tremendous. The house shown above was built less than 15 years ago, but the damage by termites will require some very costly major repairs. The badly damaged portion of the house shown above was originally covered by a dirt-filled concrete slab porch with a brick foundation. The concrete, foundation, and much of the wood had to be removed before repairs could be begun. You can bet the owner of this home won't rebuild his dirt-filled concrete porch.

Terrible Termites

Beware Of This Pest

By W. A. RUFFIN
A.P.I. Extension Entomologist

TERMITES are the most destructive of all wood-eating insects. They can literally eat a home out from under you.

Termites are social insects and live very much like bees. Their nests are made in the ground where all but the worker termites stay. The workers make tunnels in the soil or build mud tunnels above ground everywhere they go.

In Alabama, termites—often called wood lice—are common everywhere. But for most observers, the first indication that termites are present is when the winged forms swarm. Swarming takes place during the first warm days in spring and the kings and queens are the only forms that swarm. They are about one-half inch long with two pairs of whitish wings of equal size. Their bodies are dark brown or black and are about the same size throughout.

Whenever termites swarm in or around the home, it is time for action. Go under the house and with the aid of a strong light, examine every inch of the foundation wall and pillars. If termites are working in the foundation timbers, mud tunnels are almost sure to be found running from the ground up. Break one of these tunnels and often the white ants or worker termites will come to the break and stop. They will not cross this opening but if left alone will soon repair the break and go back to work.

These pesky house eaters will live only where the soil is moist and dark. Therefore, look for them under the house where the ground is wet. Almost every home that has a brick, concrete, or tile porch resting on a dirt fill has termites or will have them. Even brick or concrete steps that are built on dirt are almost sure to hide a colony of termites.

For the prospective house builder there are several preventative measures which will protect the home. They are as follows:

1. Be sure that there is at least a 30-inch clearance between the ground and foundation timbers.

2. Have all foundation timbers treated under pressure with creosote or other suitable wood preservative before they are put into place. So-called pressure treatment of timbers in a building is not effective.

3. Do not support any kind of masonry with a dirt fill. Use reinforced concrete that is well above the ground level.

4. Provide plenty of ventilation and good drainage so that the ground under the building will be dry.

If you already have termites in your home, take the following steps to stop and repair the damage:

1. Locate the damage and locate the termites as well as possible. Usually the nest will be within a few feet of tunnels found along the foundation.

2. Dig a trench 12 to 15 inches deep against the foundation wall under the house. Extend the trench at least 10 feet on either side of the area where tunnels are found.

3. Mix one pound of 50 per cent wettable DDT in one gallon of fuel oil or diesel fuel. Pour this mixture in the trench at the rate of two to three pints per linear foot. Fill the trench about half full of soil and pour two to three pints more of the chemicals in the trench and finish filling.

4. If termites are entering the building from the outside, dig a trench on the outside of the building.

5. If termites are found in dirt under a concrete slab, remove all of the dirt from under the slab and support it with pillars. Treat the soil as outlined in No. 3.

6. Remove all badly damaged timbers and replace with treated wood.

Producers Urged To Grow Cotton But To Maintain Sound Farming

By O. N. ANDREWS
A.P.I. Extension Cotton Specialist

IT is good business for Alabama farmers to produce their share of the nation's 16,000,000-bale crop in 1952. Continued high domestic consumption and a substantial increase in exports are likely to result in a relatively small carry-over at the end of the present marketing season. For our own future prosperity, we must produce the cotton needed by our customers at home and abroad.

Alabama farmers can produce their share of the needed production and at the same time stay within the framework of sound farming. They can boost cotton production two ways—by increasing both acreages and yields. The state's cotton acreage should be more than that of last year, if we are to make the best use of the available cropland and at the same time keep our share of the nation's cotton acres. Alabama's cotton acreage in 1951 was estimated at 1,460,000 acres.

Not all producers can make wise use of the increased acreage route. On many farms additional acres of cotton would disrupt the feed production and livestock program that has been added to cotton. That would be a mistake. However, on many farms the acreage may be increased without hindering the individual farm program. And that is where Alabama's added acreage must come from.

Every grower needs to make higher yields. That is the route Alabama farmers followed in 1951 when they produced a 920,000-bale crop, which was a 60 per cent increase over the 1950 total. The average yield of 303 pounds of lint per acre was the fourth highest on record. At present production costs, high yields must be made if cotton is to be produced at a profit.

The following production practice, tried and proved by many farmers, will help you make good yields in 1952.

Plant on soil best adapted to cotton. Poorly drained, badly eroded, or deep, sandy soil will not make the best yields.

Break land in late winter or early spring to get a settled, firm seedbed. This will make the job of getting and keeping a stand much easier.

Application of the right kind and amount of fertilizer is very important this year. Every effort should be made to get fertilizer early.

Cotton on most Alabama soils has given best results when fertilized with 500 to 600 pounds of 4-10-7 per acre at or before planting followed by a side dressing of 125 to 175 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources. Cotton on Sand Mountain soils will respond to more nitrogen than recommended above.

On the red soils of the Limestone Valleys (Tennessee, Coosa, and others) 600 to 800 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer may be applied at or before planting. On the poorer red soils add 100 pounds of nitrate of soda or equivalent nitrogen as a side dressing. For the grey soils of this area use 600 pounds of 8-8-8 or 6-8-8 fertilizer per acre at or before planting. If 6-8-8 is used, side-dress with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda or equal nitrogen from other sources.

Use a good variety. Plains, Coker 100 Wilt, Empire, Stoneville 2B, and Deltapine are very satisfactory varieties to plant on land that is free of cotton wilt. Plains, Coker 100 Wilt, Stonewilt, and Smith 78 are wilt-resistant varieties that are satisfactory for wilt-infested land.

Highest yields are usually obtained from early planted cotton. Best yields have been obtained by the A.P.I. Experiment Station when cotton was planted on the following dates:

South Alabama, March 25-April 10; Central Alabama, April 1-15; Tennessee Valley, April 10-25; Sand Mountain, April 15-25.

Get a stand and keep it. Use three to four pecks of reginned and treated seed with a germination of 80 per cent or better, or 12 to 16 pounds of acid delinted seed per acre.

Plant in rows three to three and one-half feet apart. Leave a stand when chopping. When cultivation is finished there should be two or three stalks per hill 12 to 18 inches apart. Best yields cannot be made with poor, irregular stands. Cotton should be cultivated shallow and often enough to control weeds. Deep or careless plowing will reduce the stand and growth.

Check fields often for insect infestations. Experimental results and many farmers have proved that high yields can be made in spite of cotton insects, provided the right insecticides are used as recommended. County agents can supply farmers with the latest information on controlling cotton insects.

Jackson County Corn Champ

Tommy Mewborn, of Section, Rt. 1, upheld the 4-H Club tradition last fall when his outstanding corn yield of 152.62 bushels per acre was found to be the best in Jackson County. He succeeded 4-H'er Nelson Kuykendall, of Dutton, who was the highest producer in 1950. Tommy is shown above in his field of Dixie 18 hybrid corn which produced the county's best yield last year. The youngster used nine loads of stable manure and 300 pounds of 4-10-7 under the crop and side-dressed with 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate. The crop was plowed three times.

In Jackson County

Corn Yields Run High

DESPITE the dry weather and other seasonal problems that cut yields last year, 42 Jackson County corn growers wound up the crop season with yields of more than 100 bushels of corn per acre.

Although the total number of 100-bushel producers in the county dropped off sharply from the all-time high of 124 in 1950, most growers still figured they were in pretty fair shape. At least they were in much better shape than the farmers who still stuck to the old method of growing corn from crib selected seed with little or no fertilizer applied to the crop.

Farmers in this northeast corner of the state first began to think about producing big yields of corn in 1947 when two farmers proved that 100 bushels of corn per acre could be grown on an acre of Jackson County soil. The next year 27 producers made 100 or more bushels per acre and in 1949 the number reached 89.

Two very important factors have played a big part in this tremendous upsurge in corn yields. The farmers learned that it takes plenty of plant food in the form of fertilizer and legumes turned under to make a big crop. And they also found that hybrid varieties were among the best producers.

Last year all but one of the 42 top corn farmers planted hybrid seed. And one farmer, T. O. Dawson, of Fackler, Rt. 1, who has produced more than 100 bushels of corn per acre for each of the past four years, has made his record using hybrid seed each year.

The top corn producer in 1951 was 4-H'er Tommy Mewborn, of Section, Rt. 1. His acre of Dixie 18 hybrid corn made 152.62 bushels. Among the veteran trainee farmers, Chester Durham, of Scottsboro, Rt. 1, was tops with an acre yielding 132.4 bushels. S. O. Matthews, of Stevenson, made the best record among adult farmers with a yield of 143.55 bushels on one acre.

Alabama's Newest Citizens Tour Their Land-Grant College

TALLAPOOSA County is noted for its friendly attitude and farming progress and the county's newest citizens—12 families who recently arrived from Holland—are making every effort to fit into the tradition. Most of the 38 people in this new group differ from their neighbors in the Daviston community only in language, names, and a few customs. Many of the newcomers were dairymen in Holland and almost all of them have lived on a farm. They came to this country with the hope of some day owning land—which was practically impossible for them in Holland due to the high price and extreme shortage of farming land.

To help their new neighbors learn more about Alabama agriculture, a group of Daviston citizens recently brought the Dutch farmers to Auburn where they visited the A.P.I. Extension Service and Experiment Station.

Third row, O. L. Dunn, Jr., Joe Minter, E. M. Langley, Wilford Black, Christiaan van den Heuvel, and Carl Moran.

At right the new farmers examine one of the bulls at the Experiment Station Artificial Breeding Unit. With the visitors here were W. E. Alston, dairy husbandman, Artificial Insemination Unit, and Dr. K. M. Autrey, head, dairy husbandry department.

Novel System In Marengo

Cattlemen Adopt "Cow Buddy" Plan With 4-H Club Members

IT was strictly a cattlemen's meeting, but cows didn't have a chance. Somehow the Marengo County farmers just never got around to "talking shop."

At their annual banquet held in Demopolis recently 4-H Club members stole the show. And as a result the cattlemen and the 4-H'ers are joining forces to promote better beef practices in the county.

After a parade of home-grown talent and a short business session, the cattlemen's association adopted a "cow buddy" plan. And almost every member of the association signed up as a cow buddy to a 4-H boy or girl.

"Under the buddy plan," says outgoing president C. R. Alston, "each member of the cattlemen's association will adopt a 4-H member as a buddy and help him with his beef problems." Of course, the 4-H member selected must have a beef cattle project or be interested in starting one.

"However, being a cow buddy doesn't stop at a pat on the back or an occasional good word," continues Alston. "The cattleman will help the 4-H member in selecting animals, working out a feeding program, and any other problems he may have with his project. And if necessary the cattleman will help in financing the project."

Already 43 cattlemen have adopted 4-H members and started work as cow buddies, reports Assistant County Agent Myles Mayberry. Before long every member of the Marengo County Cattlemen's Association is expected to have a cow buddy.

"And he will be trying to help his buddy grow the best beef calf in the county," says Mayberry.

Cotton Improvement Winners

THE Sardis community has recently been named state winner of the annual cotton improvement contest.

This Dallas County community, a district champion in 1950 competition, received a $2,000 cash prize at a celebration last month.

The four 1951 district winners are Grandview in Cullman County, Loachapoka in Lee County, Orrville in Dallas County, and Bluff in Fayette County. Each of these communities will receive $500.

Cotton Specialist O. N. Andrews reveals that scoring was based on progress made in all phases of cotton growing.

The prize money for the state and district winners is furnished by the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers' Association and the Alabama-Florida Cottonseed Products Association.

Research Results

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

SPLITTING THE FERTILIZER APPLICATION on three spring vegetables increased the average value $174 per acre in a six-year study on a light sandy soil. Twelve tons of manure were added to both the divided and undivided applications. The fertilizer consisted of 1,500 pounds of 6-8-4 per acre.

* * *

CENTIPEDE GRASS FOR SODDING EARTHEN DAMS and edges of farm ponds should be planted in the spring. Centipede is a low-growing, sod-forming grass that requires little mowing. It will not grow out into the water; therefore, no breeding areas for mosquitoes are formed. Centipede is commonly planted by sprigging joints of grass about two inches into the soil. Light applications of 6-8-4 are recommended, as high concentrations of nitrates will burn the grass. Centipede spreads very rapidly; it should not be used in pastures as the nutritive value is low.

* * *

BHC-DDT, 3-5 MIXTURE, and TOXAPHENE continue to be excellent insecticides for control of most major cotton insects in experiments conducted by the Experiment Station. BHC-DDT alternated with calcium arsenate has also given excellent results. Other recommended insecticides which have been used from one to three years include aldrin-DDT, dieldrin-DDT, and heptachlor-DDT mixtures. All the materials except calcium arsenate have been used with about equal effectiveness as dusts and sprays.

* * *

COTTON RUST IS A SIGNAL that additional potash is needed. The generally recommended rate of potash on sandy soils is 35 to 45 pounds K_2O (potash) per acre, which is usually applied in complete mixed fertilizers. More potash is needed on soils where rust appears. This may be applied at planting time or by side-dressing with muriate of potash at the first or second cultivation.

* * *

PINE TREES GROWN IN SPARSELY STOCKED STANDS are limby and rough. They produce wood of relatively low value. However, such trees frequently produce seed that are responsible for the establishment of dense stands of small trees on the area. As soon as there are enough young trees to insure a good stand, the limby, older trees should be cut. This cutting can often be made at a profit to the owner.

* * *

FARM MANAGEMENT ANALYSES indicate that the out-of-pocket costs involved in modern farming are claiming an ever-increasing share of income. Power, machinery, equipment, building, and fencing expense per crop acre or per farm, therefore, must be held within reasonable limits. Good judgment is necessary to maintain the right balance in the use of productive resources.

ONLY A SMALL SHARE OF THE MILK used in the manufactured dairy products consumed in Alabama is produced within the state. If Alabama farmers are to supply this milk, they must produce it at prices comparable with those received for manufacturing milk by dairymen in such states as Wisconsin and Minnesota. For those who compete successfully on this basis, there is an almost unlimited potential market for milk, because any surplus of manufactured dairy products made here could readily be sold in other parts of the United States.

There was no one to shine our shoes at Ollie's Barber Shop Sunday morning. . . . Charlie Wade needs to know the difference between a "mat" and a "cut." Don't laugh. About 99 percent of the rest of you do too. Further down the column today you'll get your first lesson. . . . Man bites dog story: Saw a car pulling in a wrecker this week That's a switch. . . Mrs. Lloyd Popwell and her pet charities. Like a hen with a litter of chicks. . . . She deserves the help of all who get satisfaction from doing things for those less fortunate. . . Charles Gay, our Forester, working late on Saturday night trying to keep up with his heavy duties.

Now let's go into that mat and cut question. A mat is a piece of (let's say, cardboard) board with the impression of a picture or type, etc., for the purpose of reproduction by placing the "mat" in a casting box and pouring hot lead over it to mould a "cast," or "cut." The "cut" is the product produced from the mat or from a picture such as engraving. These engravings must come from an engraving company and as yet cannot be produced in the local office. Mats can and are used daily by the local newspapers to produce cuts or "plates" for printing. So, if you have a "cut" for the paper it is a product ready for use. If you have a "mat" it is a product that must be put into our casting box and a "cut" or "plate" made from it for printing. Now, everybody straight?

This is our first prediction of this political season and we will lay you heavy odds. Our next County Treasurer will be Earl.

They're all in now. We're speaking of the candidates of course. Last Saturday midnight was their last opportunity to be a candidate as the time for qualifying was at that time.

We'll just use the column this week to give you an idea of what (or who) you're up against for the next two months. In the race for the Probate Judgeship there are five candidates: (We'll take all candidates alphabetically) John M. Higgins, Buck Roberts, Fred Smith, J. Lee Smith and Dave Tingle.

Board of Revenue and Control Third District: J. W. Graham of Maplesville, G. Marcus Jones of Clanton Route 2, Sherman Motley of Maplesville, and Welch Roebuck of Maplesville. Roebuck served out the term made vacant at the death of Neal Harrell.

Board of Revenue and Control, Fourth District: Wallace Cox, Grover Donovan, Jim Dunlap, Floyd Ellison, Johnny Johnson and Semmie Earl Williams.

County Treasurer: Earl Parrish and B. E. (Earl) Reeves.

Clerk of Circuit Court: Dock Dennis of Maplesville, J. C. Pattillo and Horsley White of Clanton.

County Board of Education, Place No. 3: Pope Payne has no opposition.

County Board of Education, Place No. 4: O. H. Arledge of Jemison, E. Span Jones, who was a candidate four years ago for the same office, and Lonnie Porter of Jemison.

Circuit Judge Oakley Melton has no opposition.

Congressman Edward deGraffenried drew opposition at the last minute. He will be opposed by Armistead Inge Selden, Jr., of Greensboro, Alabama.

Judge Victor J. Heard drew no opposition.

Guess that's just about it, folks. So far as the Democratic candidates for office in the May Primary is concerned. From here on out it's you and them.

Mother Of J. C. Parr Passes

Mrs. Lucy Ella Parr, mother of J. C. and George Parr, died at Montgomery Monday night. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Montgomery and interment was at Greensboro, Ala.

J. C. Parr is local manager of the Elmore Store here.

E. C. PARRISH QUALIFIES FOR COUNTY TREASURER

E. C. (Earl) PARRISH

E. C. (Earl) Parrish has qualified to make the race for the office of County Treasurer against B. E. Reeves, incumbent.

Parrish has been a clerk and officer of the First National Bank of Clanton for the past 28 years. He is now Cashier, having been promoted to this office some four or five years ago.

He is 43 years old and a life-long Democrat as is his family on his maternal and paternal sides. He has been closely connected with the political life of the county for more than twenty years. This is his first bid for an elective office.

He was born and reared in Chilton County. One of his Great Grandfathers was the first Treasurer of what was then Baker County.

A graduate of Chilton County High School in the Class of 1924, he has scores of friends and relatives throughout this section. He is a member of the First Baptist Church, a Mason, Treasurer of the local Red Cross Chapter and a past President of the Clanton Lions Club.

In a statement issued this week Parrish stated that he qualified for the office of County Treasurer with full knowledge of the duties of the office and feels well equipped to handle them. He also asks the influence and active support of his many friends in the county and promises them an efficient administration.

Better Speech Club Holds Open House

The Better Speech Club, composed of Mrs. Curry Thomas' Sixth Grade Class of the Clanton Elementary School, held open house Wednesday, February 27th, from 12:30 p.m. until 2:30 p.m.

The Club presented a program commemorating Henry W. Longfellow's 145th birthday. All the members of the Club took part in the program, which consisted of a recital of several of Longfellow's poems, various piano selections and a charming little folk-dance which was danced to the music of "Daisy."

The Activities Committee had prepared programs and favors for the guests which were presented to them on arrival.

At the close of the program, refreshments were served to a large number of guests and the class.

Officers of the Club are: James Studdard, President; Ned Lowery, Vice-President; Dean Dennis, Secretary; and Edwin Mullins, Treasurer. Marie Mims is the hostess.

RED CROSS QUOTA REACHED BY THREE COMMUNITIES

The communities of Vermont, Isabella and Thomas Junior were the first in Chilton County to reach their Red Cross quotas. The Vermont Community, led by Mrs. E. F. Klinner, reported a quota of $25. The Thomas Junior Community, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Cora Griffin, also reported $25 for the American Red Cross. The Isabella Community, led by Mrs. J. C. White, brought in $75.

These quotas draw Chilton County closer to its goal of $5,000.00. The county has been divided into communities, and each community has a quota of its own. Some communities that were assigned quotas after the paper went to press last week were:

Maplesville, $500; Stanton, $100; Collins Chapel, $25; Lomax, $30; Mineral Springs, $25; Enterprise, $30; Mt. Creek, $40; Fairview, $25; New Cedron, $25; Shiloh, $25; Alabama Mills, $500.

The chairmen of these communities are Miss Frances Williams, Mrs. Alma Huff, Mr. Hoyt Burgess and Mr. Glenn Sessions, Mrs. L. F. Sandlin, Mrs. O. V. Cost, Mr. C. M. Yeargan, Clifton Stephens, Mrs. M. L. Williams, Mrs. E. E. Edwards, Mr. Vester Bice, and Hollis Jackson.

F. E. Ellison To Make Race For Board Of Revenue

F. E. Ellison, better known as Floyd, is a candidate for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control, of Chilton County, in the May Primary.

Ellison, who is 46 years old, was born and reared in the County and has been a life-long Democrat. He is a resident of Clanton and has never offered for public office before. He promises to try to see all the voters before May 6th, and personally ask their support.

O. H. Arledge To Be Candidate For Education Board

O. H. Arledge, of Jemison, will make the race for Membership on the County Board of Education, Place No. 4. He has five children and stated this week that he is vitally interested in our schools.

Mr. Arledge says he announced only after long consideration and if elected will serve the schools and the patrons to the best of his ability. He has never offered for public office before.

MELVIS WILLIAMS TO REPRESENT ISABELLA FFA

Melvis Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams of Route One, Thorsby, will represent the Isabella Chapter of Future Farmers of America in the County Public Speaking Contest to be held at Verbena High School Friday, February 29th.

Melvis won the title of champion speaker in the Isabella Chapter by winning over other members of his class and over representatives from two other classes.

Melvis is a member of the Senior I Class and will speak on the topic, "Controlling Soil Erosion." He also practices what he preaches in that program composed of six productive, four improvement and three supplementary projects.

Thorsby-Jemison Lions Club To Present Ministrels Friday

The Thorsby-Jemison Lions Club will present a blackface minstrel at the Jemison High School Auditorium Friday night, March 7th, at 8 o'clock. The admission will be 25c and 50c.

The show is being produced by the Lions for laughing purposes only and is presented by all local talent. The show has been invited to appear in Clanton, Alexander City and Prattville.

Cast of characters:

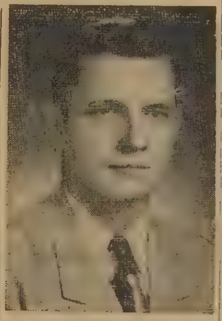
WEST END BAPTIST REVIVAL BEGINS



REV. JAMES BUTLER

Our revival begins Sunday, March 9th, and continues through Sunday night, March 16th. The services will be conducted twice daily, 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. The morning services will be broadcast over WKLF. The services are made possible through the courtesy of the Baptist of Unity and Chilton Associations, also the Hill Grocery Co.

Rev. James Butler, pastor of the West End Baptist Church of Birmingham, Ala., will be our evangelist. We feel confident that the Holy Spirit has assigned him to work with our people. We are very fortunate in having this devoted Christian come this way.

We desire that our friends have the privilege of hearing our evangelist. So will you accept this invitation from our people to come and be with us?

Please pray for the success of this great work that many souls will find themselves in the will of God.—R. E. Wilkins, Pastor.

STEWARDSHIP CLASS OF UNITY ASSOCIATION MEETS

The Stewardship Class of the Unity Association meets March 11th at 10:00 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Russell A. Williams to study the book, "Our Lord and Ours." All W.M.U. Presidents, Stewardship Chairmen, Young People's Leaders and interested W.M.U. Officers are urged to attend.

CCHS Third District Champions

C.C.H.S. showing a smooth brand of ball all the way through were victorious in six games to put them in the Number One spot in Third District. The C.C.H.S. boys showed an excellent brand of sportsmanship, as did all entrants in the tournament. The fans and followers of the Western Division winners (Perry County High and Greensboro) were high in their praise of the sportsmanship displayed by both Chilton County High and Maplesville (winners of Eastern Division).

In tournament scoring for C.C.H.S. Smith led with 95 points, followed by Bean and Popwell, tied with 47 points each. Next came Scott with 40, Oaks had 32, Thornton had 13, Grooms had 12 points, Easterling finished with 4, Williams had 2. Lawrence failed to enter the scoring column, but was always ready for action as displayed by all.

Chilton County had three more entrants besides C.C.H.S. and Maplesville who fared less fortunate. Verbena had wins over Hicks Memorial and Isabella, but lost to a strong Ramer team in consolation game. They gained fourth plcae in the tournament. Isabella won from Pine Apple, but then lost to Verbena. Jemison was unfortunate in the fact that they tangled with a strong inspired Camden team in their first game and were eliminated.

For C.C.H.S. and Maplesville, though, it is on to Tuscaloosa and the State Tournament. Maplesville meets a strong Warrior team at 2:45 Thursday and Clanton will be going against Springville, the Sixth District Runner-up at 9:45 p.m.

How Tigers Fared:

C.C.H.S. 37 — Plantersville 33.
C.C.H.S. 50 — Loretto 28.
C.C.H.S. 41 — Ramer 31.
C.C.H.S. 58 — Maplesville 39.

Play-off between Eastern and Western Division first and second place teams took place on Friday, February 29, and Saturday, March 1. Maplesville played Perry County High and gained a 54 to 44 win. Chilton County High played Greensboro and handed them a 51 to 41 set-back.

Scores are as follows:

C.C.H.S. 51 — Greensboro 41.

The title game for entire Third District Title found Chilton County High pitted against Maplesville for the second time in the tournament. This game was played Saturday night at 8:15. C.C.H.S. annexed this and the Third District Title by a 55 to 37 score.

Chilton County can well be proud of Coach Bulger and his C.C.H.S. team for the showing they have already named in the District Tournament, and what is expected in the Tuscaloosa Finals.

GET P.-T.A. REPORTS IN BEFORE MARCH 15th

All Chilton County P.-T.A. reports (Membership, Magazine, Parent Education classes, Founders Day gift, life membership and any worthwhile reports) MUST be sent to Mrs. Harry Nelson, State P.-T.A. Office — 39, Adams, Montgomery, Ala., as soon as possible—before March 15.

A duplicate copy must be sent to Mrs. Russell A. Williams, 407-6th Street North, Clanton, Ala., immediately.

JUDGE MELTON UNOPPOSED

OAKLEY MELTON

The deadline for the qualification of candidates in the forthcoming primary found Judge Oakley W. Melton without opposition for renomination for a second term for the office of Circuit Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit. Judge Melton issued the following statement this week in Clanton where he is holding a jury session of court:

To the People of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore Counties:

When I made the race for your Circuit Judge you gave me a large majority vote for which I shall always be most thankful. Now the fact that I am unopposed for renomination overwhelms me with a strong two-fold feeling — one of grateful gratitude, the other one of humbleness. Any success achieved during my first term has been to a great extent due to the fine support and cooperation fo the jurors serving in our courts, members of the Bar and other court officials, and the public generally.

It is, of course, a great honor to serve as Circuit Judge over our circuit composed of three Counties, with a population of 76,747 people, an area of 1,926 square miles, and with property tax-assessed valuation of $42,000,000.00. The honor, however, carries with it numerous and important duties, grave and heavy responsibilities. I renew my pledge to give to these duties and responsibilities diligent application, and the best efforts and thoughts of which I am capable. Your continued loyalty, support, and cooperation is respectfully solicited.

Although unopposed for renomination, it is my intention to tour the circuit and see as many of you as time and the duties of office will permit.

Please remember that in the heart of the "City of Natural Beauty," near the banks of the tumbling waters of the Coosa, overlooking modern Memorial Park, with a beautiful view of Bald Knob Mountain, is situated a little, modest, red-top house with the latch string always on the outside of the door. The members of my family join me in inviting you to pull the latch string, come in, any time; also in saying to everyone — THANKS A MILLION!

COMMITTEE TO REPORT TOMORROW

Concluding a week of intensive study of Chilton County High School, the Evaluative Committee will report to the County Board of Education and to the school tomorrow morning in the school library.

The committee, headed by Mr. C. W. Phillips, Director of Jefferson County High Schools, Birmingham, has made this evaluation with the idea of helping the school improve its instructional program. The study has been for the benefit of the children the school serves. The report will tell how the school can be improved both now and in the next few years.

G. C. Donovan Candidate For Revenue Board

G. C. Donovan, age 57, a long-time resident of Chilton County, will make the race for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control.

Donovan is a former school teacher, having taught school for ten years before becoming interested in farming. He is a veteran of World War I. He has served as foreman on the county roads and knows the needs of the county. He promises to do all in his power to put the people's money where it will do the most people the most good.

JEMISON FFA NEWS

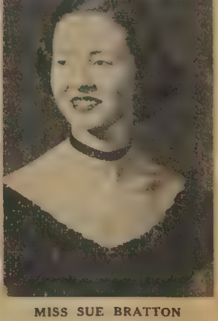
On Friday, February 29th, at Verbena High School Auditorium the annual county public speaking and quartet contests were held. There were speakers from Jemison, Verbena, Isabella, and Maplesville FFA Chapters. Bobby Jones of Jemison won first place and Gerald Wayne Jones of Verbena second. Bobby Jones spoke on "Farmers in a Changing World." He received a cash award of $5.00 and a ribbon was presented to him by the county president, Orval Moore.

While the judges were making their decisions the audience was entertained by the Jemison FFA Quartet. This quartet automatically won the county contest because no other chapter entered a quartet. The members of the quartet are Billy Conway, Kendall Martin Donald Gothard with Janis Miller, accompanist

The quartet and Bobby will represent this county in the district FFA contests to be held some time this month. According to our local adviser, L. C. Shields, these boys have a good chance to go to the state finals this year if they continue to work hard.

Present Joint Recital Tonight, 8:00

MISS BOBBIE GRAY



MISS SUE BRATTON

Miss Bobbie Gray, pianist, and Miss Sue Bratton, soprano, will present a joint recital in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church of Clanton tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 p.m. These young ladies are graduating from high school this year, and are already enrolled at Alabama College where Miss Gray will major in piano and Miss Bratton in public school music.

Miss Bratton has made an excellent all A record at Jemison High School where she is president of the Beta Club, a member of the popular singing ensemble, "The Harmonettes," and soloist for many community and church occasions. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bratton.

At Chilton County High School, Miss Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Gray, has distinguished herself as Glee Club accompanist the past two years, and as piano soloist or accompanist on many occasions. She has recently won the coveted title of "Musician of the Senior Class." She has regularly served her church in the capacity of pianist the past two years also.

Lois Thompson Mims proudly presents these girls in their senior recital, a representative program of fine piano and vocal works. The public is cordially invited.

NATURAL GAS PROFITABLE

Natural gas is proving profitable to the City of Clanton as well as to it's citizens.

The City is collecting more than seventy-five hundred dollars monthly from natural gas customers and the citizens are saving anywhere from twenty-five to fifty percent on their fuel bills.

Within a year Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated this week, the City will be collecting around fifteen thousand dollars monthly from natural gas customers.

The loan was originally set up to be paid off within thirty years but at the present rate of consumption and collections the Mayor stated with good management the City would pay off the bonds within approximately half that time.

IF SOMEONE ASKS . . .

"Does the government pay Red Cross for the blood plasma which it provides to the armed forces?"

ANSWER:

No. The Department of Defense does not pay the Red Cross for blood itself. The Department of Defense does reimburse Red Cross for part of the actual audited costs of the expanded Blood Program required to collect the quantities of blood needed for national defense. The Red Cross continues to carry a large share of the expense of the Blood Program, providing all indirect administration, donor recruitment, direction and training of volunteers, canteen. Prior to the completion of formal arrangements with the Department of Defense, Red Cross provided the armed forces with 30,000 pints of whole blood and 80,000 units of serum albumin for which there was no reimbursement. Moreover, as part of its regular peacetime Blood Program, the Red Cross provides blood to military and veterans hospitals without charge. This is over and above the vast quantities of blood supplied to hundreds of civilian hospitals throughout the country. — Green County Democrat.

THIS COULD BE APPLIED TO CHILTON

Good government begins at home. Many of us overlook that fact. We seek to keep up with what is happening in Washington, but we're far too ignorant of the problems of local government and how, or whether, those problems are being attacked.

We do not believe it exaggerating to state that not one out of 10 Auburn voters keeps up with the administration of affairs of Lee County. Yet. decisions are made by the county governing body which vitally affect the welfare of every citizen of Lee County.

This brings us to point out that we cannot afford to let our interest in the 1952 national elections blind us to the fact that Lee County will elect two county commissioners. The four-man commission, presided over by the Judge of Probate is the body which disburses all funds coming into the county treasury. It makes appropriations to welfare, public health, agricultural and county road work.

There are three candidates for the district 1 place on the commission and three for district 3. It behooves every voter to acquaint himself with the record, experience and other qualifications of the candidates.

"Squint" Gets His Eyes Opened!

"Squint" Brown dropped by the other afternoon and announced that as of now, he's "reformed."

Seems Tiny Fields had hauled him to Judge Cunningham for dumping a load of trash in an empty lot. The Judge said he'd suspend the fine—providing he'd give Mrs. Bell a hand with her hogs for five days. Mrs. Bell's hired hand was down with rheumatism.

"Well, sir," says Squint, "the Judge sure knew what he was doing. Looking after those hogs for five days cured me of being careless and messy for the rest of my life." And just to prove it, he marched across the room with the ashtray he was using and emptied it in the corner wastebasket!

From where I sit, Squint would have learned his lesson easier by watching how Andy over at the Green Gardens co-operates with the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. Andy keeps his place neat as a pin. He found out long ago it pays to go "whole hog" for cleanliness.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Of course it's bad manners and child psychologists frown on it, but almost all parents occasionally resort to spelling when young ears (pre-school, that is) are hearing more than they should.

We do it around our house, spell out things we'd rather the three-year-old and the five-year-old didn't understand. So I suppose what happened the other day shouldn't be surprising.

The children, who had been playing out in the yard, came in just before noon to ask for some cookies. Because it was so close to mealtime, their request was denied. And they weren't entirely hapy.

"You know," said the five-year-old to her young brother, "I think Mother is being P-R-O-S-M!"

And he nooded in solemn agreement.

The neighbor around the corner invested in some of the dime-store variety rag rugs and put them to a use for which they were never intended. She used them to cover pillows which she uses in the family room now and will use out on the porch this Summer.

The rugs make such bright, durable pillow covers it's a wonder more housewives hadn't thought of the idea years ago.

Confession: I've never outgrown the desire to mail all the coupons offering free samples and free booklets. That's the main reason I'm sorry the price of post cards has gone up!!

When I dropped in to see the next door neighbor the other afternoon, she was in the midst of making one of her fabulous(and fattening) desserts. She had reached the point in the recipe that called for whipped cream and was trying to find, of all things, a fish bowl.

"What in the world do you want a fish bowl for?" I asked.

"Why don't you know?" she answered, "that a fish bowl is the finest container in the world to use for whipping cream or beating eggs or doing other beatings jobs like that? Your rotary beater won't slosh liquids out of a fish bowl."

And when she found her fish bowl she proved her point.

One of these days I'm going to start a campaign to have bathroom lavatories placed at the proper height. Is there any reason why an average-sized person should have to lean over in a semi-circle to reach the water in the lavatory?

If you have a fish bowl handy, maybe you'd like to try the dessert the next door neighbor was making the other day. Here's her recipe for Apricot Fluff Pie:

Cook two cups of dried apricots in small amount of water for about half an hour or until tender. Drain off liquid and press apricots through sieve. Stir in a cup of sugar and let cool.

While apricots cool, line a pie pan with a shell of crushed vanilla wafers or graham crackers and whip a cup of thick cream, using the fish bowl, of course. Slowly fold the apricot puree into the whipped cream, blending carefully. Pour mixture into prepared crumb shell and chill in the refrigerator several hours before serving. This quantity serves six people generously.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and good deeds during the death of our husband and father, Mr. R. L. Williams. Also we wish to thank Rev. J. I. Bice and all the other ministers and friends for their comforting words.

May God's richest blessings be upon each one is our prayer.—The Family.

FARROWING TIME

Hog growers should remember that eight pigs weaned per litter are usually twice as profitable as six pigs.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

NEPHRITIS

Nephritis, meaning inflammation of the kidneys, covers a wide range of symptoms of kidney disorder, which may cause serions complications if not controlled early.

The human body is equipped with two kidneys, whose function is to eliminate waste substances from the body. In so doing they also remove water from the body and thus help maintain a proper water balance. When the kidneys are working normally, about two or three pints of urine containing waste products pass from the body through the kidneys and bladder each day.

When a specific germ infection in the body interferes with the normal functioning of the kidneys, some form of nephritis results. Examination of the urine is the most improtant single step in the detection of nephritis. Because of the variability of symptoms, many persons are not aware of the condition and learn of it only when applying for life insurance, for example.

In acute nephritis, sometimes called Bright's disease, frequently found in children and young adults, perhaps only one or two cups of urine may be passed in twenty-four hours. Usually highly concentrated the urine appears smoky, brown or red, or coffee colored, the color change caused by the blood oozing through the fine blood vessels of the kidney into the urine. There may be persistent headache, mental depression and fatigue. In the more serious stage, there may be nausea, vomiting stupor and convulsions, with the patient lapsing into a deep coma with labored breathing. He may die within a few days.

If treated early, about 90 per cent of patients recover. Sometimes the treatment may require only three or four weeks. Again it may extend to six months or a year. The orders of the physician for the individual case should be carefully followed.

The annual physical examination is important. It should always include a urinalysis and a blood count. The chemical functions of the body are significant. It is the wise person who sees that they are not impaired and who if they are, seeks correction before serious damage or perhaps early death results.

Birthday Celebration—

The Payne family gathered at the home of Mr. Pope Payne, Sr., the occasion being the birthdays of Mrs. Pope Payne, Sr., Mrs. Pope Payne, Jr., Mrs. Shorty Miller and Mrs. Harry Atchison. Each with their family enjoyed a big birthday dinner together.

Mr. and Mrs. Glennis Chandler of Daphne, Ala., visited his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Yeargan, over the week end.

Mrs. Bob Carter of Birmingham spent last week here with her brothers, Mr. Sam and Jim Pate.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pate and children of Childersburg, Ala., spent the week end here with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pate.

Mrs. Walker and Mr. Felix Eiland are still in a very bad condition and their friends are invited to come by and see them, also Mrs. N. Laurell isn't feeling too good. Please remember her.

Mrs. John Brothers is at home this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bosworth.

Miss Margaret Ward of Birmingham spent the week end here visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Strength and son, William Earl of Wyandott, Michigan, were here for the week end due to the death of his mother, who passed away Friday at her home in Clanton. William Earl visited his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rube Williams, while here.

We are very happy to see Mrs. Earl Marcus up and out again. Mrs. Marcus has been in for quite a while.

Mr. Wilton Littleton left Sunday night for Ochover Clinic in New Orleans, La. We are all very much in prayer for Wilton and certainly hope that he will find relief while there. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Littleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Vesker Aycock of Birmingham spent Sunday here with parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Collins, also Mr. and Mrs. Commee Collins, Jr., and children of Wetumpka, Ala., visited with them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williams of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Ethridge Williams of Birmingham visited Mr. and Mrs. Rube Williams Sunday.

Miss Pat Gamble visited her parents in Birmingham the week end.

Mrs. J. M. Higgins and Mrs. M. Reid, a sister of Mrs. Higgins, left Monday night for Gamsville, Texas, to visit their brother, Z. O. Dunman.

So sorry to hear that Mrs. Pete Franklin fell and broke her leg.

Lutheran Church—

Sunday School, 10 o'clock.

Morning Worship, 11 o'clock.

There will be Lenten services each Thursday evening at 7:30 until Easter. Everybody is invited to attend these services.

Thorsby Institute News—

Remember that the competitive play will be on March 22. These are given by the clubs, the Pushmataha and Philomathic. This is an annual affair.

Miss Helen Jenkins, Principal of Thorsby Institute, has been invited to be in the Academic Procession of the Graham-Eckes Schools at Palm Beach, Fla. They are celebrating on March 22, the 25th Anniversary of the founding of the schools and it is quite an honor to be invited. Miss Jenkins regrets that she will be unable to attend..

Thorsby Baptist S. S. Clinic—

Dr. Lincoln Newman, promotional secretary for the Talladega Baptist Association is thrilling the officers and teachers of Thorsby Baptist Church in a Sunday School Clinic. A very fine interest is being manifest on the part of the church family in its entirety.

A religious census has just been completed and we feel that the Sunday School is going forward in a great way with the program of enlistment and enlargement.

Thorsby Baptist Training Union Course—

The Baptist Training Union Study Course is scheduled for March 10 through March 14. The following books will be taught, Young People, "Training in Class Membership"; Intermediate, "The Training Union Manuel"; Junior, "The Junior Baptist."

Brother Arden Foke, Training Union Director, has obtained the services of the following as instructors for various departments: Dr. Edward Glover, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Montevallo, teacher for adults; Miss Pitts Hughes, who is the student secretary at Montevallo College, will instruct the Young People; Miss Ann Duke will teach the Intermediates and Miss Anito Ward will work with the Juniors.

We are going all the way out as a church to make this one of the best courses ever conducted in the Thorsby Baptist Church.

The following committees were appointed to make preparation for our Spring revival beginning March 16 and continuing through March 23rd. The committees are well under way with their work; hospitality committee, publicity committee, radio, signs and press, committee on prayer during the revival and cottage prayer meetings leading up to the revival and a committee on amplifying services. We have obtained the services of the following:

Evangelist, Rev. Fred Halbrooks, who is pastor of the Circlewood Baptist Church in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Rev. Halbrooks will be with us from Sunday through the following Sunday. He is a grdauate of Howard College, also the Southern Baptist Seminary of Louisville, Ky. He is one of the most capable consecrated ministers that we have and will make a strong appeal to every age group in town and in the community.

Our singer, Rev. M. G. Fields, is pastor of East Thomas Baptist Church in Birmingham.

Evangelistic Campaign—

The simultaneous Evangelistic Campaign is being sponsored by the Chilton Baptist Association, the date March 30 through April 13. We are delighted to report that 57% of the churches in the association have agreed to conduct their revivals on or near this date. There are other churches I am sure that will join in and we trust that the program can reach the magnitude of 100% cooperation. Please be much in prayer that as a result of this campaign that many people shall come to know him who is altogether lovely.

BEDROOM PLANNING HIGHLY IMPORTANT

Consider convenience and comfort in bedrooms when making plans for a new house or for remodeling, advises Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She recommends that every bedroom have at least two windows on different walls for cross ventilation. A comfortable location for the bed should be considered when the plan for the room is drawn. Arrange the room so the head of the bed stands against a wall to the right or left of a window. Be sure to leave at least 18 inches of fre space on either side of a doubl bed and at least two feet betwee the bottom of the bed and the wall Also provide adequate outlets fo proper lighting and conveniences.

For more information about bedroom planning, see the local hom demonstration agent.

Committee Honored—

On Monday afternoon, March 3, the Evaluation Committee who is visiting the Chilton County High School for a week's study, was honored at a tea in the library of the school when the Future Home Makers were hostesses.

A color scheme of yellow was carried out in the spring flowers and refreshments.

The visiting committee, the school faculty and people from town made up the guests list.

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Chilton County High School was host to the Evaluation Committee at a banquet on Monday night in the school lunch room.

The committee of seventeen are members of the secondary-schools and colleges of the state.

Miss Patricia Huddleston sang three numbers, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston.

Mr. Patterson Hicks, C.C.H.S. principal, presided. Short talks were made by Mr. C. W. Phillips, Director of High Schools of Jefferson County, Coordinator for the visiting committee, and Mr. J. H. Boockholdt, Chilton County Superintendent of Education.

The Easter motif was used in decorating the banquet table, very artistic place cards consisting of the baby chicks were used.

Clanton Families Return From Texas—

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Teel and Janice, Mrs. Referee Lineberry and Lynn have returned home from a trip to Texas and other points and report a wonderful trip.

En route home the party stopped for a short visit with Mrs. Joe Calloway in Harlengin, Texas, and enjoyed a trip into Old and New Mexico.

The McKee's have been in Pecos, Texas, for two months. They were joined by the Teels and Lineberry's two weeks ago and all returned home together on Wednesday of last week.

Visitor Feted—

Mrs. LeRoy Martin complimented her sister-in-law, Mrs. Latham Ellis, of Pensacola, Fla., at a coke party Friday morning, February 29. Jonquils were used to make the home more attractive.

Ice cold drinks and party dainties were served to the following guests: Mesdames R. C. Williams, Crit Jones, James Moliston, Joe Higgins, Lester Jones, J. C. Parr, W. C. Davidson, A. B. Foshee, Erle Ellis, W. C. Maddox and Marcus Polk, Jr.

Ruth S. S. Class News—

The Ruth Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, held the February meeting in the home of Mrs. Russell Williams.

Arrangements of early spring blossoms decorated the room where the guests assembled.

Mrs. Harold Culp, class president, presided and led the discussion on the class visitation program. The president also welcomed Mrs. Shirley Hamm into the class.

The game period was in charge of Mrs. Lawrence Mims.

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the following: Mrs. Paul Moatts, Mrs. Hoover Moatts, Mrs. Harold Culp, Mrs. Lawrence Mims and Mrs. Shirley Hamm.

Pilot Club Held Meeting—

The Pilot Club of Clanton met in the private dining room of the Dixie Cafe on Tuesday night, February 26th, for the monthly program meeting, with the club president, Miss Marguerite Perry, presiding.

Invocation was by Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, guest lecturer for the evening.

The program consisted of colored slide pictures of England, Ireland and France, along with a most interesting lecture by Dr. Hutchinson. These pictures were taken by Dr. Hutchinson on his last visit to these countries.

The club president in behalf of the club members presented Dr. Hutchinson a potted azalea in appreciation of his services during the evening.

Other visitors were: Mrs. Josephine J. Mullins, Miss Doralyce Bush, Miss Amy Hawkins, Mrs. Reid Mullins, Mrs. J. D. Bell and Mrs. Ed Blackmon. Twenty club members were present.

Four Year Old Little Girl Has First Birthday—

Patricia Ann Sharp had her first birthday on Friday afternoon, February 29th, although she was four years old. Patsy will have very few birthdays in her lifetime. Only when leap year rolls around can she celebrate.

This first birthday party was a big event in her little life, for her mother, Mrs. Milton Sharp, had decorated the dining room of the home on 5th Avenue with crepe paper in pastel shades of pink and blue with inflated balloons completing the room decorations. The party colors were repeated in the pretty birthday cake which held four tiny candles.

There was a big thrill for Patsy as she opened each gift package.

Games were diversion and Mrs. Sharp served ice cream and cake for refreshments. The little honoree gave each of her little guests a whistle, a fancy hat and a balloon as parting favors.

Guests included Glenda Daniels, Judy Cox, Cecil Wade, Richard Maddox, Sandy Poole, Jan Sexton, Joe and Ellen Coggins, Judy Ellison, Mark Downing and Jimmy Downing.

Celebrates Sixth Birthday—

Belinda Gale Clements, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Clements, celebrated her sixth birthday Thursday afternoon, February 28th, when several of her little friends gathered at her home bringing pretty gift wrapped packages.

Games were played during the party hours.

The honoree's cake held six candles and as she blew out the candles, her guests sang, "Happy Birthday."

Ice cream and cake and party danties were served with delicious punch to the following: Rhonda Powell, Wayne Melton, Linda Spivey, Pete Hogue, Glenda Smith, Sherral Crew, Jean Roath, Mickey Scott, Wanda Kaye Williamson and Colin Clements.

Has 84th Birthday—

Sunday, March 2, was the birthday of Mrs. O. O. Roper, 8th St., Clanton. She was 84 years young.

On Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock Mrs. Roper's neighbors and her sisters, Mrs. B. L. Jones and Mrs. Florence Wilbanks, dropped by her home to help her celebrate this grand occasion. As they arrived they sang the "Birthday Song" to the honoree and showered her with gifts. A period of neighborly friendship followed.

Light refreshments were served to the honoree and fifteen friends.

Kiwanis Club News—

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton held the regular weekly meeting Thursday evening in the High School Cafeteria when the church committee was in charge of the program.

Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson presented the Rev. Eugene Peacock of Mobile, evangelist preacher for the First Methodist Church revival of last week. Rev. Peacock based his interesting talk on his travels in Europe. The conditions over there, etc.

Mr. Walter Mann, soloist for the Methodist revival was introduced and he favored the club with several vocal selections.

After the club meeting its members and guests attended church services in a body.

Recent Bride Honored—

Mrs. Clifton Klie, nee Evelyn West, was feted at a miscellaneous gift shower on Wednesday afternoon, February 27th, when Mrs. Edgar P. Goodgame entertained at her home on Taylor Street.

Spring flowers were used to adorn the receiving rooms.

Guests were welcomed by the hostess, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. N. E. West.

Mrs. W. R. Cobb presided at the bride's book.

The refreshment table was covered with a cloth of hand crochet lace and centered with a low bowl filled with white narcissus. Serving was Mrs. E. H. Waldrup.

March 10, 1951

Mr. John M. Higgins, President
John M. Higgins Lumber Company
Thorsby, Alabama

Dear Mr. Higgins:

We are still hearing favorable mention of the conferences week before last. It was an honor to be on the program of these conferences with you and a pleasure to see something of you personally. This letter is a bit delayed by absence on some other conferences, but my feeling of pleasure and of gratitude to you for participating in a program partially sponsored by our University has not cooled.

With best personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

Lee Bidgood

Dean, School of Com. & Bus. Adm.

John M. Higgins, Thorsby lumberman and candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County, was commended by the University of Alabama for his effective and unselfish work during 1951 as member of a three-man committee of small manufacturers who acted as advisers to the School of Commerce and Business Administration.

He assisted Dean Lee Bidgood, and other members of the University faculty, in planning a series of conferences on problems of small business men. The conferences, which were attended by over 500 Alabama manufacturers, were held in Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, and Gadsden on February 20-23, 1951. The program, which dealt with such subjects as financial and personnel problems of small industry, featured several speeches by leading Alabama bankers, representatives of Government and industry, and University professors.

In addition to his work in planning these conferences, Mr. Higgins participated as a member of the afternoon panel discussion on, "How to Work With The Government in the Defense Production Program." Full membership of this panel were:

Chairman: Hon. John Sparkman, U. S. Senator and Chairman, Senate Committee on Small Business

Panel: Mr. James L. Kelly, Acting Director
Office of Small Business
National Production Authority

Comdr. Phillip F. A[illegible]ler, Chief
Small Business Off[illegible]
Munitions Board

Mr. Chas. E. Sha[illegible]neral Counsel
Committee on Smal[illegible]siness
U. S. Senate

Mr. Clayton Albert, Sales Manager
Southern Coach Manufacturing Co.

Mr. John M. Higgins, Pres.
John M. Higgins Lumber Co.

Mr. J. L. McPhillips, Vice-Pres.
King Pharr Canning Co.

Following the conferences, Professor Richard T. Eastwood wrote Mr. Higgins, "In behalf of the University of Alabama, I should like to take this opportunity to thank you again for your splendid assistance in planning and conducting the small industry conferences. . . . I certainly enjoyed being with you during the four days and also want you to know that we all feel you made a very effective and worthwhile contribution. I certainly hope that it will be possible for you to visit us again rather soon at the University."

The text of Mr. Higgins' speech was published in pamphlet form by the University of Alabama Press.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dennis were Tuesday night dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green in Selma.

Mr. Cecil McKee and Miss Ann McKee are on our sick list. Mr. Willis H. Smitherman has had the flu. We are glad to state that he is able to be up and around at this writing.

Miss Dorothy Nell Cole was absent from school last week due to measles.

Mr. Frank Lovelady of the Cox Community is very ill at this writing at his home.

Mrs. Leila Sample is ill at her home here. We wish for all the sick a quick and complete recovery.

The Plantersville Eastern Star Chapter entertained at the High School last Friday night with a domino party. A very enjoyable evening for those present. A cake was presented Mrs. Houston Cummings. Mrs. Audrie Gutherie won high score during the party and was presented a gift. Mr. Prude Perry won high score prize for the gentleman and Mrs. Maudine O'Neal won the low score prize. The beautiful hand-made bedspread made and given to the Chapter by Mrs. Marion Levins Jones was presented to Mr. Rufus Tyler, 312 North 19th St., Bessemer, Alabama.

Mrs. Parmer Levins underwent surgery at the Vaughan Memorial Hospital in Selma, Ala., last Wednesday morning. Mrs. Levins is doing nicely.

Mr. Farmer Levins is improving to the delight of his many, many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sherrer, Jr., of Marietta, Ga., spent the week end with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sherrer, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neal.

Last week while Mrs. O. V. Harrison was at home baking a birthday cake for Mrs. Joe Ed Bearden, she —Mrs. Joe Ed Bearden—was at her home baking a birthday cake for Mrs. O. V. Harrison. Each thinking to surprise the other with a birthday party. Mr. O. V. Harrison was doing the inviting and knowing all the time that each lady was to be honored. When guests arrived at Mrs. O. V. Harrison's home February 28th, they began singing "Happy Birthday, Nan and Margie." This was indeed a happy surprise for Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Bearden. Many nice, useful gifts were presented to both ladies and a very enjoyable evening for all present.

Mr. Isaac A. Abercrombie, 91, a native of Perry County, and for some years past, a resident of Selma, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Smitherman, at 10:15 a.m. Monday, February 25th, [illegible]

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Abercrombie Smitherman, of Selma, Ala., four sons—Vester Abercrombie of Selma, Victor Abercrombie of Robertsdale, Ala., Rev. M. C. Abercrombie, Clint, Texas, and Edward Abercrombie of Birmingham; by 14 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Funeral services took place at 3:00 p.m. Tuesday at Macedonia Baptist Church in Chilton County. Rev. B. B. McCurley, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church of Selma, Ala. Pallbearers were: Fred McGee, Roy McGee, Harrell H. Oliver, George Crocker and Earl Ellzey.

Many throughout this section have been friends of this family throughout the years. Sympathy is extended the loved ones.

Mr. O. V. Harrison and Mr. Joe H. Harrison of Harrison Brothers Cabinet Shop in Selma, Ala., entertained the Maplesville Basketball Team at Speed's Dinette with a chicken supper Saturday night, March 1st. Thirty-wo guests were present. This invitation included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Daniel, Nancy and Frank, Coach Kelley and his wife. This affair followed the last game of the tournament with Maplesville winnnig second place. Clanton having won first place.

It is indeed nice to have two teams from Chilton County go to the finals.

Mrs. Minnie Annabel Sanders, 81, a life-long resident of Dallas County died at 5:00 p.m., February 26, 1952, in a Selma hospital where she had been seriously ill for a short time. Active until recent weeks, Mrs. Sanders had known but few and only minor illnesses throughout her entire life. Mrs. Sanders was born and spent the greater part of her life in the Old Fellowship Community, a pioneer Baptist stronghold in North Dallas County. Her interests was a home-maker and a mother: her life was one of quiet service to others, and rich in affection and friendship.

She was first married to the late Walter P. Davis. Children of this union being W. E. Davis, of Selma, Ala., and the late Tommy and Walter Davis of Planters, twin sons.

Surviving children of her second marriage to Henry P. Sanders are Bluford Sanders, Mrs. Alton Peacock and Mrs. E. V. Guy, all of Selma. Mrs. S. C. Friday, also of Selma, is a step-daughter, who was reared in her care. Twelve grandchildren and six great-grandchildren also survive.

Dr. Fred B. Pearson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, assisted by Dr. J. A. Lee, Christian Church minister, conducted her funeral at the First Baptist Church at 10:00 a.m. Thursday morning. Burial in New Liveoak Cemetery. Breslin Service directing. Mrs. Sanders visited this section often and had many, many relatives and friends here. A large number attended her funeral from this section. Our sympathy to the loved ones.

A surprise ceremony of simplicity and dignity marked the marriage of Miss Lois Hubbard Taylor to William Alfred Pickering on Saturday morning, January 19th, 1952, in Meridian, Miss., uniting two families prominently identified in Alabama.

Descended from pioneer families of Dallas County, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Jefferson Taylor. Paternally she is the grand daughter of the late William Thomas Taylor and Lois Hubbard Taylor, the latter a well known writer of this section for whom she is named. Maternally she is the grand daughter of Mrs. Lucy P. Lott, and the late E. W. Lott of Manila Plantation. She is a direct descendant of Colonel Robert Rutherford who fought in the American Revolution.

Mr. Pickering is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bennett Pickering of Plantersville, Ala.

Both paternally and maternally he is connected with pioneer families of this section. The King family, long prominent in Dallas County, being among his maternal forebearers. Mrs. Pickering is a graduate of Parrish High School, Selma, and The Taylor Commercial College. She also attended the University of Alabama where she studied Journalism and was a member of the Crimson Tide staff. She holds membership in the William Rufus King Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and is active in the work of the First Baptist Church. For the past year she has held a position in the Research Unit, AF 97th Supply, at Craig Air Force Base. Mr. Pickering is a graduate of Albert Parrish High School and majored in electrical engineering at the University of Alabama. He is presently employed in the Supply Office, Craig Field. The young couple will be at home at 513 Lauderdale St., Selma, Ala.

Friends will regret to learn of the serious illness of Luther B. Gay in a Selma hospital.

Mrs. Thelma Ramsey has returned to her home from a Selma hospital where she was ill with flu.

Mrs. Ruby Letcher Harville attended a reception in Birmingham recently. This occasion marked the 52 wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reedy. Mrs. Harville was accompanied to Birmingham by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Harville and small son, Larry, of Selma, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall have both been on our sick list.

Mrs. Henry Houston entertained a large number of children at her home last Tuesday afternoon honoring her daughter, Sara Joyce, on her fifth birthday.

Season of prayer for Home Missions March 3-7 at the Plantersville Baptist Church from 1 to 2 p.m.

Mrs. Sue Seale of Selma, Ala., a former Chilton Countian, will leave for New York City Tuesday. She will spend two weeks attending the International Beauty Trade Show and will take post-graduate courses in hair styling. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Virgie Gibbons.

Mrs. Seale owns and operates the Hotel Albert Beauty Shoppe. She will study while in New York City under Robert Fiance at the Hair Design Institute and under Marguerite E. Buck, President of Fashion Futures which is the world's only fashion coordination office formed to predict, interpret and promote trends in hair styles and fashions. Madame Buck established the first master's course in hair dressing and cosmetology which Mrs. Seale completed the past year at the University of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lane (Nola Dee Reynolds) and son, Henry, returning from McIntosh, Ala., where they attended the funeral of Mr. Lane's mother, stopped over with their father, Mr. Frank Reynolds, and brother, Mr. Millard Reynolds, for the week end. They returned to their home in Auburn late Sunday afternoon.

George Willhite, 65, for a number of years a successful horse and mule dealer in Selma, died at 6:00 p.m. Wednesday in a hospital a few hours after being stricken at his residence, 419 Lamar Ave., Selma, Ala. Mr. Willhite had been in failing health since 1948 and retired the past March, having been active in business in Selma since 1909. He was born in Perryville, Ky., a small community where he grew to know and appreciate good stock. Coming to Selma as a young man he was connected with the old Meyer Stable just before the automobile era, and launched his own mule and horse business in 1919. He had handled thousands of animals, shipped from Kansas City and Memphis, and was known to farmers throughout the State with whom he had built up a reputation for fair dealing. He made friends readily and retained them. He was a member of the Baptist Church and the Selma Elks.

He is survived by his wife and by a step-son, Cpl. R. E. Rowe, who arrived by plane Thursday from Mather Air Force Base, California.

Funeral services took place at 10:00 a.m., Friday from the chapel of Breslin Service Funeral Home. Dr. Fred B. Pearson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment in Liveoak Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Everett of Washington, D. C., (Evelyn Gregg) have announced the birth of a son on March 3rd, 1952, at 8:00 p.m. This youngster tipped the scales at eight pounds and seven ounces.

Mrs. Beulah Warren, Mrs. Earl Pickering and children visited Earl Pickering in Montgomery Sunday. They found Earl feeling just fine.

To the Citizens of Chilton County And the State of Alabama

I have been asked why I did not expose the second audit made by Roland L. Sparkman and C. R. Keener and approved by Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton, who is Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama, which I will explain later.

I have stated before that the State Examiners charged me with $37,560.29, and I will show you before May 6th that this amount was charged to me because they were BIAS, PREJUDICED and INCOMPETENT to make an audit, and they had no regard as to what the records recited. A MAN'S HOME MAY BE DESTROYED BY A TORNADO, WIND OR FIRE, AND HIS FRIENDS COULD BUILD HIM ANOTHER HOME IN A SHORT TIME, BUT IF YOU DESTROYED A PERSON'S GOOD CHARACTER, YOU HAVE TAKEN SOMETHING FROM HIM THAT NO ONE CAN REPLACE.

It appears to me that this second audit made at the expense of the taxpayers by the State Examiners was to destroy my good record in office, to satisfy my political enemies. Some of their names I will mention before May 6th.

I am listing below some of the items they charged to me. They charged warrant or check No. 1439, dated April 14, 1947, amount $322.27. It is a matter of record that I checked out of the Probate Office January 19, 1947. THIS WARRANT OR CHECK WAS NOT ISSUED DURING MY TERM OF OFFICE. They charged me with the following warrants or checks which they stated in the auditor's report were illegal payments over $150.00, not advertised for bids as required by Local Act; Warrant or check No. 521, dated December, 1946, amount $725.21; warrant or check No. 952, dated January 13, 1947, amount $610.61; warrant or check No. 713, dated January 1, 1947, amount $5,713.78; Warrant No. 256, dated September 30, 1946, amount $354.27. These charges amount to seven thousand, seven hundred twenty-six dollars and fourteen cents ($7,726.14), which should not have been charged to me as they were advertised for, as provided by law, and the merchandise was bought from the lowest and best bidder, which is a matter of record.

I have a certified copy from the records kept in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court showing that the above items were advertised, as provided by law.

I will have more to say next week.

J. LEE SMITH.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to the many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our sister and aunt, Alice Williams. Also for the beautiful flowers and to Rev. G. B. Golden, Rev. Hymon Atcheson and Rev. Fred Lowery. — The Williams Family.

CARD OF THANKS

I will take this means to say "Thanks" to all my friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and thoughtful deeds shown while I was in the Selma Baptist Hospital, and after returning home to recuperate.—Mrs. Lillian Robinson.

WAYS TO KEEP SOIL AND WATER ON FARM

Contour farming is the opera of farm machinery across a slop field rather than up and down slope.

"When this method of farming practiced," says S. R. Doug A.P.I. Extension Service soil servationist, "each crop row fo a small ridge across the slope w aids in checking the flow of wa reduces the movement of soil, increases the amount of water sorbed by the soil."

4-H Achievement

A Good Reason for Celebration

As ALABAMA 4-H CLUB members celebrate National 4-H Club Week March 1-9, they look back on 43 years of growth and progress. The 4-H Clubs were the first rural youth clubs organized and promoted on a national basis.

Beginning with 392 boys and girls in 1909, the Alabama 4-H Club membership expanded to an all-time high of 128,231 in 1951. Alabama 4-H Club work got its start when Boys' Corn Clubs were organized in Calhoun and Tuscaloosa Counties in 1909. As the corn clubs grew, the girls became interested in organizing clubs, so in 1911 Girls' Tomato Clubs were organized in Pike and Walker Counties. The first tomato club was organized at the Union School, near Troy, in Pike County.

In 1914 Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act setting up the Extension Service; the corn and tomato clubs were placed under its supervision and the official name was soon changed to 4-H Club. The four-leaf clover was adopted as the official 4-H Club emblem and an "H" was placed on each of the leaf's four sections. They stand for Head, Heart, Hands and Health.

This largest state youth organization is made up of both boys and girls.

The primary purpose of 4-H work is to teach rural youth between the ages of 10 and 21 to love country life, to appreciate nature, to learn the best in agriculture and home economics, and to apply this knowledge in making the farm and home more profitable and enjoyable. Both boys and girls serve in county 4-H Club Councils and participate in 4-H camps, talent shows, county rallies, livestock shows, and National 4-H Club meetings.

You may find these details of 1951 4-H activities interesting:

71 County 4-H Camps held
336 Neighbor-aide meetings held
2,786 4-H Clubs observed 4-H Sunday

Beef Cattle Shows held in 52 counties
Dairy Cattle Shows held in 46 counties
124 Tractor Maintenance Clinics conducted

"Learning by doing" is an important practice in 4-H Club work. This is accomplished through "projects" which the boys and girls select each year. Here are some of the 1951 projects with the number of participants:

Corn	9,904
Peanuts	624
Cotton	3,628
Home Gardens	12,199
Truck Gardens	750
Poultry	9,051
Dairy Cattle	6,828
Beef Cattle	4,103
Sheep	102
Hogs	13,713
Rabbits	717
Home Beautification	7,189
Forestry	1,715
Wildlife	433
Agricultural Engineering	1,6
Farm Management	83
Baking	9,668
Food Preparation	24,108
Food Preservation (canning)	8,947
Health	4,910
Child Care	1,717
Clothing	24,518
Home Management	4,517
Home Furnishings	7,284
Home Industry	545
Junior Leadership	756

Alabama Power Company is glad to recognize this splendid record by 4-H Club boys and girls. Through their efforts, they, too, are "Helping Develop Alabama."

ne of the unique and most insting features of this largest youth organization is that it ade up of both boys and girls. system was followed because early leaders realized the need a rural youth organization that ld not only train boys and girls griculture and home economics, would train them to work toer, play together, and live toer. This idea has been pracl all the way; both boys and serve in county 4-H Club ncils and participate in 4-H ps, talent shows, county rallies, tock shows, and National 4-H meetings.

ne 4-H Clubs were the first ruyouth clubs organized and proed on a national basis. They were organized to serve the needs of rural boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21. The primary purpose of 4-H work is to teach rural youth through their clubs to love country life, to appreciate nature, to learn the best in agriculture and home economics, and to apply this knowledge in making the farm and home more profitable and enjoyable.

Four-H Clubs have become a familiar part of rural life in practically every neighborhood and community in Alabama. To date 5,974 communities have 4-H Clubs which meet from seven to 12 times each year. Each county has a 4-H Club Council which is comprised of the offices of local clubs. Through the county council special projects, shows, rallies, picnics, and county camps are planned and carried out.

In 1951, 67 county 4- Club rallies were held with 59,969 members and others attending. Seventy-one county 4-H camps were attended by 4,603 boys and girls. Picnics were held by 728 4-H Clubs with 19,234 boys and girls enjoying the fun. Three hundred thirty-six neighbor-aide training meetings were held with an attendance of 5,114 members. A total of 2,786 4-H Clubs observed 4-H Sunday. Beef cattle shows were held in 52 counties with 1,066 entries and 11,081 club members attending. Forty-six counties held dairy cattle shows with 1,371 animals entered and 10,689 boys and girls attending. One hundred twenty-four tractor maintenance clinics were attended by 2,569 4-H members.

Individual projects have always been the hub of 4-H Club work. And the state's 128,231 4-H'ers carried a total of 213,974 projects last year. The projects and number of members participating are as follows: Corn, 9,904; peanuts, 624, cotton, 3,628; home gardens, 12,199; truck gardens, 750; poultry, 9,051; dairy cattle, 6,828; beef cattle, 4,103; sheep, 102; hogs, 13,713; rabbits, 717; home beautification, 7,189; forestry 1,715; wildlife, 433; agricultural engineering, 1,675; farm management, 83; baking, 9,868; food preparation, 24,108; food preservation, (canning), 8,947; health 4,910; child care 1,715; clothing 24,518; home management, 4,517; home furnishings, 7,284; home industry, 545; and junior leadership, 756.

4% Farm Loans
Farmers! Use Your Own Credit System
FARMERS HAVE REASON TO BE PROUD OF THEIR LAND BANK SYSTEM
Farmers of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana are proud of the Federal Land Bank and the 79 National Farm Loan Associations in the three states. The banks and the associations have a net worth of over 26 million dollars. They are owned entirely by the farmers who use them.
The bank and the associations are operated for the sole benefit of farmers. The long-term loans and small annual payments make it easy for members to repay their loans. If the member has a crop failure or some other disaster, the National Farm Loan Association—with a local board of directors—neighbors in many cases—will lend an attentive ear to the member's problems.
Local servicing of a member's loan affords many advantages. Consider now consolidating your debts into a land bank loan, or borrowing for any necessary agricultural purpose. Visit, Telephone or Write the Secretary-Treasurer of your

SIMMIE EARL WILLIAMS

Hello, folks, this is your friend, Simmie Earl Williams, who is a candidate for the Board of Revenue and Control for District Four. As you know, it is very important that you elect someone to do the job. I feel that I am qualified for this office. If I am elected I shall do my best by using good judgment, being honest, faithful and true. When you vote for Simmie Earl Williams, you are voting for good roads, honest county government and friendly service. Yes, folks, if I am elected as your Board Member I shall do my best to give you more miles of good roads per vote than you have ever had before.

You may wonder about my past work. I helped build Highway 31 through Chilton County, including two bridges at Verbena and worked two years at Livingston, Ala., at the road camp for the State, one year at the Camp of Maplesville, Ala., as a guard foreman. I also worked for Goodman and Murphy on the two bridges at Verbena, Ala., which were widened, one at South Clanton and one north of Clanton. My experience is unquestionable.

I shall cooperate with whoever is elected to serve with me. My friends have asked me to make this race. My friends are your friends. Won't you join the people on this great day, May 6, 1952, making this the happiest day of our Democrat Party history.

I am assistant mail carrier for Verbena Route Two. Our roads were in such bad shape that was when I decided to make the race.

I am asking all you preacher Chilton County for your co-op tion, all the school teachers, mail carriers, post office wo and everybody else. I will carry mail in March but will see as voters as possible.

Your vote and influence wi appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
SIMMIE EARL WILLIA
(Pd. pol. adv. by Simmie Earl liams, Verbena, Ala.)

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

. . . .and when the last great Scorer comes to write against your name.
He writes not if you won or lost,
but how you played the game. . . .

There are few who would deny that Irby Deramus who died Saturday night, played the game" fair and square with everyone. He was a native Chilton Countian and leaves many friends and relatives in Central Alabama to mourn his passing. He was appointed Chairman of the Chilton County Board of Equalization last year after having served four years under the previous administration, as a member of that Board. He was a loyal friend, a devoted husband and father We offer our sympathy to the bereaved family.

Our good friend, Broughton Lamberth, made a visit to the News office Monday. Broughton is running for Place No. 2, Associate Justice Supreme Court of Alabama in the May Primary. We hope he wins. He is competent in every way and will make a good public servant.

Sorry to learn of the serious accident to Mrs. H. T. Pipes last week end. She fell on the street in front of Levine's Dry Goods Store and broke a bone in her hip. We understand she is resting well now but will be "laid up" quite a spell.

Did you see the sign in the cafe that read: "If our steak is too tough for you, get out; this is no place for weaklings."

We've just learned what the average man is: He's 36 around the chest, 40 around the waist, 96 around the gold course and a nuisance around the house.

Was out at Pig's Grocery taking pictures Monday. Pig is having a guessing contest. You know, where you guess how many cans of Pet Milk in a wire basket. Well, everything went just fine and we thought Pig looked and acted perfectly normal until we were driving away. There pasted in the front window was a big sign advertising the contest. And the sign was upside down.

Uncle John Cobb who lived near Providence Church in the northern part of the county died last month. Uncle John was buried by an undertaker by the name of Cobb and the minister who performed the burial service was named Cobb. None of the three Cobbs were related.

"Smitty" has a new waitress at Jackson's Hospital at Montgomery. She was born last week and according to Smitty, mother had quite a bad time of it, but is now out of danger. We're glad. In case you are not following us, Mr. and Mrs. David H. "Smitty" Smith announce the birth of a daughter. They have named her Ina Kathryn. Mrs. Smith is the former Mildred Maddox. "Smitty" didn't announce just when he would bring his new waitress to Martin's Good Food to go to work but from the beam on his face we sorta gathered she'd possibly be more of a pet, or maybe boss.

Guess we're not supposed to be as bright as our teen-aged children, but here's one brought home last night by our young daughter: A nickle and a dime were rolling across a bridge. Now the nickle rolled off into the water but the dime didn't. Now why didn't the dime roll off? Stuck just like we were, huh? Well, the dime had more cents.

What gives this Huntsville, Alabama, claiming our pretty Peg Ramsey and not giving full credit lines. Peggy was named Madison "Maid of Cotton." Now in that capacity she acts as hostess to the "Highway Holiday" conceived by the City of Huntsville as a publicity stunt and a good will gesture towards tourists. We just want Huntsville to remember that charm and beauty publicity in that gesture they owe to Clanton. Pathfinder News Magazine of March 5th, carried a two-page story on "Highway Holiday." Miss Ramsey is the daughter of Cecil and Pauline Ramsey.

Fruit Growers To Meet Friday Night At Thorsby

There will be a meeting of all blackberry and vegetable growers of the Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association at Thorsby, Ala., in the old Hardware Building at 7:00 p.m this Friday night. It is important that you be present.

One of the greatest opportunities for increasing farm income in Alabama lies in putting idle acres to work.

Kiwanis Club Sponsors Freedom Forum

POWER
TIME FOR ACTION-NOW?

The Clanton Kiwanis Club will sponsor "An Americanism Program" at the City Hall Thursday night, March 13th, at 7:30. The general public is urged to attend.

This program consists of two Videograph presentations entitled "This Is Our Problem" and "The Power Of Your Vote." The program is presented by P. A. Redmond, Jr., Executive Vice President, of Alabama Mills, Inc., and J. C. Park, Jr., the company's Cost Accountant. Mr. Park narrates "This Is Our Problem" and Mr. Redmond is the narrator of "The Power Of Your Vote." The program has been presented on ten occasions over the state since the first of the year.

"This Is Our Problem" points out the dangers to this country of encroaching socialism and communism and also exemplifies the superiority of "The American Way of Life" and how best we can preserve this way of life. "The Power Of Your Vote" tells of one of the most important methods available to all Americans to fight for the preservation of the American way of life. It demonstrates very clearly the power of one individual vote in any election.

Sickness Hits Three Of Fourth District Candidates

Reports reaching the News office today were that three of the candidates in the Fourth District race for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control were sick.

Semmie Earl Williams, it was reported, was sent to the hospital with a heart condition. Jim Dunlap and Johnny Johnson are recovering at their homes from attacks of flu. All, however, hope to be out within a few days visiting over the county in behalf of their campaigns.

DAIRYMEN WARNED BY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The City Council of Clanton adopted an ordinance in 1946 which regulates the delivery and sale of milk and milk products in the city and its police jurisdiction. This ordinance prohibits the sale of milk and milk products that is produced at a dairy that does not comply with the specifications of the Health Department for Grade A dairies, and one which does not have an unrevoked permit from the Health Department. This ordinance was adopted to protect the health of the people of Clanton, since milk is an excellent media for the transmission of certain disease producing organisms. When milk is produced in improper surroundings and is not subject to inspection it is possible, and likely, that trouble will result. On several occasions in the past, and quite recently, violators of this ordinance have been apprehended and warned. Future violators of this ordinance will be prosecuted.

A safe milk supply is available for consumption in Clanton. In addition to the out-of-county concerns distributing milk, there are four dairies in Chilton County possessing permits from the Health Department to sell at retail, Grade A milk. These dairies are:

Ernest P. Edwards Dairy, Clanton Route 2, Permit No. 6.

W. A. Williams Dairy, Clanton Route 4, Permit No. 9.

Laurie Ann Dairy, Clanton, Permit No. 2.

Harry Higginbotham Dairy, Maplesville, Permit No. 3.

These dairies are inspected frequently, the milk is examined by the State Laboratory once each month, the personnel have passed physical examinations, the cows are examined and the construction and operation of these dairies conforms to the specifications of the Health Department.

A copy of the milk ordinance is on file at the Health Department and in the City Clerk's office.

TOP COMMUNITIES ON RED CROSS DRIVE

Several Chilton County communities have now reached their goal in the Red Cross Drive for 1952. Mr. J. H. Boockholdt, Fund Chairman, reports that quotas have been met by the Clanton Residential Area, Lay Dam, Isabella, Cooper, Collins Chapel, Cane Creek, Samaria, Alpine, Vermont, Thomas Junior, Union Grove and Lomax.

A special record has been attained by Vermont and Union Grove, which not only reached their quotas but went far over the top.

To every community which has given so generously to the Red Cross Drive for 1952, Mr. Boockholdt and his workers extend their heartiest thanks! The job will not be finished, however, until Chilton County's quota of $5,000 has been met. If you have not already given —GIVE NOW TO THE AMERICAN RED CROSS!!

SOUTH'S CATTLE INDUSTRY SHOWS PNENOMENAL GAINS

The phenomenal growth of purebred beef cattle in the south was revealed in figures recently announced by a well-known southern farm magazine. The comparison covered the period 1940 to 1951 for 14 southern states.

Biggest gainer during this period was the Polled Shorthorn which showed a staggering 686 percent increase. Next highest gains were recorded for the other polled breed with 404 percent increase. Shorthorn cattle gained 146 percent.

The popularity of polled or naturally hornless breeds over horned breeds in the south is largely explained in that, dehorning cattle makes them subject to screw flies which prevail in greater numbers in warmer climates of the country. This costly and troublesome operation is thus eliminated in polled breeds.

The Polled Shorthorn was developed in the United States in the early 1880's. In the horned breed, perhaps one in several thousand calves was born hornless. These hornless animals were bred to each other to develop the present breed.

Because of this rising demand for Polled Shorthorn cattle in the South the Polled Shorthorn Society has scheduled their big annual National Polled Shorthorn Congress show and sale in Montgomery, Ala., on March 24 and 25.

Forty top herds from 15 states in south, east and midwest will send cattle to the Alabama event. The sale, scheduled for the second day, will offer 71 bulls and 59 females for purchase by southern cattlemen.

NOTICE

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church, Clanton, will have a mission study spend-the-day on Thursday, March 20th, in the home of Mrs. Gordon Robertson on Selma Road beginning at ten o'clock.

The topic for the day will be "Missions to America." Members are asked to come and bring a covered dish.

NOTICE

The Chilton County Masonic Conference meets with Prattville Lodge No. 89 at Prattville, Ala., Wednesday, March 19th, at 1:00 p.m. All members are urged to come. Visitors are welcome. R. L. Duffey, Conference Secretary.

Wallace Cox Candidate For Board Of Revenue

Wallace Cox, local contractor, is a candidate for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County. Cox has had 20 years experience in road building and is a native Chilton Countian.

Road construction is his business and he feels the local Board of Revenue and Control needs a man with practical experience as a member. He stated this week that with the improvement made since the Board was created, and the County Engineer engaged, that a member of the Board with the experience he possesses would be of vast importance to the county and to the engineer.

He stated he would cooperate with the road superintendent at all times and the people of the county to further the farm to market road program.

LOUIE REYNOLDS ELECTED PRESIDENT ALABAMA JUNIOR ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

For the second time in the past three years the Chilton County High School Science Club has succeeded in electing a state officer of their state affiliation, the Alabama Junior Academy of Science. At their recent meeting at Spring Hill College in Mobile, Louie Reynolds, a popular member of the club, was elected state president. Only two years ago Edward Robinson served as state treasurer.

Louie has been a member of the Science Club for the past four years and this year he serves as vice president. He is also vice president of the Beta Club and Student Council, president of the Junior Class and secretary of the Boy's Glee Club.

RUMMAGE SALE

There will be a Rummage Sale in Maplesville Saturday, March 22, sponsored by the Laura Williams Circle of the Mulberry Baptist Church W.M.S.

NOTICE

Clanton Chapter 271, O.E.S. will entertain the Past Worthy Matrons and the Past Worthy Patrons of the O.E.S. with a "pot lucksupper" Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Members are asked to come and bring a covered dish.

C. C. H. S. Betas Take Top Talent Honors For The Second Straight Year

For the second consecutive year Chilton County High School Betas walked off with top talent honors by winning first place in the Talent Contest held annually at the Beta Club Convention in Birmingham. Last year their first-rate entry was a medley of song hits from 1940 to 1950 entitled "Through the Years. This year the prize winning entry was "One World — A Dream of World Peace." This very [illegible] portrayed the freedoms enjoyed in America and ended with an inspiring hope for World Peace. The theme was carried through by a chorus flanking a large globe, while the [illegible] depicting freedom of speech, press, and religion were carried on in the foreground.

In taking first place this year, the C.C.H.S Betas not only set a record for being the first Alabama Club to win two consecutive years, but also chalked up the third first prize to their credit. They also won honorbale mention in 1950.

Nineteen Betas from Clanton attended the entire Convention and [illegible] went for the Talent Contest on Friday night. Chilton County was represented not only by the Clanton group, but also by Betas from Isabella and Jemison, the latter of which took third place in the talent contest.

Business sessions held Saturday concerned, among other things, the election of state officers. Jimmy Mon, from Etowah County, was elected president; Rita Claire Whigham, from Louisville, vice-president; and Sandra Stokes, from Pell City, secretary.

A variety of entertainment was planned for the week end including the Talent Contest and a special Beta Club program at the Alabama Theatre on Friday night. A banquet and dance at the Tutwiler Hotel closed the Convention Saturday night.

Community Dinner At Maplesville

The Maplesville P.-T.A. is sponsoring a Community Dinner March 21st, at 7:00 p.m. Plates are $1.00. Come enjoy the good food. See your friends and hear the candidates speak. All candidates have a special invitation and will be given an opportunity to speak.

BAPTIST BROTHERHOOD HOST TO METHODIST FELLOWSHIP CLUB

On Monday, March 10th, the Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church had as their guest the Fellowship Club of the First Methodist Church. Dinner was served on the first floor of the First Baptist Church at 7:00 p.m., and the program followed.

Dr. A. Hamilton Reid, Executive Secretary of Alabama Baptists, brought an inspiring message on the responsibilities of our Christian men. Dr. Reid, gave needed encouragement to both organizations. Some of the high-lights of his message were: There is a need of a moral up-lifting of our men. You cannot have good government without morality, you cannot have morality without Christianity. Offense is the greatest defense, if we are to fill our purpose in life, we must not stand as we are, we must not stand in trenches and wave a white flag, but we must grasp the initiative to win the lost for Christ.

THE SENIOR GIRLS AT ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL ARE GUESTS AT MONTEVALLO

The following girls attended a program of activities of Home Economics highlights at Montevallo March 9 and 10: Laurie Ratliff, Frankie Jones, Ruth Edna Grooms, Colleen Smith, Arra B. Sims, Merle Abberson, Hazel Durbin, Bernadean Wyatt, Kathryn Hayes, Evelyn Cooper, Dena Durbin and their advisor, Mrs. Heida.

On Sunday afternoon in the Home Economics living room of Bloch Hall a tea was given for the visiting seniors from various high schools over the state. The newly decorated living room was beautiful. We had the opportunity to meet other girls and their advisors.

Supper at the Camp House was a real treat. Following this we attended the church of our choice The Splash Party at the new Natatorium was an exciting as well as a happy experience.

On Monday we visited college classes in Home Economics and was very much impressed with their fine equipment. We also toured the beautiful campus, even the rain didn't dampen our spirits. We hope to go back again some day.

Future Home Makers Reporter,
Miss Valda Ree Mcary.

Political Meeting At Vermont School Friday Night

J. Lee Smith will speak at Vermont schoolhouse, Beat 15, Friday, March 14th, at 7 o'clock p.m. His subject will be the so-called missing funds. All candidates for office may speak if they so desire.

BETTER SPEECH CLUB GUEST OF MAPLESVILLE P.-T.A.

Fifteen members of the Better Speech Club of Mrs. Thomas' sixth grade were guests to sing at Maplesville P.-T.A. Mrs. Bonanno, the music teacher, with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and five of the mothers, carried the boys and girls to sing for Maplesville P.-T.A. Mrs. Bonanno gave a most inspiring talk on the love of music in public schools.

There were three parts in the singing, first soprano, second soprano and alto. Mrs. Bonanno introduced one person from each group and they introduced the others in the groups. They sang several numbers which were enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. Watson, the Maplesville P.-T.A. president, told the boys and girls she was sure they would be invited to sing again.

SEED SUPPLY AND DEMAND SITUATION

Auburn, Ala. — Here is a glimpse at the latest seed supply and demand situation given by Ralph R. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service seed marketing specialist.

Cotton: An adequate supply to meet normal demands. Quality of seed much better than last year. Corn: Demand in excess for supplies of good seed of the best adapted hybrids for the South. Soybeans: Adequate supply. Cowpeas: Supply short. Ladino Clover: Big crop last year plus a carry-over adds up to a large supply. Lespedeza: Demand strong, and a very short supply.

"Regardless of whether the supply of any given crop is adequate or short," says Jones, "purchase seed before the last-minute rush usually occurs at planting time. The early buyer always gets the pick of the supply."

Baptists to Campaign for Larger Church

The First Baptist Church, J. Gilbert Hutchison, pastor, will launch a building program early this Summer. Two projects will be undertaken. The first plan will provide a new three-story educational building to be located directly East of the present educational building. This building will house two Intermediate departments, two Junior departments, two Beginner and four Nursery departments. This project is not shown in the above picture.

The present educational building will be completely renovated. The staircase will be removed from the center of the building, to a new location, between the auditorium and the present educational building. When completed this section will house the heating plant, one Adult department, one Young People's department, the Library and two Primary departments. The Junior department, located under the auditorium, will be made into an Adult department.

The second project will extend the present auditorium all the way back to the alley. This will add two hundred to the seating capacity of the auditorium. Space will be provided under the new auditorium for the Air-conditioning Unit and for Young People's department No. 2.

A new three-story wing will be placed on the north side of the auditorium, as shown in the picture of the church, which will house the church offices, the pastor's study and Adult class rooms.

With the completion of our additional building, space will be provided for a Sunday School Enrollment of 1,224.

The money for this extensive building program is being raised through the weekly offerings, generously given by the members and friends of the church.

During the past three years the Lord has richly blessed the work of the First Baptist Church. Three hundred and twenty-six new members have been received into the fellowship of the church. The enrollment of the Sunday School and Training Union has more than doubled. It has been necessary to take two departments of the Sunday School to a neighborhood building. Our present building is over-crowded to the extent that our work is cramped and greatly hindered.

We are moving forward in faith believing wholeheartedly that we ought to carry on our work in a way worthy of our Lord, our community and the Baptists of Alabama.

CONGRATULATIONS, BETAS

The Chilton County High School Betas are to be congratulated on the high honor they brought to their county the past week end at Birmingham.

This is the second straight year the C.C.H.S. Beta Club has won top honors at the convention of State Beta Clubs. Too, we must congratulate Jemison High School for winning Third place for their school.

While the national press and magazine publishers point to the low morals of the younger generation, we in the South and especially in Chilton County, can point with pride to the high character and citizenship of our "men and women" of tomorrow.

We're proud of each and every one of you Betas.

UNFAVORABLE POSITION

Babies currently being born in Chilton County have 3.4 per cent poorer chance of having their births recorded than babies born in this county 10 years ago.

This report of completeness in birth-reporting was made Thursday by Ralph W. Roberts, State Registrar and Director of the State Health Department's Bureau of vital Statistics. It was par of a county-by-county report which Mr. Roberts made at the annual meeting here of Alabama's public health workers.

The report was based upon a recently concluded survey conducted by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in cooperation with the U. S. Public Health Service and the Bureau of Census. It was the second to be carried out in Alabama. The first was made approximately ten years ago. Both surveys were based upon comparisons of birth certificates filed during a three-month period with census enumerations of births that occurred during the same three months.

Mr. Roberts said the earlier survey, made during the 1940 census, showed that 92.3 per cent of Chilton county's births were recorded. The most recent study showed an even lower registration completeness percentage of 89.2 and puts Chilton County in the unfavorable position of being one of the three counties which have shown no improvement, he said.

As compared with Chilton County's percentages of completeness of birth registration, the percentages for the state as a whole increased from 85 in 1940 to 95.9 a decade later, the State Registrar declared.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

No articles are read with more interest, enthusiasm and hope around our house than those which tell how to run a household more efficiently.

Oh, how simple those articles make housekeeping sound! Just this week an authority on home economics declared in print that weariness and bad temper, housewife variety, are usually caused by poor working habits and unscientific arrangement of kitchen equipment. The cure for these common ailments, naturally, is to re-arrange both working habits and kitchen.

The authority goes into explicit detail, making the whole procedure sound amazingly easy. The only trouble is the suggestions won't work, not around our house. The authoritative author is either childless or has discovered some secrets of child-rearing completely unknown to me.

Keep your pots and pans near the stove within easy reach, says the article. So I move the utensils from a high shelf to a rack near the stove. Comes meal-preparing time, and the rack is empty. After a frantic search, the pots and pans are located out in the back yard filled with dirt, rocks and water. The utensils were easy for the three-year-old to reach, too. Now they're back on the high, inconvenient shelf.

Use a wheeled table for transferring food and dishes from kitchen to dining room, it says. But, unfortunately, it doesn't say what to do when the five-year-old converts the wheeled table into a double-decker bus for her dolls.

Then next comes the advice to do as much of your work as possible sitting down. A pleasant idea, very pleasant. But—

As a final suggestion, the article says, "Do something with both hands at once." Now that I can do: I can use my left hand and my right hand to tear the article into tiny shreds!

The neighbor around the corner was on the food committee for the P.-T.A. supper at the grammar school the other night, and her assignment was to provide a cake.

Having had such experiences before, she knew that in all probability the plate she sent the cake on would never be returned. And, frankly, she didn't have any plates to spare. At first she thought of putting the cake on a paper plate, but that was too flimsy.

So you know what she did? She wrapped an old phonograph record in waxed paper and put her cake on it. It was perfect.

For extra good eating on a March ngiht, there are few dishes better than a cheese omelet topped with shrimp. Here's how:

Place a cup of cooked shrimp, 2 tablespoons minced celery, 1 tablespoon minced onion and 2 tablespoons margarine or butter in a saucepan. Then heat 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a skillet and pour in 6 eggs which have been well beaten with 6 tablespoons of water and 1-8 teaspoon salt. As the edges of the eggs begin to set, pull cooked part gently to the center with a fork so the uncooked portion can flow to the sides.

Meantime, heat shrimp mixture, using very low heat. When the eggs have cooked creamy, sprinkle with grated cheese (about half a cup), fold over and place on a heated platter. Pour shrimp mixture over the top and serve at once. If desired, parsley may be sprinkled over the whole thing. This recipe makes four or five servings.

"EATING LIKE A HOG" MAY HAVE NEW MEANING

Auburn, Ala. — The phrase "eating like a hog" may be out of date since the experts have fixed it so a hog can make pork chops, hams, and bacon sooner on half as much feed.

G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension Service hog production specialist, says that all this costs a hog about two or three months of life, but it puts dollars in the pockets of farmers.

A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station officials, who watched the "waistlines" of hogs fed on corn alone under dry lot conditions, found that 12 or more bushels were required to make 100 pounds of pork chops, hams, and bacon.

However, when the formula was balanced with a little protein supplement, green grazing, and mineral mixture, hogs ate only about half as much corn—or about six to seven bushels — to make the same amount of pork.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

EARLY DETECTION OF CANCER

Self inspection by the individual may result in the saving of his own life. This self inspection may lead to the discovery of certain cardinal signs and symptoms commonly seen early in cancer and permit its treatment, Dr. Robert D. Johnson stated in a recent issue of Today's Health.

"It would be foolish to think that anyone could determine the presence of cancer in himself by some simple method," he said. "There is no simple method, even for the physician."

"You, even better than a physician, can look for certain cardinal signs and symptoms commonly seen early in cancer. You are in a position to see them every day and at their very first appearance. You can discover the very first indication of a cancer—if only you recognize the sign as it stands before you."

Dr. Johnson stressed, however, that such signs are not in any sense absolute, that they can occur in many other conditions. Their presence only means that competent medical evaluation should be sought, as the major factor in curing a cancer is catching it in time.

Some signs of cancer of which the individual should be aware are:

1. Lesions of the skin which do not heal and moles which are frequently irritated.
2. A sensation that food sticks on the way down, fullness after eating a not too large meal, discomfort in the stomach or indigestion soon after eating, or occasional black bowel movements.
3. Persistent hoarseness or coughing.
4. Lumps in the breast of women.
5. Unexplained persistent fever, weight loss, and any bone pain that could be described as "boring."

In addition, Dr. Johnson pointed out that all women over 25 years of age should have yearly pelvic examinations, and men over 35 years a yearly rectal examination as preventive measures against cancer.

"You have a 'box seat' at the most important game of your life, the game of your life," he concluded. "The symptoms that I have mentioned may give you that important advantage in the successful treatment of cancer, the factor of time."

AUTO WRECKERS OF CHILTON COUNTY GIVEN UNTIL APRIL 1 TO GET THEIR AUTOMOBILE SCRAP MOVING

Automobile wreckers of Chilton County now have until April 1 of this year to get their old automobile scrap moving into scrap channels.

Information received here from Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Atlanta, was to the effect that the National Production Authority of the Commerce Department has just taken action to extend the "deadline" for the disposing of scrap in auto wreckers' yards to April 1, instead of March 1 as originally provided in an NPA order.

The reason for this action, it was stated, was that many auto wreckers in Georgia and other sections of the country had complained that they would not be able to comply with the NPA order and get their scrap moving by March 1 because of the shortness of time.

The order, Mr. Lofton explained, applies only to scrap from vehicles produced prior to 1946. The order was issued as a result of the grave shortage of iron and steel scrap in the country, which was not only threatening the national program of defense, but also the operation of many steel mills and foundries, including some in Georgia, where scrap is needed for the manufacture of new steel.

Mr. Lofton praised the cooperation of auto wreckers in Chilton County and this area in helping to alleviate the present scrap shortage. "I feel that the reason we have not lost more open-hearth furnaces this winter was due generally to the tonnages of scrap metal delivered by auto wreckers," he said.

GROCERY BARGAINS LISTED FOR MARCH

Those who buy groceries should keep in mind foods that are abundant at the time of purchase if they want real bargains.

A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist, says eggs and broilers are expected to be among the most plentiful foods in the Southeast in March. Other foods on the list include Spring greens, peanut butter, dried beans, and dairy products.

Mrs. Beeann Wilson was hostess to the Sunset Saving Club on Monday, March 9th. All had a wonderful time.

START DRIVE TO BETTER CONDITIONS IN MENTAL INSTITUTIONS

Birmingham, Ala. — A state-wide drive to interest the people and the Legislature of Alabama in the needs of the State's mental hospitals has been launched by the Young Men's Business Club here.

A preliminary report released by Committee Chairman, Llewellyn Johns, showed that Bryce Hospital is:

"Without sufficient funds to operate properly." "Shockingly understaffed and unbelievably overcrowded" with patients. Most of the present buildings are in desperate need of repairs and some are nothing more than fire-traps. There is a pressing need for occupational therapy and a nursing school.

The committee was organized to investigate needs of mental institutions and patients. Its first report dealt only with Bryce Hospital, but Mr. Johns said he had been advised that Partlow State School, also at Tuscaloosa, and Searcy, at Mt. Vernon, have many of the same problems.

Other findings of fact will be issued from time to time.

As a next move, the committee will meet with patrons of Partlow State School in the Jefferson County Courthouse in Birmingham at 2:30 p.m., March 2nd.

It also has requested that anyone with information — good or bad — pertaining to the institution write to Mr. Johns in care of the YMBC at 801 Frank Nelson Building.

In its first report, the committee recommended that the Legislature increase its appropriation to mental hospitals.

They now receive $11.00 weekly for each patient. The committee said it found that for $17.50 weekly per patient, the institutions could hire more personnel, make some repairs, give patients better food and clothing and arrange for occupational therapy.

It also requested that money be appropriated to enable the hospitals to erect new buildings accommodating 2000 more beds.

Bryce's Hospital is 109 percent overcrowded, the worst condition prevailing in any mental institution in any state in the Union. At Bryce alone more than 4000 are crowded into buildings recommended for only 2000.

The YMBC committee urged that editors of newspapers assist it in relaying findings of conditions to the people throughout Alabama. It also noted that the public, in the past, has shown too little interest and the Legislature too little action in the care of the mentally ill people.

Churches, civic groups, labor unions and similar organizations, clubs and individuals should aid in awakening public interest in the necessity of aiding the mentally sick, the committee reported. In this way many States have in the past few years been aroused to great progress in this phase of their responsibilities.

CONTROL PECAN SCAB

To help control pecan scab, knock off and destroy old shucks that have remained on trees. Just a few old shucks left on the trees will give off enough spores to infect the entire crop of new leaves and nuts.

INVITATION FOR BIDS FOR BONDS

The Town of Maplesville in the State of Alabama invites sealed bids for the purchase from it of $20,000 principal amount of its General Obligation Fire Building and Equipment Bonds, to be dated March 1, 1952, and to consist of forty coupon bonds in the denomination of $500 each, maturing on March 1 in the following aggregate principal amounts and years: $1,000 in 1953 to 1957, inclusive; $1,500 in 1958 to 1967 inclusive. Those bonds maturing in 1957 and thereafter will be subject to redemption prior to their maturities at the option of the town, after not less than thirty days prior notice published in New York, as a whole or in part in inverse numerical order, on March 1, 1956, and any subsequent interest payment date, at their face value plus accrued interest to the redemption date and a premium equal to twelve months' interest on the bonds redeemed. Both the principal of and the interest on the bonds will be payable at the principal office of Birmingham Trust National Bank, in the City of Birmingham, Alabama.

The bonds will be general obligations of the town for payment of the principal of and interest on which its full faith and credit will be irrevocably pledged. In addition thereto, the town will irrevocably pledge for payment of the principal of and interest on the said bonds so much as may be necessary for such purpose of an additional special ad valorem tax of ½ of 1% per annum which has been authorized by the electors of the town to be levied without limitation as to time, commencing with the municipal tax year for which taxes will become payable on October 1, 1952.

The bidders are invited to make their bids based upon the net interest cost to the town for the bonds, computed to their maturities, and to name in their bids the rate of interest to be borne by the bonds subject to the following qualifications: Not more than one rate may be named; no rate shall exceed 4% per annum; any rate specified must be a multiple of ¼ of 1%; no bid will be considered for less than par; and all bids must include accrued interest to the date of delivery of the bonds. The interest on the bonds will be payable semi-annually on March 1 and September 1. The town reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's check or a certified check in the amount of $400.00 payable to the order of the town and drawn on a bank having membership in the Federal Reserve System. No interest will be allowed on any such check. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them after the sale. The check of the successful bidder will be retained by the town as security for performance of the successful bid and will be applied on the purchase price of the bonds upon consummation of the purchase thereof.

The bonds will be delivered at such place as may be designated by the successful bidder against payment therefor in bankable funds as soon after the sale as the bonds can be prepared accompanied by customary closing papers reciting that there is no litigation pending affecting the validity of the bonds. The city will furnish to the successful bidder, without cost, the opinion of Messrs, White, Bradley, Arant, All & Rose, of Birmingham, approving the validity of the bonds, the validity of the election proceedings at which the said special tax was authorized, and the validity of the said pledge of the said special tax.

All bids must be filed with the undersigned in Maplesville, Alabama, prior to 4:30 o'clock, P.M., Central Standard Time, on March 25, 1952, in sealed envelopes marked "Bids for General Obligation Fire Building and Equipment Bonds." The bids filed will be publicly opened at the town hall in said town at said hour on said date, and if any bid is accepted such acceptance will be made on the same date. If further information is desired addressed the undersigned.

MORE MILK NEEDED

Stocks of dairy products on January 1 were well below a year earlier, and production in 1952 is likely to be close to 1951 levels. Dairy cows and heifers on farms on January 1 were about one per cent below a year earlier and at the lowest level since 1930.

John M. Higgins Appointed By DiSalle To National OPS Advisory Board

SERVES WITHOUT PAY OR EXPENSES ON SOUTHERN SOFTWOODS INDUSTRY ADVISORY COMMITTEE

HIGGINS IS ONE OF TEN MAN BOARD SELECTED TO ADVISE OPS IN WASHINGTON ON EMERGENCY PRICE-FIXING

John M. Higgins, Democratic candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton county, was one of ten men in the United States appointed to advise the Government on war and emergency price-fixing of Southern lumber. This appointment of a citizen of Chilton county to a post of national importance on the Southern Softwoods Industry Advisory Committee is a signal honor in which all citizens of Chilton county may take pride.

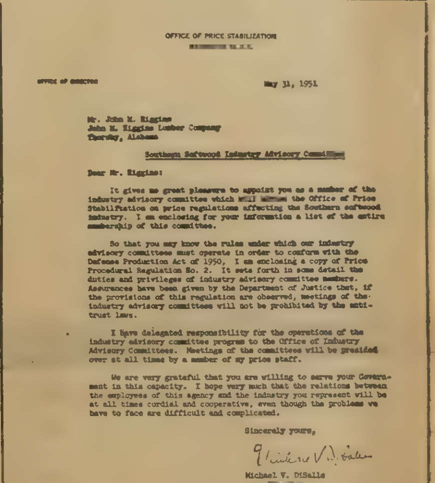
A firm believer in free enterprise and the American opportunity system, Mr. Higgins is opposed to government price-fixing, except as a means to curb inflation in wartime or national emergency.

In serving on this OPS Advisory Committee, Mr. Higgins is available to the Office of Price Administration in Washington to render advice on matters of policy with due regard for the interests of the defense program, producers, and the general public.

JOHN M. HIGGINS

Mr. Higgins, who has had 15 years experience in lumber manufacturing and wholesaling in Chilton county, was chosen to serve on this committee as a representative of small lumber producers and because of his particular knowledge of railroad materials vital to the National Defense.

In addition to his business experience, Mr. Higgins is well qualified as a student of economics and government to fill this position. He has been a member of the Academy of Political Science, Columbia University, for the past nine years, and recently completed a two-weeks course in Economic Mobilization at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.



OFFICE OF PRICE STABILIZATION
[illegible]

OFFICE OF DIRECTOR

May 31, 1951

Mr. John M. Higgins
John M. Higgins Lumber Company
Thorsby, Alabama

Southern Softwood Industry Advisory Committee

Dear Mr. Higgins:

It gives me great pleasure to appoint you as a member of the industry advisory committee which [illegible] the Office of Price Stabilization on price regulations affecting the Southern softwood industry. I am enclosing for your information a list of the entire membership of this committee.

So that you may know the rules under which our industry advisory committees must operate in order to conform with the Defense Production Act of 1950, I am enclosing a copy of Price Procedural Regulation No. 2. It sets forth in some detail the duties and privileges of industry advisory committee members. Assurances have been given by the Department of Justice that, if the provisions of this regulation are observed, meetings of the industry advisory committees will not be prohibited by the anti-trust laws.

I have delegated responsibility for the operations of the industry advisory committee program to the Office of Industry Advisory Committees. Meetings of the committees will be presided over at all times by a member of my price staff.

We are very grateful that you are willing to serve your Government in this capacity. I hope very much that the relations between the employees of this agency and the industry you represent will be at all times cordial and cooperative, even though the problems we have to face are difficult and complicated.

Sincerely yours,

Michael V. DiSalle
[illegible]

[illegible]

In continuing to serve our Govenment during the present emergency without reimbursement for his expenses, Mr. Higgins is making a patriotic and worthwhile contribution to the National Defense, as well as being a capable representative of Chilton county and our section of the country.

1952 ACP Launched In Chilton County

All farmers of Chilton County will have an opportunity to sign up to cooperate in the 1952 Agricultural Conservation Program. Letters have been sent to every farm operator in the County. This letter briefly outlines the 1952 ACP and gives suggestions on how to lay out a first-things-first Conservation Program ahead according to Mr. J. N. Cofer, Chairman of the Chilton County PMA Committee.

Mr. Cofer says that the cooperation of every farmer is needed in meeting the production goals for Chilton County. And the soil and water conservation practices encouraged and helped under ACP, are designed to help farmers meet these goals while at the same time protect and improve the land for increased production in the future.

Beginning this year, he explains each farmer who signs up to cooperate in the Agricultural Conservation Program will be given all possible assistance in working out a "first-things first year by year Conservation Program for his farm, to the end that each year's efforts will contribute to a major conservation goal.

Mr. Cofer urges every farmer who has not already done so to sign up to cooperate in the 1952 Agricultural Conservation Program before the deadline date which has been set at March 15, 1952. Mr Cofer states that farmers may sign up at the County Office or by contacting their local committeemen. Below is a list of names and addresses of your County and Community Committees:

NEW PAPER TOWEL FOR WASHING COWS' UDDERS

A single-service, strong paper towel for use in washing a cow's udder has been approved by many dairymen.

"It can now be bought in quantity lots at a reasonable cost," says Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairyman. „Those who are using these paper towels to prepare cows' udders for milking seem well pleased. In fact, not many farmers believe they can afford the expense and trouble of supplying a separate cloth towel for use on each cow. Therefore, paper towels solve the problem."

BEHIND THE HEADLINES OF PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE

Funds amounting to $13,768,000 have been spent by the Red Cross for assistance to 24,033 families among victims of last July's 4-state mid-western floods, according to a report of the operation received today by C. R. Morrison, chairman of the Chilton Red Cross Chapter, which helped raise the needed funds.

Of the amount, approximately $5,000,000 was contributed during a nation-wide special flood appeal made last summer after the disaster. To this, the Red Cross added $8,768,000 from funds maintained for serious national emergencies, the report indicated.

Citizens of Chilton contributed $1590 during the special flood appeal last summer.

Most of the nearly $14,000,000 total expenditure was used for building and repair of homes and replacement of household furnishings. Financing of homes repairs or outright rebuilding of homes for 6,661 families amounted to $8,736,658, and refurnishing of homes for over 11,[illegible] families cost the Red Cross $2,[illegible]

The Red Cross, according to the report cared for over 21,000 families during the emergency phase of the disaster, providing them with food, clothing, shelter and medical care, at a total cost of $928,305.

Costs of administering this relief job, the third largest disaster operation in the agency's 70-year history, amounted to only 6.5 percent or $898,027 of the total financial outlay. This low percentage of overhead costs, the report indicated—is attributed in large measure to the services of thousands of volunteer workers in the organizations chapters in the flood areas, who supplemented trained disaster workers, assigned from area and national headquarters.

"The Red Cross," stated E. Roland Harriman, president of the organization, "did not attempt to replace disaster — caused losses 100 percent. The cost would have been prohibitive. But it did try to bridge the gap between the family's need and its resources to meet that need.

After the initial emergency period of mass sheltering and feeding, the Red Cross handled rehabilitation needs on an individual family basis, Mr. Harriman reported.

"Plans were made jointly by each family and a Red Cross caseworker," he said, 'for help needed in repairing or rebuilding the home, if owned by the family; replacing of basic furniture, supplying essential clothing, and even paying for some of the medical expenses.

After this interview and appropriate assistance determined by the family and the Red Cross workers, the whole plan was reviewed by a citizens advisory committee to assure adequacy of both type and amount of assistance consistent with local standards. All financial aid given by the Red Cross was an outright grant, with no obligation to repay."

Many family breadwinners, he pointed out, requested help in purchasing tools, equipment, supplies and other essentials to set them up again in small businesses, thus putting them on an earning basis once more after flood waters had destroyed their means of self-support.

Mr. Harriman called the flood relief job a magnificent example of people helping people in the American tradition. It was the personal interest of millions of Americans from all parts of the nation in relieving the distress of their neighbors of the Midwest that made this work possible through their RED CROSS."

SALE OF MILK ADDS TO THE FARM INCOME

Milking cows is a profitable business, according to J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist.

He points out that over a period of 25 years, the wholesale price paid for two gallons of milk a day for 10 months has equalled or exceeded the sale of one 500-pound bale of cotton.

The price of milk in Alabama will keep in line with milk sold in other states. In other words, Alabama now sells milk on a competitive basis with other milk producing states. Enough milk is now produced to supply 20 milk processors in the state.

Don't be cheated out of next winter's Egg Profits by low egg prices NOW!

Don't be misled. Use FACTS when you decide how many chicks to start. And the FACTS are that low egg prices in the spring have been followed by high egg prices in the fall every time for many years. So let the other fella quit. We think you'll be happy with a full laying house next fall.

You must start now for best profit opportunity. The months of high egg prices start in September. If you don't start now, you won't have pullets ready to cash in when prices start to hit their peak. Come in and talk it over right now. Next fall you'll be glad you did.

Buck Roberts Writes Voters of Chilton County

N. L. (Buck) ROBERTS

My Friends:

In asking you to promote me to the office of Probate Judge I do so humbly because the responsibilities of his office require the cooperation of all the people with whomever is elected to the office.

Your present Probate Judge is not running for re-election. A new man must be selected.

Chilton County has made progress in the past few years and will continue to make progress. We have gone through some terrible years, war years, goods and services have sky-rocketed in their cost to the County at a time when the County's income did not correspondingly increase making progress slow and expensive. We must, of necessity, adjust ourselves to these changed conditions, running down and weeding out all dead wood in all County Departments, effecting economy where we can to the end that all essential services can be continued and expanded wherever possible.

I am against any additional taxation. Let's bring new industry, new business to Chilton County thereby creating more payroll which means more wealth to all of us.

I propose to keep Chilton County DEBT FREE. No bonded indebtedness will be created unless and until the people vote it in—this I solemanly promise.

Paved Roads — This department will receive a goodly portion of my attention. I think we can get more miles of paving out of the money available for this purpose. A paved road to every church and school in Chilton County will be the first order of business with me. Some of our people have trouble getting to and from their churches and cemeteries due to the bad condition of their roads. Let's remedy this with an all-weather road.

In closing may I take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to the many friends who have encouraged and assisted me in this race, and may I ask their continued good will, and the good will and support of all others that are interested in good Honest Common Sense Government for Chilton County.

Sincerely,

N. L. (Buck) ROBERTS.

LUGUME CROPS REQUIRE FERTILIZER ANNUALLY

Auburn, Ala. — Perennial legume crops, such as alfalfa, kudzu, and lespedeza sericea are expensive to establish, points out D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist.

For this reason and others it is important to maintain good stands and high production of these perennial legume crops by making the proper annual applications of fertilizer.

"If these crops have not been fertilized within the past year, now is a good time to apply fertilizer before rapid growth starts in the spring," says the specialist. "Alfalfa should receive a fertilizer containing phosphate, potash, and boron. Sericea should receive a fertilizer containing phosphate and potash but no boron. Kudzu responds to phosphate. Fields of lespedeza sericea which have not been limed in the past five or six years should be limed at the rate of one ton per acre if the sericea is to be used for grazing.

BEWARE OF BLOAT

In the spring bloat becomes a serious problem to the cattleman. It can often be prevented by having a winter grass growing in the clover and by having a stack of dry feed in the field that the cows are grazing. The dry feed can be any rough hay, such as oat straw.

For best reception your radio should not be placed with its back flat against the wall. Leave about an inch of space.

COLOR OF CLOTHING FOR WOMEN OVER 25

Auburn, Ala. — Women who have passed the age of 25 find that light, soft colors near the face are flattering.

Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, suggests that these light colors be picked up with a very small bit of some bright accessory, such as a flower or a piece of costume jewelry.

"As the weather becomes warmer more pastels will be worn," states the specialist. "It should be remembered that two pastels are lovely together but that they need a punch by introducing one dark color, such as a black, navy, maroon, or green belt, tie, scarf, or bag."

Miss Ellis says that another important item concerning color in the costume is the fact that a color should never be repeated more than three times. For instance, avoid a green hat, green shoes, green bag, green gloves, and green jewelry. Use only two of these with one outfit.

For calluses and rough hands, try adding a spoonful of salad oil to a paste made of soap and water, then apply to the hands and scrub briskly with a nail brush. Do this as often as you can, and your hands will get smoother in short order.

Shells from hard-cooked eggs will be easy to remove if after they are cracked they are rolled between hands to loosen shell. Start peeling at large end of egg. Dipping in a bowl of water helps ease shell off.

Pearl beads will come bright and shiny again if you roll them in cornstarch, then buff them with a soft cloth.

Make yourself a pincushion and stuff it with fine steel wool. The steel wool will keep your needles and pins clean and sharp.

A most interesting and appropriate program on "Smiles" had been planned by Miss Rebecca Popwell and was so ably presented by several girls of the club.

A short social hour was enjoyed when the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. L. C. Warr, served refreshments.

Celebrates Birthdays At School—

On Friday, March 8th, Danyle Christenberry and Barbara Thompson, members of the Junior Citizens Club of Mrs. L. C. Warr's room of the Clanton Grammar School, celebrated their twelfth birthdays in their school room when they were honored by the club at an afternoon party.

There was the usual shower of gifts for each honoree. Group singing was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the activity committee who are: Anita Lockhart, Luther Giles and Gale Hardy. Barbara's birthday cake was beautifully decorated and held twelve candles. There were forty individual decorated cakes for Danyle, each holding a tiny candle. The club colors of red and white were emphasized in the party napkins. The birthday cakes were furnished by the honorees' mothers, Mrs. William Christenberry and Mrs. J. D. Thompson.

Several C.C.H.S. pupils, former members of the club, had a holiday on Friday and were also guests of the party.

Clarkie Is Ten—

Clarkie Hutchinson was honored on Monday afternoon, March 10th, when his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Hutchinson, entertained at the home celebrating his tenth birthday.

Being the little Irishman Clarkie is, the St. Patrick's motif was used in the decorations and refreshments. The white birthday cake holding ten candles was decorated with green shamrock and was surrounded with greenery, making a pretty center piece for the party table.

Bowls of seasonal flowers were used throughout the home.

Clarkie got the thrill of a lifetime opening the gift packages brought by his thirty-two guests.

To The Citizens And The Taxpayers Of Chilton County And The State Of Alabama

The State Examiners, Roland L. Sparkman, alias Red Sparkman, and C. R. Keener charged me with two hundred eighty-eight warrants or checks. Most all of these warrants or checks were made payable to the good citizens of Chilton County. Every citizen filed a claim, made an affidavit, and swore that Chilton County owed them and it was due and unpaid. They got the money and I believe they swore the truth. However, the State Examiners charged these checks to me and say that I owe Chilton County the money that these good citizens were paid. I will mention a few of the above checks they charged me with.

THEY charged your officials with check or warrant number 255[illegible] PAYABLE TO W. A. REYNOLDS AMOUNT TWENTY SEVEN DOLLARS ($27.00) and the claim was filed and sworn to and MR. W. A. REYNOLDS GOT THE MONEY AND I BELIEVE THE AFFIDAVIT SWORE TO SPEAK THE TRUTH. I am mentioning MR. W. A. REYNOLDS' CHECK because HE IS WELL KNOWN IN CHILTON COUNTY. HE IS A BROTHER OF [illegible] JUDGE L. H. REYNOLDS, DECEASED.

They charged me with the money that Chilton County paid to MR. WALTER TEEL for repairing the roof which was leaking at the Court House. MR. TEEL only charged five dollars ($5.00) for repairing the roof. Don't you believe that your officials had a right to have the Court House roof repaired? I believe you will agree with me that the TAXPAYERS of Chilton County should pay for repairing the roof of the Court House and that the State Examiners had no legal right to say that I should pay for it.

They charged me with the soap and toilet paper, brooms and mops that were used at the Court House, County Jail, the Welfare Department, County Agent's Office, the Inferior Court Judge's Office and the County Solicitor's Office. They charged me with the money that was paid to Dr. Charles R. Moore for the services that he rendered to the prisoners in the county jail. Dr. Moore had contracted with your County Commissioners to take care of any and all prisoners who were in need of a doctor and his charges were reasonable. Dr. Moore filed a claim and made an affidavit and swore that Chilton Cuonty owed him the amount that was paid to him and he got the money which the Examiner's have charged to me.

This second audit made by Roland L. Sparkman and C. R. Keener and approved by Ralph P. Eagerton, Chief Examiner of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama cost the Taxpayers THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS. Yes, it was all right with Mr. Eagerton for the TAXPAYERS to pay Roland L. Sparkman and it appears to me that it didn't make any difference to Mr. Eagerton what condition Roland L. Sparkman was in while examining Chilton County's records. It appears that Mr. Ralph P. Eagerton approved of every thing Roland L. Sparkman did. Yes, it was all right with Mr. Eagerton for Judge Parrish to have to carry Roland L. Sparkman to the [illegible] Hotel in bad condition and it was all right with Mr. Eagerton for Roland L. Sparkman to be in the County Treasurer's Office shedding tears and threatening to commit suicide while examining the County records. It was all right with Mr. Ralph Eagerton for Roland L. Sparkman to be in the Court House when the clerks were afraid of him and asked a LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER to stand by for protection. Yes, he approved of what Roland L. Sparkman was doing and he approved of paying Roland L. Sparkman while auditing the records in this condition, but Mr. Eagerton did not approve of furnishing toilet paper or soap to the prisoners in the County Jail. He did not approve of repairing a leak in the roof of the Court House. He did not approve of the two hundred enghty-eight checks which were made payable to the good citizens of Chilton County.

I will have more to say next week.

The G.A.'s met at the school last Wednesday afternoon with a fair attendance. After the business meeting a missionary program was given. Mrs. Gordon Conway, their Counselor, desires the cooperation of all our people here in the young people's work.

FIRM SEEDBED FOR COTTON

It pays to get cotton land ready early so the soil will settle before planting time. A firm seedbed allows farmers to plant on time. This results in higher yiields at no extra cost.

GRAZING FOR HOGS

Green grazing makes hogs healthier and reduces the amount of corn and protein supplement needed for economical gains.

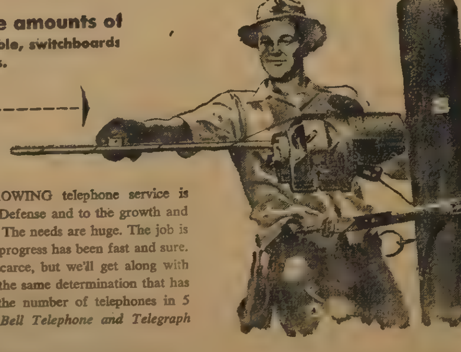
GROWING
Here's what we did to meet Alabama's telephone needs during 1951 . . .
Installed 85,913 New Telephones for a gain of 30,840—10,000 of them in Rural Areas



Installed large amounts of new pole lines, cable, switchboards and other facilities.

GOOD AND GROWING telephone service is essential to National Defense and to the growth and progress of this state. The needs are huge. The job is great and costly. But progress has been fast and sure. Some materials are scarce, but we'll get along with the job in 1952 with the same determination that has more than doubled the number of telephones in 5 years. — Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

INTERNAL SECRETIONS

The glands of the body are concerned in the manufacture of secretions for various purposes. They are of two types: (1) Those whose secretions is drained by ducts to some particular place where it is used, the glands of external secretion, and (2) the ductless glands whose secretion is taken up by the blood as it passes through the gland, the glands of internal secretion. Among the former are the salivary glands and liver. The ductless glands include the thyroid, adrenal, spleen and others.

The internal secretions are only partly understood because of the difficulty of obtaining specimens and because they do not act independently of one another. The secretions affect not only development of different parts of the bod but also the activity of other orga It is observed that when the fu tion of an organ is such that needs to be increased or decreas very promptly from time to ti it is directly controlled by nerv Other functions, where the eleme of time is not so important, are co trolled partly by nerves and par by internal secretions.

Experiment has shown that wh the secretion of the thyroid gla is diminished, a disease known myxedema develops. In such cas thyroid extract is given and t symptoms of the disease subsi It is necessary however, to adm ister the extract continuously in der to prevent the reappearanc these symptoms. This is but o example of the vital part that inte nal secretions play in the well-bei of the body.

The Chiropractor recognizes need of the external and inter secretions but instead of treati the symptoms of the diseases wh result, from the absence of the secretions he concentrates upon moving their cause, which he of finds in a misaligned vertebra, co pressing a nerve in the spine. C rection of the misalignment ena the nerve force to pass over nerves to the gland involved an then produces its secretion health returns.

TO THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY

In announcing my candidacy and asking the citizens of Chilton County to vote for me for the office of member of Board of Revenue and Control from District 4, I am deeply conscious of the duties, obligations and responsibilities of that office and feel that my knowledge of the roads, bridges and county government is such that I could be of valuable service to the taxpayers and citizens of Chilton County.

My judgment is that with proper handling and careful supervision the tax money of the county can be expended so that the accomplishments of the taxpayers will be greatly increased.

I will engage in no mud slinging with any of my opponents as they are all good men to my best knowledge.

I have a sincere desire to serve the people in this office and will cooperate with the other commissioners, officers, county employes and the citizenship to build and promote our county in keeping with the progress of the other counties of the State.—J. J. Johnson.

Don't press coat lapels with an iron. It's much more effective to dampen them slightly with a moist cloth, mold them into shape with your fingers, then put the coat on a hanger, and let it dry thoroughly before it's worn or put in the closet.

DON'T SKIP THAT NEEDED BREAKFAST

Recent surveys completed at a prominent medical college confirms previous findings that the habit of eating breakfast guards against physical and mental slump during the pre-noon hour.

"For this reason, if for no other," asserts Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, "the daily eating of breakfast constitutes a wise living habit.'

According to nutrition and health authorities, a widely recognized breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread, and butter is the basis of a good, nutritious breakfast.

CARNATION COMPANY ANNOUNCING PERSONNEL CHANGES

Announcement has been made by Carnation Company of the transfer of Mr. W. W. Chesnut to Somerset, Kentucky. For the past four years Mr Chesnut has been in charge of Carnations' Farm Service work in the Dadeville area. Carnation Company has recently constructed a new plant at Somerset, and Mr. Chesnut who is a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and was formerly connected with the Alabama Extension Service, will continue in Farm Service work at his new location. Mr. Chesnut and his family will move to Kentucky at such time as housing facilities are available there, which is expected within the near future.

Mr. Earl Netherland, Campbellsville, Kentucky, will assume the position of Farm Service Director in the Dadeville area. He will move his family there as soon as suitable housing facilities can be found. Mr. Netherland has been in charge of Carnations' Farm Service work in central Kentucky since 1946. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and has had wide experience in dairy work since that time, both in the educational field and as pure bred dairy cattle breeder.

Mr. Netherland is thoroughly familiar with dairy development in the South. He believes the possibilities for successful dairying and greatly increased milk production in the Piedmont area are unlimited.

This announcement was made in Dadeville today by Mr. W. B. LaRue, Superintendent of the Mississippi-Alabama area together with Mr. F. G. Wiedrich of the General staff of Carnations Farm Service Department. Both of these men expressed much appreciation for the accomplishments of Mr. Chesnut in this area. They also were high in their praise for assistance given by various agricultural agencies and business men throughout the territory.

They stressed the need for greatly increased milk production in the Dadeville area to supply a larger percentage of evaporated milk now being consumed in Alabama and neighboring states. Mr. Wiedrich, who has spent considerable time in this area since 1943, appeared quite optomistic over the prospects for much more rapid growth of this industry in Alabama in the immediate future. He made the statement that dairy cow numbers in the United States have remained about the same for several years, while our population has increased considerably during that period. For that reason and because of our favorable climatic conditions, Mr. Wiedrich feels that dairying for the family sized farm is one of our safest farm enterprises today and especially sound in the Piedmont area of which this county is a part.

Dave Tingle Writes Voters

For several years I have been employed by the Chilton County Board of Education as Head Veteran Agriculture Teacher in this county. During this time I have been doing all in my power to improve farming in our county, and I have always had the interest of the farmers at heart. Our Veteran Program is rated as one of the top three in Alabama. Many veterans have purchased farms while on our program and over 75% of those on our program are farm owners. Through our program we have stressed the importance of sound farming practices and much progress has been made.

I have always tried to co-operate with all farm agencies in our county including the Farm Bureau, County Agent, Soil Conservation, Forestry Department, Farmer's Home Administration, P.M.A., Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association, and everyone interested in the welfare of our county.

I am interested in church and civic affairs, being a member of the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Church and having worked with the Red Cross, March of Dimes, Chilton County Christmas Chest, Chilton County Fair and Livestock Shows.

I have worked with people all over our county and know the conditions which exist in every area of our county. If I am elected as your next Probate Judge, I will endeavor to carry out the duties of this office to the best of my ability.

CENTERPOISE POWER
Vibration and power impulses are "screened out" as engine is centered and rubber-cushioned between new high-side mountings.

LARGEST BRAKES
Big 11-inch brake drums apply more leverage for more stopping power. Stops are smoother, safer, with less effort.

WIDEST COLOR CHOICE
26 rich new colors and two-tone combinations . . . widest choice in Chevrolet's field. New De Luxe interiors are color-matched.

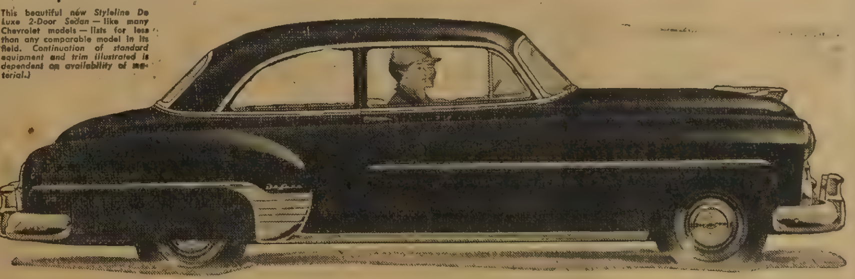
BODY BY FISHER
Fisher Body sets the standard—for styling, for craftsmanship, for comfort! Fisher Unisteel construction is extra strong.

UNITIZED KNEE-ACTION RIDE
Chevrolet's famous Knee-Action ride is now even softer, smoother. New shock absorbers give even finer ride control.

WIDEST TREAD
Chevrolet measures 58¾ inches between centers of rear wheels—a broader base to give you more stability, less sway!

Only the New Chevrolet brings these fine features to the low-price field!

Lowest priced in its field!
This beautiful new Styleline De Luxe 2-Door Sedan — like many Chevrolet models — lists for less than any comparable model in its field. Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.)



4-WAY ENGINE LUBRICATION
Chevrolet's exclusive engine lubricating system supplies exactly the right kind and amount of lubrication to each moving part.

CAST IRON ALLOY PISTONS
The same material as the cylinder block, pistons expand and contract at same rate. This reduces wear, lowers oil consumption.

SAFETY PLATE GLASS ALL AROUND
Chevrolet alone in its field gives you safety plate glass in windshield and all windows, for a clearer, truer all-round view.

POWERGLIDE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION
Simpler with fewer parts to wear. Smoother—no complicated intermediate gears. Optional on De Luxe models at extra cost.

MOST POWERFUL VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE
Teamed with Powerglide is the most powerful valve-in-head engine in its field and an outstanding performer in any field!

No other car in Chevrolet's field offers you a single one of these features. Yet you'll find many of them in America's most costly cars. Here's proof that you're value ahead with Chevrolet . . . again in 1952 the lowest-priced line in its field! Come in and look it over.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

By— Marshall L. Ware

INFECTIOUS DISEASE

Why is it that some people so easily succumb to an infection, while others escape? This question one often hears asked, and the answer is not very hard to find.

There is a power in the human body, called the vital force, which keeps all its parts working correctly. This vital force is expressed so strongly in some people that their resistance to infections is fully protective. Others contract infection but have sufficient vital force to recover from the disease. Still others have so little vital force that they die of the disease.

We all know that bacteria are a causative factor in producing infectious diseases, but the mere presenee of bacteria in the body does not cause disease. Many thousands of mouths and throats would be found on examination to contain the bacteria of diphtheria and pneumonia. Yet they do not develop either of these diseases.

When the vital force of the body is passing unhampered over the nerves to all the organs the secretions of the glands of the body prevent any harmful effects from the presence of bacteria. Certain secretions have antitoxic properties, and these prevent bacteria from multiplying and producing substances which would poison the body. In cases where there is any obstruction to the vital force along the paths of the nerves, the organs supplied by those nerves cannot do their work correctly. If the kidneys are involved poisons accumulate in the blood stream. If the glands do not produce their antitoxic secretions, the bacteria can multiply and cause disease.

How very necessary it is then for us all to see that we are ourselves in a healthy condition to ressit infection, and that our children also have strong bodies that are brimming over with health and animated by unhindered vital force.

Chiropractic adjustments, by removing impingement upon spinal nerves, permit a free flow of vital force to all parts of the body and so build up a strong resistance to disease of all kinds.

Health is the result.

BEST WAY TO AGE BEEF BEFORE IT IS STORED

Auburn, Ala. — How much aging does beef need before it goes into the frozen food locker? This is a question important to both the locker manager and families who use the lockers.

Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, says that aging the freshly slaughtered carcass for a week or 10 days in a chill room increases the natural tenderness of the meat.

Longer aging is often used, but it allows for the development of stale odors from the growth of mold on the surface of the meat.

LOAN RATE SET FOR 1952 UPLAND COTTON

Auburn, Ala. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced recently that the loan rate for 1952-crop Middling 7-8 inch cotton will average not less than 30.91 cents per pound.

The 1951-crop average loan rate for Middling 7-8 inch cotton was 30.46 cents per pound. The increase is the result of the rise in parity prices. The average loan rate for Middling 15-16 inch cotton, the base quality, was 31.71 cents per pound in 1951. An appropriate differential between Middling 7-8 inch and Middling 15-16 inch cotton will be in effect again this year. The guaranteed loan rate for Middling 15-16 inch will be announced at the time the schedule of premiums and discounts for other grades and staple lengths is announced.

It was announced on November 29, 1951, that 1952-crop upland cotton would be supported at 90 per cent of parity at the beginning of the marketing year, August 1, 1952. The minimum level announced today is 90 per cent of the present parity price. In the event that 90 per cent of parity on August 1 is higher than the level announced today, the loan rate will be increased accordingly. Differentials for grade and staple and for location will be announced later.

TIMELY HINTS ON CARE OF PLANTERS

Auburn, Ala.—All planters should be kept in good alignment and first-class mechanical condition throughout the year, according to J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service farm mechanization specialist.

He advises that shelter for planters be provided if at all possible. When storing, protect planter frames from being bent and rest furrow openers on boards away from the damp soil. Keep livestock away from the implements, and do not let chickens roost anywhere about or on machines and implements.

"Also," adds the specialist, "coat all bright or land polished surfaces with grease or rust preventative when not in use. Always remove any protective grease before taking planter into the field. Check operation with seed in hopper. If ground driven, jack-up drive wheel and turn it by hand; if driven from rear wheel of tractor, jack-up tractor drive wheel, and check."

FERTILIZE FRUIT AND NUT TREES

Fruit and nut trees need fertilizer just as cotton, corn, and other farm crops if they are to produce satisfactory yields. See the local county agent for fertilizer recommendations.

TURKEY PRODUCTION

Turkey growers marketed a record crop in 1951 and are planning to grow even more in 1952.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

"If I can't buy clean Costal Bermuda stolens I will fertilize the one-eighth acre that I already have and grow some," said S. D. Posey of Jemison, Ala., Route 1. S. D. has also prepared ten acres for a spring planting of sericea lespedeza.

* * *

C. R. Childress has moved his big field of sericea and is now fencing so it can be grazed after the first cutting of hay. Next fall Charlie plans on overseeding the field with Fescue grass.

* * *

J. W. Weeks states, "I am ready for you to lay off those meadows." J. W. is also preparing land to plant sericea this spring.

* * *

Otto Jones has applied 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre to his Fescue. This was done to help establish a stronger root system.

* * *

Ned Dennis has applied 150 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre to his Fescue grass for seed production.

* * *

J. H. Johnson has planted eight acres of Kudzu.

* * *

The following have prepared land for Sericea lespedeza: A. R. Taylor, Russell Stutts, J. W. Hayes, C. C. Gay, Sr., Dewey Collins, S. D. Posey, Hunter Rasco, Wallace Headley, Raybon Crew, J. W. Weeks, R. C. Williams and Jack Roberts.

* * *

O. H. Lawrence, Billingsley, Ala., states, "The only two things we need in this county is more grass and better cows.

PLANT RIGHT CROPS ON ROLLING LANDS

Too many farmers are still waging an uphill fight in growing cotton and corn on very rolling and steep lands on their farms, according to S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist.

Such lands can be used to grow sericea, kudzu, and grass-legume mixtures. The forage grown can be harvested by cattle and sold in the form of beef and dairy products.

"When this is done," says Doughty, "sod crops serve a three-fold purpose. They provide the most economical source of feed for cattle, furnish ground cover to protect soil from erosion, and furnish organic matter that enriches the soil and increases water-holding capacity."

HYBRID CORN VERSUS OPEN-POLLINATED

Alabama farmers are still planting about 75 per cent of their corn acreage to old open-pollinated varieties, even though they are inferior to the better hybrids not only in yields but in other desirable characteristics.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Charlie Wade, you old rascal. We never knew you cared. Charlie sent us a customer the other day telling him we were the best printers in the state, and it brought us a wonderful order. Thanks, and may we soon be able to return the favor.

We never cease to marvel at the wonderful things Mrs. L. C. Warr does. During the Methodist revival she made arrangements for all of the pupils in her room at the Clanton Elementary School to remain in town overnight so they might all attend the morning service which was held each morning at 7:30 at Clanton Methodist Church. According to the way it was told to us, one of the class members couldn't attend because he felt his clothes weren't good enough so she sent out an S.O.S. and supplied him with clothes for the occasion. Is there no job too big for that lady to tackle?

Last week we stated that the First Prize in the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce Contest was donated by Chilton Home & Auto Supply. Everybody knows its Clanton Home & Auto Supply and Herman LeCroy is the operator. It was those darn type lice again.

For all of you who have been asking about Rev. A. T. Hickman's weekly article, or the lack of it, let us explain that the Rev. Hickman is very busy at present in a bulidirg program at his church and it is requiring all of his spare time. In fact it is taking all of his time, period. But let us hope that when his building is finished he will see fit to again favor our readers with his very worthwhile weekly column. We know you all are missing it.

Big things doing this morning around at Red Glasscock's office where a committee is meeting to decide on the possibility of a County Fair this fall for Chilton County. The Fair, if held, would be presented in conjunction with the annual Calf Show and would attract large crowds to our County seat. It would also provide the farmer a means of displaying his prize products and would possibly open new markets to him. It is entirely a worthwhile undertaking and we hope the committee finds a means to promote such a celebration for we Chilton Countians.

Our congenial postmaster R. W. (Rubin) Lowe reports that Mrs. Lowe will be out of the hospital today. That's good news and it takes no second look at Rubin to see that he is extremely happy about the whole thing. We hope Mrs. Lowe continues to improve.

ENTERPRISE BASKETBALL TEAMS WIN COUNTY TOURNAMENT

By Lucretia Davis

Amid a full house, creeping spectators, flying hands, and flying feet, the Enterprise Girl's and Boy's Basketball teams closed their season Saturday night, March 15, with each team winning top honors in the Chilton County Junior High School Basketball Tournament, which was held in the Clanton High School Gymnasium. This marks the first time in the history of the tournament that both boy and girl teams from the same school have won first place in the county finals.

Enterprise has had a good season, being undefeated in all scheduled games. However, all who witnessed the recent tournament will surely admit that the competition was most keen and that every team was trying hard to win. Everyone agrees that teamwork was the responsible element for our victories.

We think top honors should be given to the team captains, Doris Burkhalter and Arnold Deloach, who have successfully guided their respective teams through many of the season's toughest games. Also, honors should go to Wayne Burkhalter, a pint-sized eight grader, who starred on his set shots. Good going Wayne...

Saturday's games were the last games that many of us will ever play for Enterprise. We hope that, through our playing, we have acquired certain characteristics and ideals which we shall carry with us through our lives. We wish to take this opportunity to pay tribute to our coach, Mr. Cecil Smelcer, and thank him for the things he has taught us about sportsmanship and fair play which are in keeping with our team's motto: 'A quitter never wins and a winner never quits."

Tournament Scores—

GIRLS: Enterprise 47, Cooper 2; Enterprise 38, Thomas Jr. 33; Enterprise 38, Mt. Pleasant 36.

BOYS: Enterprise 38, Thorsby 33; Enterprise 28, Thomas 23.

Season's Summary—

Scheduled Games: Girls—won 10 lost 0; boys—won 19 lost 0.

Total Games: Girls—won 15, lost 4; boys—won 24, lost 6.

TO APPEAR IN JOINT RECITAL FRIDAY EVENING

MISS ANNETTE BROADHEAD
MISS PATRICIA HUDDLESTON

Miss Patricia Huddleston and Miss Annette Broadhead will present a varied program of song and piano compositions Friday evening at 8:00 in the auditorium of the First Methodist Church of Clanton. This concert represents for both girls the culmination of high school work in their respective fields. Miss Broadhead has already enrolled at Alabama College where she will major in piano and music education, and Miss Huddleston will go on to further voice study in preparation for a singing career in either concert or opera.

Besides making an excellent academic record at Chilton County High Miss Broadhead has accompanied the glee club the past two years, has soloed and accompanied on many school, community and church occasions, has been pianist for her church for several years. Last fall she was named, "Miss Homecoming' at her Alma Mater.

Highlights of Miss Huddleston's high school experience are salutatorian of this year's graduating class and major soloist for the glee clubs for three years. She has served her school, her church and local civic clubs as soloist countless times. She is most closely identified with Kiwanis for whom she has sung locally, throughout the district, at state convention and last year for the International meeting at St. Louis. Her quite recent appearances with Stanley Malotte on the "Call to Faith" radio hour have been of state-wide interest.

These promising young ladies and their teacher, Lois Thompson Mims, cordially invite the public to their senior recital.

"CRACKED NUTTS"

The Senior III Class of Verbena High School is presenting its play, Cracked Nutts, a comedy by Jay Tobias, on Friday evening, March 28th, at 8:00. The cast includes:

Mertis Jones, as Miss Drusilla Nutt, a self-made woman; Dorothy Mullins, as Mrs. Garfinkle, her houseqeeper; Mildred Patterson, as Delicious Appleby, the Negro Maid; Cleveland Burdette, as Confusion Jones, the Negro handy-man; Laurene Bass, as Peggy Nutt; Margie Taylor, as Ginger Nutt, Drusilla's nieces; Truman Bowles, as Pete Beamish, Peggy's heart interest; Samuel Brown, as Billy Beamish, Ginger's ditto; Betty Sue Nelson, as Magnolia Langsford, a magnolia blossom from the Sunny South; Billy Sam Nelson, as Prof Beamish, Pete and Billy's uncle; Charles Bryant, as Adelbert De Weese, Drusilla's fortune-hunting fiancee; Marie Thornton, as Mrs. De Wayne De Weese; Adelbert's ritzycratic mama; Donald Yeargan, LeRoy Dennis, James Thomas and Jack Davis, other Seniors who are helping in the play.

There is laughter from the rise of the curtain until the end; so for an evening of real enjoyment come on out. You'll also enjoy the entertainment between acts by the Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. A. B. Stanley.

The play is under the direction of Mrs. DeRamus and Mr. Daniel. Admission is 35c and 50c.—Secretary.

RETURNS TO HER HOME

Mrs. Pipes was returned home in a Martin ambulance Wednesday from a Birmingham hospital where she has been recovering from a fall in which she fractured her hip.

Clanton Lions Sponsor Minstrel Show With All Local Talent

The minstrel show presented by the Thorsby-Jemison Lions Club recently will be brought to Clanton this Friday night. It will be presented at the City Hall under the sponsorship of the local Lions Club. Time of the curtain is 7:30 o'clock.

For a night of fun and foolishness attend this local talent show. Your troubles and cares will fade away when you join in the festivities of the "Blacktown Comedians."

RED CROSS DRIVE SHORT OF QUOTA

The people of Chilton County are far short of their Red Cross goal for 1952! The quota assigned to this county was $5,000. The amounts that have been turned in to date total less than half that amount! Although all volunteers have worked tirelessly in their communities, Chairman J. H. Boockholdt urges them to re-double their efforts.

The need for funds this year is greater than ever. Assistance to flood victims and to the men in service have strained the funds of the American Red Cross to the breaking point. Unless more money is raised in the 1952 drive, the Red Cross's ability to give help will be sharply threatened.

Chilton County has received thuosands of dollars worth of assistance from the American Red Cross. Now that funds are so desperately needed, your Chairman urges to give—and give generously!!

HATS OFF TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY

F. E. (Floyd) ELLISON

Dear Friends:

I am making a race for the Board of Revenue. Friends, we have been promised so much through the papers and face to face until it has got to the place that promises do not work after a man gets in office, therefore, I am not promising anything but fairness and honesty to all. I will work with any man that is in office as long as it is to benefit our county.

As for my experience, I helped to build U. S. 31 through Chilton County. As for our country roads I worked with Uncle Fonzie Vinson two years hauling gravel all over the 4th district. On bridge work I have had 10 years of carpenters experience and bridge work, therefore, I think I can estimate the cost of building bridges.

Thanking you in advance for your support and influence.

Yours truly,
FLOYD ELLISON.

JIM DUNLAP WRITES VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

J .M. (Jim) DUNLAP

To All Chilton County Citizens:

I wish to take this means to express my personal thanks for the confidence, close cooperation and ever willingness to assist me in my duties since you elected me as your Commissioner from the Fourth District nearly four years ago. To those it has been my misfortune to not see and thank personally, I am trying to reach you by this means. The work has been a great pleasure to me, even though in the first days of my duties it was hard to do what everyone wanted.

No one has to be reminded of conditions then, so we had to do the best we could under those conditions. With your very close and kind cooperation though, we have come a long way, and I will never forget you good people for helping so much.

I want all of you to know it is a good feeling to have so great a trust bestowed on you and then know you haven't betrayed this trust. Your constructive criticism has been used by me and did guarantee beneficial results for the most.

Until I can see more of you, again I say, "Thanks" for your confidence and help in every way.

J. M. (Jim) DUNLAP,
Member of Board fo Revenue and Control, District No. 4.

TO THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY

J. J. JOHNSON

In announcing my candidacy and asking the citizens of Chilton County to vote for me for the office of member of Board of Revenue and Control from District 4, I am deeply conscious of the duties, oblgiations and responsbiilities of that office and feel that my knowledge of the roads, bridges and county government is such that I could be of valuable service to the taxpayers and citizens of Chilton County.

My judgment is that with proper handling and careful supervision the tax money of the county can be expended so that the accomplishments of the taxpayers will be greatly increased.

I will engage in no mud slinging with any of my opponents as they are all good men to my best knowledge.

I have a sincere desire to serve the people in this office and will cooperate with the other commissioners, officers, county employes and the citizenship to build and promote our county in keeping with the progress of the other counties of the State.—J. J. Johnson.

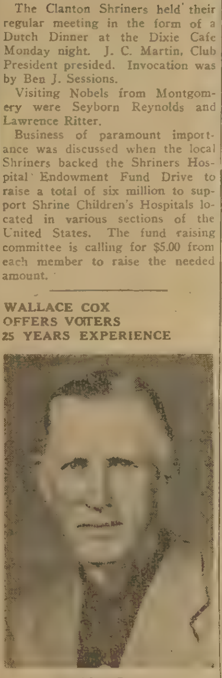
CLANTON SHRINE CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Clanton Shriners held their regular meeting in the form of a Dutch Dinner at the Dixie Cafe Monday night. J. C. Martin, Club President presided. Invocation was by Ben J. Sessions.

Visiting Nobels from Montgomery were Seyborn Reynolds and Lawrence Ritter.

Business of paramount importance was discussed when the local Shriners backed the Shriners Hospital Endowment Fund Drive to raise a total of six million to support Shrine Children's Hospitals located in various sections of the United States. The fund raising committee is calling for $5.00 from each member to raise the needed amount.

WALLACE COX OFFERS VOTERS 25 YEARS EXPERIENCE



WALLACE COX

To do any job well you must know how. To know how, you must do the job many times. To train a man is expensive.

I have had 25 years experience—10 years at my own expense, as I have owned the equipment, figured the cost of job and finished them—which include all types of roads, drainage, surfacing and paving.

I am asking you to trust me with your work, to help spend your money in a way to get the most for your dollar.

I have worked in 40 of the 67 counties in Alabama and in six different states. I have never been without a job.

I have observed other county governments and feel that I have gathered some knowledge of better ways to make our county one of the best counties in the state. I know that there is lots more to county government than the road work and feel that I can help solve any problem that comes up in the county that would require my service.

I hope that after studying all candidates asking for this office that you will use your influence and vote for me.

Thanking you for your support and influence, I am,

Yours truly,
WALLACE COX.

Clanton Goes All Out For Fire Inspection Program

Make Clanton a fire-safe place to live and work could summarize the goal of the Kiwanis Club and the Lions Club in jointly inviting the Alabama Fieldmen's Association to make a complete fire-safety inspection of Clanton on April 18.

The inspection will be made of mercantile establishments within the City fire limits, and of places of public assembly, such as schools, churches, theaters and public buildings. Inspectors will tag fire hazards and furnish owners or tenants with recommendations for eliminating these hazards.

"This city-wide fire safety inspection will be made without cost to the people of Clanton," reported [illegible], and Herman LeCroy, co-chairman of the Kiwanis and Lions Clubs, who are sponsoring the inspection. "The inspection is a public service of the Alabama Fieldmen's Association, which is composed of representatives of capital stock fire insurance companies. All of these fieldmen are experienced in this type of inspection."

[illegible] experts inspected 124 hospitals in Alabama during [illegible].

"After [illegible] properties are inspected and the fire hazards tagged, it will [illegible] to protect [illegible] properties [illegible] possible causes [illegible]," continued Mr. Thompson and Mr. LeCroy. "We cannot suffer [illegible] fires that do not happen."

Local committee members assisting with this very important program are:

Kiwanis Club—F. L. Thompson; Lions Club, H. A. LeCroy; City [illegible], R. C. Williams; Ministerial [illegible], Dr. J. M. McKim[illegible]; schools, J. [illegible] Boockholdt; Fire Chief [illegible]n Nivens; [illegible] and T. E. [illegible] Taber; [illegible] Brown; Mayor, [illegible] Police Chief, Chas. [illegible].

PROCLAMATION

[illegible] April 18, 1952, as Fire Safety Day in Clanton, Alabama.

WHEREAS the Kiwanis and the Lions Clubs of Clanton are organized to recognize community needs and develop means of meeting them, and

WHEREAS such Civic Organizations have become an integral part of the social and economic life of our Nation and our State and City, and

WHEREAS these local clubs recognize the existence of the many hazards of loss of life and property by fire, and

WHEREAS they have jointly organized a Civic Betterment Committee to advise our citizens of the individual exposures to such loss and make Clanton a safer City in which to live, and

WHEREAS they have engaged trained fire inspectors of the Alabama Fieldmen's Association to inspect all mercantile buildings, public buildings, hospitals, churches anc schools in Clanton on April 18, 1952 and

WHEREAS they have offerec prizes to the school children for the best essay in each school on "Why Fire Prevention," and

WHEREAS such an undertaking deserves the full support of every citizen of Clanton.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, C. Fenn Jones, as Mayor of the City of Clanton, Alabama, do hereby designate Friday, April 18, 1952, as "Fire Safety Day" in Clanton and call on al citizens to bring their attention anc their appreciation to this occasion.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, hereunto set my hand and affixe the seal of the City of Clanton, Alabama, on this 18th day of March 1952.

CITY OF CLANTON,
C. Fenn Jones,
Mayor.

4-H PRESIDENT'S TRIP TO BIRMINGHAM

MISS MARY EDNA GRIFFIN

Mary Edna Griffin, daughter of Mrs. Edna Griffin, Thorsby, Alabama, represented Chilton County at the 4-H Presidents Convention in Birmingham March 6-7th.

The Agricultural Committee of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce was host to the state 4-H Officers and county 4-H Presidents from the 67 counties in Alabama.

As guests of the Agricultural Committee they were not only entertained with an outstanding entertainment program, but also educational tours were conducted throughout Birmingham.

Some of the places of interest visited by 4-H members on March 6 were the new Birmingham City Hall Building and Art Museum, Vulcan Park, Radio Park, Radio Station WSGN, a tour of [illegible] Mountain Brook and Vestavia Hil[illegible].

The 4-H'ers were the guests of the Alabama Theatre at a picture show party on March [illegible].

On Friday March 7, they began a new day full of fun and thoughts of going back home. They [illegible] the day with breakfast at The Club atop Red Mountain as the guests of Woodward Iron Company. From The Club, they boarded buses for an educational tour of Birmingham's industrial area, also to visit Alabama Appliance Company and Alabama Manufcturing Company. After lunch as guests of Mr. Charles Rew, President of Alabama Appliance Company, they returned to their hotel and boarded the bus for home.

Mary Edna says, "I enjoyed my visit to Birmingham, but was happy to get back home." She was very impressed with the tour of Vestavia she says it is the prettiest residential section she has ever seen.

WILL REYNOLDS HOME SCENE OF MUSIC CLUB MEETING RECENTLY

The spacious home of Mrs. Will Reynolds was the scene of the March meeting of the Music Appreciation Club. Spring flowers in profusion were used throughout the reception rooms. Hostesses were Mesdames Percy Pitts, W. E. Huddleston and Bert H. Snead.

American Folk Music was the program topic. Mrs. Huddleston, director, gave a most informative paper on the vast heritage that is ours in American Folk Music. She then introduced four talented young ladies who are students in the music department of Alabama College. They were Misses Harriet Nesbitt of Gadsden, Frances Freeman of Mobile and Merilyn Jones of Grove Hill and Barbara Edwards of Wilsonville. These guests of the Club charmingly portrayed the whimsical humor and pathos of folk music. Miss Nesbitt accompanied by Miss Edwards delighted the listeners with a group of songs including some very familiar and some not listed in the usual repertoire. Miss Freeman accompanied by Miss Jones rnedered a folk songs characteristic of the range and variety of America's folk music. The sweet simplicity of the folk song was sincerely revealed by vocalists and accompaniments and brought to the audience a consciousness of the wealth of folk music that is our rare heritage.

100 PINTS

A forty-one-year-old sergeant recently "enlisted" more than 100 pints of blood in four months. Sergeant First-Class Robert F. Garner, of Hyattsville, Md., explains his drive this way: "There is a real need for blood in Korea. I had seventeen months in recruiting, so I merely started talking to some friends of mine."

Sergeant Garner is the father of two grown children and the grandfather of one child, and has donated a pint of blood seven times himself. Sgt. Garner's efforts may one day save the life of your husband, son, father or brother. His example is easier to praise than to emulate, but this newspaper suggests you do both.

PUNKEYDOODLES CORNERS, ETC.

A recent story about a place named Punkeydoodles Corners has turned up some information on other strange names. Punkeydoodles Corners is the center of a controversy in Ontario, Canada, where several counties are fighting for the honor of listing in within their borders.

Publication of this story sent National Geographic Magazine researchers scurrying into their files to find a counterpart for Punkeydoodles Corners in the United States. Not that it's important, but the researchers wondered if there was any such name gracing an American community.

Several lulu's were found, including a place called Delirium Tremens. There was another named Mugfuzzle Flat, but the daddy name of all seems to be owned by a town in Wales, England, which is Llanfairwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwillantysiliogogoch. The editor suggests the people in that town in Wales refer to their city as "that town."

PAYS NEWSPAPERS TRIBUTE

The theatres of the United States have just completed the first phase of their nation-wide "MOVIETIME, U.S.A." campaign, which has resulted in a heartwarming reaffirmation of the strong and healthy friendship which both public and newspapers in all parts of the land bear the great motion picture industry.

As National Director of "MOVIETIME," I want to take this opportunity to congratulate the theatres and theatre men and women for the splendid way they worked to make the opening of the campaign a huge success. I also want to express our deepest thanks to the motion picture studios and motion picture distributors for their boundless cooperation in providing the actors and actresses and other Hollywood personalities who undertook the cross-country tours on which they traveled a total of 2,000,000 miles.

Most of all, all of us in "MOVIETIME, U.S.A." want to express our most sincere appreciation to the newspapers of America, which opened their columns wide to the "MOVIETIME" story, and proved once again what we of the motion picture industry have always known—that the Fourth Estate is our friend, and that as long as the film industry continues to provide the public with good, sound motion pictures, the newspaper world will continue to aid us in spreading news of the great entertainment which the screen offers. It is our responsibility to continue to provide fine entertainment — we shall live up to that responsibility, so that we may continue to deserve the friendly relationship which exists between our industry on the one hand and the public and newspapers on the other.

ROBERT J. O'DONNELL,
NATIONAL DIRECTOR, "MOVIETIME, U.S.A."

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Every homemaker, even those in the super efficient class, has some routine household task which she really hates to do. In some homes the hated task is cleaning out closets or polishing silver or scrubbing the bathroom. Around our house it's darning the children's socks.

Naturally this failure to keep the socks in good repair has caused some slight pricks of conscience, but, by carefully putting on their shoes to hide the holes, the shameful secret has been kept from the general public. Until the other day, that is.

Came the day last week when no arrangement of socks and shoes would hide the holes, so the three-year-old and I went to town to get some new socks. When we walked into the department store, he announced to the clerk:

"I want some socks without any holes in them."

And as we walked down the street after our purchase was made, he proudly greeted folks with:

"I've got some new socks, and they haven't got any holes in them at all!"

The other morning I was in the midst of another not so pleasant task, defrosting the refrigerator, when the next door neighbor dropped in and made a strange request.

"Please save the water in the drip tray for me," she asked.

I promised to save the water, at least the part that didn't overflow into the bottom of the refrigerator, if she would tell me what use she had for it.

Then I learned that instead of buying distilled water to use in her electric steam iron, she saves the water left in the drip trays after refrigerators have been defrosted. Which probably goes to show that there's a use for almost everything.

The smart mother down the street has found a solution to a problem which must have bothered nearly all mothers with small active children.

The upholstery in her own car is covered with sturdy seat covers which can stand a lot of punishment from children's feet, but the upholstery in many of her friends' cars is not so protected. So now when she and her children ride with friends, she takes along some clean socks (even the kind with holes in them will do) and slips them over the children's shoes after they get in the car. Then she doesn't have to worry about mud or dirt on their feet getting on the upholstery.

Information for future reference: When two of your glasses stick together, they can be separated by dropping a little gylcerine between them. After the glycerine has settled for a few minutes, the glasses can be pulled apart with a gentle tug.

The neighbor around the corner was bragging on a new frankfurter recipe the other day. She added a cup of franks, chopped fine, to her regular biscuit recipe and baked the biscuits extra big. When the biscuits were done, she topped each one with creamed cabbage.

She passed along a hamburger recipe, too, which her family likes, a recipe for beef pinwheels. After she rolls out her biscuit dough, she butters it and spreads it with seasoned hamburger. Then she rolls it up jelly roll fashion, cuts it in 1-inch slices and bakes in a hot oven. She serves the pinwheels with tomato sauce or brown gravy.

GENERAL RULES FOR REMOVAL OF STAINS

Treat stains as soon as possible after they occur. After they have dried or have been set by laundering, it may be very difficult or impossible to remove them.

Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, advises that the mildest treatment be used first. If the stain is not greasy, try sponging it with cold water. Sugary stains are easily removed with clear water. If the stain contains grease, a dry-cleaning fluid or soapsuds may do the trick.

'Some stains are combinations of several types and may require several kinds of treatment," says the specialist. "For example, a fruit-flavored, ice-cream stain should be treated as a sugar, egg, grease, and fruit stain."

WHAT RUSSIANS SAY ABOUT LOWA FARMS

Auburn, Ala. — Propaganda and misinformation have long been tools used freely by the Communist leaders. "Therefore," states J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service farm mechanization specialist, "the great majority of persons living behind the Iron Curtain have a warped and sadly misleading conception of the free countries of the world."

As an example of this, the National Retail Farm Equipment Association quotes from the Offciial Soviet Encyclopedia: "Iowa is a state in the middle west of the United States. Large Capitalist farms provide the basic production. All farmers are in great debt to the banks, and the farmers' debts, even in the case of full owners, are more than 50 per cent of the value of the farm."

In answer to this, a Cedar Rapids radio station went on the air with these facts: "Our poor banker-ridden farmers gross $768 a month from the average 160-acre farm. Ninety-five per cent of our poor Capitalist farmers have electricity, there are 1.1 tractors per farm, over 90 per cent of our farms have telephones, and 97 per cent have radios."

To make window panes extra shiny, add a liberal pinch of bluing and a couple of drops of kerosene to a pail of hot soapsuds.

Sure, Egg Prices are Low...

but chicks started now should make good money next fall

1. Low egg prices in the spring have always been followed by high egg prices in the fall. In 1950 U. S. average egg prices fell to 30.7c in the spring. By fall the price was up to 57.7c.
2. A billion more eggs will be needed next year. Every year there are 2½ million more people in the U. S. than the year before. They need a billion more eggs. Your market is always expanding.
3. Chicks started now should be profitable pullets next fall. They should start to lay in September just when egg prices usually start to hit their peak.
4. Don't be misled by today's low egg prices. Start good chicks. Start your usual number of chicks. Start them right now. Grow them right on Purina Startena and a Growing Chow. Next fall you will have pullets that should make good money all fall and winter.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

NUTRITION

The well nourished child has a better chance of growing up strong and healthy than one whose food intake is inadequate. Parents and others concerned with children should therefore give particular attention to the diet of the child. The well nourished child is also less likely to contract disease. He is less susceptible to infection, for he offers stronger resistance to invading germs.

The food we eat is the only source of the substances that build muscle, teeth, bones, blood, and the other tissues of the body and give them their needed energy and heat.

The important foods for the child are milk and milk products, vegetables and fruits, wholegrained cereals and bread, eggs, lean meat, fish or poultry and cod-liver oil. If the system assimilates them properly, these foods yield the vitamins and minerals as wel las the protein, fats and carbohydrates necessary to build a sound body.

Starches, sugars and fats are quick energy-producing foods. Starches are found in such foods as bread, potatoes, corn and peas; sugars in those and in such substances as sugar, syrup, molasses and honey. Fats come in bacon, pork and other fat meat, butter, margarine, cream, nuts and cheese.

Muscle-building foods are those rich in proteins or amino acids, such as beef, pork, lamb, chicken, fish, milk, cheese, eggs, beans, cereal and bread. Amino acids are used by the body to form protein.

To build good bones and teeth, certain minerals are essential, of which the two most important are calcium and phosphorus. Milk and cheese are high in calcium, as are foods made with milk. Phosphorus, obtained from foods rich in protein, combines with calcium in bones and teeth, with proteins in muscle tissue and with fats in some body fats.

Iron is necessary to build blood. Iron is contained in meats, green vegetables, dried fruits, potatoes, fish and whole grain or enriched bread and cereals. A number of other minerals are also essential in extremely small amounts, such as iodine and copper.

Each day's food should be balanced to include all of these proteins, sugars, fats, minerals and vitamins to help the child build a strong body. Meals should be planned carefully and served at regular times. Teaching the child good nutritional habits will help assure the development of a healthy adult.

HANDLING MARKET HOGS

To prevent loss from buises, hog growers should see that canvass slappers are substituted for rough handling.

Waterway sods should be treated like crops. In other words, they should be fertilized, harvested, and reseeded when necessary.

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new F V-8 engine, and America's first pas full-time power steering. Both new ide hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new e and "power steering" . . . but with some differences worth keeping in mind if you're bu a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in perfor construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are bas uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to ngs. First, it does 4/5 the steering work turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

king or cruising, you get more and easier l than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you. You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

Baptist News—

The Spring revival will begin Sunday, March 30th. at 11 o'clock. Rev. Fred Lowery, pastor of Liberty Hill Church will be the guest speaker. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

The church received a nice donation from Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Haud of Birmingham. There were former members of the church. The Sunday School rooms are being used. The only need now is paint. The W.M.U. will begin to improve or furnish the kitchen soon.

The Training Union is growing in members and this means training for the newcomers.

Circle Two Met With Mrs. McGraw—

Circle Two of W.M.U. met with Mrs. W. N. McGraw on Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Sadie Shaw as co-hostess.

The theme for the year in the circles is "As the Father Hath Sent Me." The topic for March being, "So Send I You." Mrs. Jewel Peterson, circle chairman, called the meeting to order. Mrs. George Naish led the opening prayer and read Scriptures: John 20-19-22. Mrs. Naish gave some conditions that exist in Cuba, connecting these with the Scripture. Miss Miriam Harvey told of different religions of the world and asked the question, "Are these religions bringing peace to the Souls of Man?" Mrs. Marvin Dawson gave some reports of work being done by Missionaries and stated that the call goes out for more to serve in Cuba. At the close of the program a short business session was held. Garments were collected for a deserving party in the community.

Refreshments of drinks and cookies were served. Closing player was by Mrs. George Naish.

They Do "Give A Hoot" For Easy

Easy Roberts finally got rid of noisy pigeons that used to oop it up under his eaves.

He must have tried a dozen ys to scare them off. But no tter what he did, they would be ht back cooing by his window next morning.

Then Easy thought of an old ffed owl he had in his attic. He pped it on the roof so's all pigeons could see it. They left and three hoot owls have taken ir place. Easy swears the hoot- is even worse than the cooing the pigeons.

From where I sit, quite often a "bright idea" will turn out to be "not so bright" after all. That's why we should never be too cocksure of our ideas and opinions—but always try to keep an open mind. I believe a refreshing glass of beer is the best thirst-quencher—you may believe differently. But who's to say one's right and the other is wrong? Let's just practice tolerance. It'll save a lot of hootin' and hollerin'.

On the 29th day of January, 1952, at the home of Hon. A. B. (Buster) Foshee, who is your County Solicitor, we checked from the State Examiners report, which they claimed they made from the Commissioner's Court records.

Your Solicitor examined and checked a list of the warrants or checks I had that were charged to me two or more times, as set out below. All of said numbered warrants or checks aggregated or totaled the sum of Thirteen Thousand, One Hundred Nineteen Dollars and ninety-seven cents ($13.119.97) and constituted a part of the so-called Missing Funds" of Chilton County.

INVITATION FOR BIDS FOR BONDS

The Town of Maplesville in the State of Alabama invites sealed bids for the purchase from it of $20,000 principal amount of its General Obligation Fire Building and Equipment Bonds, to be dated March 1, 1952, and to consist of forty coupon bonds in the denomination of $500 each, maturing on March 1 in the following aggregate principal amounts and years: $1,000 in 1955 to 1957, inclusive; $1,500 in 1958 to 1967 inclusive. Those bonds maturing in 1957 and thereafter will be subject to redemption prior to their maturities at the option of the town, after not less than thirty days prior notice published in New York, as a whole or in part in inverse numerical order, on March 1, 1956, and any subsequent interest payment date, at their face value plus accrued interest to the redemption date and a premium equal to twelve months' interest on the bonds redeemed. Both the principal of and the interest on the bonds will be payable at the principal office of Birmingham Trust National Bank, in the City of Birmingham, Alabama.

The bonds will be general obligations of the town for payment of the principal of and interest on which its full faith and credit will be irrevocably pledged. In addition thereto, the town will irrevocably pledge for payment of the principal of and interest on the said bonds so much as may be necessary for such purpose of an additional special ad valorem tax of ½ of 1% per annum which has been authorized by the electors of the town to be levied without limitations as to time, commencing with the municipal tax year for which taxes will become payable on October 1, 1952.

The bidders are invited to make their bids based upon the net interest cost to the town for the bonds, computed to their maturities, and to name in their bids the rate of interest to be borne by the bonds subjejct to the following qualifications: Not more than one rate may be named; no rate shall exceed 4% per annum; any rate specified must be a multiple of ¼ of 1%; no bid will be considered for less than par and all bids must include accrued interest to the date of delivery of the bonds. The interest on the bonds will be payable semi-annually on March 1 and September 1. The town reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's check or a certified check in the amount of $400.00 payable to the order of the town and drawn on a bank having membership in the Federal Reserve System. No interest will be allowed on any such check. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them after the sale. The check of the successful bidder will be retained by the town as security for performance of the successful bid and will be applied on the purchase price of the bonds upon consummation of the purchase thereof.

The bonds will be delivered at such place as may be designated by the successful bidder against payment therefor in bankable funds as soon after the sale as the bonds can be prepared accompanied by customary closing papers reciting that there is no litigation pending affecting the validity of the bonds. The city will furnish to the successful bidder, without cost, the opinion of Messrs. White, Bradley, Arant, All & Rose, of Birmingham, approving the validity of the bonds, the validity of the election proceedings at which the said special tax was authorized, and the validity of the said pledge of the said special tax.

All bids must be filed with the undersigned in Maplesville, Alabama, prior to 4:30 o'clock, P.M., Central Standard Time, on March 25, 1952, in sealed envelopes marked Bids for General Obligation Fire Building and Equipment Bonds." The bids filed will be publicly opened at the town hall in said town at said hour on said date, and if any bid is accepted such acceptance will be made on the same date. If further information is desired addressed the undersigned.

APPLESAUCE TREAT FROM DRIED APPLES

Auburn, Ala. — Dried or evaporated apple rings on the market today — a modern version of the apples grandmother used to dry—contain more moisture than most dried apples; therefore, they will make dishes just as delicious as the ones made with fresh apples. A recipe which gives good success with dried apples is one recommended by Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist. Here are the ingredients: Two cups of dried or evaporated apple rings, 4 cups of water, pinch of salt, 2 tablespoons of sugar, and 1-4 teaspoon of lemon jjuice. To prepare the dish, wash apple rings and place them in salted water. The next step is to cover apples and boil gently for 5 minutes or until transparent. The cooked apples should be pressed through a colander while hot.

After sugar and lemon juice are stirred in, the result is about 4 cups of delicious applesauce.

THE TRIP TO THE WATER PLANT

The Good American Club of Mrs. Haywood's fifth grade went to the water plant March 13th at 12:00. After we got there we spread our lunch and played games. Then we asked Mr. Herman Blalock if we could go through the plant. He took us to a tank where water came in from Yellow Leaf Creek at 400 gallons a minute. Then he took us to a place where it got the leaves out of the water. After that he showed us a new invention of water which keeps the pipes from rusting and keeps the water from being red and muddy. We could look out a window and see where the pipe pumped the water. There were four different sections, where the water settles. The first sections are very muddy, but every section gets clearer. Mr. Herman Blalock told us how to use different chemicals to purify the water. Here are three of the chemicals: pheral red, chloroform and sulfuric acid n-50.

We returned to school and got our books ready to go home.—Patricia Gail Owen.

THE TRIP TO THE WATER PLANT

The Good American Club of Mrs. Haywood's fifth grade wanted to learn where water came from. Mrs. Haywood said we could go to the water plant if we wanted to. On Thursday, March 13th, we went to the water works. We walked to the Pan-Am Service Staion and got some drinks. Then we went on down to the water plant. As soon as we got there we spread our lunch, then we played some games. After we had played some games Bonnie Smith, one of our safety patrols asked Mr. Herman Blalock to show us through the water plant.

First he showed us a tank that water came through, 400 gallons per minute. Then he took us upstairs and showed us some sections where water came through. There were four sections, the first was muddy, the others got clearer and clearer until there wasn't any mud at all. He showed us a place where he got the leaves out of the water. The pool was six feet deep. After that he showed us a new invention of water called calgon which keeps water from being red or muddy. He then showed us some chemicals. He put some pink coloring in the water to make it pink. Then he put some other kind of chemical in it and kept stirring and it turned back white and Mr. Blalock said that it purified the water. We all thanked Mr. Blalock as we came out of the water plant for showing us through the plant. We all came back to school very happy.—Ophelia Wyatt.

OUR VISIT TO THE WATER WORKS

The Good American Clu of Mrs. Eleanor Haywood's fifth grade room wanted to learn how we got our water. Mrs. Haywood decided if we wanted to we might go to the water works and go through it. Also we might have a picnic. We left school at twelve o'clock and walked to the Pan-Am Service Station and got our drinks.

When we got to the water works we ate our picnic lunch. Then we went into the plant. First we saw a large pipe which pumped water from Yellow Leaf Creek at four hundred gallons per minute. Then we went upstairs where we could look out of a window and see where the pipe pumped the water. There were four sections where the water settles. The first section was so muddy that it looks like mud. Then each pool gets clearer. After the water goes through these four sections it then goes into two other places that are ten feet long and six feet deep. We were told that they are cleaned every thirty hours. Next we saw a barrell with a little stream of calgon. It runs two hundred gallons per minute. The calgon is used to keep the pipes from rusting. It helps the water from being red and muddy.

Mr. Herman Blalock told us how to use different chemicals to purify the water. Here is a list of different chemicals that they use: Sulfuric acid n-50; sodium hydroxide, chloroform; pherol red.

We enjoyed the trip very much We got back to school at ten after two. Before we left we thanked Mr. Blalock. — Mary Jo Sandlin.

CURB MARKETS

Curb markets are one way rural and urban people can work together to make farm-fresh products available to city people, and at the same time increase farm income.

THE TRIP TO THE WATER PLANT

The Good American Club of Mrs. Haywood's fifth grade went to the water plant Thursday, March 13th. Mr. Blalock, the man who runs the plant, showed us a pipe which pumped water from Yellow Leaf Creek at four hundred gallons per minute. After that we went up some stairs and looked out a window where there were four sections where the water settles. The first section was so muddy that it looked like mud. After the water goes through these four sections it goes into two other places that is ten feet long and six feet deep. The two pools are cleaned every thirty hours. After that we played about ten minutes. Then we went back to school.—Minnie Wade.

DIRECTOR OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

Mr. John M. Higgins
Box 142
Thorsby, Alabama

Dear Mr. Higgins:

Our Safety and Inspection Division has furnished me with a report indicating that safety and health conditions were found to be entirely satisfactory upon a recent inspection of your plant. Naturally, I am delighted to note this excellent record.

The work of our Division of Safety and Inspection is devoted to accident prevention and is carried on for the benefit of industry. Therefore, a report such as Inspector Weston made on October 8, 1951, is most gratifying to me.

Please permit me to extend congratulations to you and solicit your continued cooperation in the vital matter of safety.

I shall welcome your comments or suggestions regarding our service.

Sincerely yours,
Joe L. Coleman
Joe L. Coleman
Director of Industrial Relations

John M. Higgins, leading Democratic candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County, was recently commended by Mr. Joe L. Coleman, State Director of Industrial Relations, for the excellent safety record and health conditions for employees at the John M. Higgins Lumber Company at Thorsby.

Mr. Higgins has constructed seven modern houses near the planing mill for the convenience of key employees. These houses are rented to employees at cost and additional building will be done as conditions permit in order that more workers may live near their jobs.

Workers at the John M. Higgins Lumber Company have always received the Minimum Wage or a higher rate of pay, and this pay has been supplemented from time to time by bonuses when conditions warranted, and by time off with pay.

Having worked for several years at $10.00 to $12.50 per week while getting his start, Mr. Higgins is acutely aware of the problems of a low income. A believer in fair wages and an honest day's work, Mr. Higgins has always paid the highest wages and salaries in the community, and sincerely practices a fair labor policy.

His well-known record and experience as a fair employer make Mr. Higgins well qualified for the office of Probate Judge of Chilton County, and his experience along these lines has been greater than that of any other candidate in this race.

Chiropractic

The Modern Approach to Natural Health
By— Marshall L. Ware

THE FUNCTION OF THE KIDNEYS

The kidneys are situated in the back of the abdomen, one on either side of the spine about on a level with the twelfth thoracic and the third lumbar vertebrae. They are surrounded by a mass of fat which helps to hold them in position and maintain their heat. The kidneys have a remarkable blood supply, having very short and very thick arteries. The blood supply is estimated to be at least 17,000 fluid ounces daily. The function of the kidneys is to withdraw from the blood stream certain salts that are not required in the body, together with some of the fluid element of the blood. Blood cells and substances required for nourishment of the body are not withdrawn. The blood vessels branch and re-branch in the substance of the organ forming dense net-works around the tubules which convey urine away.

The method by which the kidneys accomplish their work has never been discovered, though experiments have been made by many investigators. It has been found that electrical stimulation of nerves leading to the kidneys, injections of drugs and artificial changes in blood pressure all have an effect upon the activity of the organ, but investigation has so far failed to bring out any satisfactory explanation of how kidneys do their work.

Disorders of the kidneys are common, and Chiropractic experience shows that these are usually due to disturbances in the nerve supply of the organs. The nerves are minutely distributed to the blood vessels and cells of the tubules to control their activity. Spinal adjustments by promoting free current of nerve force, have been responsible for some remarkable cures from kidney diseases and other affections which develop in all parts of the body when these important organs are not working efficiently.

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES

VOLUME XXX — CLANTON, ALABAMA — THURSDAY, MARCH 27th, 1952 — NUMBER 1

TWO WOMEN HURT SERIOUSLY AS CAR LEAVES HIGHWAY

Three Alabamians, a mother and her two daughters, were injured—two of them seriously, about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 18th, when their car left Highway 80, one mile west of Pelahatchie, Miss.

The women were en route to Seattle, Wash., where one of them was to board a ship, to be with her husband, who is in the service, stationed in Japan.

Rushed to the Baptist Hospital at Jackson by Baldwin ambulance, they were identified as Mrs. E. S. Chasteen, 59, of Clanton, Ala., and her daughters, Mrs. W. W. Culp, 36, of Tallassee, Ala., and Mrs. Harold Hayslett, 26, also of Clanton.

Mrs. Culp and Mrs. Chasteen were reported the more seriously hurt. Mrs. Culp suffered a compound fgracture of the left leg, and cuts and bruises on the face. Mrs. Chasteen suffered chest injuries and a cut across her nose.

One of Mrs. Hayslett's ankles was broken, and she had cuts on her arms and head.

Mrs. Hayslett was on her way to be with her husband who is stationed overseas. She was driving the car according to her mother. The reason for the accident was not explained.

At this time Mrs. Chasteen and both daughters are doing very well in the Baptist Hospital, Jackson, Miss.

"BRAIN STORM" PROMISES TO BE A GREAT SUCCESS

Sound the trumpets and roll out the velvet carpets! It's coming and everyone is waiting to see it! The Senior Class will present "The Brain Storm" in the City Hall on March 27 and 28, so get your tickets early, 'cause it looks as though it will be a great success. The seniors have certainly done a wonderful job of getting the play organized, so don't let them down, students.

The play, in case you haven't already been told, is a side-splitting comedy based on college life and has a cast of eight boys and ten girls, which is one of the largest casts ever used in a school play here.

In order to make any play a success, someone must take the off-stage part of the work, so here is a list of those students doing so:

Student Directors — Annette Broadhead and Richard Thompson.

Prompters—Betty DeVaughn and Dorothy Minor.

Stage Directors—Richard Thompson and Reuben Gaylor.

Ticket Chairman—Merilyn Wyatt.

Ushers—Jaunita Tatum, Barbara Bonds, Peggy Popwell, Birdie Logan and Joyce Hardy.

Fire Inspection Here April 18

The capital stock fire insurance fieldmen have enthusiastically accepted the invitation of the Kiwanis and Lions Clubs to inspect the stores and places of public assembly in Clanton for Fire Hazards on Friday, April 18, it was stated today by Malcolm G. Waitt, Chairman of the Fire Prevention Committee of the Alabama Fieldmen's Association.

"There will be approximately forty fieldmen to make this one-day inspection," said Mr. Waitt. "We will arrive on Thursday afternoon and make assignments during the evening, so that every inspection team can get an early start on Friday. We will be here to help the property owners and the tenants, and we hope they will do what they can to rid their properties of any deficiencies' as we call them, that could destroy property or take life."

Along with the inspection of stores, schools, churches, theatres, and other places of public assembly, sound motion pictures depicting fire causes and their remedies will be shown to the school children. Pupils and their parents will be able to spot the fire hazards in their homes by using Home Inspection Blanks supplied to the pupils.

Essays contests will be conducted in white and negro schools. The Kiwanis Club has matched the prize money offered by the South-Eastern Underwriters Association. Announcement of contest rules and judges will be made by Mr. Boockholdt.

This inspection is a public service of the capital stock fire insurance companies and is made without cost to the people of Clanton.

Montgomery, Ala. — Gov. Persons has urged Alabama newspapers and radio stations to give their readers and listeners a look in on the workings of the state government.

It is my idea," Persons wrote newsmen and broadcasters, "that the more the people know about the operation of their government, the better."

Pointing out that most Alabamians don't have a chance to see them function first hand, Persons proposed to show representatives of Alabama daily and weekly publications and radio stations on a series of tours covering various branches of the government.

Spaced a month or so apart, these visits would follow the pattern of the inspection trip which they took recently through the prison system.

The governor promised news and radio men that they wouldn't be taken on a "conducted" tour where they would see "only the brighter spots."

"At all times you will be free to discuss any subject with any employe and then put down the bad with the good," he added. The governor said the press and radio, "by pointing out the good things of any administration along with the bad" can do a "great service to the people."

LATE BULLETIN

Washington, D.C., 12:46 p.m. Wed. —We have been advised by the Secretary of Agriculture that Chilton County along with Madison, Morgan, Pickens, Tuscaloosa and Winston has been designated as disaster area because of tornado damage. This designation authorizes the Farmers Home Administration to make disaster loans under public law 38 to these farmers who have suffered substantial loss and who will not be able to obtain credit locally to repair or replace the property damaged through the disaster or to meet other expenses necessary for their continued operation. Applications are handled through the local County Offices of the Farmers Home Administration serving these counties. Lister Hill, U. S. Senate, John Sparkman, U. S. Senate and Ed deGraffenried, Congress, Sixth District.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL TO BE HELD AT HOME DEMONSTRATION OFFICE THURSDAY

Miss Stella Mitchell, Home Management Specialist from Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will hold a leadership school at the Home Demonstration Agents Office in Clanton at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 27th.

Miss Mitchell will demonstrate "The E's of Laundering" to Home Management leaders from each Home Domonstration Club in Chilton County.

Red Cross Rushes Aid To Storm Victims; Additional Funds Needed

In communities throughout Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Missouri, aid to disaster victims is being supplied by the American Red Cross! The tornadoes which swept these sections on March 21st and 22nd left in their wake 222 known dead, 1,133 injured, thousands of homeless people, and losses that will run into millions! To meet this great emergency, the Red Cross has supplied doctors, nurses, food, clothing, shelter, whole blood and plasma, cots, blankets, emergency power generators and water purifiers! The Red Cross has also appropriated $1,000,000 to meet the needs of the stricken people.

Here in Chilton County, assistance will be given wherever it is requested and required. Red Cross representatives from Birmingham inspected Union Grove and Jemison this week, and they announced that at least eight or nine families received damage from Saturday's tornado. These families include the Hollis Ellisons, the Evan B. Vardons, Mrs. Zadie Williams, J. P. Thrash, M. E. Thrash, Dr. Porter, M. P. Martin, and the Smith and Champion families. These people have received great help from their nearby neighbors, but the Red Cross stands ready to assist them if further aid is needed.

The help which will be required, however, will necessitate an increased contribution from the Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross! National Headquarters have asked our people to contribute an extra $300 to meet the needs of disaster victims thruout the South. With the reserves of the Red Cross treasury depleted more money is urgently needed. Let Chilton County Give Now And Give Generously To The Red Cross Drive For 1952!

CONQUERING THE COLD

Apparently science continues to labor hard in the direction of curing the ordinary head cold.

The latest miracle drugs, such as sulfonamids and antibiotics, are, of course, not effective against virus diseases; such as the common cold, but Dr. Mark Welsh, of Pearl River, New York, says that large laboratories are getting soil samples from all parts of the world to make tests for new molds.

The scientists hope they will find a product that will be as effective against viruses as against bacteria, which will mean conquering infantile paralysis and cancer, as well as the common cold.

GOOD NEWS ABOUT CANCER

One of the top medical news stories of 1951 explained why male cancer deaths now surpass female for the first time since systematic statistical records have been kept.

Because two-thirds of the cancers that predominate in men are not readily accessible to diagnosis and treatment, the cure rates for stomach and lung cancer and other hidden malignancies are modest. In accessible female sites like the breast and uterus the chances of cure are correspondingly higher. Thus the intensive educational campaign of the American Cancer Society has been getting better results with women than men.

The American Cancer Society is now trying to "zero in" its big research guns on hidden cancers. Some of the nation's best laboratory investigators are concentrating their efforts on finding a simple and reliable diagnostic test that will unmask cancer in elusive sites when the disease is in an early enough stage for cure.

The answer, or part of it, may be found in an extension of famed Dr. George N. Papanicolaou's successful technique of extracting "wet cells" from body sites and examining them microscopically for malignant changes. Or perhaps work with radioactive tracers and specially-adapted Geiger counters may provide a solution.

Whatever the avenue, the American Cancer Society will continue the fight against one of mankind's oldest enemies just so long as the public continues to support this voluntary agency with its dollars. A generous contribution to the 1952 Cancer Crusade now is a sound investment in the future health of America.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Do you need encouragement to plant sericea? O. H. Lawrence, New Cedron Community, states "Sericea is my best summer grazing from spring until fall the cows hold up their production. My only trouble is that I don't have enough acreage to furnish hay and grazing. I am going to plant more this spring."

O. H. Arledge, Rocky Mt. Community, states, "I believe sericea is the best plant for summer pasture in Chilton County. Sericea is a good grazer, hayer, and soil builder."

Hoyt Freeman, Macedonia Community, states, "There are a lot of new crops that they say will grow with sericea and that the two will give a much larger grazing system, but so far as I am concerned sericea is the best grazing crop I know of."

Leo and J. J. Headley, Mt. Pisgah Community, state, "If it wasn't for sericea we couldn't have the two hundred (200) head of cattle that is on our farm. We plan to plant 40 more acres this spring that will make us over 200 acres. Sericea gives us more for our money in summer grazing than any other plant.

W. A. Williams, Baker Community, states, "I have been told a number of times cows wouldn't give mlik if grazing sericea alone. That is all my cows have to graze in the summer. This summer I will finish planting all but a few acres of the best level land south of the house in sericea. A companion crop will be seeded on the sericea this fall."

C. R. Childress, Pleasant Grove Community, states, "If you have cows and sericea you can sell fat calves. Beef sells by the pound and sericea is the cheapest summer pasture. If you can't make money grazing sericea on your dry rough land, then, brother, you are in the wrong business."

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Although it is still more than two weeks away, the talk around our house the last few days has been of Easter. This early interest was aroused when the three-year-old and the five-year-old were asked, along with all the other children in the neighborhood, to take part in an Easter Fashion Show.

Being a girl and therefore much wiser about such events, the five-year-old is quite delighted over the prospect of having a new dress to wear. The three-year-old doesn't exactly understand what it's all about and is more than a little confused.

"I'm going to be a scarecrow in the show," he announced the other day.

I tried to explain to him that he'd dress up in his best clothes and march across the stage with a group of other little boys, but he shook his head vigorously.

"No," he said, "I'm going to wear my sun hat and my overalls and have a pipe in my mouth and be a scarecrow. And I'm not going to wear any shoes, either."

I keep wondering what the reaction of the planning committee for the fashion show will be when they learn of his proposed costume!

The mother down the street has taken great pride in showing off her new kitchen curtains which her young daughters decorated for her with wax crayons.

The little girls first drew a border of big tulips on the plain white curtains and then colored them with the brightest colors in their crayon boxes, using yellow, red, purple and green lavishly.

When the coloring was finished, their mother helped them "set" the colors with a warm iron. They placed a blotter under the design, put heavy wrapping paper on top and pressed with a warm iron. The colors are washfast, the mother says, if the curtains are hand-washed in lukewarm water with a mild soap.

The young artists are so pleased with their work on the kitchen curtains that they've started coloring a pair for use in their own room.

If you're planning a party and want to avoid the unpleasant smell of tobacco smoke that usually accompanies such affairs, you might try the suggestion of the next door neighbor.

She says that a container with a cup of vinegar placed in the room will absorb much of the smoke and ward off the heavy odor.

Idea from the neighbor around the corner: Discolored pressure cookers can be made bright and shining again by putting two teaspoons of cream of tartar in them, adding a quart of water and bringing them to cooking pressure.

A recipe for canned tuna prepared Hawaiian style has become a favorite around our house, so I'll pass it along to you. You'll need a can of cream of chicken soup, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1 can tuna (7-ounce size), 1 cup crushed pineapple (drained), and 2 cups cooked rice.

Blend soup, milk and curry powder in saucepan and heat. Add tuna and pineapple, mixing well. Serve at once over hot rice. As an added feature, this dish may be topped with toasted coconut if you want to be a bit fancier.

RECRUITING NEWS

It was announced today by M-Sgt. Westerman, local Recruiting Sergeant, that recent changes in the processing procedure for acceptance as Aviation Cadets with the U. S. Air Force now make it possible for qualified young men to start flight training in a very short time. 'To meet the increased need for pilots and aircraft observers additional training bases have been made available to Air Training Command so as to enlarge the number and size of classes for the intake of qualified applicants." Sgt. Westerman pointed out, "and young men from civilian life with two or more years of college credits who can qualify are being accepted for immediate assignment to these various classes."

The Modern Approach to Natural Health

GOITRE

Goitre is a disease in which the thyroid gland becomes much enlarged. The enlargement may be produced in several ways and the type of goitre depends on the nature of the enlargement. This may be caused by (1) an increase in the number of cells of the gland; (2) overgrowth of the harder tissues of the glands; (3) dilatation of the blood vessels in the gland or accumulation of fluid. The thyroid enlargement when small does not cause much inconvenience, but when it becomes large it often gives rise to conditions which are very inconvenient and sometimes serious. This is especially the case when the growth is inward. The trouble with this type is due to pressure on nerves and other structures which lie in the same region.

The pressure on nerves may affect speech or heart action, also breathing and swallowing due to pressure on the windpipe and gullet. The size of the neck may be very great and the enlargement may be on one or both sides. Some goitres are accompanied by protrusion of the eyeballs, discoloration of the skin and palpitation of the heart.

Most forms of goitre respond readily to Chiropractic adjustments. Cases are on record where the condition has entirely disappeared after a short course of treatment and any case, even of long standing, may reasonably expect considerable relief from Chiropractic.
